JUDGES—SONG OF SOLOMON

ELISHA'S FOUNTAIN, WHERE ELISHA CAST SALT INTO THE SPRING AND HEALED THE WATERS. [II. KINGS, ii: 19.]—"And the men of the city (that is of Jericho) said unto Elisha: Behold, I pray thee, the situation of this city is pleasant, as my Lord seeth: but the water is naught and the ground barren. And he said: Bring me a new cruse, and put salt therein. And they brought it to him. And he went forth unto the spring of the waters, and cast the salt in there, and said, Thus saith the Lord, I have healed these waters; there shall not be from thence any more death or barren land. So the waters were healed unto this day, according to the saying of Elisha which he spake." In the view above we have a picture of Elisha's Fountain in the city of Old Jericho where his miracle was performed. The water from this fountain is still used to supply the natives of the modern village of Jericho and for irrigating the soil.

THE BOOK OF JUDGES

Relates the transactions of fourteen Hebrew judges, who, under God, the King of the nation, were occasional governors of Israel; and who, Abimelech excepted were typical of Jesus Christ, as called to, qualified for, and occupied in delivering his chosen people. It contains the history of about three hundred years; and particularly narrates the Israelites' behaviour towards the Canaanites whom Joshua had left in the country; the Lord's reproof of their conduct and their repentance for it; what nations were left to chastise them for it; their frequent relapses into idolatry; and their punishment on account of it by terrible oppressions from the Mesopotamians, Moabites, Canaanites, Midianites, Abimelech, Ammonites, and Philistines; and their deliverances by Othniel, Ehud, Deborah and Barak, Gideon, Jephthah, and Samson; and their protection by Shamgar, Tola, Jair, Ibzan, Elon, and Abdon, i.-xvi. The last five chapters are an appendix, informing us of the events which happened not long after the death of Joshua; particularly the idolatry of Micah; the conquest and idolatry of the Danites; the horrible lust of the Gibeathites; and the almost utter destruction of the Benjamites for protecting them, xvii.-xxi. The scope of this and of the following histories of the Old Testament is to represent the sinful backslidings of Israel, and the holiness, equity, mercy, sovereignty, and power of God, in his dispensations of mercy and judgment towards them, in exact correspondence with his promises and threatenings, Le. xxvi.; De. xxviii.-xxxii.

CHAPTER I.

1 The acts of Judah and Simeon. 4 Adoni-bezek justly required. 8 Jerusalem taken. 10 Hebron taken. 11 Othniel hath Achsah to wife for taking of Debir. 16 The Kenites dwell in Judah. 17 Hormah, Gaza, Askalon, and Ekron taken. 21 The acts of Benjamin. 22 Of the house of Joseph, who take Beth-el. 30 Of Zebulun. 31 Of Asher, 33 Of Naphtali. 34 Of Dan.

NOW, after the death of Joshua, it came to pass, that the children of Israel asked the LORD,<sup>1</sup> saying, Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites first, to fight against them?

2 And the LORD said, 'Judah shall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand.

3 And Judah said unto 'Simeon his brother,<sup>2</sup> Come up with me into my lot, that we may fight against the Canaanites; and I likewise will go with thee into thy lot. So Simeon went with him.

4 And Judah went up; and the LORD delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand: and they slew of them in 'Bezek ten thousand men.

5 And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek: and they fought against him, and they slew the Canaanites and the Perizzites.

6 But Adoni-bezek fled: and they pursued

1 The influence of the elders who outlived Joshua still continues to preserve the people in the worship of the true God, and they will not undertake any war without his sanction. The reference of the case to God is to be accounted for only on the principle declared, Le. 18. 27, 28, and surely, if a human judge has a right, and is bound, to punish a criminal, much more must the Judge of the whole earth have a right to order the punishment of individuals, or national sins.—C.

3 This passage is extracted from Jos. 15. 13-19. The object of the repetition seems to be, to distinguish, by a notable occurrence, the conquests gained during the life of Joshua, from those that were subsequent. Accordingly, ver. 8 is not a continuation of ver. 7, but a reference to what 'had been done at a former period, when, though numbers were fewer, faith was stronger. Another object of the repetition seems to be, to give a formal recognition of the title of Caleb; for in Jos. 15. 13 it is said, 'he, that is, Joshua, gave to Caleb the city of Arba. In Ju. 1. 20 it is said, 'and they, that is, the people of Judah, gave the city; thereby confirming the promise formerly made by Moses, and the grant conferred by Joshua.—C.

7 And Adoni-bezek said, Threescore and ten kings, having their thumbs and their great toes<sup>3</sup> cut off, gathered<sup>4</sup> their meat under my table: <sup>5</sup>as I have done, so God hath required me. And they brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died.

8 ¶ Now the children of Judah had fought against <sup>6</sup>Jerusalem, and had taken it, and smitten it with the edge of the sword, and set the city on fire.

9 And<sup>7</sup> afterward the children of Judah went down to fight against the Canaanites that dwelt in the mountain, and in the south, and in the valley.<sup>8</sup>

10 ¶ And Judah went against the Canaanites that dwelt in <sup>9</sup>Hebron; (now the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba;) <sup>10</sup>and they slew Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmi.

11 And from thence he went against the inhabitants of Debir: (and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher:)

12 And <sup>11</sup>Caleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife.<sup>12</sup>

CHAPTER I. [Ver. 2. Judah shall go up. Israel was formerly a camp, now it is a federation of settlements and colonies, in which each tribe is to assert its own territorial rights, but still under the national sanction and banner. Here is the true exemplar of the churches. In the movements and progress of reformation they constitute one army united by common doctrines and common dangers. When the storm of opposition or persecution gives place to the calm of success, the churches settle down in territorial divisions; each church having allotted to it, by Providence, its own peculiar work of faith and labour of love; while employing them as a kind of additional hands, as is common with artisans in the East, and as is sometimes seen in Europe in the case of persons born without hands. In a cruel tyrant, such as Adoni-bezek was, we scarcely expect either the diligence or dexterity of an artisan. C.]

Ver. 7. [As I have done, so God hath required me. A heathen once wisely said of a criminal, 'He has blushed, and all is well; and may not a Christian hope that where conscience is not dead, there still is hope of spiritual revival? Adoni-bezek acknowledges the justice of God; may we not judge in charity, that but of their enemies—and no account of their recapture from Israel having been given—it seemed necessary to force an agreement between the two narratives. Such modes of reconciling scriptures are not only indefensible, but to be utterly condemned. The reconciliation lies at the surface. Judah took the cities and lands, as in the text, the Canaanites retook them, as the subsequent history implies, though it records neither the time nor the manner. C.]

Ver. 19. [Could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley, because they had chariots of iron. These words, as translated, seem to ascribe incapacity to Jehovah. The proper solution lies in translating the last clause

RUINS OF SERAPEUM, PUTEOLI—NEAR THE PLACE WHERE NERO HAD HIS OWN MOTHER PUT TO DEATH AND NEAR WHERE ST. PAUL LANDED IN ITALY. [JUDGES, i: 7.]—"And Adoni-bezek said, Three-score and ten kings, having their thumbs and their great toes cut off, gathered their meat under my table: as I have done, so God hath requited me. And they brought him to Jerusalem and there he died." There is an intimate correspondence between crime and requital, and there seems to be a correspondence between the particular type of crime and the order of punishment that follows. Neoptolemus murdered people at the altar, and at the altar he was murdered. Phalerus roasted men in a brazen bull. In a brazen bull he was roasted in turn. History abounds with illustrations. The picture we give of the ruins of the Serapeum at Puteoli will serve to illustrate the relation between crime and its penalty. These ruins are in the neighborhood of the Emperor Nero's greatest crime. Near here he had his mother murdered, while he in turn in after years destroyed himself by his own hand.

13 And Othniel the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother, took it: and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife.

14 And it came to pass, when she came to him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and she lighted from off her ass; and Caleb said unto her, What wilt thou?

15 And she said unto him, Give me a blessing: for thou hast given me a south land; give me also springs of water. And Caleb gave her the upper springs and the nether springs.<sup>3</sup>

16 ¶ And the children of the Kenite, Moses' father-in-law, went up out of the city of palm-trees with the children of Judah into the wilderness of Judah, which lieth in the south of Arad; and they went and dwelt among the people.<sup>9</sup>

17 ¶ And Judah went with Simeon his brother, and they slew the Canaanites that inhabited Zephath, and utterly destroyed it: (and the name of the city was called "Hormah:)

18 Also Judah took Gaza with the coast thereof, and Askelon with the coast thereof, and Ekron with the coast thereof.

19 And the LORD was with Judah; and he drove out the inhabitants of the mountain;<sup>1</sup> but could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley,<sup>2</sup> because they had chariots of iron.<sup>3</sup>

20 And they gave Hebron unto Caleb, as Moses said: and he expelled thence the three sons of Anak.

21 ¶ And the children of Benjamin did not drive out the Jebusites that inhabited Jerusalem; but the Jebusites dwell with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem unto this day.

22 ¶ And the house of Joseph, they also went up against Bethel: and the LORD was with them.

23 And the house of Joseph sent to descry Beth-el: (now the name of the city before was Luz.)<sup>7</sup>

24 And the spies saw a man come forth out of the city, and they said unto him, Show us, we pray thee, the entrance into the city, and we will show thee mercy.

25 And when he showed them the entrance into the city, they smote the city with the edge of the sword: but they let go the man and all his family.

26 And the man went into the land of the Hittites, and built a city, and called the name

We answer, it can never be insignificant to record the example of a thoughtful prudent wife, or of a kind and generous father. They are the really great characters in a nation. This woman was the wife of the first hero of the age, see ch. 3.9, upon whom was poured out the Spirit of the Lord.—C.

The Kenites and Midianites appear to have been identical, or at least they had amalgamated at a very early period. Moses invited Jethro, who was a Kenite, to accompany him to Canaan. He refused; but a section of the tribe—led perhaps by a son of Jethro—joined the Israelites, and crossed the Jordan with them. There is no note of time in this verse. It was probably when the tribe of Judah took possession of their allotted territory that the children of the Kenite went up out of the City of Palm-trees (Jericho) with them, and settled near Arad, the ruins of which may still be seen on the summit of a conical hill about 15 miles south of Hebron.—P.

banks of the Orontes in Northern Syria. Probably the new city of Luz was built in that region. 2 Thus the Levites were kept out of part of their property. 3 These cities were all situated in the plain of Esdraelon, with the exception of Dor, which lay on the coast, at the western base of Carmel. as thorns in your sides, and their gods shall be a snare unto you.

4 And it came to pass, when the angel of the LORD spake these words unto all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up their voice, and wept.

5 And they called the name of that place Bochim: and they sacrificed there unto the LORD.

6 ¶ And when Joshua had let the people go, the children of Israel went every man unto his inheritance to possess the land.

7 And the people served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that outlived Joshua, who had seen all the great works of the LORD that he did for Israel.

8 And Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died, being an hundred and ten years old.

9 And they buried him in the border of his inheritance in Timnath-heres, in the mount of Ephraim, on the north side of the hill Gaash.

10 ¶ And also all that generation were gathered unto their fathers: and there arose another generation after them, which knew not the LORD, nor yet the works which he had done for Israel.

11 And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD, and served Baalim.

12 And they forsook the LORD God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and followed other gods, of the gods of the people that were round about them, and bowed themselves unto them, and provoked the LORD to anger.

13 And they forsook the LORD, and served Baal and Ashtaroth.

14 ¶ And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he delivered them into the hands of spoilers that spoiled them, and he sold them into the hands of their enemies round about, so that they could not any longer stand before their enemies.

15 Whithersoever they went out, the hand of the LORD was against them for evil, as the LORD had said, and as the LORD had sworn unto them: and they were greatly distressed.

5 Ashtaroth literally signifies flock or riches; as a proper name it is applied to the Sidonian Venus, and other of their female deities, by whose impure worship Israel was seduced from the Lord.
C.—Baal was the sun-god, universally worshipped in Western Asia, and indeed in almost all heathen nations. His altars and sanctuaries were on eminences—sometimes, as in the case of Hermon, on the summits of high mountains, whence the first view of the rising and the last view of the setting sun might be gained by his devotees. The sun was regarded as the source and emblem of life, and of the generative power of nature. Ashtaroth, a plural form the singular being Ashtoreth, was the name of the principal female deity of the Canaanites. The feminine principle of nature was supposed to be embodied in the moon, to which the name Ashtoreth was given. But the idol set up in the temples and worshipped under this name had the form of a woman with the crescent moon on her brow.—P.

meant by the anger of the Lord, might read its meaning in ities inflicted by a re-tributive providence.

16 ¶ Nevertheless the LORD raised up judges, which delivered them out of the hand of those that spoiled them.

17 And yet they would not hearken unto their judges, but they went a whoring after other gods, and bowed themselves unto them; they turned quickly out of the way which their fathers walked in, obeying the commandments of the LORD; but they did not so.

18 And when the LORD raised them up judges, then the LORD was with the judge, and delivered them out of the hand of their enemies all the days of the judge: for it repented the LORD because of their groanings, by reason of them that oppressed them, and vexed them.

19 And it came to pass, when the judge was dead, that they returned, and corrupted themselves more than their fathers, in following other gods, to serve them, and to bow down unto them; they ceased not from their own doings, nor from their stubborn way.

20 ¶ And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel; and he said, Because that this people hath transgressed my covenant which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voice,

21 I also will not henceforth drive out any from before them of the nations which Joshua left when he died;

22 That through them I may prove Israel, whether they will keep the way of the LORD, to walk therein, as their fathers did keep it, or not.

23 Therefore the LORD left those nations, without driving them out hastily; neither delivered he them into the hand of Joshua.

CHAPTER III.

1 The nations which were left to prove Israel. 5 By communion with them they commit idolatry. 8 Othniel delivereth them from Chushan-rishathaim. 12 Ehud from Eglon. 31 Shamgar from the Philistines.

NOW these are the nations which the LORD left to prove Israel by them; (even as many of Israel as had not known all the wars of Canaan;

2 Only that the generations of the children of Israel might know to teach them war, at the least such as before knew nothing thereof; 1)

THE TEMPLE OF PAN—NEAR WHERE THE TRANSFIGURATION ON MOUNT HERMON TOOK PLACE. [JUDGES, ii:12]—"And they forsook the Lord God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and followed other gods, of the gods of the people that were round about them, and bowed themselves unto them, and provoked the Lord to anger." The temple of Pan, or what remains of it at Cæsarea Philippi, is hewn out of a part of Mount Hermon. There are arched niches chiseled into the sides of the foot of the mountain here about which there are Greek letters indicating that the temple was dedicated to the rustic god Pan. Cæsarea Philippi was but a little distance from Dan, which formed the extreme limit of the Holy Land, and so the god worshiped here was one of the gods of the people that were round about Israel. Here are streams, wild woods, goats, and mountains, and all things in nature which seem to be friendly to the genius of the heathen god, Pan.

Othniel delivereth the people.

JUDGES III.

Ehud delivereth the people.

3 Namely, <sup>a</sup>five lords of the Philistines, and all the <sup>b</sup>Canaanites, and the Sidonians,<sup>2</sup> and the Hivites<sup>3</sup> that dwelt in mount Lebanon, from mount Baal-hermon unto the entering in of Hamath.

4 And they were <sup>a</sup>to prove Israel by them, to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the LORD, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

5 ¶ And the children of Israel <sup>a</sup>dwelt among the Canaanites, Hittites, and Amorites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebusites:

6 And they <sup>a</sup>took their daughters to be their wives, and gave their daughters to their sons, and served their gods.

7 And the children of <sup>a</sup>Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD, and forgot the LORD their God, and served Baalim and the groves.<sup>2</sup>

8 ¶ Therefore <sup>a</sup>the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he sold them into the hand of Chushan-rishathaim king of <sup>a</sup>Mesopotamia: and the children of Israel served Chushan-rishathaim eight years.

9 And <sup>a</sup>when the children of Israel cried unto the LORD, the LORD raised up a deliverer<sup>4</sup> to the children of Israel, who delivered them, even <sup>a</sup>Othniel the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother.<sup>5</sup>

10 And the <sup>a</sup>Spirit of the LORD came upon him, and he judged Israel, and went out to war: and the LORD delivered Chushan-rishathaim king of Mesopotamia into his hand; and his hand prevailed against Chushan-rishathaim.

11 And the land <sup>a</sup>had rest forty years.<sup>6</sup> and Othniel the son of Kenaz died.

12 ¶ And the children of Israel <sup>a</sup>did evil again in the sight of the LORD: and the LORD strengthened <sup>a</sup>Eglon the king of Moab against Israel, because they had done evil in the sight of the LORD.

13 And he gathered unto him the children of Ammon and Amalek, and went and smote Israel, and possessed <sup>a</sup>the city of palm-trees.

16 But Ehud made him a dagger which had <sup>a</sup>two edges, of a cubit length; and he did gird it under his raiment upon his right thigh.

17 And he brought the present<sup>9</sup> unto Eglon king of Moab: and Eglon was a very fat man.

18 And when he had made an end to offer the present, he sent away the people that bare the present.

19 But he himself turned again from the <sup>a</sup>quarries that were by Gilgal,<sup>1</sup> and said, I have a secret errand unto thee, O king: who said, Keep silence. And all that stood by him went out from him.

their course. What pains God uses to check his people's sinful rebellion against him or revolting from him! And deep are the impressions of his rebukes when effectually blessed. But even then not our tears, however sincere and penitential, but the atoning sacrifice of Jesus Christ, can make us pure from our iniquity. Faithful ministers and magistrates are a beneficial restraint upon nations and churches; yet we may commonly observe that the power and life of religion rarely flourish in a place for more than one generation at a time. And it is an awful sign to this effect when young ones grow up in ignorance and forgetfulness of God and his mighty works. But how infinite the extent of God's mercy and patience! he bears with, and even pardons and delivers, transgressors in the moment of their greatest extremity, and calls and blesses instruments for that end. But, Lord, what are men! they often become more hardened under such

23 Then <sup>2</sup>Ehud went forth through the porch, and shut the doors of the parlour upon him, and locked them.<sup>4</sup>

24 When he was gone out, his servants came; and when they saw that, behold, the doors of the parlour were locked, they said, Surely he covereth<sup>5</sup> his feet in his summer chamber.

25 And they tarried till they were ashamed: and, behold, he opened not the doors of the parlour; therefore they took a key, and opened them: and, behold, their lord was fallen down dead on the earth.

26 And Ehud escaped while they tarried, and passed beyond the quarries, and escaped unto Seirath.

27 And it came to pass, when he was come, that he blew a trumpet in the mountain of Ephraim, and the children of Israel went down with him from the mount, and he before them.

28 And he said unto them, Follow after me; for the LORD hath delivered<sup>5</sup> your enemies the Moabites into your hand. And they went down after him, and took the fords of Jordan toward Moab, and suffered not a man to pass over.

29 ¶ And they slew of Moab at that time about ten thousand men, all lusty, and all men of valour; and there escaped not a man.

30 So Moab was subdued that day under the hand of Israel. And the land had rest fourscore years.

31 ¶ And after him was Shamgar the son of Anath, which slew of the Philistines six hundred men with an ox-goad: and he also delivered Israel.

4 The Scriptures haven't given principles of judgment and conduct, do not generally comment upon actions either with praise or blame, but leave men to judge and act by the principles already furnished. Their silence, therefore, is not to be interpreted into an approval of the mode by which Ehud delivered Israel. The death of Eglon may have been well deserved, but the manner, so far as we can judge from the narrative, is not to be defended. Indeed we are no more called upon to vindicate all the acts of Ehud than all the acts of Samson. God can work perfectly by imperfect instruments, else in a world like ours what could be effected?—C.

i The Scriptures nowhere condescend to assert or defend woman's moral dignity or equality with man. CHAPTER IV.

1 Deborah and Barak deliver Israel from Jabin and Sisera. 18 Jael killeth Sisera.

AND the children of Israel again did evil in the sight of the LORD, when Ehud was dead.

2 And the LORD sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, that reigned in Hazor; the captain of whose host was Sisera, which dwelt in Harosheth of the Gentiles.

3 And the children of Israel cried unto the LORD; for he had nine hundred chariots of iron: and twenty years he mightily oppressed the children of Israel.

4 ¶ And Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, she judged Israel at that time.<sup>1</sup>

5 And she dwelt under the palm-tree of Deborah, between Ramah and Beth-el in mount Ephraim; and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment.<sup>2</sup>

6 And she sent and called Barak the son of Abinoam out of Kedesh-naphtali, and said unto him, Hath not the LORD God of Israel commanded, saying, Go and draw toward mount Tabor, and take with thee ten thousand men of the children of Naphtali, and of the children of Zebulun;

7 And I will draw unto thee, to the river Kishon, Sisera, the captain of Jabin's army, with his chariots and his multitude; and I will deliver him into thine hand.

8 And Barak said unto her, If thou wilt go with me, then I will go; but if thou wilt not go with me, then I will not go.

9 And she said, I will surely go with thee: notwithstanding the journey that thou takest shall not be for thine honour; for the LORD stroyed, and its re-erection denounced, it can scarcely be imagined that the Kenites were inhabiting its ruins. C.]

Ver. 28. [It appears from the whole tenor of this singular narrative that the Moabites had crossed the Jordan and settled down on the plain of Jericho. The site of the ancient city may have been, and probably was, occupied by a village of huts; and the building of it subsequently by Hiel may refer to its regular fortification as a city. Be this as it may, Eglon had established himself at this place. Gilgal was only a mile or two distant; and the word translated 'quarries' doubtless signifies those stones or pillars which Joshua had set up. After accomplishing the bloody deed Ehud could easily escape. The wild ravines and rugged mountains of Benjamin and Ephraim were only a few miles distant. Taking advantage of the panic he suddenly collected the people of Israel and seized the passes of the Jordan. The Moabites were thus entangled. Behind them were the mountains filled with a pointed iron at one end and a broad chisel at the other—the one to goad the oxen, the other to clean the plough—a truly formidable weapon, and perhaps intended for defence in a country where still in many places, as travellers declare, the gun forms a regular appurtenance of the plough. The exploit of Shamgar is extraordinary; an infidel would say incredible. Not so, however, if Scripture language receive the same justice with other history; for we say, a general gained a battle, when we make no mention of the soldiers who alone fought for it, while he never struck a single blow. Shamgar may accordingly have led on a party of Israelites against Moabite marauders, he being armed merely with an ox-goad. Or if any say that the words describe the 600 as actually slain by his own hand, still it is not said that he slew them at once, but may have destroyed so many in successive encounters. C.]

REFLECTIONS.—While men are on earth, inward corruptions and outward enemies will be still left, to prove their steadfastness or exercise their graces. One ineffectual, God will make them longer and heavier. Nor is any instrument so despicable but he can make it the rod of his anger. Wicked men, kings not excepted, are often fattened up to their own shame and destruction, and find their message from God in a ruinous stroke of his wrath. But easy work is the ruin of the strongest enemies when we are called, directed, and assisted by God!

10 ¶ And Barak called <sup>3</sup>Zebulun and Naphthali to Kedesh; and he went up with ten thousand men at <sup>4</sup>his feet: and Deborah went up with him.

11 Now <sup>5</sup>Heber the Kenite, which was of the children of Hobab, the father-in-law<sup>6</sup> of Moses, had severed himself from the Kenites, and pitched his tent unto the <sup>7</sup>plain of Zaanaïm, which is by Kedesh.<sup>8</sup>

12 And they showed Sisera that Barak the son of Abinoam was gone up to <sup>9</sup>mount Tabor.

14 And Deborah said unto Barak, Up; for this is the day in which the LORD hath delivered Sisera into thine hand: <sup>1</sup>is not the LORD gone out before thee? So Barak went down from mount Tabor, and ten thousand men after him.<sup>9</sup>

15 And <sup>1</sup>the LORD discomfited Sisera, and all his chariots, and all his host, with the edge of the sword, before Barak; so that Sisera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet.

17 ¶ Howbeit Sisera <sup>1</sup>fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite: for there was peace between <sup>1</sup>Jabin the king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite.

18 And Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said unto him, Turn in, my lord, turn in to me; fear not. And when he had turned in unto her into the tent,<sup>2</sup> she covered him with a mantle.<sup>3</sup>

19 And he said unto her, <sup>1</sup>Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink;<sup>4</sup> for I am thirsty.

3 To those who have never examined a tent, it may be useful to state that it consists of a pole fastened in the ground—or more than one, if the tent be large—that to the top of the pole several cords are fixed, and these are tied to pins of wood or iron driven into the ground, slanting outward, at proper distances on each side, and strained tight, either simply by the hand, or by means of a block and pulley to each; and that over these cords a covering is stretched. With one of these pins, and a workman's hammer, the death of Sisera was effected.—C.

o As in the case of Jael, so in the case of Sisera, we are unable to ascertain the complete facts of the incident. What his personal delinquencies may have been, we cannot tell; but there is here a note of his administration of the government, that marks him as a political and military delinquent of the deepest dye.—C.

The song of Deborah and Barak.

And she opened a bottle of milk, and gave him drink, and covered him.

20 Again he said unto her, Stand in the door of the tent; and it shall be, when any man doth come and inquire of thee, and say, Is there any man here? that thou shalt say, No.

21 Then Jael, Heber's wife, took a <sup>1</sup>nail of the tent,<sup>5</sup> and took<sup>6</sup> an hammer in her <sup>7</sup>hand, and went softly unto him, and smote the nail into his temples, and fastened it into the ground: (for he was fast asleep and weary:) so he died.

22 And, behold, as Barak pursued Sisera, Jael came out to meet him, and said unto him, Come, and I will show thee the man whom thou seekest. And when he came into her tent, behold, Sisera lay dead, and the nail was in his temples.

23 ¶ So <sup>1</sup>God subdued on that day Jabin the king of Canaan before the children of Israel.

24 And the hand of the children of Israel <sup>1</sup>prospered, and prevailed against Jabin the king of Canaan, until they had destroyed Jabin king of Canaan.

CHAPTER V.

The song of Deborah and Barak.

THEN <sup>1</sup>sang Deborah, and Barak the son of Abinoam, on that day, saying,

2 Praise<sup>1</sup> ye the LORD for the avenging of Israel, when the people <sup>1</sup>willingly offered themselves.

3 Hear, <sup>2</sup>O ye kings; give ear, O ye princes: <sup>1</sup>I, even I, will sing unto the LORD; I will sing praise to the LORD God of Israel.

4 LORD, <sup>1</sup>when thou wentest out of Seir, when thou marchedst out of the field of Edom, the earth trembled, and the heavens dropped, the clouds also dropped water.

Ver. 15. [Sisera lighted down off his chariot. Why not rather keep in the chariot, and trust to the swiftness of the horses? Partly to avoid notice of himself, cealed within, it is questionable whether any one acquainted with Arabian law would have ventured to enter. C.]

Ver. 22. [Sisera lay dead, and the nail was in his temples. Do the Scriptures sanction the breach of implied and conventional honour, or the practice of prosperity are often made the occasion of great wickedness, which issues in heavier and sharper punishments than any formerly met with. But a merciful God readily hears the cries of his people under the distress which they have provoked him to lay upon them: and in his work of deliverance there is neither male nor female, but he himself is ALL and IN ALL! Such as

PLOWING IN THE PLAINS OF JEZREEL—WHERE GIDEON MET THE MIDIANITES
 [JUDGES, iv: 13-16.]—The valley of Jezreel is the great battlefield of Syria. Here Deborah and Barak routed the hosts of Jabin under Sisera. Here also on the southern edge of the plain near, Josiah, King of Judah, was defeated and slain by Pharaoh Necho, King of Egypt, while on his way to the Euphrates. Here Gideon fought with the Midianites. Here the Philistines encamped in their conflict with Saul. Here Saladin met the crusaders, and here in 1799 the famous battle of Mount Tabor was fought between Napoleon's army and the Turks. We are looking in the above picture toward the Mediterranean and Mount Carmel. When the people you see plowing were asked to stop long enough to let us take their picture, they promised to do so on condition of receiving backsheesh, and for this favor they thought a shilling the proper compensation.

ceased in Israel, until that I Deborah arose, that I arose a <sup>1</sup>mother in Israel.

8 They <sup>1</sup>chose new gods; then was war in the gates: was <sup>2</sup>there a shield or spear seen among forty thousand in Israel?

9 My heart is toward the governors of Israel, that offered themselves willingly among the people. Bless ye the LORD.

10 Speak, <sup>6</sup>ye that ride on white asses, ye that sit in judgment, and walk by the way.<sup>7</sup>

13 Then <sup>4</sup>he made him that remaineth<sup>2</sup> have dominion over the nobles among the people: the LORD made me have dominion over the mighty.

15 And the <sup>1</sup>princes of Issachar were with Deborah; even Issachar, and also Barak: he was sent on foot<sup>5</sup> into the valley. <sup>1</sup>For the divisions of Reuben there were great<sup>1</sup> thoughts of heart.<sup>6</sup>

17 Gilead abode beyond Jordan: and why did Dan remain in ships?<sup>8</sup> Asher continued on the sea-shore, and abode in his breaches.<sup>9</sup>

CHAPTER V. [Ver. II. The degraded state of fear and servitude to which the whole nation had been reduced, and the desolation which war and tyranny had left behind them, are described with wonderful graphic power in this noble ode.—The highways waste;

When Barak charged the enemy, a tremendous storm of hail burst over the plain from the east, and drove full in the face of Sisera. The hail, the tempest, and the lightning, together with the charge of Barak, threw the Canaanites into hopeless confusion. The Kishon rose suddenly in its fury bed; horses and chariots were engulfed; the enemy swept away the fleeing soldiers. Sisera,

FISHERMEN MAKING THEIR NETS—TIBERIAS. [Judges, v:14.]—"Out of Ephraim was there a root of them against Amalek; after thee, Benjamin, among thy people; out of Machir came down governors, and out of Zebulun they that handle the pen of the writer." Tiberias was in the territory of Zebulun, and this part of Palestine seems to have always been noted above the rest of the Holy Land for its secular learning and for its trade. The people of Galilee were never held in high esteem by the strict orthodox party at Jerusalem. They were related more to the great outside world. In the above view we have a characteristic scene in Tiberias; a man making nets as they have always been made in this city of fishermen; and it is true to-day as it was true in the days of our Savior, that the fishermen of Tiberias make up the best class of her citizens. They have the faces to-day of earnest, honest faithful men.

CHAPTER VI.

1 The Israelites for their sin are oppressed by Midian. 7 A prophet rebuketh them. 11 An angel sendeth Gideon for their deliverance. 17 Gideon's present is consumed with fire. 25 Gideon destroyeth Baal's altar, and offereth a sacrifice upon the altar Jehovah-shalom. 28 Joash defendeth his son, and calleth him Jerubbaal. 33 Gideon's army. 36 Gideon's signs.

3 And so it was, when Israel had sown, that the Midianites came up, and the Amalekites, and <sup>f</sup>the children of the east, even they came up against them;

5 For they came up with their cattle and their <sup>i</sup>tents, and they came as <sup>j</sup>'grasshoppers' for multitude; for both they and their camels were without number: and they entered into the land to destroy it.

6 And Israel was greatly impoverished because of the Midianites; and <sup>k</sup>the children of Israel cried unto the LORD.<sup>6</sup>

7 ¶ And it came to pass, when the children of Israel cried unto the LORD because of the Midianites,

8 That the LORD sent a prophet<sup>7</sup> unto the children of Israel, which said unto them, <sup>l</sup>Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, <sup>m</sup>I brought you up from Egypt, and brought you forth out of the house of bondage;

9 And I delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all that oppressed you, and drave them out from before you, and gave you their land:

10 And I said unto you, <sup>n</sup>I am the LORD your God; fear not the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: <sup>o</sup>but ye have not obeyed my voice.

his son Gideon thrashed wheat by the wine-press, to hide<sup>9</sup> it from the Midianites.<sup>1</sup>

12 And the angel of the LORD appeared unto him, and said unto him, <sup>a</sup>The LORD is with thee, thou mighty man of valour.

13 And Gideon said unto him, Oh my Lord, if the LORD be with us, <sup>b</sup>why then is all this befallen us? and where <sup>c</sup>be all his miracles which our fathers told us of, saying, <sup>d</sup>'Did not the LORD bring us up from Egypt?' <sup>e</sup>but now the LORD hath forsaken us, and delivered us into the hands of the Midianites.

14 And the LORD looked upon him, and said, <sup>f</sup>'Go in this thy might, and thou shalt save Israel from the hand of the Midianites: have not I sent thee?

15 And he said unto him, Oh my Lord, <sup>g</sup>wherewith shall I save Israel? behold, <sup>h</sup>'my family is poor in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father's house.'<sup>2</sup>

16 And the LORD said unto him, <sup>i</sup>'Surely I will be with thee, and thou shalt smite the Midianites as one man.

17 ¶ And he said unto him, If now I have found grace in thy sight, <sup>j</sup>'then show me a sign that thou talkest with me.

18 Depart not hence, I pray thee, until I come unto thee, and bring forth <sup>k</sup>'my <sup>l</sup>present, and set <sup>m</sup>it before thee. And he said, I will tarry until thou come again.

19 And Gideon went in, and made ready a kid,<sup>4</sup> and unleavened cakes of an ephah of flour: the flesh he put in a basket, and he put the broth in a pot, and brought <sup>n</sup>it out unto him under the oak, and presented <sup>o</sup>it.

20 And the angel of God said unto him, Take the flesh and the unleavened cakes

Lord God! <sup>4</sup>for because I have seen an angel of the LORD face to face.

23 And the LORD said unto him, 'Peace be unto thee; fear not: thou shalt not die.'

24 Then<sup>k</sup> Gideon built an altar there unto the LORD, and called it 'Jehovah-shalom: unto this day it is yet in 'Ophrah of the Abiezrites.

25 ¶ And it came to pass the same night, that the LORD said unto him, 'Take thy father's young bullock, even<sup>7</sup> the second bullock of seven years old,<sup>8</sup> and throw down the altar of Baal that thy father hath, and cut down the grove<sup>9</sup> that is by it;

26 And <sup>10</sup>build an altar unto the LORD thy God upon the top of this rock,<sup>9</sup> in the ordered<sup>1</sup> place, and take the second bullock, and offer a burnt-sacrifice<sup>4</sup> with the wood of the grove which thou shalt cut down.

27 Then Gideon took ten men of his servants, and <sup>11</sup>did as the LORD had said unto him: and so it was, because he <sup>12</sup>feared his father's household, and the men of the city, that he could not do it by day, that he did it by night.

28 ¶ And when the men of the city arose early in the morning, behold, the altar of Baal was cast down, and the grove was cut down that was by it, and the second bullock was offered upon the altar that was built.

29 And they said one to another, Who hath done this thing? And when they inquired and asked, they said, Gideon the son of Joash hath done this thing.

30 Then the men of the city said unto Joash, 'Bring out thy son, that he may die; because he hath cast down the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the grove that was by it.

31 And Joash said unto all that stood against him, 'Will ye plead for Baal? will ye save him? he that will <sup>13</sup>plead for him, let him be put to death whilst it is yet morning: if he be a god, let him plead for himself, because one hath cast down his altar.'

(1) The Midianites had carried off all the cattle they could discover, ver. 4. so that Joash, a man of rank, with a large establishment of servants, see ver. 27, had no ox of three years old, the proper age for such a sacrifice.

See Ge. 15. 9. (2) The choice of an ox of seven years may have had a reference to the past seven years of Midianitish oppression.

(3) Most probably he is called the second, not in reference to one of greater age or value, but in reference to his place in the plough, meaning the off or right hand bullock.—C.

is so reasonable, ingratitude to him, the God of mercy and grace, cannot fail highly to aggravate our transgressions. It is the indispensable duty of ministers to deal plainly and closely with their hearers' consciences, as conviction of sin is a hopeful token of approaching deliverance; and God often chooses that time for delivering us when our case appears most desperate. But how hard is it to reconcile our afflictive experiences with the promises of God to us—to believe either what God has promised, or that he will do what he has promised.

cause of wickedness, must we be ashamed to change our conduct, or to protect the innocent. When God calls men to hard work, he can easily furnish them with assistants, even where they could least have been expected. And yet, after all, their unbelieving jealousies render necessary new tokens of God's presence and assistance in it.

[JUDGES, vii: 12.]—"And the Midianites, and the Amalekites, and all the children of the East, lay along in the valley like grasshoppers for multitude; and their camels were without number, as the sand by the seaside for multitude." We give here a picture of mat weavers at their looms simply to illustrate the character of the people that represent in modern times the ancient inhabitants of this land. This primitive loom we found near the waters of Merom just above where the Marsh of Huleh begins. It is in a Bedouin village, and the occupation of the natives is mat weaving. The rushes from which they make these mats grow on the banks of the Jordan. This is doubtless a characteristic picture applicable to this region in all its history. In this view we are looking toward the East, and the hour is about twelve o'clock noon.

Let such recollect, however, that amongst the nomads of Midian, &c., every full-grown man was a soldier, and that Xerxes led a million of men against the petty states of Greece, who, under that Providence that was preparing for the downfall of the Persian, and elevation of the Grecian empire, were likewise routed by a handful of Greeks, as Midian by 300 Israelites.—C.

It was not till Zebah and Zalmunna, with the shattered remnant of their vast army, had passed the defiles of Gilead and gained the eastern desert that they thought them-

SEACOAST, BEYROUT. [JUDGES viii: 33.]—"And it came to pass, as soon as Gideon was dead, that the children of Israel turned again, and went a whoring after Baalim, and made Baal-berith their God." Bochart supposed that Baal-berith (Judges viii: 33) was the god Baal in the city of Berith, or Beyrout. Dr. Thomson does not think this supposition too far-fetched to merit consideration, for he says, "We know from many ancient authors that the chief seat of Baal worship was in the regions around Byblus and Beyrout." This city was early occupied by the Phoenicians. This is the most beautiful and healthy region in this part of Syria. There is the best bay for shipping here at the head of the Mediterranean. 7 The Midianites were brethren to the Hebrews, being the descendants of Abraham, and called Ishmaelites, ver. 24, from being commingled with them; and were therefore not included under the sentence against Canaan. Those princes, however, suffer justly, for they were not merely robbers, but self-convicted murderers.—C.

19 God had commanded an altar to be built at Ophrah; Gideon, without order from God, now makes an ephod, which, from considering the conduct of Micah, ch. 17. 5, 12, and of the Danites, ch. 17. 30, suggests the idea of a priesthood, and worship, and sacrifices organized by Gideon, contrary to the divine order, which confined them to one place, which, in the meantime, was Shiloh.—Note, Whatever apparently plausible and pious reasons may be assigned for forms and acts of idol-worship, they always become a snare to the heart. The sight of an image or painting may excite strong emotion; but it is an emotion which finally associates with the image or the picture, and puts them, in some manner, into the place of God. Idol-worship is literally a snare—it takes the soul captive where it expects no danger.—C.

29 Baal-berith signifies 'covenant Baal,' or 'Baal of the covenant,' i.e. Baal as a god with whom the people had entered into covenant.

His worship was established at Shechem, and it may therefore be inferred that his worship was an imitation of the worship of Jehovah, with whom the Israelites had made a covenant in the time of Joshua at this very place.

Now in their miserable infatuation, instead of keeping their solemn covenant with Jehovah, they set up Baal in his place.

This ingratitude to man had commenced with ingratitude to God, and both were punished by the ambition and tyranny of Abimelech.—Note.

34 And the children of Israel <sup>h</sup>remembered not the LORD their God, who had delivered them out of the hands of all their enemies on every side:

CHAPTER IX.

1 Abimelech by conspiracy with the Shechemites, and murder of his brethren, is made king. 7 Jotham by a parable rebuketh them, and foretelleth their ruin. 22 Gaal conspireth with the Shechemites against him. 30 Zebul revealeth it. 34 Abimelech overcometh them, and soweth the city with salt. 46 He burneth the hold of the god Berith. 50 At Thebez he is slain by a piece of a millstone. 56 Jotham's curse is fulfilled.

AND Abimelech<sup>a</sup> the son of Jerubbaal<sup>1</sup> went to Shechem unto his mother's brethren, and <sup>b</sup>communed with them, and with all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying,

2 Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the men of Shechem, Whether is better<sup>2</sup> for you, either that all the sons of Jerubbaal, which are threescore and ten persons, reign over you, or that one reign over you? remember also <sup>c</sup>that I am your bone and your flesh.

3 And his mother's brethren <sup>d</sup>spake of him in the ears of all the men of Shechem all these words: and their hearts inclined to <sup>e</sup>follow Abimelech; for they said, He is our brother.

4 And they gave him threescore and ten pieces of silver out of the house of Baal-berith;

Ver. 21. [The Hebrew word translated 'ornaments' signifies 'little moons'; i.e. ornaments of gold and silver of crescent form. Such ornaments are to this day universally worn by the nomad tribes of Arabia. The origin of the peculiar shape was doubtless the worship of Astarte, or the moon. Those ornaments were dedicated to the goddess, and those who wore them were common for cowards to pretend valour when the danger is over or distant; but humility disposes a man to think meanly of his own works, and to put honour from himself to his neighbour; and meanwhile adds a double lustre to all its gifts, graces, or attainments. Soft words most effectually turn away wrath; nor must we count it strange to be abused by the tongues of those

FALLS OF NABLOUS—IN THE ANCIENT CAPITAL OF ISRAEL. [JUDGES, ix:7.]—
 "And when they told it to Jotham, he went and stood in the top of mount Gerizim, and lifted up his voice, and cried, and said unto them, Hearken unto me, ye men of Shechem, that God may hearken unto you." It was here in Shechem that Jotham gave the striking parable of the trees. Jotham was the youngest son of Gideon.
 His parable of the reign of the bramble is the earliest example of the kind. No place in Palestine could have been more appropriate for the expression of this parable than Shechem. Because of the many springs that rise within its environs, there is always a tropical luxuriance about the vegetation here, and it was standing in the midst of these trees, doubtless, that Jotham said: "The trees went forth on a time to anoint a king over them; and they said unto the olive tree, Reign thou over us," etc.

5 And he went unto his father's house at Ophrah, and slew his brethren, the sons of Jerubbaal, being threescore and ten persons, upon one stone: notwithstanding yet Jotham, the youngest son of Jerubbaal, was left; for he hid himself.

6 And all the men of Shechem gathered together, and all the 'house of Millo, and went and made Abimelech king, 'by the plain of the pillar that was in Shechem.

7 ¶ And when they told it to Jotham, he went and stood in the top of 'mount Gerizim, and lifted up his voice and cried, and said unto them, Harken unto me, ye men of Shechem, that God may hearken unto you.

8 The 'trees went forth on a time to anoint a king over them; and they said unto the olive-tree, 'Reign thou over us.

9 But the olive-tree said unto them, Should I leave my fatness, wherewith by me they 'honour God and man, and go to be promoted<sup>6</sup> over the trees?<sup>7</sup>

10 And the trees said to the fig-tree, Come thou, and reign over us.

11 But the fig-tree said unto them, 'Should I forsake my sweetness, and my good fruit, and go to be promoted over the trees?

12 Then said the trees unto the vine, Come thou, and reign over us.

13 And the vine said unto them, Should I leave my wine, which 'cheereth God and man,<sup>8</sup> and go to be promoted over the trees?

14 Then said all the trees unto the 'bramble, Come thou, and reign over us.

21 And Jotham ran away, and fled, and went to 'Beer, and dwelt there, for fear of Abimelech his brother.

22 ¶ When Abimelech had reigned three years<sup>1</sup> over Israel,

23 Then 'God sent an evil spirit<sup>2</sup> between Abimelech and the men of Shechem; and the men of Shechem dealt treacherously with Abimelech:

It is much better to be of a humble spirit with the lowly than to divide the spoil with the proud. Ambition to exalt one's family is ordinarily a ruinous snare. But it is very dangerous for rulers, in church or state, to humour people in matters of religion, or to indulge their carnal ease or honour in that point. What appears innocent at first may soon become a dangerous snare. Small beginnings of superstition or idolatry lead to still greater abominations: and when God removes the restraints, men will quickly relapse to their wonted or worse idolatries. It is hard to make base minds grateful, either to God or to their human benefactors: but it is easy to decoy them into one form of wickedness after another.

But in this Hebrew judge let Jesus, the great deliverer, be discerned. His condition on earth was mean and debased; his call to his work express, solemn, and necessary; and miraculous the repeated confirmations of it. But he was not a man of reasonable friends: but the most righteous judgment he did and will execute upon his despisers, of Judah and of Rome; and upon all such as refuse his people or ministers their necessary supplies.

CHAPTER IX. That so small an amount should hire a sufficient number of followers to render his success probable, will not astonish any one who is historically acquainted with the great value of money in certain periods and states of society, and also with the short period of service for which mercenaries have often been engaged.—Vain and light persons. Empty, unsettled, poor, and vagabond—having nothing to lose, and everything to covet, to hope for, or to plunder—

REFLECTIONS.—For the transgression of a land many and base are the princes thereof. Such as have wicked purposes stick at nothing to gain their end; and being conscious of their own bad designs, are apt to suspect, or at least accuse, others who are innocent of the same ill intentions: and instruments are never which slew them; and upon the men of Shechem, which aided him in the killing<sup>3</sup> of his brethren.

25 And the men of Shechem set <sup>liars</sup> in wait for him in the top of the mountains, and they robbed all that came along that way by them: and it was told Abimelech.<sup>4</sup>

26 And Gaal the son of Ebed came with his brethren,<sup>5</sup> and went over to Shechem: and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him.

27 And they went out unto the fields, and gathered their vineyards, and trod the grapes, and <sup>made</sup> merry, and went into the <sup>house</sup> of their god, and did eat and drink, and <sup>cursed</sup> Abimelech.

28 And Gaal the son of Ebed said, 'Who is Abimelech, and who is Shechem, that we should serve him? Is not he the son of Jerubbaal? and Zebul his officer? Serve <sup>the</sup> men of Hamor the father of Shechem; for why should we serve him?'<sup>6</sup>

29 And <sup>would</sup> to God this people were under my hand! then would I remove Abimelech. And he said to Abimelech, 'Increase thine army, and come out.'<sup>7</sup>

30 ¶ And when Zebul, the ruler of the city, heard the words of Gaal the son of Ebed, his anger was kindled.<sup>8</sup>

31 And he sent messengers unto Abimelech privily,<sup>9</sup> saying, Behold, Gaal the son of Ebed, and his brethren, be come to Shechem; and, behold, they fortify the city against thee.

34 ¶ And Abimelech rose up, and all the people that were with him, by night, and they laid wait against Shechem in four companies.

35 And Gaal the son of Ebed went out, and stood in the entering of the gate of the city: and Abimelech rose up, and <sup>the</sup> people that were with him, from lying in wait.

<sup>6</sup> Gaal was a Canaanite, the descendant of the ancient chiefs of Shechem. He was the instrument employed in stirring up strife between Abimelech and the Shechemites, some of whom appear to have been Canaanites. Gaal's words may be thus interpreted:—'Who is Abimelech? and who is Shechem?'

i.e. the section of the Shechemites attached to Abimelech. He speaks contemptuously of them. Replying to his own questions he says: 'Is he (Abimelech) not son of Jerubbaal? who overthrew the altar of our god. And is not Zebul, his officer, set over that section of the Shechemites who obey Abimelech?'

Having thus shown that both Abimelech and his general should be treated with contempt, Gaal set forward his own claims as descendant of the ancient princes of Shechem.—P.

<sup>8</sup> Most or perhaps all kinds of salt in moderate quantity promotes vegetation, but in large quantity produces absolute sterility. And this latter fact is most probably the origin of sowing conquered cities with salt.

Farther, as God ordered salt to be sprinkled on all his sacrifices, a custom which the heathen adopted also, either from the patriarchs or from Moses, it is not unlikely that the salting of ruins might have some reference to the city being made an offering.

And as salt was used in confirmation of covenants, it might be employed to indicate the vowed determination of the conqueror never to rebuild it. Thus Hadrian strewed with salt the ruins of Jerusalem; and thus Frederick Barbarossa, in 1152, ploughed up the site of Milan, and sowed it with salt.—C.

Distrusting the protection which this tower afforded, they retreated to the hold of the god Berith: probably some strong fortress of their temple, built perhaps upon one of the mountains in the neighbourhood. 38 Then said Zebul unto him, 'Where is now thy mouth, wherewith thou saidst, Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him? Is not this the people that thou hast despised? Go out, I pray now, and fight with them.'

39 And Gaal went out before the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech.

40 And Abimelech chased him, and he fled before him; and many were overthrown and wounded, even unto the entering of the gate.

41 And Abimelech dwelt<sup>5</sup> at Arumah: and <sup>Zebul</sup> thrust out Gaal and his brethren, that they should not dwell in Shechem.<sup>6</sup>

42 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people went out into the field;<sup>7</sup> and they told Abimelech.

43 And he took the people, and divided them into three companies, and laid wait in the field, and looked, and, behold, the people were come forth out of the city; and he rose up against them, and smote them.

44 And Abimelech, and the company that was with him, <sup>rushed</sup> forward, and stood in the entering of the gate of the city; and the two other companies ran upon all the people that were in the fields, and slew them.

45 And Abimelech fought against the city all that day; and he took the city, and slew the people that was therein, and <sup>beat</sup> down the city, and sowed it with salt.<sup>8</sup>

46 ¶ And when all the men of the tower<sup>9</sup> of Shechem heard that, they entered into <sup>an</sup> hold of the house of the god Berith.

47 And it was told Abimelech, that all the men of the tower of Shechem were gathered together.

48 And Abimelech gat him up to mount <sup>Zalmon</sup>, he and all the people that were with him; and Abimelech took an axe in his hand, and cut down a bough from the trees, and took it, and laid it on his shoulder, and said unto the people that were with him, 'What ye have seen me do,<sup>1</sup> make haste, and do as I have done.'

and all they of the city, and shut it to them, and gat them up to the top of the tower.

52 And Abimelech came unto the tower and fought against it, and went hard unto the door of the tower to burn it with fire.

53 And a certain woman <sup>1</sup>cast a piece of a millstone upon Abimelech's head, and all to break his skull.<sup>4</sup>

54 Then he called hastily unto the young man his armour-bearer, and said unto him, Draw thy sword, and slay me, that men say not of me, <sup>2</sup>A woman slew him. And his young man thrust him through, and he died.

55 And <sup>3</sup>when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, they departed every man unto his place.

56 ¶ Thus<sup>4</sup> God rendered the wickedness of Abimelech, which he did unto his father, in slaying his seventy brethren:

57 And all the evil of the men of Shechem did God render upon their heads: and <sup>5</sup>upon them came the curse of Jotham<sup>5</sup> the son of Jerubbaal.

13 And the king of the children of Ammon answered unto the messengers of Jephthah, <sup>a</sup>Because Israel took away my land,<sup>7</sup> when they came up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and unto Jordan: now therefore restore those lands again peaceably.

14 And Jephthah <sup>b</sup>sent messengers<sup>8</sup> again unto the king of the children of Ammon,

15 And said unto him, Thus saith Jephthah, <sup>c</sup>Israel took not away the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon:

16 But when Israel <sup>d</sup>came up from Egypt, and walked<sup>9</sup> through the wilderness unto the Red sea, and came to Kadesh;

17 Then <sup>e</sup>Israel sent messengers unto the king of Edom, saying, Let me, I pray thee, pass through thy land: but the king of Edom would not hearken thereto. And in like manner they sent unto the king of Moab; but he would not consent: and <sup>f</sup>Israel abode in Kadesh.

18 Then <sup>g</sup>they went along through the wilderness, and compassed the land of Edom, and the land of Moab, and came by the east side of the land of Moab, and pitched on the other side<sup>1</sup> of Arnon, <sup>h</sup>but came not within the border of Moab; for Arnon was the border of Moab.

19 And <sup>i</sup>Israel sent messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, the king of Heshbon; and Israel said unto him, Let us pass, we pray thee, through thy land unto my place.

20 But Sihon trusted not Israel to pass through his coast: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and pitched in Jahaz, and fought against Israel.

21 And the LORD God of Israel delivered Sihon and all his people into the hand of Israel, and they smote them: so Israel possessed all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that country.

22 And they possessed <sup>j</sup>all the coasts of the Amorites, from Arnon even unto Jabbok,<sup>2</sup> and from the wilderness even unto Jordan.

23 So now the LORD God of Israel hath dispossessed the Amorites from before his people Israel, and shouldest thou possess it?

24 Wilt not thou possess that which <sup>k</sup>Chemosh thy god giveth thee to possess?<sup>3</sup> so <sup>l</sup>whomsoever the LORD our God shall drive out from before us, them will we possess.

25 And <sup>m</sup>now, art thou any thing better than

Balak the son of Zippor king of Moab? did he ever strive against Israel, or did he ever fight against them?<sup>4</sup>

26 While Israel dwelt in Heshbon and her towns, and in Aroer and her towns, and in all the cities that be along by the coasts of Arnon, three<sup>d</sup> hundred years? why therefore did ye not recover them within that time?

27 Wherefore I have not sinned against thee, but thou doest me wrong to war against me: the<sup>e</sup> LORD the Judge be judge this day between the children of Israel and the children of Ammon.

28 Howbeit<sup>f</sup> the king of the children of Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah which he sent him.

29 ¶ Then<sup>g</sup> the Spirit of the LORD came upon Jephthah,<sup>5</sup> and he passed over Gilead and Manasseh, and passed over<sup>h</sup> Mizpeh of Gilead, and from Mizpeh of Gilead he passed over unto the children of Ammon.

30 And Jephthah<sup>i</sup> vowed a vow unto the LORD, and said, If thou shalt without fail deliver the children of Ammon into mine hands,

31 Then it shall be, that whatsoever cometh forth<sup>j</sup> of the doors of my house to meet me, when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, shall surely be the LORD's, and I will offer it up for a burnt-offering.<sup>7</sup>

32 ¶ So Jephthah passed over unto the children of Ammon to fight against them; and the LORD delivered them into his hands.

h All valuable endowments are, in Scripture, attributed to the 'Spirit of the Lord,' from those of the accomplished artist, Ex. 31. 2, to those of the sanctified Christian, 1 Co. 6. 11; and accordingly the undertaking of Jephthah is attributed to the Spirit coming upon him. But this coming of the Spirit is not to be considered as any mere enthusiastic impulse upon mind or body; but as light in the understanding to discover duty, faith to trust in God, zeal for his glory, love for his church, then grievously persecuted, — all which united produce that devotedness and courage that fit men for great and dangerous undertakings, and to which, under Providence, success is ordinarily to be traced. — C.

l The whole difficulty of this perplexing narrative originates in this verse, and depends upon the translation of a single Hebrew letter, and which is sometimes rendered and, and sometimes or, according to the current of the passage. Thus, the words of the tenth commandment might be literally rendered, 'Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, and his man-servant, and his maid-servant, &c.; but this sense obviously requires that it be rendered or, and not and. Now, if for and we substitute or, s The interpreters, and with whom we concur, who believe that Jephthah's daughter was devoted to celibacy, not to sacrifice, rest somewhat upon this very, and 'though the Scriptures make no mention of any such institution of celibacy in Israel, yet as there was nothing in the law that absolutely forbade it, and as it is reiterated in the end of ver. 39, it seems to cast considerable weight into the scale of the most mild and merciful interpreters. It is but justice, however, to add, that the weight of authority, both Jewish and Christian, lies on the side of the actual sacrifice. — C.

Ver. 40. [Went yearly to lament the daughter of Jephthah. The word translated 'to lament,' signifies also 'to praise, celebrate, or talk with.' An attention very natural in her young companions, and consolatory to the unhappy recluse, debarred from the hope of every Israelitess, that of being 'a mother in Israel,' and probably the mother of Messiah. In conclusion, Jephthah is celebrated by Paul as an example of faith, He. 11. 32, which we judge impossible had he been guilty of an act, whatever might be the motive, still worse than that of Cain, and which would have identified his religion with the worst feature of the idolatry of Canaan. C.—The record of Jephthah's vow in ver. 31 may be thus translated, 'That which (or, he who) cometh to meet me out of the doors of my house, fulfilment of the vow, leads to the conclusion that Jephthah's daughter was not sacrificed. Her entreaty that he would give her two months to lament her virginity, is surely out of all keeping with the supposition that she was to be put to death. To mourn her virginity does not mean to mourn because she was to die on the altar, but because she was to live a virgin. Then observe the statement made by the historian after he relates that Jephthah 'did with her according to the vow which he had vowed.' 'And she knew no man.' Is this in harmony with the supposition of a sacrificial death? P.]

REFLECTIONS.—The indulgers of lawless lust ordinarily entail both misery and shame upon the unhappy fruit of their guilty amours. But it is unreasonable for us to reproach a man with the unhappiness of his birth, when his practice deserves a more horrible punishment.

ence; that so, if war cannot be avoided, we may prosecute it with a good conscience, and depend on God for success in it. For it is reasonable that such as delight in war should be ruined by it. Unjust men are ready to insist upon the most antiquated claims; and however many practise injustice, few choose to be reckoned unjust. But when the Lord hath given us anything by special grant, we may insist upon the possession of it. To receive it from him, use it to his glory, keep it for his sake, and return it to him when he calls for it, is part of the duty which we owe to him. What care ought to be taken in contracting a solemn vow, that it may never prove a snare to our soul! And having engaged to anything lawful we must in no wise go back. But it is mournful when parents, by their rashness, involve their obedient children in sin, in 2 Men often judge by success, and not by principle, and become jealous of the successful leader whom they would not aid in one of his struggles. The Ephraimites were also most probably stimulated by envy and covetousness when considering the spoil that must have been gleaned in the conquest of twenty cities. C.—In their address to Gideon in circumstances somewhat similar, ch. 8. 1, we have already had a proof of the domineering, ambitious spirit of this tribe. They began early to indicate a disposition to lord it over their brethren. In this instance their haughtiness met with its reward.—P.

4 The vow of the Nazarite required this abstinence. To attract attention to the prophecy concerning the deliverer, the rules of Nazarism are extended to the mother. The Scriptures often and evidently intimate, what humane observation has daily confirmed, that more of the character and future progress of children depend upon mothers than upon fathers. Without seeking, perhaps being able to search, farther into the causes of this fact, enough appears to account for it in the greater intercourse of mothers with their children in childhood, when the future character is generally formed, and that before many suppose that any bias has been given.—C.

Men no doubt think of angels; still the character of messenger, and the truth of their message, entitle them to esteem 'for their work's sake.'—C.

It was given to the spot in which the Danites who migrated from the inheritance of their fathers to Laish, in the north of Palestine, as recorded in ch. 18. 12, had encamped. It was situated between the towns of Zorah (Samson's native city) and Eshtaol.—P.

7 And he went down and talked with the woman; and she pleased Samson well.

9 And he took thereof in his hands, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother, and he gave them, and they did eat: but he told not them that he had taken the honey out of the carcass of the lion.

10 ¶ So his father went down unto the woman: and Samson <sup>made</sup> there a feast; for so used the young men to do.

11 And it came to pass, when they <sup>saw</sup> him, that they brought <sup>thirty</sup> companions to be with him.

12 ¶ And Samson said unto them, I <sup>will</sup> now put forth a riddle unto you: if ye can certainly declare it me within the <sup>seven</sup> days of the feast,<sup>8</sup> and find it out, then I will give you thirty sheets,<sup>9</sup> and thirty change of garments:

13 But if ye cannot declare it me, then shall ye give me thirty sheets, and thirty <sup>change</sup> of garments. And they said unto him, Put forth thy riddle, that we may hear it.

14 And he said unto them, <sup>Out</sup> of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong came forth sweetness. And <sup>they</sup> could not in three days expound the riddle.

15 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they said unto Samson's wife, <sup>Entice</sup> thy husband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, lest<sup>a</sup> we burn thee and thy father's house with fire:<sup>1</sup> have ye called us to take that we have?<sup>2</sup> is it not so?

16 And Samson's wife <sup>wept</sup> before him, and said, Thou dost but hate me, and lovest me not: thou hast put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and hast not told it me. And he said unto her, Behold, I have not told it my father nor my mother, and shall I tell it thee?

17 And she wept before him the seven days,<sup>3</sup> while their feast lasted: and it came to pass on the seventh day, that he told her,<sup>4</sup> because she

(1) Defence to his indulgent parents;

4 It is easy to do right for a little time, just so long as it is agreeable to our constitution and habits, as modesty and secrecy evidently were to Samson. The difficulty lies in persevering to do right, and to carry our first resolutions into effect. Samson refused to discover his secret till near the end of the seventh day; importunity and tenderness made him his own betrayer. Peter was bold for a little in the garden—temptation overcame him in the judgment-hall.—C.

8 The destruction of grain, olive-trees, and vines will be easily understood by those who have seen the plain of Philistia, and know the mode of cultivation. There are no fences; the corn-fields extend for miles one uninterrupted expanse. Grain is sown, and grows luxuriantly beneath the branches of the olives. In a dry and sunny country like Palestine, the fire, when once kindled, would spread rapidly, and burn fiercely. Samson must have watched the success of his clever scheme of destruction from the heights of Zorah with rare delight.—P.

CHAPTER XV.

1 Samson is denied his wife. 3 He burneth the Philistines' corn with foxes and firebrands. 6 His wife and her father are burned by the Philistines. 7 Samson smiteth them hip and thigh. 9 He is bound by the men of Judah, and delivered to the Philistines. 14 He killeth a thousand of them with a jawbone. 18 God openeth a fountain in Lehi to relieve his thirst.

BUT it came to pass within a while after, in the time of wheat harvest, that Samson visited his wife with <sup>a</sup> a kid; and he said, I will <sup>go</sup> in to my wife into the chamber: but her father would not suffer him to go in.

2 And her father said, <sup>I</sup> verily thought that thou hadst utterly hated her; therefore <sup>I</sup> gave her to thy companion: is not her younger sister fairer than she? take her,<sup>1</sup> I pray thee, instead of her.

3 ¶ And Samson said concerning them, <sup>Now</sup> shall I be more blameless than the Philistines, though I do them a displeasure.

4 And Samson went and caught <sup>three</sup> hundred foxes,<sup>2</sup> and took fire-brands,<sup>3</sup> and turned tail to tail, and put a fire-brand in the midst between two tails.

5 And when he had set the brands on fire, he let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines, and burnt up both the shocks, and also the standing corn, with the vineyards and olives.<sup>4</sup>

6 Then the Philistines said, Who hath done this? And they answered, Samson, the son-in-law of the Timnite, because he had taken his wife, and given her to his companion. And the Philistines came up and <sup>burnt</sup> her and her father with fire.<sup>5</sup>

BOAT AND OARSMEN, JAFFA—IN THE TERRITORY OF THE PHILISTINES. [Judges, xvi:3.]—"And Samson said concerning them, Now shall I be more blameless than the Philistines, though I do them a displeasure." This picture of a boat and oarsmen in Jaffa is given here because illustrating a scene in one of the oldest cities of the world, and a city belonging for awhile to the Philistines. This picture gives us an idea of how such travelers are carried to the shore in Jaffa as have previously arranged for a tour of the Holy Land through some dragoman or guide. Such travelers are met out at sea, and with their baggage are taken in charge as soon as the anchor is cast. The pilgrim has no trouble whatever. Everything has been arranged for his coming. The party who made the trip to secure the pictures that illustrate this work made all the arrangements for a tour of the Holy Land in London.

JERUSALEM ROAD — PASSING THROUGH THE TERRITORY OF DAN.
[Judges, xvi.]—We give this picture here as an illustration of the sixteenth chapter of Judges, because it illustrates the Jerusalem road from Jaffa to the Holy City, which has in all ages been the great highway through the territory that once belonged to the tribe of Dan, whose most famous historical character, perhaps, was Samson. You observe two of the parties on the camels looking back with a great deal of interest. They appeared to be very curious in regard to our proceedings. They little dreamed that their pictures were being taken, and that they would be used in all parts of the English-speaking world to illustrate the Bible, the product of their own land. It is difficult to comprehend how deeply ignorant the natives of Palestine are. They cannot read, and they have no conception whatever of the modern world. They are as blank in mind as their ancestors in the days of Abraham.

8 Then the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green withs which had not been dried, and she <sup>6</sup>bound him with them.

9 (Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber.) And she said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson.<sup>6</sup> And he brake the withs, as a thread of tow is broken when it <sup>7</sup>toucheth the fire: so his strength <sup>8</sup>was not known.

10 And Delilah said unto Samson, Behold, thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: now tell<sup>9</sup> me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound.

11 And he said unto her, <sup>10</sup>If they bind me fast with new ropes<sup>7</sup> that never were occupied,<sup>8</sup> then shall I be weak, and be as another man.

12 Delilah therefore <sup>11</sup>took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. (And there were liars in wait abiding in the chamber.) And he brake them from off his arms like a thread.

13 And Delilah said unto Samson, Hitherto thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: tell me wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, <sup>12</sup>If thou weavest the seven locks<sup>9</sup> of my head with the web.

14 And she fastened<sup>1</sup> it with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awaked out of his sleep, and went<sup>13</sup> away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.<sup>2</sup>

15 ¶ And she said unto him, <sup>14</sup>How canst thou say, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me? thou hast mocked me these three times, and hast not told me wherein thy great strength <sup>15</sup>lieth.

16 And it came to pass, when she pressed him daily with her words, and urged him, <sup>16</sup>so that his soul was <sup>17</sup>vexed unto death,

17 That he told her <sup>18</sup>all his heart, and said unto her, There hath not come <sup>19</sup>a razor upon mine head; for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mother's womb: if I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man.<sup>3</sup> a Jos. 15. 9; 17. 15. 18.

1 It would appear from a careful study of history that the events recorded in this and the following chapters of the book of Judges occurred at a period immediately after the death of Joshua, and long before the time of Samson or Jephthah. This must not be considered an error. The book contains a series of remarkable incidents in early Israelish history; but it does not give a continuous narrative, nor does it profess to be chronologically arranged. It is probable that the death of Samson occurred at least 300 years after the event with which this chapter opens.—C.

demned, 2 Co. 9. 6, yet liberality is no proof that the worship to which it dedicates is acceptable, or the heart of the giver right with God.

Note. God requires first the heart, then the hand; but the open hand of the idolater may often put to shame the narrow-mindedness of the Christian.—C.

9 The translation in the plural is evidently correct; the place being a house, not of God, that is, of JEHOVAH, the one living and true God, but of gods, idols, the work of men's hands.

Note. The refuge of lies, adopted by almost every form of idolatry, is to deny a plurality of gods, and the worship of idols, and to assert that the various attributes of the one God are represented by the visible forms, and that the idols are not worshipped, but God worshipped through them. But let none be deceived by this pretence: God is not thus to be mocked.—C.

viously typifies our almighty Redeemer. Express and reasonable were the predictions concerning him, and supernatural the manner of his birth. Solemn was his separation to the service of God; invigorating the spiritual influence which he received; and early and marvellous his exploits. By obedience and death he fulfilled the broken law; and conquered sin, Satan, the world, and death: and sweet is the provision provided by it for himself and his friends; nay, for sinners of mankind, even the chief! Important are his parables, and known only to such as have fellowship with him. Basely was he betrayed by Judas and his countrymen, and delivered to the Gentiles that he might be crucified. His enemies rejoiced to shut his eyes in death, and to imprison him in a grave. Making him the object of their derision, they sealed him up, and watched him in his tomb; but he brake the bands, and carried off the gates and bars of death; and ascending up on high, led captivity captive. All alone he performed his wonderful exploits. By a voluntary death, according to his Father's will, he destroyed thousands of principalities and powers. By the contemned preaching of the gospel he conquers thousands of souls, and kills ten thousands of lusts.—But how dreadful is his instinct!

Ver. 6. [In those days there was no king in Israel. The time is not precisely known, farther than that it was after the days of Joshua, and most probably soon after the death of Joshua; for Phinehas, the grandson of Aaron, was still alive, see ch. 20. 28. This and the following chapters may therefore be considered as an appendix to the memoirs of the judges. C.]

Ver. 7. [A young man out of Beth-lehem-judah, of the family of Judah, who was a Levite. His father may have been of Levi, his mother of Judah, or this 'Beth-lehem-judah' may have belonged to the particular division of the tribe of Judah which bore the family name of Judah; for each tribe was divided into distinct families. C.]

Ver. 13. [The Lord will do me good, seeing I have a Levite to my priest. Micah was a worldly, superstitious, ignorant man—the proper elements of an idolater. Worldly, for he stole his mother's silver; superstitious, for he gave it back, not from a moral feeling of honesty, but dread of a curse; ignorant, for he is led by the name of a Levite to suppose that he is a priest.

gion. But sad are the times when faithful ministers are almost starved for want! and what an easy prey for Satan and his agents are unsettled professors, and especially rambling clergymen! God readily leaves those to debase themselves who have once abandoned themselves to a neglect of his worship and service: and permits those who should be reprovers of sin to be principal countenancers of it for the sake of their belly. And up to what slight, nay, damnable grounds, do hardened sinners reckon themselves entitled to the favour of God!

CHAPTER XVIII. [Ver. 7. The earliest name of Laish was Leshem. It was situated in a rich valley between Hermon and Lebanon, at one of the great fountains of the Jordan. Its occupation by the Phœnician inhabitants of Sidon is easily accounted for. Sidon was a commercial city. Built on the coast, with only a narrow strip of plain beside it, and the rocky side of Lebanon over it, a supply of food had to be brought from a distance. The plain around Laish is one of the most fertile in Syria; the enterprising Phœnicians took possession of it, built a town, and placed

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 The Danites send five men to seek out for them an inheritance. 3 At the house of Micah they consult with the Levite, and are encouraged in their way. 7 They search Laish, and bring back news of good hope. 11 Six hundred men are sent to surprise it. 14 On the way they rob Micah of his priest and his consecrated things. 27 They win Laish, and call it Dan. 30 They set up idolatry, wherein Jonathan the Levite, and his sons, inherit the priesthood.

IN those<sup>a</sup> days there was no king in Israel: and in those days the tribe of the Danites sought them an inheritance to dwell in; for unto<sup>b</sup> that day all their inheritance had not fallen unto them among the tribes of Israel.<sup>2</sup>

2 And the children of Dan sent of their family five men from their coasts, men<sup>3</sup> of valour, from Zorah, and from Eshtaol, to spy out the land, and to search it; and they said unto them, Go, search the land: who, when they came to mount Ephraim, to the house of Micah, they lodged there.

3 When they were by the house of Micah, they knew the voice of the young man the Levite: and they turned in thither, and said unto him, Who brought thee hither? and what makest thou in this place? and what hast thou here?

4 And he said unto them, Thus and thus dealeth Micah with me, and hath hired me, and I am his priest.

5 And they said unto him, Ask counsel, we pray thee, of God, that we may know whether our way which we go shall be prosperous.

6 And the priest said unto them, Go in peace: before the LORD is your way wherein ye go.

7 ¶ Then the five men departed, and came to Laish, and saw the people that were therein, how they dwelt careless, after the manner of the Zidonians, quiet and secure; and there was no magistrate<sup>5</sup> in the land, that might put them to shame in any thing; and they were far from the Zidonians, and had no business with any man.<sup>6</sup>

8 And they came unto their brethren to Zorah and Eshtaol; and their brethren said unto them, What say ye?

9 And they said, Arise, that we may go up against them: for we have seen the land, and, behold, it is very good; and are ye still? be not slothful to go, and to enter to possess the land.

2 For there had fallen to it, until that day, among the tribes of Israel, an allotted portion. The meaning of this statement is illustrated by the context. From ver. 2, 11 it is evident the Danites were settled on the mountain slopes west of Judah, so that they were not absolutely without inheritance. Their inheritance, however, was not enough for them. The Philistines were so powerful that they could not drive them from the plain; and they were therefore obliged to look elsewhere for a settlement.—C.

9 Of the form of the teraphim, generally said to signify images and idols, nothing precise is known. Cocceus thinks they were the cherubim. From comparing this verse with Ho. 3. 4, and construing the enumeration of things known, and seeing what is wanted to complete the external of divine worship, we are inclined to think the word, being plural, includes altar, candlestick, censers, laver, &amp;c. &amp;c.—C.

1 Molten image, means evidently here an image produced by pouring molten metal into a mould. By graven image, we cannot understand such a cast finished by the graver, but, more probably, figures or inscriptions on a flat surface accompanied with emblematic devices.—C.

3 This was the token of silence. These men were very ignorant, and concluded that they should, by taking Micah's gods, secure the presence and favour of the God of Israel in their expedition and settlement. They perhaps supposed the piety of their motives, and the goodness of their intentions, would justify the end. But it was a base robbery of Micah, aggravated by the Levite's ingratitude and their menaces.—C.

family of the Danites, out of Zorah, and out of Eshtaol, six hundred men appointed<sup>8</sup> with weapons of war.

12 And they went up, and pitched in Kirjath-jearim, in Judah: wherefore they called that place Mahaneh-dan unto this day; behold, it is behind Kirjath-jearim.

13 And they passed thence unto mount Ephraim, and came unto the house of Micah.

14 ¶ Then answered the five men that went to spy out the country of Laish, and said unto their brethren, Do ye know that there is in these houses an ephod, and teraphim,<sup>9</sup> and a graven image, and a molten image:<sup>11</sup> now therefore consider<sup>2</sup> what ye have to do.

15 And they turned thitherward, and came to the house of the young man the Levite, even unto the house of Micah, and saluted him.

16 And the six hundred men appointed with their weapons of war, which were of the children of Dan, stood by the entering of the gate.

17 And the five men that went to spy out the land went up, and came in thither, and took the graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image: and the priest stood in the entering of the gate, with the six hundred men that were appointed with weapons of war.

18 And these went into Micah's house, and fetched the carved image, the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image. Then said the priest unto them, What do ye?

19 And they said unto him, Hold thy peace, lay thine hand upon thy mouth, and go with us, and be to us a father and a priest: is it better for thee to be a priest unto the house of one man, or that thou be a priest unto a tribe and a family in Israel?

20 And the priest's heart was glad; and he took the ephod, and the teraphim,<sup>4</sup> and the graven image, and went in the midst of the people.

21 So they turned and departed, and put the little ones, and the cattle, and the carriage, before them.

22 ¶ And when they were a good way from the house of Micah, the men that were in the houses near to Micah's house were gathered together, and overtook the children of Dan.

23 And they cried unto the children of Dan:

KURYET-EL-ANAB—WHERE THE ARK REMAINED TWENTY YEARS.
 [Judges, xviii:12.]—"And they went up and pitched in Kirjath-jearim in Judea."
 Kuryet-el-Anab is supposed by some to be the ancient Kirjath-jearim. This place is now called Abu Gosh, after a famous old robber who lived here and whose descendants still reside in the village. A tomb has been built to his memory here by his relatives, and this is one of the most thrifty looking villages between Jaffa and Jerusalem. Kirjath-jearim is first mentioned as one of the four cities of the Gibeonites. The ark remained here for twenty years and was removed from this place by David to the house of Obed-edom the Gittite. Eusebius and Jerome speak of this city and describe it as a village at the ninth mile between Jerusalem and Lydda, and these requirements are exactly fulfilled in Kuryet-el-Anab.

25 And the children of Dan said unto him, Let not thy voice be heard among us, lest angry<sup>4</sup> fellows run upon thee, and thou lose thy life, with the lives of thy household.<sup>6</sup>

26 And the children of Dan went their way: and when Micah saw that they were too strong for him, he turned, and went back unto his house.

27 ¶ And they took the things which Micah had made, and the priest which he had, and came<sup>7</sup> unto Laish, unto a people that were at quiet and secure: and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and burnt the city with fire.

29 And they called the name of the city Dan,<sup>4</sup> after the name of Dan their father, who was born unto Israel: howbeit the name of the city was Laish at the first.

30 ¶ And the children of Dan set up the graven image: and Jonathan the son of Gershom, the son of Manasseh,<sup>8</sup> he and his sons were priests to the tribe of Dan until the day of the 'captivity of the land.'<sup>9</sup>

31 And they set them up Micah's graven image, which he made, all the time that the house of God was in Shiloh.

1 A Levite goeth to Bethlehem to fetch home his concubine. 16 An old man entertaineth him at Gibeah. 22 The Gibeonites abuse his concubine to death. 29 He divideth her into twelve pieces, which he sendeth to the twelve tribes of Israel.

AND it came to pass in those days, when there was no king in Israel, that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the side of mount<sup>b</sup> Ephraim, who took to him 'a concubine' out of 'Beth-lehem-judah.'

2 And his concubine 'played the whore against him, and went away from him unto her father's house to Beth-lehem-judah, and was there<sup>2</sup> four whole months.<sup>3</sup>

n Hebrew scholars are aware that the introduction of a single letter changes Moses into Manasseh, and it is generally considered that this was the original reading, and that for the credit of the family of Moses, the letter was inserted first above the word Moses, from which position it afterwards crept into the word. We can see no reason, however, for supposing, there might not be a Gershom and Manasseh in the tribe of Levi, as stated in the text.—C.

m This narrative, at once so simple and so tragical, is in this part calculated and intended to convey a great moral lesson—the dangers resulting to families and friends from indiscreet hospitality. This man had a kind and hospitable spirit, but not under the restraint of moderation and prudence; the result is seen in the light conduct and melancholy end of his daughter.—Note. Hospitality is a duty of perpetual obligation, but must be limited by the restraints of temperance and piety.—C.

w The king of Jebus was conquered by Joshua, ch. 10. 1, 2, and the territory occupied by Israel, ver. 4; but the Jebusites continued in copartnership in the city of Jebus, Jos. 15. 63; and at this time had, most probably, expelled the Israelites entirely.—C.

3 And her husband arose, and 'went after her, 'to speak 'friendly unto her, and to bring her again, having his servant with him, and a couple of asses: and she brought him into her father's house; and when the father of the damsel saw him, he rejoiced to meet him.

4 And his father-in-law, the damsel's father, retained him; and he abode with him three days: so they did eat and drink, and lodged there.

5 And it came to pass on the fourth day, when they arose early in the morning, that he rose up to depart: and the damsel's father said unto his son-in-law, 'Comfort thine heart with a morsel of bread,<sup>4</sup> and afterward go your way.

6 And they sat down, and did eat and drink both of them together: for the damsel's father had said unto the man, Be content, I pray thee, and tarry all night, and let thine heart be 'merry.'<sup>5</sup>

7 And when the man rose up to depart, his father-in-law urged him; therefore he lodged there again.

8 And he arose early in the morning on the fifth day to depart: and the damsel's 'father said, Comfort thine heart, I pray thee. And they tarried until afternoon,<sup>7</sup> and they did eat both of them.

9 And when the man rose up to depart, he, and his concubine, and his servant, his father-in-law, the damsel's father, said unto him, Behold, now the day draweth toward evening,<sup>8</sup> I pray you tarry all night: behold, the day groweth to an end;<sup>9</sup> lodge here, that thine heart may be merry; and 'to-morrow get you early on your way, that thou mayest go home.<sup>1</sup>

10 But the man would not tarry that night, but he rose up and departed, and came 'over against 'Jebus, (which is Jerusalem,) and there were with him two asses saddled; his concubine also was with him.

11 And when they were by Jebus, the day was far spent; and the servant said unto his master, Come, I pray thee, and let us turn in unto this city of the Jebusites, and lodge in it.

17 And when he had lifted up his eyes, he saw a wayfaring man in the street of the city: and the old man said, Whither goest thou? and whence comest thou?

18 And he said unto him, We are passing from Beth-lehem-judah toward the side of mount Ephraim; from thence am I: and I went to Beth-lehem-judah, but I am now going to the <sup>o</sup>house of the LORD;<sup>6</sup> and there is no man that <sup>o</sup>receiveth me to house.

20 And the old man said, <sup>o</sup>Peace be with thee: howsoever, let all thy wants lie upon me; only<sup>7</sup> lodge not in the street.

21 So he brought him into his house, and gave provender unto the asses: and they <sup>o</sup>washed their feet, and did eat and drink.

<sup>6</sup> For the honour of Rahab, Jos. 2. 1, of the mother of Jehoshaphat, Ju. 11. 1, some strenuously contend it should be translated harbour, or tavern-keeper. The text clearly shows there were in those days and countries no such persons; had there been an accustomed lodging-house, the Levite would not have rested with his wife and servant in the street.

The Levite, no doubt, sent a circumstantial account of the wicked conduct of the Gibeonites; and the spectacle of the fragments of the murdered woman was calculated to rouse the tribes to ample vengeance. The practice continued in Israel, but the victim was a bullock, 1 Sa. 7. 11; and from Lucian we learn that the Scythians and Molossians had a similar custom. The Crean Tarigh, a cross seared in fire and quenched with blood, in which the Highland chieftains of Scotland were wont to summon their clans to battle, seems to have originated in similar ideas.—C.

The Mizpeh here mentioned is in Benjamin. It was situated on the hill now called Azy-Samuel, which is the most commanding and conspicuous in the whole region. It rises 600 feet above the plain of Gibeon, which lies immediately to the north of it; and it is 4 miles north-west of Jerusalem. The hill of Gibeah is clearly seen from it, and is only 3 miles distant. The gathering-place of the tribes was doubtless on the northern slope of the hill, and on the broad plain of Gibeon below. No other place among the mountains of southern Palestine was so well adapted for such an assembly. Being in Benjamin, too, it was calculated to strike terror into the whole tribe.—P.

<sup>19</sup> It may be impossible now to account for this presumptuous courage of Benjamin in defying such an army. Some probabilities may be suggested. They may have expected to have a large army soon

16 Among all this people there were seven hundred chosen men <sup>left-handed</sup>: every one could sling stones at an hair-breadth, and not miss.<sup>8</sup>

17 And the men of Israel, besides Benjamin, were numbered <sup>four hundred thousand</sup> men that drew sword: all these were men of war.

19 And the children of Israel <sup>rose up</sup> in the morning, and encamped against Gibeah.

20 And the men of Israel went out to battle against Benjamin; and the men of Israel put themselves in array to fight against them at Gibeah.

21 And the children of Benjamin came forth out of Gibeah, and <sup>destroyed down</sup> to the ground of the Israelites that day twenty and two thousand men.

22 ¶ And the people, the men of Israel, <sup>encouraged</sup> themselves, and set their battle again in array in the place where they put themselves in array the first day.

23 (And the children of Israel went up and <sup>wept</sup> before the LORD until even, and asked counsel of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up again to battle against the children of Benjamin my brother? And the LORD said, Go up against him.)

24 And the children of Israel came near against the children of Benjamin the second day.

25 And Benjamin went forth against them out of Gibeah the second day, and <sup>destroyed down</sup> to the ground of the children of Israel again eighteen thousand men; all these drew the sword.

26 ¶ Then all the children of Israel, and all the people, went up, and came unto the house of God,<sup>2</sup> and <sup>wept</sup>, and sat there before the LORD, and fasted that day until even, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before the LORD.

30 And the children of Israel went up against the children of Benjamin on the third day, and put themselves in array against Gibeah, as at other times.

31 And the children of Benjamin went out against the people, and <sup>m</sup>were drawn away from the city; and they began to smite<sup>4</sup> of the people, and kill, as at other times, in the highways, of which one goeth up to <sup>n</sup>the house of God,<sup>5</sup> and the other to <sup>o</sup>Gibeah in the field,<sup>6</sup> about thirty men of Israel.

32 And the children of Benjamin said, They are smitten down before us, as at the first. But the children of Israel said, <sup>p</sup>Let us flee, and draw them from the city<sup>7</sup> unto the highways.

33 And all the men of Israel <sup>q</sup>rose up out of their place, and put themselves in array at Baal-tamar: and the liers in wait of Israel came forth out of their places, even out of the meadows of Gibeah.

34 And there came against Gibeah <sup>r</sup>ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and the battle was sore: but they <sup>s</sup>knew not that evil was near them.<sup>8</sup>

35 And the Lord smote Benjamin before Israel: and the children of Israel destroyed<sup>9</sup> of the Benjamites that day <sup>t</sup>twenty and five thousand and an hundred men; all these drew the sword.

36 So the children of Benjamin saw that they were smitten: for <sup>u</sup>the men of Israel gave place to the Benjamites, because they trusted unto the liers in wait which they had set beside Gibeah.

37 And the liers in wait hasted, and rushed upon Gibeah; and the liers in wait <sup>v</sup>drew themselves along, and smote all the city with the edge of the sword.

38 Now there was an appointed sign<sup>1</sup> between the men of Israel and<sup>2</sup> the liers in wait, that<sup>3</sup> they should make a great flame<sup>3</sup> with smoke to rise up out of the city.

39 And <sup>w</sup>when the men of Israel retired in the battle, Benjamin began to smite<sup>4</sup> and kill of the men of Israel about thirty persons; for they said, Surely they are smitten down before us, as in the first battle.

40 But when the flame began to arise up out of the city with a pillar of smoke, the Benjamites looked behind them, and, behold, <sup>x</sup>the flame of the city ascended up to heaven.

<sup>3</sup> Sorrow for sin is a hopeful but by no means a certain sign of repentance; for there is much difference between feeling sorrow for the inconvenience, annoyance, and loss occasioned to sin to ourselves, and feeling grief for the insult that sin has offered to God. So Israel wept sore for the national injury of their rash vow; but, so far from being truly penitent, they prepare to rectify the vow by a verbal evasion, and to remedy one sin by the perpetration of another.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 The people bewail the desolation of Benjamin. 8 By the destruction of Jabesh-gilead they provide them four hundred wives. 16 They advise them to surprise the virgins that danced at Shiloh.

2 And the people came to the <sup>3</sup>house of God, and abode there till even before God, and lifted up their voices, and wept sore;<sup>2</sup>

3 And said, O Lord God of Israel, why is this come to pass in Israel, that there should be to-day one tribe lacking in Israel?

4 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people <sup>4</sup>rose early, and built there an altar, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings.

5 And the children of Israel said, Who is there among all the tribes of Israel that came not up with the congregation unto the Lord? For they <sup>5</sup>had made a great oath concerning him that came not up to the Lord to Mizpeh, saying, He shall surely be put to death.

6 And the children of Israel <sup>6</sup>repented them for Benjamin their brother, and said, There is one tribe cut off from Israel this day:

the LORD? and, behold, there came none to the camp from <sup>1</sup>Jabesh-gilead to the assembly.

9 For the people were numbered,<sup>3</sup> and, behold, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead there.

10 And the congregation sent thither twelve thousand men of the valiantest, and commanded them, saying, 'Go and smite the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead with the edge of the sword, with the women and the children.

11 And this is the thing that ye shall do, Ye<sup>m</sup> shall utterly destroy every male, and every woman that <sup>2</sup>'hath lain by man.'

12 And they found among the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead four hundred young virgins,<sup>5</sup> that had known no man by lying with any male: and they brought them unto the camp <sup>o</sup>to Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.

13 And the whole congregation sent some to speak<sup>6</sup> to the children of Benjamin that were in the<sup>2</sup> rock Rimmon, and to <sup>c</sup>call peaceably unto them.

14 And Benjamin came again at that time; and they gave them wives<sup>7</sup> which they had saved alive of the women of Jabesh-gilead: and yet so they <sup>2</sup>'sufficed them not.

15 And the people repented them for Benjamin, because that the LORD had made a breach in the tribes of Israel.

16 ¶ Then the elders of the congregation said, How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing the women are destroyed out of Benjamin?

17 And they said, There must be an inheritance for them that be escaped of Benjamin,<sup>8</sup> that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel.

18 Howbeit we may not give them wives of our daughters: for the children of Israel <sup>1</sup>'have sworn, saying, Cursed be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin.

20 Therefore they commanded the children of Benjamin, saying, Go and lie in wait in the vineyards;

21 And see, and, behold, if the daughters of Shiloh come out to <sup>2</sup>'dance in dances, then come ye out of the vineyards, and catch you every man his wife of the daughters of Shiloh, and go to the land of Benjamin.

22 And it shall be, when their fathers or their brethren come unto us to complain, that we will say unto them, <sup>2</sup>'Be favourable unto them for our sakes; because we reserved not to each man his wife in the war: for ye did not <sup>2</sup>'give unto them at this time, that ye should be guilty.<sup>5</sup>

23 And the children of Benjamin did so, <sup>2</sup>• and took them wives, according to their number, of them that danced, whom they caught; and they went and returned unto their inheritance, and <sup>2</sup>'repaired the cities, and dwelt in them.

24 And the children of Israel departed thence at that time, every man to his tribe, and to his family, and they went out from thence every man to his inheritance.

25 In<sup>b</sup> those days there was no king in Israel: every man did that which was <sup>2</sup>'right in his own eyes.<sup>6</sup>

CHAPTER XXI. [Ver. 4. Offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings. The transition from a peace-offering to another act of extermination seems an almost incredible contradiction. But the history of human nature furnishes many instances of not merely making professed religious services the prelude to cruelty, but of actually commingling them together. The history of the crusades against the Waldenses affords an example of the one, and the autos-da-fe of the Spanish inquisition afford an example of the other—the massacre of St. Bartholomew in some degree exceeds both; for the massacre of the sleeping and unoffending Huguenots was celebrated at Rome by a solemn Te Deum. C.]

REFLECTIONS.—Rash oaths are ordinarily ensnaring. True zeal may be carried too far. And there is often an overdoing in well-doing.—War may be ill ended that was well begun. Even necessary justice ought to be executed with deliberation and deep compassion; for strong passions prepare work for an after repentance. And one rash step, or even rash word, sometimes draws after it the most terrible consequences.

In perplexities and distress it is proper to have recourse to God and the atoning blood of his Son. He can extricate us in a decent and honourable manner. But amidst violent fits of repentance, men are often readier to support their own authority than to consult God, and to extirpate brethren rather than Canaanites. Dancing, even without mixture of sexes, often renders persons an easy prey. And who knows how often the ambuscades of evil spirits transport souls from the dancing-floor into everlasting destruction! How great the confusion of an unsettled government! It is a great mercy for a land to have proper rulers in church or state.

THE BOOK OF RUTH

Is another appendix to the history of the Judges; calculated to represent the marvellous providence of God, the propriety of constant dependence thereon; and to show the happy issue of patience, humility, and industry. It was probably penned by Samuel, and relates to events which happened about the time of Ehud or Barak, Ju. iii. or iv.; particularly the afflictions of Naomi and Ruth, ch. i.; their industry and humility, ii.; their alliance with Boaz, iii.; and happy settlement by means thereof, iv.

[The ancient Jews, and some of the early Christian fathers, accounted Ruth a part of the book of Judges, regarding that whole book as a series of independent narratives, arranged without regard to chronological order. The author of Ruth is unknown, but it has been ascribed with much probability to Samuel. It would appear to have been written a considerable time after the events recorded in it occurred; for in ch. 4. 7 we find reference made to one of its incidents as being an old custom. It could not have been written sooner than the time of king David, for his name is mentioned; and one of the objects of the book evidently was to illustrate David's genealogy. Another probable object in writing this book and placing it in the Canon, was 'to pre-intimate, by the recorded adoption of a Gentile woman into the family from which Christ was to derive his origin, the final reception of the Gentile nations into the true church as fellow-heirs of the salvation of the gospel.' P.]

CHAPTER I.

NOW it came to pass, <sup>a</sup>in the days when the judges ruled,<sup>1</sup> that there <sup>b</sup>was a famine in the land: and a certain man of Beth-lehem-judah went to <sup>c</sup>sojourn in the country of Moab, he, and his wife, and <sup>d</sup>his two sons.<sup>2</sup>

LOWER POOL OF SOLOMON—SITUATED NEAR THE FIELDS WHERE RUTH GLEANED WHEAT LEFT BY THE REAPERS OF BOAZ. [RUTH, ii:2.]—"And Ruth, the Moabitess, said unto Naomi, Let me now go to the field, and glean ears of corn after him in whose sight I shall find grace. And she said unto her, Go, my daughter." The pools of Solomon are about three miles from the town of Bethlehem and not a great distance from the fields where Ruth gleaned in the field

after the reapers of Boaz. The above is called the lower pool of Solomon because it is the last of the three, the two others standing above it. Water from this pool passes to Bethlehem, and perhaps directly through the very field where Boaz met and talked so kindly to Ruth, the damsel that came back with Naomi out of the country of Moab. This reservoir of water would float one of the largest ocean steamers.

17 Where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried: <sup>c</sup>the LORD do so to me, and more also, <sup>d</sup>if ought but death part thee and me.

18 When she saw that she was stedfastly minded<sup>d</sup> to go with her, <sup>d</sup>then she left speaking unto her.

19 ¶ So they two went until they came to Beth-lehem.<sup>e</sup> And it came to pass, when they were come to Beth-lehem, that all the city was moved about them,<sup>e</sup> and they said, <sup>f</sup>Is this Naomi?

21 I went out full, and the LORD hath brought me home again empty: why <sup>then</sup> call ye me Naomi, seeing the LORD hath <sup>h</sup>testified against me, and the Almighty hath afflicted me?<sup>j</sup>

22 So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess, her daughter-in-law, with her, which returned out of the country of Moab: and <sup>they</sup> came to Beth-lehem in the beginning of barley harvest.<sup>k</sup>

7 And she said, <sup>c</sup>I pray you,<sup>5</sup> let me glean and gather after the reapers among the sheaves: so she came, and hath <sup>b</sup>continued even from the morning until now, that she tarried a little in the house.<sup>6</sup>

9 <sup>Let</sup> thine eyes <sup>be</sup> on the field that they do reap, and go thou after them: have I not charged the young men that they shall <sup>not</sup> touch thee? and when thou art athirst, <sup>m</sup>go unto the vessels, and drink of <sup>that</sup> which the young men have drawn.

10 Then <sup>she</sup> fell on her face, and bowed herself to the ground, and said unto him, Why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou shouldest take knowledge of me, seeing I <sup>am</sup> a stranger?

11 And Boaz answered and said unto her, <sup>It</sup> hath fully been showed me all that thou hast done unto thy mother-in-law since the death of thine husband; and <sup>how</sup> thou hast left thy father and thy mother,<sup>8</sup> and the land of thy nativity, and art come unto a people which thou knewest not heretofore.

12 The LORD <sup>recompense</sup> thy work, and a full reward be given thee of the LORD God of Israel, under whose <sup>wings</sup> thou art come to trust.<sup>9</sup>

Ver. 17. [The Lord do so to me, and more also. That is, let the Lord smite me with death—and more also, that is, with the judgment to follow—if I prove false to this engagement. C.]

Ver. 21. [The Almighty hath afflicted me. This reference of her affliction to the hand of God contains no murmuring or repining, but the spirit of humble resignation to his sovereign will. She even admits she deserved her affliction, and that it was a witness from God against her.—Note. Nothing so effectually lightens affliction as pious resignation to the will of God. But woe unto him that striveth with his Maker! Is. 45. 9. C.]

and one death in a family is but the forerunner and warning of another. Both comforts and crosses are often nearer us than we suspect; and if we are shut up into the society of the wicked, we should escape for our life as soon as our hindrances are removed. It is a mercy when God embitters our condition of distance from himself, that we may be weaned from it and hastened to our heavenly home; but yet it is pleasant to see near relations knit together in love, and loath to part. With the most strong and fixed resolution should we set out in the Lord's way, as we know not what repeated and strong temptations we may have to turn back: but the difficulties of the way, which discourage stances of our lives are directed by the overruling providence of God.

CHAPTER II. [Ver. 4. In travelling through Palestine at the present day the salutations here recorded are heard on every highway and in every harvest-field. 'The Lord be with you' is the invariable salutation of stranger or native, rich or poor, on approaching a band of reapers, or meeting a company of wayfarers; and the invariable reply is, 'The Lord bless thee.' Gleaning is now as commonly practised as it was in the days of Ruth. P.]

Ver. 9. [In every harvest-field there is a gleaner.

14 And Boaz said unto her, 'At meal-time come thou hither, and eat of the bread, and dip thy morsel in the vinegar. And she sat beside the reapers: and he reached her "parched corn," and she "did eat, and was sufficed, and left."

15 And when she was risen up to glean, Boaz commanded his young men, saying, Let her glean even among the sheaves, and reproach her<sup>4</sup> not:<sup>5</sup>

16 And "let fall also some of the handfuls of purpose for her, and leave them, that she may glean them, and rebuke her not.

17 So she "gleaned in the field until even, and beat out that she had gleaned; and it was about an "ephah of barley.

18 ¶ And she took it up, and went into the city; and her mother-in-law saw what she had gleaned: and she brought forth, and gave to her "that she had reserved after she was sufficed."

19 And her mother-in-law said unto her, Where hast thou gleaned to-day? and where wroughtest thou? Blessed be he that did take knowledge of thee. And she showed her mother-in-law with whom she had wrought, and said, The man's name with whom I wrought to-day is Boaz.

20 And Naomi "said unto her daughter-in-law, Blessed be he of the LORD, who hath not left off his kindness to the living and<sup>7</sup> to the dead. And Naomi said unto her, The man is near of kin unto us, "one of our next kinsmen.

21 And Ruth the Moabitess said, "He said unto me also, Thou shalt keep fast by my young men,<sup>8</sup> until they have ended all my harvest.

22 And Naomi said unto Ruth her daughter-in-law, It is "good, my daughter, that thou go out with his maidens, that they meet<sup>9</sup> thee not<sup>1</sup> in any other field.

5 From ver. 7 we learn that the gleanbut by permission.

For though gleaning was simply provided for by the Mosaic law, it would appear to have commenced, not during the residing time but after.
Gleaning was long practised in England, and was held to be an inherent right of the poor, till a decision of the Court of Common Pleas decided against it. In Ireland it was not relinquish-parliament were successively brought against it in the reign was carried off by the wind. In some of the northern kingdoms it is performed by a wicker shovel, which a man, sitting down, thrusts into the heap of grain, and the throwing of the 2 I cannot redeem it on that condition, &c. This seems no subterfuge, but a plain statement of fact: in several ways the purchase might have marred his inheritance. (1) By loading him with a considerable debt, which he might with difficulty pay off. (2) If he had a family by a former wife, his son by her would inherit his father's own hereditary property; and out of that hereditary property must be derived the money for the purchase. 10 The genealogy, however, never gives the name of Mahlon. But this is to be accounted for in two ways. (1) The name of Boaz is retained, on account of the celebrity he had justly acquired by his generous conduct to Ruth. (2) Because Mahlon's legitimate place in the genealogy is sufficiently recorded according to law. (3) Because the retention of the name of Boaz gives a second evidence of the Moabitish origin of Ruth, who, as a Gentile ingrafted into the genealogy of our Lord, exemplifies the calling of the Gentile into the fellowship of the covenant of promise.—C.

it also of Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of the dead, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance.

6 ¶ And the kinsman said, I cannot redeem it for myself, lest I mar mine own inheritance: redeem thou my right to thyself; for I cannot redeem it.

7 Now<sup>1</sup> this was the manner in former time in Israel,<sup>2</sup> concerning redeeming, and concerning changing, for to confirm all things; a man plucked off his shoe,<sup>3</sup> and gave it to his neighbour: and this was a testimony in Israel.

8 Therefore the kinsman said unto Boaz, 'Buy it for thee: so he drew off his shoe.

9 ¶ And Boaz said unto the elders, and unto all the people, Ye are witnesses this day, that I have bought all that was Elimelech's, and all that was Chilion's and Mahlon's, of the hand of Naomi.

10 Moreover, 'Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of Mahlon, have I purchased to be my wife, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance, that 'the name of the dead be not cut off from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place:<sup>6</sup> ye are witnesses this day.

14 And the 'women said unto Naomi, Blessed be the LORD, which hath not left thee this day without a kinsman, that his name may be famous in Israel.

15 And he shall be unto thee a 'restorer of example of the widow demanding marriage of the nearest kinsman, in which case she was directed to unloose his shoe. This was merely a case of the surrender of right, and drawing off the shoe was a fact in attestation, as more easily maintainable in evidence than any form of words or documents. Ver. 9. [I have bought all that was Elimelech's, and all that was Chilion's and Mahlon's, of the hand of Naomi. The property of the sons had reverted to the mother in point of fact, or its reverting may have been admitted in point of law, because any right derived through Ruth might have been afterwards questioned and difficult to establish. The right of Naomi, passing, however, under the silence or with the consent of Ruth, could not be questioned or disturbed. C.]

succeeding his endeavours;—to see in marriage the principal regard paid to the holiness and virtue of the partner, not to beauty or wealth;—to see persons of honest intentions risking the most strict and public cognizance;—to see the professed followers of Christ using the most fair and open dealing in all their agreements;—to see affectionate lovers depending wholly on God to make them comfortable to one another;—to see humility, virtue, prudence, and honesty, issuing in remarkable honour and happiness;—to see God raising up the poor, and causing them to sit with princes; and making up the loss of those relations from whom they expected much comfort, in the enjoyment of those from whom they expected nothing;—to see neighbours rejoicing in one another's welfare;—and to see the providences of God, in every circumstance, leading and directing us to Jesus, David's Lord. But, in fine, in Boaz the Bethlehemite I discern Jesus our kinsman-redeemer, who remembered us in our low estate;—

pitying our poor and miserable condition, and moved, not indeed by any respectful behaviour in us, but his own infinite compassion, he hath allowed us sinners of the Gentiles to glean in the field of his oracles and ordinances. For our encouragement he hath appointed handfuls of precious promises, and offers of grace and salvation for our use. At infinite expense, and with infinite care and equity, he hath espoused our race, and raised up a seed of servants to God. Let us, conscious of our poverty and affected with his kindness, return him the most humble and thankful acknowledgments. Let us glean for our souls only in his field. Let us abide by his maidens, the faithful ministers of his word. Let us approach his throne of grace in the full assurance of faith, pleading that he, as our nearest kinsman, would spread his robes of righteousness, and garments of salvation, over our naked souls. And let us commit our way to him: he will bring it to pass, and perfect that which concerns us.

THE FIRST BOOK OF SAMUEL.

This book and the following are denominated from the prophet SAMUEL, perhaps because he wrote the first twenty-four chapters of this; at least from his being the subject of much of it; and whatever relates to David, the subject of the other, is but the issue of his unction to the kingdom by Samuel. This book contains the history of at least eighty years; and exhibits an account (1) Of Eli's negligence and the wickedness of his sons; with the terrible calamities occasioned by these to the Israelites; and even to the Philistines, who took captive the ark, ii.—vi. (2) Of Samuel's birth; education; call to be a prophet; deliverance and government of Israel; resignation of his government; and death, i. ii. iii. vii.—xii. xiii. xv. xvi. xix. xxv. (3) Of the Israelites' resolute demand of a king; and the instalment, prosperity, maladministration, and unhappy end of Saul, viii.—xxvi. xxviii. xxxi. (4) Of the unction of David to be king; his diverting of Saul when melancholy with his music; his conquest of Goliath; his friendship with Jonathan; persecution by Saul; marriage with Michal the daughter of Saul, and with Abigail the widow of Nabal; his retreat into the land of the Philistines; discharge from their army; and his slaughter of the Amalekites who had burned Ziklag, xvi.—xxvii. xxix. xxx.

[The books of Samuel were originally regarded as one. The first time the division into two books was made was on the publication of the Septuagint version, about B.C. 260. But long after that period they formed only one book in Hebrew manuscripts; and the early Rabbins universally speak of them as 'The Book of Samuel.' In the first edition of the Hebrew Bible, printed in 1488, they appeared as one continuous history; and it was not until the year 1518 that the present division was adopted in the Bible printed at Venice.

Although this book bears the name Samuel, this is no proof that Samuel was its author, any more than that Ruth and Esther were the authors of the books which bear their names. It is a remarkable fact that there is not in this book itself, or in any other book of Scripture, or in Josephus, a single statement throwing light on the authorship. The common belief in the church is that the first twenty-four chapters were written by Samuel, and the rest by the prophets Nathan and Gad. This view was probably suggested by 1 Ch. 29. 29: though, as will be shown (see note on that passage), there is really nothing in that passage to sanction it. The authorship of the books of Samuel must be regarded a matter of conjecture.

CHAPTER I.

9 ¶ So Hannah rose up after they had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk:<sup>8</sup> (now Eli

She pleads, (1) Her affliction; (2) Entreats remembrance of her without any characteristic; (3) Prays not to be forgotten as an handmaid, a servant;—all just arguments of prayer, which she had a right to plead with God, to whom she looks in faith.

kanah knew Hannah his wife; and the LORD remembered<sup>5</sup> her.

20 Wherefore it came to pass, when the time was come about,<sup>6</sup> after Hannah had conceived, that she bare a son,<sup>7</sup> and called his name Samuel,<sup>8</sup> saying, Because I have asked him of the LORD.<sup>9</sup>

21 And <sup>the</sup> man Elkanah, and all his house, went up to offer unto the LORD the yearly sacrifice, and his vow.

22 But <sup>Hannah</sup> went not up;<sup>1</sup> for she said unto her husband, I will not go up until the child be weaned, and then I will bring him, that he may appear before the LORD, and there abide<sup>2</sup> for ever.

23 And Elkanah her husband said unto her, Do what seemeth thee good; tarry until thou have weaned him: only the LORD <sup>establish</sup> his word.<sup>3</sup> So the woman abode, and <sup>gave</sup> her son suck, until she weaned him.

24 ¶ And when she had weaned him, she took<sup>4</sup> him up with her, with three bullocks,<sup>5</sup> and one ephah of flour, and a bottle of wine,<sup>6</sup> and brought him unto the house of the LORD in Shiloh:<sup>7</sup> and the child was young.

25 And they slew a bullock, and brought the child to Eli.

26 And she said, Oh my lord! <sup>as</sup> thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here, praying unto the LORD.

27 For<sup>8</sup> this child I prayed; and the LORD hath given me my petition<sup>9</sup> which I asked of him:

28 Therefore also I have <sup>lent</sup> him to the LORD; as long as he liveth he shall be lent to the LORD. And <sup>he</sup> worshipped the LORD there.<sup>8</sup>

DAN—WHERE JEROBOAM BUILT A TEMPLE AND ESTABLISHED THE WORSHIP OF THE GOLDEN CALF. [I. Samuel, iii:20.]—"And all Israel, from Dan even to Beer-Sheba, knew that Samuel was established to be a prophet of the Lord." This is the well known city, which marks the northern frontier of Palestine. It was originally called Laish or Leshem. (Joshua, xix:47.) It is now called Tell el-Kadi. It is three miles from Casarea Philippi. This was once a very historic place. Here Jeroboam built a temple and established the worship of the golden calf. We have now nothing but a thicket of reeds, oaks and oleanders, which entirely hide the shapeless ruins, but are kept fresh and green by the waters of one of the sources of the Jordan. This is one of the most beautiful places for a city in Palestine. The region round about it is of unrivaled fertility, but the ancient city of Dan is without a single inhabitant. Thus the prophecy uttered concerning it is fulfilled to the letter.

28 And <sup>did</sup> I choose him out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priest, to offer upon mine altar, to burn incense, to wear an ephod before me? and <sup>did</sup> I give unto the house of LORD was precious<sup>1</sup> in those days; there was no 'open vision.

2 And it came to pass at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place, and <sup>4</sup>his eyes began to wax dim, that he could not see;

3 And <sup>6</sup>ere the lamp of God went out<sup>2</sup> in the temple of the LORD, where the ark of God was, and Samuel was laid down to sleep;

4 That the LORD <sup>7</sup>called Samuel: and he answered, Here am I.

5 And he ran unto Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou calledst me. And he said, I called not; lie down again. And he went and lay down.

6 And the LORD called yet again, Samuel. And Samuel arose, and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And he answered, I called not, my son; lie down again.

7 Now<sup>9</sup> Samuel did not yet know the LORD,<sup>3</sup> neither was the word of the LORD yet revealed unto him.

8 And the LORD <sup>10</sup>called Samuel again the third time. And he arose, and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And Eli perceived that the LORD had called the child.<sup>4</sup>

9 Therefore Eli said unto Samuel, Go, lie down; and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, 'Speak, LORD; for thy servant heareth. So Samuel went and lay down in his place.

10 And the LORD came, and stood, and called, as at other times, Samuel, Samuel! Then Samuel answered, Speak; for thy servant heareth.

11 ¶ And the LORD said to Samuel, Behold, I<sup>1</sup> will do a thing in Israel, 'at which both the ears of every one that heareth it shall tingle.

12 In that day <sup>11</sup>I will perform against Eli all things which I have spoken concerning his house: when I begin,<sup>5</sup> I will also make an end.

13 For<sup>12</sup> I have told him,<sup>6</sup> that I will judge his house for ever, for the iniquity which he knoweth: because his sons made themselves vile,<sup>7</sup> and he <sup>13</sup>restrained them not.<sup>8</sup>

14 And therefore I have sworn unto the house of <sup>14</sup>Eli, <sup>14</sup>that the iniquity of Eli's house shall not be purged<sup>1</sup> with sacrifice nor offering for ever.

1 'The word of the Lord' means the prophetic word, or in vision revealed to one of the prophets. It was 'precious,' i.e. it was of rare occurrence; 'there was no open vision.' The sins and backslidings of the people had shut out the light of the divine countenance.

1 The Israelites are smitten by the Philistines at Ebenezer. 3 They fetch the ark to the terror of the Philistines. 10 They are smitten again, the ark taken; Hophni and Phinehas are slain. 12 Eli at the news, falling backward, breaketh his neck. 19 Phinehas' wife, through grief, falleth in labour, is delivered of Ichabod, and dieth.

2 And the Philistines put themselves in array against Israel: and when they joined <sup>3</sup>battle,<sup>4</sup> Israel was smitten before the Philistines; and they slew of the army in the field about four thousand men.

3 ¶ And when the people were come into the camp, the elders of Israel said, <sup>3</sup>Wherefore hath the LORD smitten us to-day before the Philistines? <sup>4</sup>Let us fetch<sup>3</sup> the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of Shiloh unto us, that, when it cometh among us, it may save us out of the hand of our enemies.<sup>4</sup>

CHAPTER III. [Ver. 13. His sons made themselves vile, and he restrained them not. The charge against Eli is his knowledge of his sons' misconduct, and neglect of restraint. He gave excellent advice, see ch. 2, 23, but it wanted determination and energy. He had allowed his sons to outgrow his authority, and now he pleads with them in vain. C.]

REFLECTIONS.—Dreadful is the case of a church when her fellowship with God is interrupted: but great the mercy, that God raises up new instruments in his church to carry on his work when others have proved unfaithful. Early piety is often honoured with special intimacy with God; when God passes by his aged saints, who have offended him, and

God judges even the sins of his own people, and of their families! He renders their condition base, tormenting, and in appearance desperate; and the most abundant measure of grace is requisite to render one resigned to such a stroke; yet resignation is the proper and only way to lighten the burden. But frequently

TEMPLE OF THE ARK, SHILOH—WHERE THE ARK RESTED FROM JOSHUA TO SAMUEL. [I. Samuel, iv:4.]—"So the people sent to Shiloh, that they might bring from thence the ark of the covenant of the Lord of hosts, which dwelleth between the cherubim; and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there with the ark of the covenant of God." Shiloh is called the place of rest. In Judges, xxi:10, it is said that Shiloh is "on the north side of Bethel, on the east side of the highway that goeth up from Bethel to Shechem, and on the south of Lebonah." So the traveler now going north from Jerusalem stops the first night just a little way south of Shiloh. Shiloh was one of the most sacred of the Hebrew sanctuaries. The ark of the covenant was kept at Shiloh from the last days of Joshua to the time of Samuel. The ungodly conduct of the sons of Eli occasioned the loss of the ark of the covenant which had been carried into battle against the Philistines.

between<sup>1</sup> the cherubims:<sup>5</sup> and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there<sup>2</sup> with the ark of the covenant of God.

5 And when the ark of the covenant of the LORD came into the camp, all Israel shouted with a great shout, so that the earth rang again.

6 And when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout, they said, What meaneth the noise of this great shout in the camp of the Hebrews? And<sup>m</sup> they understood that the ark of the LORD was come into the camp.

7 And the Philistines were afraid; for they said, God is come into the camp.<sup>6</sup> And they said, Wo unto us! for there hath not been such a thing heretofore.<sup>7</sup>

8 Wo unto us! who shall deliver us out of the hand of these mighty Gods? these are the Gods that smote the Egyptians with all the plagues<sup>8</sup> in the wilderness.<sup>9</sup>

9 Be strong, and quit yourselves like men,<sup>1</sup> O ye Philistines! that ye be not servants unto the Hebrews, as they have been to you: quit<sup>2</sup> yourselves like men, and fight.

10 ¶ And the Philistines fought, and Israel was smitten, and they fled every man into his tent: and there was a very great slaughter; for there fell of Israel thirty thousand footmen.

11 And the ark of God was taken; and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were slain.<sup>3</sup>

12 ¶ And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and came to Shiloh the same day with his clothes rent, and with earth upon his head.<sup>4</sup>

13 And when he came, lo, Eli sat upon a seat by the way-side watching: for his heart trembled for the ark of God. And when the man came into the city and told it, all the city cried out.

14 And when Eli heard the noise of the crying, he said, What meaneth the noise of this tumult? And the man came in hastily, and told Eli.

15 Now Eli was ninety and eight years old; and his eyes were dim,<sup>5</sup> that he could not see.

The custom arose partly from the heat of the climate, which rendered morning and evening the most comfortable time for travel, labour, or religious exercises. Even the worshippers of Dagon rose early. — Example, an admonition, and, alas! often a rebuke to Christians, whose Sabbath mornings are indolently wasted in a little more slumber, who can rise early to serve the world, but who sleep when they should serve their God! — C.

18 And it came to pass, when he made mention of the ark of God,<sup>7</sup> that he fell from off the seat backward, by the side of the gate, and his neck brake, and he died; for he was an old man, and heavy: and he had judged Israel forty years.

19 ¶ And his daughter-in-law, Phinehas' wife, was with child, near to be delivered:<sup>8</sup> and when she heard the tidings that the ark of God was taken, and that her father-in-law and her husband were dead, she bowed herself and travailed; for her pains came<sup>9</sup> upon her.

CHAPTER V.

1 The Philistines having brought the ark into Ashdod, set it in the house of Dagon. 3 Dagon is cast down and cut in pieces, and they of Ashdod smitten with emerods. 8 The ark being carried to Gath, the men of Gath are smitten with the like plague; 10 and also the men of Ekron, when it is brought thither.

AND the Philistines took the ark of God, and brought it from Eben-ezer unto Ashdod.

2 When the Philistines took the ark of God, they brought it into the house of Dagon, and set it by Dagon.<sup>1</sup>

4 And when they arose early on the morrow morning, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the ground before the ark of the LORD; and the head of Dagon, and both the palms of his hands, were cut off upon the threshold; only the stump of Dagon<sup>2</sup> was left to him.<sup>3</sup>

5 Therefore neither the priests of Dagon, nor any that come into Dagon's house, tread on the threshold<sup>4</sup> of Dagon in Ashdod unto this day.

6 ¶ But the hand of the LORD was heavy upon them of Ashdod, and he destroyed them, and smote them with emerods,<sup>5</sup> even Ashdod, and the coasts thereof.

7 And when the men of Ashdod saw that it was so, they said, The ark of the God of Israel shall not abide with us: for his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our god.

8 They sent therefore and gathered all the lords of the Philistines unto them, and said, What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? And they answered, Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried about unto <sup>9</sup>Gath. And they carried the ark of the God of Israel about thither.

9 And it was so, that, after they had carried it about, the hand of the LORD was against the city with a very great destruction: and he smote the men of the city, both small and great,<sup>6</sup> and they had emerods in their secret parts.

10 ¶ Therefore they sent the ark of God to Ekron.<sup>7</sup> And it came to pass, as the ark of God came to Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, saying, They have brought about the ark of the God of Israel to us,<sup>7</sup> to slay us and our people.

11 So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said, Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it go again to his own place, that it slay us not, and our people: for there was a deadly destruction throughout all the city; the hand of God was very heavy there.

12 And the men that died not were smitten with the emerods,<sup>8</sup> and the cry of the city went up to heaven.

CHAPTER VI.

1 After seven months the Philistines take counsel how to send back the ark. 10 They bring it on a new cart with an offering unto Beth-shemesh. 19 The people are smitten for looking into the ark. 21 They send to the inhabitants of Kirjath-jearim to fetch it.

AND the ark of the LORD was in the country of the Philistines seven months.

2 And the Philistines called for the priests and the diviners,<sup>1</sup> saying, What shall we do to the ark of the LORD? tell us wherewith we shall send it to his place.

3 And they said, If ye send away the ark of the God of Israel, send it not empty; but in any wise return<sup>2</sup> him a trespass-offering:<sup>3</sup> then ye shall be healed, and it shall be known to you why his hand is not removed from you.<sup>4</sup>

4 Then said they, What shall be the trespass-offering which we shall return to him? They answered, Five golden emerods, and five golden mice, according to the number of the lords of the Philistines: for one plague was on you<sup>5</sup> all, and on your lords.

5 Wherefore ye shall make images of your emerods, and images of your mice that mar the land; and ye shall give glory unto the God of Israel: peradventure he will lighten his hand from off you, and from off your gods, and from off your land.

6 Wherefore then do ye harden your hearts, as the Egyptians and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? when he had wrought wonderfully among them, did they not let the people go, and they departed?

7 Now therefore make a new cart, and take two milch kine,<sup>8</sup> on which there hath come no yoke, and tie the kine to the cart, and bring their calves home from them:

8 And take the ark of the LORD, and lay it upon the cart; and put the jewels of gold, which ye return him for a trespass-offering, in a coffer by the side thereof; and send it away, that it may go.

9 And see, if it goeth up by the way of his own coast to Beth-shemesh, then he<sup>9</sup> hath done us this great evil: but if not, then we shall know that it is not his hand that smote us; it was a chance<sup>1</sup> that happened to us.

10 ¶ And the men did so; and took two the vale towards the mountains, and came at length to a stand in the valley below Bethshemesh. The distance from Ekron is about 10 miles. P.]

milk-kine, and tied them to the cart, and shut up their calves at home:

11 And they laid the ark of the LORD upon the cart, and the coffer with the mice of gold and the images of their emerods.

12 And the kine took the straight way to the way of Beth-shemesh, and went<sup>2</sup> along the highway,<sup>3</sup> lowing as they went, and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left;<sup>4</sup> and the lords of the Philistines went after them unto the border of Beth-shemesh.

13 And they of Beth-shemesh were reaping their wheat harvest in the valley: and they lifted up their eyes and saw the ark, and rejoiced to see it.

14 And the cart came into the field of Joshua, a Beth-shemite, and stood<sup>5</sup> there, where there was a great stone: and they clave the wood of the cart, and offered the kine a burnt-offering unto the LORD.<sup>6</sup>

15 And the Levites took down<sup>7</sup> the ark of the LORD, and the coffer that was with it, wherein the jewels of gold were, and put them on the great stone: and the men of Beth-shemesh offered burnt-offerings and sacrificed sacrifices the same day unto the LORD.

16 And when the five lords of the Philistines had seen it, they returned to Ekron the same day.

17 And these are the golden emerods which the Philistines returned for a trespass-offering unto the LORD; for Ashdod one, for Gaza one, for Askelon one, for Gath one, for Ekron one:

18 And the golden mice, according to the number of all the cities of the Philistines belonging to the five lords, both of fenced cities and of country villages, even unto the great stone of Abel, whereon they set down the ark of the LORD: which stone remaineth unto this day in the field of Joshua the Beth-shemite.

4 The circumstance of the two kine, which had never before been in the yoke, drawing quietly and keeping the road without a driver, for several miles, neither stopping nor turning aside, and while lowing for their calves, nevertheless urged forward by a stronger impulse to the very place mentioned by the Philistines, and there stopping, is in all respects an astonishing miracle.—f

5 It was proper that the priests only should now take care of it.

6 The city and district was the property of the Levites, who thus offered an extemporaneous sacrifice to Jehovah. The propriety of this sacrifice in this place is more than questionable. It should have been reserved for Shiloh. Had the Levites respected the law in this particular, it is most probable the Beth-shemites would have also more revered the ark; and so have escaped the judgment inflicted on their irreverent curiosity.—C.—Both the cart and cattle, having been employed in this sacred service, they could no longer be used for any secular purpose; and therefore the cattle were sacrificed and the cart was broken up for fuel to consume the sacrifice.—Clark.

7 Or, 'for the Levites had taken down.' It had been providentially brought to a Levitical city, and it was right that they only should take care of it.—f h The literal translation of the Hebrew is as follows:—And he smote the men of Bethshemesh, because they looked into the ark of Jehovah; and he smote of the people seventy men, fifty thousand men.

i The last words, 'fifty thousand men,' are wanting in some very ancient Hebrew manuscripts, and they are omitted by Josephus. This text is so constructed as to leave the impression that the words are interpolated, and that seventy is the total number of those who perished.—P.

19 ¶ And he smote the men of Bethshemesh, because they had looked into the ark of the LORD, even he smote of the people fifty thousand and threescore and ten men. And the people lamented, because the LORD had smitten many of the people with a great slaughter.

20 And the men of Beth-shemesh said, Who is able to stand before this holy LORD God? and to whom shall he go up from us? -

21 ¶ And they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Kirjath-jearim, saying, The Philistines have brought again the ark of the LORD; come ye down, and fetch it up to you.

CHAPTER VII.

1 The men of Kirjath-jearim bring the ark into the house of Abinadab, and sanctify Eleazar his son to keep it. 2 After twenty years 3 the Israelites, by Samuel's means, solemnly repent at Mizpeh. 9 While Samuel prayeth and sacrificeth, the Lord discomfith the Philistines by thunder at Ebenezer. 13 The Philistines are subdued. 15 Samuel peaceably and religiously judgeth Israel.

AND the men of Kirjath-jearim came and fetched up the ark of the LORD, and brought it into the house of Abinadab in the hill, and sanctified Eleazar<sup>1</sup> his son to keep the ark of the LORD.

2 And it came to pass, while the ark abode in Kirjath-jearim, that the time was long; for it was twenty years: and all the house of Israel lamented after the LORD.<sup>2</sup>

3 ¶ And Samuel spake unto all the house of Israel, saying, If ye do return unto the LORD with all your hearts, then put away the strange gods and Ashtaroth from among you, and prepare your hearts unto the LORD, and serve him only, and he will deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines.

4 Then the children of Israel did put away Baalim and Ashtaroth, and served the LORD only.<sup>3</sup> of Bethshemesh, because they had looked into the ark; and he smote of the people 50,070 men: and the people lamented because the LORD had smitten of the people with a great slaughter.' Now the text says, God 'smote the men of Bethshemesh, because they had looked into the ark,' but does not state how many. Then the text adds, that 'he smote of the people,' that is, not of the Bethshemites in particular, but of the Israelites generally (Bethshemites inclusive), 50,070 men, but does not state during what space of time the judgment continued. Now, what can be more natural than that, when the news of the return of the ark to Bethshemesh would be noised abroad, there should be a vast concourse of the people, day after day, to hear and to see. Would it not be considered an act of patriotism and religion combined to go on a pilgrimage

5 And Samuel said, Gather all Israel to Mizpeh, and I will pray for you unto the LORD.

50,070 must have died, and granting this to have actually been the case, let it only be remembered that these are not asserted to have been Bethshemites, but of the people, while the time of the judgment is not specified; and if 50,070 did perish in the epidemic contracted at Bethshemesh, and carried from Dan to Beersheba by the pilgrim visitants, the experience of all ages can exemplify greater ravages, although men may not have seen or acknowledged in them, as the sacred writers did, the immediate finger of God. C.]

REFLECTIONS.—To be deprived of God's ordinances, though it be only for a time, is very alarming; yet much more so to have them made a plague to us. By holding fast their sins men only prolong their sorrows. God can easily make the stoutest of his all others lie by unconcerned. And with great joy and thanksgiving, even to the interruption of the most urgent earthly concerns, ought his returns and revivals of religion to be welcomed. But what fear and reverence are due to him, and his ordinances, in the meetings of his saints! He is a holy Lord God! and it is dangerous to indulge a vain curiosity in our concerns with him; and infinitely destructive to come near to behold the broken law, but as fulfilled in Christ. How miserable is that nation in which no common care is taken about the ordinances of Christ: but one place yields them to another, and forfeits those blessings which God has connected with them! Let us learn properly to value the privileges which God graciously bestows; and so to improve them that they shall

KURYET-EL-ANAB--THE PLACE TO WHICH THE ARK WAS BROUGHT FROM BETH-SHEMESH. [I. Samuel, vii:2.]—"And it came to pass, while the ark abode in Kirjath-jearim, that the time was long; for it was twenty years; and all the house of Israel lamented after the Lord." The name "Kirjath-jearim" signifies "the city of forests." In the book of Joshua the place is twice mentioned as a border city. It lay upon the ancient frontier of Judah and Benjamin. This place is on the road to Ramleh, about nine miles from Jerusalem, and not far from Gibeon. Here the people brought the ark from Beth-shemesh. The position of this place, according to Ritter, the highest authority on Palestine, corresponding as closely as it does with the Old Testament accounts, makes the identity of Kuryet-el-Anab and the ancient Kirjath-jearim in the highest degree probable, and at the same time we are enabled to learn where ran the former boundary between the territories of Judah and Benjamin.

6 And they gathered together to Mizpeh, and drew water, and poured it out before the LORD, and fasted on that day, and said there, We have sinned against the LORD. And Samuel judged the children of Israel in Mizpeh.<sup>4</sup>

7 ¶ And when the Philistines heard that the children of Israel were gathered together to Mizpeh, the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel: and when the children of Israel heard it, they were afraid of the Philistines.

8 And the children of Israel said to Samuel, Cease not to cry unto the LORD our God for us, that he will save us out of the hand of the Philistines.

9 ¶ And Samuel took a sucking lamb, and offered it for a burnt-offering wholly unto the LORD: and Samuel cried unto the LORD for Israel; and the LORD heard him.

10 And as Samuel was offering up the burnt-offering, the Philistines drew near to battle against Israel: but the LORD thundered with a great thunder on that day upon the Philistines, and discomfited them; and they were smitten before Israel.

11 And the men of Israel went out of Mizpeh, and pursued the Philistines, and smote them, until they came under Beth-car.

12 Then Samuel took a stone, and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it Eben-ezer,<sup>7</sup> saying, Hitherto hath the LORD helped us.<sup>8</sup>

13 ¶ So the Philistines were subdued, and they came no more into the coast of Israel: and the hand of the LORD was against the Philistines<sup>9</sup> all the days of Samuel.<sup>1</sup>

14 And the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, from Ekron even unto Gath; and the coasts thereof

15 ¶ And Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life.

16 And he went from year to year in circuit<sup>3</sup> to Beth-el, and Gilgal, and Mizpeh, and judged Israel in all those places.

17 And his return was to Ramah; for there was his house: and there he judged Israel; and there he built an altar unto the LORD.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 By occasion of the ill government of Samuel's sons, the Israelites ask a king. 6 Samuel praying in grief, is comforted by God: 10 he telleth the manner of a king. 19 God directeth Samuel to yield unto the importunity of the people.

AND it came to pass, when Samuel was old, that he made his sons judges over Israel.

2 Now the name of his first-born was Joel, and the name of his second Abiah: they were judges in Beer-sheba.<sup>1</sup>

3 And his sons walked not in his ways, but turned aside after lucre, and took bribes, and perverted judgment.

4 Then all the elders of Israel gathered themselves together, and came to Samuel unto Ramah,

5 And said unto him, Behold, thou art old, and thy sons walk not in thy ways: now make us a king to judge us, like all the nations.

6 ¶ But the thing displeased Samuel, when they said, Give us a king to judge us. And Samuel prayed unto the LORD.<sup>3</sup>

7 And the LORD said unto Samuel, Harken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee: for they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them.

8 According<sup>m</sup> to all the works which they

Ver. 4. [Served the Lord only. Samuel announces the very principle enforced by our Lord, Mat. 6. 24, 'no man can serve two masters;' and therefore requires, both as a test of sincerity and a means of reformation, the utter putting away of the idols Baalim and Ash-taroath; and a return to the sole worship of JEHOVAH.—Note. The same obstruction stands in the way of revival with Christians that stood in the way of Israel; Baalim—lordly passions, such as pride, ambition, false honour; Ash-taroath—fleshy affections, such as gluttony, drunkenness, licentiousness; all these must be cast out of the heart where the Spirit of God resides, 2 Co. 7. 1. C.]

Ver. 6. [Drew water, and poured it out before the Lord. According to some, shed tears, and poured out, that is, their hearts, in penitential sorrow, 'before the Lord;' others consider the pouring out of the water emblematic of penitence; but as there was no cere-for a burnt-offering. Samuel, as appears from ch. 1. 1, was not a priest, though a Levite; he could not there-fore legally perform an act of sacrifice, nor is it neces-sary to suppose he did so in his own person; for according to the language of Scripture, see Le. 2. 1-14; 3. 1, 3, 7, 9, 12, he offers a sacrifice who furnishes it to the priest, which is all that Samuel, as a well-instructed Levite and prophet, would do. C.]

Ver. 17. [There he built an altar unto the Lord. Not as a second or rival to Shiloh, for that would have been illegal; but Shiloh having been deserted since the capture of the ark, Samuel, in virtue of his prophetic office, re-institutes the tabernacle service at Ramah. C.]

REFLECTIONS.—God's ordinances will still find a place somewhere; and if priests neglect them, pious Levites or Israelites will take care of them. The church may continue long in a wilderness state; but when men begin to lament after a hiding God and fixed on Jesus' atoning sacrifice, will make things easier than could have been expected. Whatsoever we ask, believing, we shall receive; and when God arises, his enemies must be scattered. But let us remember that noted answers of prayer deserve memorials of gratitude: and while we gratefully acknowledge past help, we may depend on future protection. When a man's ways please the Lord, he makes his enemies to be at peace with him. Prayer and penitence can do more for a nation than the mightiest armies. And every blessing may be expected in that land where magis-trates or ministers unite remarkable diligence, equity, and faithfulness, with exemplary holiness and ardent devotions.

CHAPTER VIII. [Ver. 3. Took bribes, and per-verted judgment. Samuel, educated under the over-mild training of Eli, seems to have fallen into Eli's over-9 Now therefore hearken<sup>4</sup> unto their voice: nowbeit yet protest solemnly<sup>5</sup> unto them,<sup>6</sup> and show them the manner of the king that shall reign over them.

10 ¶ And Samuel told all the words of the LORD unto the people that asked of him a king.

11 And he said, This will be the manner of the king<sup>7</sup> that shall reign over you: He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots.

12 And he will appoint him captains over thousands and captains over fifties, and will set them to ear his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots.

13 And he will take your daughters to be confectionaries, and to be cooks, and to be bakers.

14 And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants.

15 And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers,<sup>8</sup> and to his servants.

16 And he will take your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and your goodliest young men, and your asses, and put them to his work.

17 He will take the tenth of your sheep; and ye shall be his servants.

18 And ye shall cry out in that day because of your king which ye shall have chosen you; and the LORD will not hear you in that day.

19 ¶ Nevertheless the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel: and they said, Nay; but we will have a king over us;

20 That we also may be like all the nations; and that our king may judge us, and go out before us, and fight our battles.

21 And Samuel heard all the words of the people, and he rehearsed them in the ears of the LORD.

22 And the LORD said to Samuel, Hearken

6 Why grant the desire of the people, and yet protest against its propriety? Is there not contradiction or even duplicity in this procedure? Infidels have so asserted, yet is there neither. The protest is both a warning and a prophecy: the warning was despised; the prophecy to the letter fulfilled. The grant was what occurs every day in providence—a fulfilment of wishes employed to punish unreasonable petitioners.—C

8 The description of the despotism to which an unthankful and godless people submitted is well worthy of attention, as an accurate picture of human nature mistaking experiment for principle, and change for improvement. This description contains eight particulars, viz. (1) Military conscription, compelling men to war. (2) Agricultural and mechanical conscriptions for the king's domestic uses. (3) Domestic slavery enforced upon the Israelites. (4) Violent appropriation of lands to civil or military servants. (5) A tenth part rent upon all agricultural produce. (6) Conscription for public works. (7) Tenth part rent of the sheep, which probably, according to a common mode of Scripture expression, stands for all clean animals. (8) Unlimited vassalage. C—

Very different indeed were the exactions to be enforced by many of their kings, from the rules of kindly conduct that had been prescribed by Moses, De. 17.15-20. This is not a statement of the legitimate rights of monarchs, but an account no less graphic than correct of the arbitrary and tyrannical manner of eastern despots.—I.

CHAPTER IX.

1 Saul despairing to find his father's asses, 6 by the counsel of his servant, 11 and direction of young maidens, 15 according to God's revelation, 18 cometh to Samuel. 19 Samuel entertaineth Saul at the feast. 25 Samuel, after a private conversation, bringeth him on his way.

NOW there was a man of Benjamin, whose name was Kish, the son of Abiel, the son of Zeror, the son of Bechorath, the son of Aphiah, a Benjamite,<sup>1</sup> a mighty man of power.

2 And he had a son, whose name was Saul, a choice young man, and a goodly; and there was not among the children of Israel a goodlier person than he: from his shoulders and upward he was higher than any of the people.

3 And the asses of Kish, Saul's father, were lost: and Kish said to Saul his son, Take now one of the servants with thee, and arise, go seek the asses.

4 And he passed through mount Ephraim, and passed through the land of Shalisha, but they found them not: then they passed through the land of Shalim,<sup>4</sup> and there they were not; and he passed through the land of the Benjamites, but they found them not.

5 And when they were come to the land of Zuph, Saul said to his servant that was with him, Come, and let us return; lest my father leave caring for the asses, and take thought for us.<sup>5</sup>

6 And he said unto him, Behold now, there is in this city a man of God, and he is an honourable man; all that he saith cometh surely to pass: now let us go thither; peradventure he can show us our way that we should go.

7 Then said Saul to his servant, But, behold, if we go, what shall we bring the man?<sup>6</sup> for the bread is spent<sup>7</sup> in our vessels, and there is not a present to bring to the man of God: what have we?<sup>8</sup>

8 And the servant answered Saul again, and said, Behold, I have here at hand<sup>9</sup> the fourth part of a shekel of silver; that will I give to the man of God, to tell us our way.<sup>2</sup>

9 (Beforetime in Israel, when a man went to inquire of God, thus he spake, Come, and let us go to the seer: for he that is now called a Prophet, was beforetime called "a Seer.")<sup>2</sup>

10 Then said Saul to his servant, "Well said," come, let us go. So they went unto the city where the man of God was.

11 ¶ And as they went up the hill<sup>4</sup> to the city, they found young maidens going out to draw water, and said unto them, Is the seer here?

12 And they answered them, and said, He is; behold, he is before you: make haste now, for he came to-day to the city; for there is a sacrifice<sup>5</sup> of the people to-day in the high place.

13 As soon as ye be come into the city, ye shall straightway find him, before he go up to the high place to eat: for the people will not eat until he come, because he doth bless the sacrifice; and afterwards they eat that be bidden. Now therefore get you up; for about this time<sup>6</sup> ye shall find him.

14 And they went up into the city: and when they were come into the city, behold, Samuel came out against them, for to go up to the high place.<sup>6</sup>

15 ¶ Now<sup>7</sup> the LORD had told Samuel in his ear "a day before Saul came, saying,

16 To-morrow about this time I will send thee a man out of the land of Benjamin, and thou shalt anoint him to be captain over my people Israel, that he may save my people out of the hand of the Philistines; for I have looked upon my people, because their cry is come unto me.

17 And when Samuel saw Saul, the LORD said unto him, Behold the man whom I spake to thee of! this same shall reign over my people.

18 Then Saul drew near to Samuel in the gate, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, where the seer's house is.<sup>7</sup>

19 And Samuel answered Saul, and said, I am the seer: go up before me unto the high place; for ye shall eat with me to-day, and to-morrow I will let thee go, and will tell thee all that is in thine heart.

13 And when he had made an end of prophesying, he came to the high place.<sup>6</sup>

14 ¶ And Saul's <sup>7</sup>uncle said unto him, and to his servant, Whither went ye? And he said, To seek the asses; and when we saw that <sup>8</sup>they were no where, we came to Samuel.

15 And Saul's uncle said, Tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said unto you.

16 And Saul said unto his uncle, He told us plainly that the asses were found. But <sup>9</sup>of the matter of the kingdom, whereof Samuel spake, he told him not.<sup>7</sup>

17 ¶ And Samuel called the people together <sup>10</sup>unto the LORD to Mizpeh;<sup>8</sup>

18 And said unto the children of Israel, <sup>11</sup>Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all kingdoms,<sup>9</sup> and of them that oppressed you:

19 And ye have this day <sup>12</sup>rejected your God, who himself saved you out of all your adversities and your tribulations; and ye have said unto him, <sup>13</sup>Nay, but set a king over us. Now therefore present yourselves before the LORD, <sup>14</sup>by your tribes, and by your thousands.

20 And when Samuel <sup>15</sup>had caused all the tribes of Israel to come near, the tribe of Benjamin was taken.

21 When he had caused the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was taken, and Saul the son of Kish was taken: and when they sought him, he could not be found.

22 Therefore they <sup>16</sup>inquired of the LORD further, if the man should yet come thither. And the LORD answered, Behold, he hath <sup>17</sup>hid himself among the stuff.

23 And they ran and fetched him thence: and when he stood among the people, he <sup>18</sup>was higher than any of the people from his shoulders and upward.

24 And Samuel said to all the people, See ye him whom the LORD hath chosen, that <sup>19</sup>there is none like him among all the people?<sup>21</sup> And <sup>20</sup>all the people shouted, and said, God save the king.

25 Then Samuel told the people <sup>21</sup>the manner of the kingdom, and wrote <sup>22</sup>it in a book, and laid <sup>23</sup>it up before the LORD. And Samuel sent all the people away, every man to his house.

26 ¶ And Saul also went home to Gibeah.

27 But the <sup>m</sup>children of Belial said, How shall this man save us? And they despised him, and <sup>b</sup>brought him no presents: but he held his peace.<sup>3</sup>

CHAPTER XI.

1 Nahash offereth them of Jabesh-gilead a reproachful condition. 4 They send messengers, and are delivered by Saul. 12 Saul thereby is confirmed, and his kingdom joyfully renewed.

THEN Nahash* the Ammonite came up, and encamped against Jabesh-gilead: and all the men of Jabesh said unto Nahash, <sup>b</sup>Make a covenant with us, and we will serve thee.

2 And Nahash the Ammonite answered them, On this condition will I make a covenant with you, <sup>c</sup>that I may thrust out all your right eyes,<sup>1</sup> and lay it for a reproach upon all Israel.

3 And the elders of Jabesh said unto him, Give us seven days' respite,<sup>2</sup> that we may send messengers unto all the coasts of Israel: and then, if there be no man to save us, we will come out to thee.

4 ¶ Then <sup>c</sup>came the messengers to Gibeath of Saul, and told the tidings in the ears of the people: and all the people <sup>d</sup>lifted up their voices, and wept.<sup>3</sup>

5 And, behold, Saul came <sup>e</sup>after the herd out of the field; and Saul said, What aileth the people that they weep? And they told him the tidings of the men of Jabesh.

6 And the <sup>e</sup>Spirit of God came upon Saul when he heard those tidings, and his <sup>b</sup>anger<sup>4</sup> was kindled greatly.<sup>5</sup>

7 And he took a yoke of oxen, and <sup>e</sup>hewed them in pieces, and sent them throughout all the coasts of Israel by the hands of messengers, saying, Whosoever cometh not forth after Saul and after Samuel, so shall it be done unto his oxen.<sup>6</sup> And the fear of the LORD fell on the people, and they came out with one consent.<sup>7</sup>

8 And when he numbered them in <sup>b</sup>Bezek, the children of Israel <sup>e</sup>were three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand.

9 And they said unto the messengers that came, Thus shall ye say unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, To-morrow, by that time the sun be hot,<sup>8</sup> ye shall have help.<sup>9</sup> And the messengers came and showed it to the men of Jabesh; and they were glad.

AQUEDUCT AT GILGAL—WHERE SAUL WAS MADE KING. [I. SAMUEL, xi:14, 15.]— “Then said Samue. to the people, Come, and let us go to Gilgal, and renew the kingdom there. And all the people went to Gilgal; and there they made Saul king before the Lord in Gilgal; and there they sacrificed sacrifices of peace offerings before the Lord; and there Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced greatly.” This beautiful aqueduct, now used for carrying the water from Elisha's fountain into Jericho, stands in the region of ancient Gilgal. This is an historic spot. In the fields and plains around this aqueduct we are told that one went to gather herbs to make pottage for the sons of the prophets, when he found a wild vine and gathered wild gourds from it to mix with the pottage. Elijah and Elisha passed this way from Jericho to Jordan. It is in the neighborhood of the city of palm trees.

19 And all the people said unto Samuel, Pray for thy servants unto the LORD thy God, that we die not: for we have added unto all our sins this evil to take away from us.

OS. 5 9, 10; 4. 19. ch.
II 14, 15.

6 ¶ When the men of Israel saw that they were in a strait, (for the people were distressed,) then the people did hide themselves in caves, and in thickets, and in rocks, and in high places, and in pits.

7 And <sup>some of</sup> the Hebrews<sup>6</sup> went over Jordan to the land of <sup>Gad</sup> and Gilead: as for Saul, he was yet in Gilgal, and <sup>all</sup> the people followed him trembling.<sup>7</sup>

8 ¶ And<sup>2</sup> he tarried seven days, according to the set time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal, and the people were scattered from him.

9 And Saul said, Bring hither a burnt-offering to me, and peace-offerings. And he <sup>offered</sup> the burnt-offering.

10 And it came to pass, that <sup>as soon as he</sup> had made an end of offering the burnt-offering, behold, Samuel came;<sup>8</sup> and Saul went out to meet him, that he might <sup>salute</sup> him.

11 ¶ And Samuel said, <sup>What hast thou done?</sup> And Saul said, Because I saw that the people were scattered from me, and that thou camest not within the days appointed, and that the Philistines gathered themselves together at Michmash;*

12 Therefore <sup>said I</sup>, The Philistines will come down now upon me to Gilgal, and I have not made supplication<sup>9</sup> unto the LORD: <sup>I</sup> forced myself therefore, and offered a burnt-offering.

13 And Samuel said to Saul, <sup>Thou hast done foolishly</sup>: thou hast not kept the commandment of the LORD thy God, which he commanded thee;<sup>1</sup> for now would the LORD have established thy kingdom upon Israel for ever.

14 But <sup>now</sup> thy kingdom shall not continue: the LORD hath sought him a man after his own heart, and the LORD hath commanded him to be captain over his people, <sup>because</sup> thou hast not kept that which the LORD commanded thee.

15 And Samuel arose, and gat him up from Gilgal unto Gibeah of Benjamin: and Saul numbered the people that were present<sup>2</sup> with him, <sup>about</sup> six hundred men.

16 And Saul, and Jonathan his son, and the people that were present with them, abode in Gibeah<sup>3</sup> of Benjamin: but the Philistines encamped in Michmash.

17 ¶ And the spoilers<sup>4</sup> came out of the camp of the Philistines in three companies: one company turned unto the way that leadeth to Ophrah, unto the land of Shual:

19 ¶ Now <sup>there was</sup> no smith found through-out all the land of Israel: (for the Philistines said, Lest the Hebrews<sup>7</sup> make them swords or spears:)

21 Yet they had a file<sup>9</sup> for the mattocks, and for the coulters, and for the forks, and for the axes, and to sharpen<sup>1</sup> the goads.<sup>2</sup>

22 So it came to pass, in the day of battle, <sup>that</sup> there was neither sword nor spear found in the hand of any of the people that were with Saul and Jonathan: but with Saul, and with Jonathan his son, was there found.

CHAPTER XIV.

NOW it came to pass upon a <sup>day</sup>, <sup>that</sup> Jonathan the son of Saul said unto the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over to the Philistines' garrison, that is on the other side. But <sup>he</sup> told not his father.

2 And Saul tarried <sup>in</sup> the uttermost part of Gibeah, under a pomegranate tree<sup>2</sup> which is in Migron: and the people that were with him were about six hundred men,

3 And <sup>Ahiah</sup> the son of Ahitub, I-chabod's brother, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eli,

ROAD BY THE HARBOR OF JOPPA—IN THE LAND OF THE PHILISTINES. [I. SAMUEL, xiii: 2.]—"Therefore said I, The Philistines will come down now upon me to Gilgal." Joppa was a town in the land of the Philistines. The Philistines, as a people, caused the Israelites more trouble than any other nation, except the Egyptians. Looked at from the deck of our ship, Joppa presented a most magnificent appearance. Standing upon a low, round hill, dipping into the Mediterranean, the view was beautiful beyond description. We are not so impressed with the town, however, after landing. It is said to be the dirtiest and most uncomfortable place in Palestine. In going up the long lane from the custom house toward our hotel, we met strings of camels and mules, bales of merchandise, and had our first view of the actual Holy Land. There are orange groves, palms and other Oriental trees, which unite to give a picturesque and Oriental view to the town.

Jonathan sought to go over unto the Philistines' garrison, there was a sharp rock<sup>3</sup> on the one side, and a sharp rock on the other side: and the name of the one was Bozez,<sup>4</sup> and the name of the other Seneh.<sup>5</sup>

5 The fore-front<sup>6</sup> of the one was situate northward over against Michmash, and the other southward over against Gibeah.<sup>7</sup>

6 And Jonathan said to the young man that bare his armour, 'Come, and let us go over unto the garrison of these uncircumcised; it may be that the LORD will work for us: for there is no restraint to the LORD to save by many or by few.'<sup>8</sup>

7 And his armour-bearer said unto him, Do all that is in thine heart: turn thee; behold, I am with thee according to thy heart.<sup>9</sup>

8 Then said Jonathan, Behold, we will pass over unto these men, and we will discover ourselves unto them.

9 If they say thus unto us, Tarry<sup>1</sup> until we come to you; then we will stand still in our place, and will not go up unto them.

10 But if they say thus, Come up unto us; then we will go up: for the LORD hath delivered them into our hand; and this shall be a sign unto us.

11 And both of them discovered themselves unto the garrison of the Philistines: and the Philistines said, Behold, the Hebrews<sup>2</sup> come forth 'out of the holes where they had hid themselves.

12 And the men of the garrison answered Jonathan and his armour-bearer, and said, Come<sup>3</sup> up to us, and we will show you a thing.<sup>4</sup> And Jonathan said unto his armour-bearer, Come up after me; for the LORD hath delivered them into the hand of Israel.

13 And Jonathan 'climbed up upon his hands and upon his feet, and his armour-bearer after him: and they fell before Jonathan; and his armour-bearer slew after him.

CHAPTER XIV. [Ver. 1. He told not his father. This was not only a military but a filial fault in Jonathan, for which it is more than probable, from the whole history of Saul, that his conduct afforded his amiable and valiant son but too much excuse.—Note. If there be any one thing which, next to piety, it is 26 And when the people were come into the wood, behold, the honey dropped;<sup>5</sup> but no man put his hand to his mouth; for the people feared<sup>d</sup> the oath.

27 But Jonathan heard not when his father charged the people with the oath: wherefore he put forth the end of the rod that was in his hand, and dipped it in an honey-comb,<sup>6</sup> and put his hand to his mouth: and his eyes were enlightened.<sup>7</sup>

28 Then answered one of the people, and said, Thy father straitly<sup>8</sup> charged the people with an oath, saying, Cursed be the man that eateth any food this day. And the people were faint.<sup>9</sup>

i 2 Sa. 8. 3, 5, 12; 10. 6, 8.

37 And Saul asked counsel of God, Shall I go down after the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Israel? But he answered him not that day.

38 ¶ And Saul said, Draw ye near hither all the chief of the people; and know and see wherein this sin hath been this day:

39 For as the LORD liveth, which saveth Israel, though it be in Jonathan my son, he shall surely die.<sup>6</sup> But there was not a man among all the people that answered him.

40 Then said he unto all Israel, Be ye on one side, and I and Jonathan my son will be on the other side. And the people said unto Saul, Do what seemeth good unto thee.

41 Therefore Saul said unto the LORD God of Israel, Give a perfect lot. And Saul and Jonathan were taken; but the people escaped.

42 And Saul said, Cast lots between me and Jonathan my son. And Jonathan was taken.

43 Then Saul said to Jonathan, Tell me what thou hast done. And Jonathan told him, and said, I did but taste a little honey with the end of the rod that was in mine hand, and, lo, I must die.

44 And Saul answered, God do so, and more also: for thou shalt surely die, Jonathan.<sup>8</sup>

45 And the people said unto Saul, Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great salvation in Israel? God forbid: as the LORD liveth, there shall not one hair of his head fall to the ground; for he hath wrought with God this day. So the people rescued Jonathan, that he died not.

46 Then Saul went up from following the Philistines: and the Philistines went to their own place.

47 ¶ So Saul took the kingdom over Israel, and fought against all his enemies on every side, against Moab, and against the children of Ammon, and against Edom, and against the kings of Zobah, and against the Philistines: and whithersoever he turned himself, he vexed them.

48 And he gathered<sup>9</sup> an host, and smote the Amalekites, and delivered Israel out of the hands of them that spoiled them.

49 ¶ Now<sup>c</sup> the sons of Saul were Jonathan, and Ishui, and Melchi-shua: and the names of his two daughters were these; the name of the first-born Merab, and the name of the younger Michal:

Saul is sent to destroy Amalek.

I. SAMUEL XV.

He is rejected for disobedience.

51 And <sup>1</sup>Kish was the father of Saul; and Ner the father of Abner was the son of Abiel.<sup>1</sup>

52 And there was sore war against the Philistines all the days of Saul: and when Saul saw any strong man, or any valiant man, he took him unto him.

CHAPTER XV.

SAMUEL also said unto Saul, "The LORD sent me to anoint thee to be king over his people, over Israel: now therefore hearken thou unto the voice of the words of the LORD.

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, "I remember that which Amalek did to Israel, how he laid wait for him in the way, when he came up from Egypt.

3 Now go and smite Amalek, and utterly destroy all that they have, and spare them not; but slay both man and woman, infant and suckling, ox and sheep, camel and ass.<sup>1</sup>

4 And Saul gathered the people together, and numbered them in Telaim, two hundred thousand footmen, and ten thousand men of Judah.

5 And Saul came to a city of Amalek, and laid wait<sup>2</sup> in the valley.

6 ¶ And Saul said unto the Kenites, "Go, depart,<sup>3</sup> get you down from among the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them: for ye showed<sup>4</sup> kindness to all the children of Israel when they came up out of Egypt. So the Kenites<sup>5</sup> departed from among the Amalekites.

7 ¶ And Saul smote the Amalekites from Havilah until thou comest to Shur, that is over against Egypt.

8 And he took Agag the king of the Amalekites alive, and utterly destroyed all the people with the edge of the sword.

9 But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the best of the sheep, and of the oxen, and of the fatlings,<sup>4</sup> and the lambs, and all that was good, and would not utterly destroy them: but every thing that was vile and refuse, that they destroyed utterly.

10 ¶ Then came the word of the LORD unto Samuel, saying,

1 In many preceding notes the sentence of expulsion or extirpation pronounced against the nations of Canaan, as well as against Amalek, has been defended against the cavils and iniquitous accusations of infidels. The sentence against adults was justly pronounced for their sins of robbery, malicious waylaying with intent to kill, Ex.17.14, murder, manstealing, &c. &c. The sentence against the sheep, &c. &c., was intended for preventing war from becoming a trade, to gratify covetousness. But how shall we defend the sentence against the children? What need is there of any defence? Do not children die by infantile diseases in multitudes? Does Providence require any defence? Yet surely the God who employs disease in the one case, and the sword in the other, is the same? Unless, therefore, the infidel accuse Providence, he cannot accuse the Lord speaking by his prophet.—C.

q By making the word translated "sin" and "iniquity" adjectives, instead of substantives (which the Hebrew idiom allows), we obtain a clearer sense. "Contumacy is as sinful as divination, and stubbornness is as iniquitous as idolatry." And there a climax may be marked, persevering obstinacy being worse than simple contumacy, and the worship of idols being worse than magic. Saul had perhaps already begun his extirpation of necromancers, ch.28.3, and this would make the reproof more pointed.—P.

to be king: for he is turned back from following me, and hath not performed my commandments. And it grieved Samuel; and he cried unto the LORD all night.

12 ¶ And when Samuel rose early to meet Saul in the morning, it was told Samuel, saying, Saul came to Carmel, and, behold, he set him up a place,<sup>6</sup> and is gone about, and passed on, and gone down to Gilgal.

13 And Samuel came to Saul; and Saul said unto him, Blessed be thou of the LORD: "I have performed the commandment of the LORD.<sup>7</sup>

14 And Samuel said, What meaneth then this bleating of the sheep in mine ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear?

15 And Saul said, They have brought them from the Amalekites: for the people spared the best of the sheep and of the oxen, to sacrifice unto the LORD thy God,<sup>8</sup> and the rest we have utterly destroyed.

16 Then Samuel said unto Saul, Stay, and I will tell thee what the LORD hath said to me this night. And he said unto him, Say on.

17 And Samuel said, When thou wast little in thine own sight, wast thou not made the head of the tribes of Israel, and the LORD anointed thee king over Israel?

18 And the LORD sent thee on a journey, and said, Go and utterly destroy the sinners the Amalekites, and fight against them until they be consumed.<sup>9</sup>

19 Wherefore then didst thou not obey the voice of the LORD, but didst flee upon the spoil,<sup>1</sup> and didst evil in the sight of the LORD?

20 And Saul said unto Samuel, Yea, I have obeyed the voice of the LORD, and have gone the way which the LORD sent me, and have brought Agag the king of Amalek, and have utterly destroyed the Amalekites:

21 But the people took of the spoil, sheep and oxen, the chief of the things which should have been utterly destroyed, to sacrifice unto the LORD thy God in Gilgal.

22 And Samuel said, Hath the LORD as great delight in burnt-offerings and sacrifices as in obeying the voice of the LORD? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams.

23 For rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry:

because thou hast rejected the word of the LORD, he hath also rejected thee from being king.

24 ¶ And Saul said unto Samuel, 'I have sinned: for I have transgressed the commandment of the LORD, and thy words; because I feared<sup>m</sup> the people, and obeyed their voice.<sup>3</sup>

25 Now therefore, I pray thee, "pardon my sin, and turn again with me, that I may worship the LORD.

26 And Samuel said unto Saul, 'I will not return with thee: for thou hast rejected the word of the LORD, and the LORD hath rejected thee from being king over Israel.

27 And as Samuel turned about to go away, he laid hold upon the skirt of his mantle, and it rent.

28 And Samuel said unto him, The LORD hath rent the kingdom of Israel from thee this day, and hath given it to a neighbour of thine, that is better than thou.

29 And also the "Strength of Israel 'will not lie nor repent: for he is not a man, that he should repent.<sup>4</sup> 30 Then he said, "I have sinned; yet honour me now, I pray thee, before the elders of my people, and before Israel, and turn again with me, that I may worship the LORD thy God.

31 So Samuel turned again after Saul,<sup>5</sup> and Saul worshipped the LORD.

32 ¶ Then said Samuel, Bring ye hither to me "Agag the king of the Amalekites. And Agag came unto him delicately. "And Agag said, Surely the bitterness of death is past.

33 And Samuel said, "As thy sword hath made women childless, so shall thy mother be childless among women. And Samuel hewed Agag in pieces before the LORD in Gilgal.

34 ¶ Then Samuel went to "Ramah; and Saul went up to his house to Gibeah of Saul.

35 And Samuel came no more to see Saul until the day of his death; nevertheless Samuel mourned for Saul;<sup>6</sup> and the LORD repented that he had made Saul king over Israel.<sup>7</sup>

CHAPTER XVI.

1 Samuel sent by God, under pretence of a sacrifice, cometh to Bethlehem. 6 Jesse's seven sons pass before him, but are not approved by God. 11 David is sent for, approved, and anointed. 14 Saul sendeth for David to quiet his evil spirit.

AND the LORD said unto Samuel, "How long wilt thou mourn for Saul, seeing I have rejected him from reigning over Israel? Fill thine horn with oil, and go, I will send thee to 'Jesse the Beth-lehemite: for I have provided me a king among his sons.

2 And Samuel said, "How can I go? if Saul hear it, he will kill me. And the LORD said, Take an heifer with thee, and say, 'I am come to sacrifice to the LORD.<sup>1</sup>

3 And call Jesse to the sacrifice,<sup>2</sup> and I will show thee what thou shalt do: and thou shalt anoint unto me him whom I name unto thee.

4 And Samuel did that which the LORD spake, and came to Beth-lehem: and the elders of the town trembled at his coming,<sup>3</sup> and said, 'Comest thou peaceably?<sup>4</sup>

5 And he said, Peaceably: I am come to sacrifice unto the LORD; "sanctify yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice. And he sanctified Jesse and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice.

6 ¶ And it came to pass, when they were come, that he looked on 'Eliah, and said, Surely the LORD's anointed is before him.

7 But the LORD said unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his stature; because I have refused him: for the LORD seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance,<sup>6</sup> but the LORD looketh on the heart.<sup>7</sup>

8 Then Jesse called "Abinadab, and made him pass before Samuel. And he said, Neither hath the LORD chosen this.

9 Then Jesse made "Shammah to pass by.

Ver. 11. [It repenteth me. When God is said to 'repent,' it is not in any accommodation either to human weakness, human conceptions, or human language. To admit that God, at any time, ceases to speak plain, simple truth, is, in principle, to undermine the whole Scriptures. For if the ordinary rules of thought, facts, and language are twisted or violated in one place, why not in any other? And if, in any others, then, where? just wheresoever fancy pleases. But God gives no such dangerous scope to fancy. Repentance is a mere change of mind. Now when God, from regard to his courage, &c., raised Saul to the struction: but the longer judgments are forbore, they will only be the more severe when they come; and bloody instruments will be chosen for bloody work. How dangerous is it to live among the devoted enemies of God! But kindness to God's people often procures safety to men's offspring many ages afterward. A covetous and hypocritical heart makes men do the work of God by halves: and men's sins often make God change his methods of providence, though he never changes his mind or purpose. While the ruin of sinners is the grief of God's faithful ministers, the most deceitful men are most ready to boast of their exact to set up false gods, the devil not excepted: and those are unworthy to rule over men who are unwilling to be ruled by God. Fear of man causeth a snare. To confess the sins which we cannot conceal, and to be chiefly afraid of their shame, is no more than may be expected even from an unhumiliated heart. But such repentance comes too late when God hath passed a sentence of rejection. So little are hardened sinners affected with God's threatenings, that honour before the people is dearer to their hypocritical hearts than reconciliation with him. But bloody murderers will at last be reckoned with by God. And now

MOSLEM OVENS, NAZARETH—WHERE A DESCENDANT OF DAVID, CHRIST THE SAVIOR OF THE WORLD, SPENT THIRTY YEARS. [I. SAMUEL, xvi: 13.]—"Then Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him (David) in the midst of his brethren: and the spirit of the Lord came upon David from that day forward." Christ was of the house and lineage of David, the account of whose anointing by Samuel we have given in the above verse, and we illustrate this Scripture by giving a picture of the Moslem ovens in Nazareth, where Christ grew up. In these ovens all the Moslems of the town have their bread baked. An authority says that "the ordinary tannut, or oven, is merely a hole in the ground about three feet deep and two feet in diameter, lined with cement, and smoothly polished. It is filled with thorn brushes, dry grass and weeds, or with any kind of fuel that will make a sudden and fierce blaze and the heat is kept up by throwing in a fresh supply as occasion requires."

And he said, Neither hath the LORD chosen this.

10 Again, Jesse made seven of his sons to pass before Samuel. And Samuel said unto Jesse, The LORD hath not chosen these.

11 ¶ And Samuel said unto Jesse, Are here all thy children? And he said, There remaineth yet the youngest, and, behold, he keepeth the sheep. And Samuel said unto Jesse, Send and fetch him: for we will not sit down<sup>8</sup> till he come hither.

12 And he sent, and brought him in. Now he<sup>7</sup> was ruddy, and withal of a beautiful countenance,<sup>9</sup> and goodly to look to.<sup>1</sup> And the LORD said, Arise, anoint him: for this is he.

13 Then Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midst of his brethren: and the Spirit of the LORD<sup>2</sup> came upon David from that day forward. So Samuel rose up, and went to Ramah.

14 ¶ But the Spirit of the LORD departed from Saul, and an evil spirit from the LORD troubled<sup>3</sup> him.<sup>4</sup>

15 And Saul's servants said unto him, Behold now, an evil spirit from God troubleth thee.

16 Let our lord now command thy servants which are before thee to seek out a man who is a cunning player on an harp: and it shall come to pass, when the evil spirit from God is upon thee, that he shall play with his hand, and thou shalt be well.<sup>5</sup>

17 And Saul said unto his servants, Provide me now a man that can play well, and bring him to me.

18 Then answered one of the servants, and said, Behold, I have seen a son of Jesse the Beth-lehemite, that is cunning in playing, and a mighty valiant man, and a man of war, and

The site of the combat and victory is easily iden-tified by the ruins of Shochoh, and the general topography of the valley. It is about 15 miles S.W. of Jerusalem. The valley is a quarter of a mile wide, and is shut in by ridges rising on each side with an easy slope to an elevation of about 500 ft. On these the rival armies were en-camped, opposite to each other, at the distance of about a mile. The bottom of the valley is flat and rich; through it winds a torrent-bed covered with rounded 'smooth stones.' The rival armies could see distinctly every movement of their champions, the final struggle, and the fall of Goliath.—P.

19 ¶ Wherefore Saul sent messengers unto Jesse, and said, Send me David thy son, which is with the sheep.

20 And Jesse took an ass laden with bread, and a bottle of wine, and a kid, and sent them by David his son unto Saul.

21 And David came to Saul, and stood before him: and he loved him greatly; and he became his armour-bearer.<sup>7</sup>

22 And Saul sent to Jesse, saying, Let David, I pray thee, stand before me; for he hath found favour in my sight.

23 And it came to pass, when the evil spirit from God was upon Saul, that David took an harp, and played with his hand: so Saul was refreshed, and was well, and the evil spirit de-parted from him.

CHAPTER XVII.

<sup>1</sup> The armies of the Israelites and Philistines being ready to battle, 4 Goliath cometh proudly forth to challenge a combat. 12 David, sent by his father to visit his brethren, heareth the challenge. 28 Eliab chideth him. 30 He is brought to Saul. 32 He sheweth the reason of his confidence. 38 Without armour, armed by faith, he slayeth the giant. 55 Saul taketh notice of David.

NOW the Philistines gathered together their armies to battle, and were gathered together at Shochoh, which belongeth to Judah, and pitched between Shochoh and Azekah, in Ephes-dammim.

2 And Saul and the men of Israel were gathered together, and pitched by the valley of Elah,<sup>1</sup> and set the battle in array<sup>2</sup> against the Philistines.

3 And the Philistines stood on a mountain on the one side, and Israel stood on a mountain on the other side: and there was a valley be-tween them.<sup>3</sup>

4 ¶ And there went out a champion out of the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath, on external appearances, even after they have, to their grief, got proofs of its vanity. For God according to merit distributes his favours and honours: Yea, often to those who seem least likely to manage them aright. But where he sends on his work, he abundantly qualifies for the employ. How quickly the devil takes possession of those whom God has deserted! Yet, notwithstanding the numerous expedients which carnal men devise for the removal of their inward troubles, they will all at last prove only ruinous and deceitful.

CHAPTER XVII. [Ver. 8. Goliath was not a Philistine by genealogy, though he lived among them and was naturalized. He was descended from those Rephaim who in primeval times occupied the whole country, but were conquered by the Caphtorim or Philistines, De. 2. 21. A family of them remained in men in Israel. The leading incidents of their lives are set forth in a series of graphic pictures, brought out as it were to the foreground of the national history. The first picture from the life of David is the anointing by Samuel, ch. 16. 1-13. The second is his brief residence at Saul's court, ch. 16. 14-23. The third is his ap-pearance in the army, and encounter with Goliath. In all probability some years elapsed between the second and third. To explain the cause of his sudden ap-pearance on the battle-field, and of the incidents which followed, ver. 12-31 are introduced, in accordance with the dramatic style of the book. After this the general history of the battle proceeds—David's victory; the flight of the Philistines; and the presentation of the giant's head to Saul. To have interrupted such a story in order to introduce Saul's question to Abner would have spoiled the dramatic effect. P.]

wilderness was infested with wild beasts. With these David had often to fight single-handed. It was also in-ested by robber bands; and the shepherds of Bethle-hem were thus inured to sudden attack and determined resistance. Every shepherd was a trained warrior. David was fully conscious of his own prowess. With equal modesty and confidence he told Saul of his com-bats with lion and bear. A man so gifted with natural courage and strength, so inured to danger, so trained to every species of conflict, and animated besides with implicit faith in the God of battles, was no unworthy antagonist even for the giant Goliath. His skill and activity were more than a match for brute strength. The Lord was with him; his hand sustained him; but there was no miracle in the victory. Human skill and courage were by the divine blessing made to triumph.

6 And he had greaves<sup>9</sup> of brass upon his legs, and a target<sup>1</sup> of brass between his shoulders.

7 And the staff of his spear was like a weaver's beam,<sup>2</sup> and his spear's head weighed six hundred shekels<sup>3</sup> of iron: and one bearing a shield went before him.

8 And he stood and cried unto the armies of Israel, and said unto them, Why are ye come out to set your battle in array?<sup>4</sup> Am not I a Philistine, and ye servants to Saul? choose you a man for you, and let him come down to me.

9 If he be able to fight with me, and to kill me, then will we be your servants: but if I prevail against him, and kill him, then shall ye be our servants, and serve us.

10 And the Philistine said, I defy the armies of Israel this day: give me a man, that we may fight together.

11 When Saul and all Israel heard those words of the Philistine, they were dismayed, and greatly afraid.

12 ¶ Now David was <sup>1</sup>the son of that Ephrathite of Beth-lehem-judah,<sup>5</sup> whose name was Jesse; and he had eight sons: and the man went among men for an old man in the days of Saul.

13 And <sup>2</sup>the three eldest sons of Jesse went and followed Saul to the battle: and the names of his three sons that went to the battle were Eliab the first-born, and next unto him Abinadab; and the third <sup>3</sup>Shammah.

14 And David was the youngest:<sup>6</sup> and the three eldest followed Saul.

15 But David went and returned<sup>7</sup> from<sup>8</sup> Saul to feed his father's sheep at Beth-lehem.

16 And the Philistine drew near morning and evening, and presented himself <sup>4</sup>forty days.

17 And Jesse said unto David his son, Take now for thy brethren an ephah of this parched corn, and these ten loaves, and run to the camp to thy brethren;

18 And carry these ten cheeses<sup>8</sup> unto the captain of their thousand,<sup>9</sup> and look how thy brethren fare, and take their pledge.<sup>1</sup>

PNYX FROM MARS HILL—A SCENE IN THE COUNTRY OF KING CODRUS, WHO REIGNED IN GREECE AT THE SAME TIME SAUL RULED OVER ISRAEL. [I. Samuel. xvii:15.]—"But David went and returned from Saul to feed his father's sheep at Bethlehem." While Saul was reigning over the Jews, Codrus was reigning over the Athenians as their last king. And it is remarkable that Saul being defeated by the Philistines put an end to his life, and that Codrus fell a voluntary sacrifice in battle against the Dorians. We give this view of the Pnyx from Mars Hill to illustrate a scene in Athens over which Codrus reigned at the very time that Saul ruled over the Israelites. The Pnyx is a huge artificial terrace or platform 395 feet long by 312 feet wide, the upper margin of which is cut out of the rock. It was upon this platform that the Athenians held their political assemblies. Here was the orator's stage, and here it is supposed Demosthenes delivered many of his great orations.

kept his father's sheep, and there came a lion and a bear,<sup>7</sup> and took a lamb<sup>8</sup> out of the flock;

35 And I went out after him, and smote him, and delivered it out of his mouth: and when he arose<sup>9</sup> against me, I caught him by his beard, and smote him, and slew him.

36 Thy servant slew both the lion and the bear; and this uncircumcised Philistine shall be as one of them, seeing he hath defied the armies of the living God.

37 David said moreover, "The LORD that delivered me<sup>1</sup> out of the paw of the lion, and out of the paw of the bear, he will deliver me out of the hand of this Philistine. And Saul said unto David, Go, and the LORD be with thee.

38 ¶ And Saul armed<sup>2</sup> David with his armour, and he put an helmet of brass upon his head; also he armed him with a coat of mail.

39 And David girded his sword upon his armour, and he assayed to go; for he had not proved it. And David said unto Saul, I cannot go with these; for I have not proved them.<sup>3</sup> And David put them off him.<sup>4</sup>

40 And he took his staff in his hand, and chose him five smooth stones out of the brook,<sup>5</sup> and put them in a shepherd's bag<sup>6</sup> which he had, even in a scrip, and his sling was in his hand;<sup>7</sup> and he drew near to the Philistine.

41 And the Philistine came on, and drew near unto David; and the man that bare the shield went before him.

42 And when the Philistine looked about, and saw David, he disdained him; for he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance.

43 And the Philistine said unto David, Am I a dog, that thou comest to me with staves? And the Philistine curst David by his gods.

44 And the Philistine said to David, Come to me, and I will give thy flesh unto the fowls of the air, and to the beasts of the field.

45 Then said David to the Philistine, Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield; but I come to thee in the name of the LORD of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast defied.

46 This<sup>8</sup> day will the LORD deliver<sup>9</sup> thee into mine hand; and I will smite thee, and take thine head from thee; and I will give the carcasses of the host of the Philistines this day unto the fowls of the air, and to the wild beasts of the earth; that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel.<sup>10</sup>

A warlike and idolatrous nation, like the Philistines, must be taught the being and perfections of Jehovah in their own favourite school—war. So have nations that delight in war ever been taught—their lesson being derived from the indulgence and punishment of their own unhalloved propensities.—C.

14 Goliath and David evidently met and spoke with hearing of both armies—at least of their chiefs.—

CHAP. XVIII.

1 The subject and length of the conversation does not appear; but the effect of it in winning the kindred spirit of Jonathan is not surprising. With similar piety towards God, with similar chivalry in war, with great disinterestedness of disposition, and mutually attracted each other; and, to the battle is the LORD's, and he will give you into our hands.<sup>2</sup>

48 And it came to pass, when the Philistine arose, and came and drew nigh to meet David, that David hastened,<sup>3</sup> and ran toward the army to meet the Philistine.

49 And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slang it, and smote the Philistine in his forehead, that the stone sunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth.<sup>5</sup>

50 So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and with a stone,<sup>6</sup> and smote the Philistine, and slew him; but there was no sword in the hand of David.

51 Therefore David ran, and stood upon the Philistine, and took his sword, and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and slew him, and cut off his head therewith. And when the Philistines saw their champion was dead, they fled.

52 ¶ And the men of Israel and of Judah arose, and shouted, and pursued the Philistines, until thou come to the valley, and to the gates of Ekron: and the wounded of the Philistines fell down by the way to Shaaraim, even unto Gath, and unto Ekron.<sup>8</sup>

53 And the children of Israel returned from chasing after the Philistines, and they spoiled their tents.

54 ¶ And David took the head of the Philistine, and brought it to Jerusalem; but he put his armour in his tent.<sup>9</sup>

55 ¶ And when Saul saw David go forth against the Philistine, he said unto Abner, the captain of the host, Abner, whose son is this youth?<sup>1</sup> And Abner said, As thy soul liveth, O king, I cannot tell.

56 And the king said, Inquire thou whose son the stripling is.

57 And as David returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner took him, and brought him before Saul, with the head of the Philistine in his hand.

58 And Saul said to him, Whose son art thou, thou young man? And David answered, I am the son of thy servant Jesse the Beth-lehemite.

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 Jonathan loveth David. 5 Saul envieth his praise, 10 seeketh to kill him in his fury, 12 feareth him for his good success, 17 offereth him his daughter for a snare. 22 David, persuaded to be the king's son-in-law, giveth two hundred foreskins of the Philistines for Michal.

of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul.

2 And Saul took him that day, and would let him go <sup>b</sup>no more home to his father's house.

3 Then Jonathan and David <sup>c</sup>made a covenant, because he loved him as his own soul.

4 And Jonathan <sup>d</sup>stripped himself of the robe that was upon him, and gave it to David, and his garments, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle.<sup>2</sup>

5 ¶ And David went out whithersoever Saul sent him, and <sup>e</sup>behaved himself<sup>3</sup> wisely: and Saul set him over the <sup>f</sup>men of war;<sup>4</sup> and he was accepted in the sight of all the people, and also in the sight of Saul's servants.

6 ¶ And it came to pass, as they came, when David was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine,<sup>5</sup> that the women came out of all the cities of Israel, <sup>g</sup>singing and dancing, to meet king Saul, with tabrets, with joy, and with instruments of music.<sup>6</sup>

7 And the women <sup>h</sup>answered one another as they played, and said, 'Saul hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands.'<sup>7</sup>

8 And Saul was very wroth, and the saying displeased<sup>k</sup> him; and he said, They have ascribed unto David ten thousands, and to me they have ascribed but thousands: and what can he have more <sup>i</sup>but the kingdom?

9 And Saul <sup>j</sup>eyed<sup>8</sup> David from that day and forward.

10 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow, that the evil <sup>l</sup>spirit from God came upon Saul, and he prophesied<sup>9</sup> in the midst of the house; and David <sup>m</sup>played with his hand, as at other times: and there was a <sup>n</sup>javelin in Saul's hand.

11 And Saul <sup>o</sup>cast the javelin; for he said, I will smite David even to the wall with it. And David avoided out of his presence twice.

12 ¶ And Saul was <sup>p</sup>afraid of David, because the LORD was with him, and was departed from Saul.

14 And David <sup>s</sup>behaved himself<sup>2</sup> wisely in all his ways; and the LORD was with him.

15 Wherefore when Saul saw that he behaved himself very wisely, he was afraid of him.

16 But all Israel and Judah loved David

17 ¶ And <sup>a</sup>Saul said to David, Behold, my elder daughter Merab, her will I give thee to wife; only be thou valiant<sup>3</sup> for me, and fight the <sup>b</sup>LORD's battles: for Saul said, Let not mine hand be upon him, <sup>c</sup>but let the hand of the Philistines be upon him.<sup>4</sup>

18 And David said unto Saul, <sup>d</sup>Who am I? and what is my life, or my father's family in Israel, that I should be son-in-law to the <sup>e</sup>king?

19 But it came to pass, at the time when Merab, Saul's daughter, should have been given to David, that she was given unto <sup>f</sup>Adriel the Meholahite to wife.

20 ¶ And <sup>g</sup>Michal, Saul's daughter, loved David: and they told Saul, and the thing <sup>h</sup>pleased him.<sup>7</sup>

21 And Saul said, I will give him her, that she may be a <sup>i</sup>snare to him, and that the hand of the Philistines may be against him. Wherefore Saul said to David, Thou shalt this day be my son-in-law in the one of the twain.<sup>8</sup>

22 ¶ And Saul <sup>j</sup>commanded his servants, saying, Commune with David secretly, and say, Behold, the king hath delight in thee, and all his servants love thee: now therefore be the king's son-in-law.

23 And Saul's servants spake those words in the ears of David. And David said, <sup>k</sup>Seemeth it to you a light thing to be a king's son-in-law, seeing that I am a poor man, and lightly esteemed?

24 And the servants of Saul told him, saying, On this manner<sup>9</sup> spake David.

26 And when his servants told David these words, it pleased<sup>4</sup> David well to be the king's son-in-law: and the days were not<sup>5</sup> expired.<sup>6</sup>

27 Wherefore David arose and went, he and his men, <sup>m</sup>and slew of the Philistines two hundred men;<sup>7</sup> and David brought their foreskins, and they gave them in full tale to the king, that he might be the king's son-in-law. And Saul gave him <sup>n</sup>Michal his daughter to wife.

29 And Saul was yet <sup>the</sup> more afraid of David; and Saul became David's enemy continually.

30 Then the princes of the Philistines went forth: and it came to pass, after they went forth, that David behaved himself <sup>more</sup> wisely than all the servants of Saul; so that his name was much <sup>set</sup> by.<sup>8</sup>

CHAPTER XIX.

1 Jonathan discloseth to David his father's purpose to kill him. 4 He persuadeth his father to a reconciliation. 8 By reason of David's good success in a new war, Saul's malicious rage breaketh out against him. 12 Michal deceiveth her father with an image in David's bed. 18 David cometh to Samuel to Naioth. 20 Saul's messengers sent to take David, 23 and Saul himself, prophesy.

AND Saul <sup>spake</sup> to Jonathan his son, and to all his servants, that they should kill David.

2 But Jonathan, Saul's son, <sup>delighted</sup> much in David; and Jonathan told David, saying, Saul my father seeketh to kill thee:<sup>1</sup> now therefore, I pray thee, take heed to thyself until the morning, and abide in a secret place, and hide thyself:

3 And I will go out and stand beside my father in the field<sup>2</sup> where thou art, and I will commune with my father of thee; and what I see, that I will tell thee.

4 ¶ And Jonathan <sup>spake</sup> good of David unto Saul his father, and said unto him, Let not the king <sup>sin</sup> against his servant, against David; because he hath not sinned against thee, and because <sup>his</sup> works have been to thee-ward very good.

5 For he <sup>did</sup> put his life in his hand, and slew the Philistine, and the LORD <sup>wrought</sup> a great salvation for all Israel:<sup>3</sup> thou sawest it, and didst rejoice; wherefore then wilt thou sin against innocent blood, to slay David without a cause?

6 And Saul hearkened unto <sup>the</sup> voice of Jonathan: and Saul sware, As the LORD liveth, he shall not be slain.<sup>4</sup>

7 And Jonathan called David, and Jonathan showed him all those things: and Jonathan brought David to Saul, and he was in his presence as in times past.<sup>5</sup>

8 ¶ And there was war again: and David went out and fought with the Philistines, and slew them with a great slaughter; and they fled from him.<sup>6</sup>

9 And the <sup>evil</sup> spirit from the LORD<sup>7</sup> was upon Saul as he sat in his house with his javelin in his hand: and David played with the harp.

BAZAAR OF JOPPA—THE CITY OF SIMON, THE TANNER. [I Samuel, xix. 8.] "And David went out, and fought the Philistines, and slew them with a great slaughter; and they fled from him." Joppa is the oldest Philistine city known, and one of the oldest cities in the world. It was the only harbor possessed by the Jews during their national existence. The modern Joppa is said to be very prosperous. There is a soap factory here: the fruit trade of Joppa is considerable. Silk is also being cultivated not far from here. More boats are upset here and more lives are lost in the attempt to reach the shore than anywhere else on the Syrian coast. The streets are generally crowded. There are wild Arabs, busy citizens, foreign pilgrims, camels, mules, horses and donkeys, all moving hither and thither, making a striking picture indeed.

AND David fled from Naioth in Ramah, and came and said before Jonathan, What have I done? what is mine iniquity? and what is my sin before thy father, that he seeketh my life?

2 And he said unto him, God forbid; thou shalt not die: behold, my father will do nothing, either great or small, but that he will show it me; and why should my father hide this thing from me? it is not so.

3 And David sware<sup>a</sup> moreover, and said, Thy father certainly knoweth that I have found grace in thine eyes; and he saith, Let not Jonathan know this, lest he be grieved: but truly, as the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, there<sup>b</sup> is but a step between me and death.

4 Then said Jonathan unto David, Whatsoever thy soul desireth, I will even do it for thee.<sup>c</sup>

5 And David said unto Jonathan, Behold, to-morrow is the new-moon,<sup>d</sup> and I should not fail to sit with the king at meat: but let me go, that I may hide myself in the field unto the third day at even.

6 If thy father at all miss me, then say, David earnestly asked leave of me that he might run to Beth-lehem his city; for there is a yearly sacrifice there for all the family.

7 If he say thus, It is well; thy servant shall have peace: but if he be very wrath, then be sure that evil is determined by him.

8 Therefore thou shalt deal kindly with thy servant; for thou hast brought thy servant into a covenant of the LORD with thee: notwithstanding, if there be in me iniquity, slay me thyself; for why shouldst thou bring me to thy father?

9 And Jonathan said, Far be it from thee: for if I knew certainly that evil were determined by my father to come upon thee, then would not I tell it thee?

10 Then said David to Jonathan, Who shall tell me? or what if thy father answer thee roughly?

11 And Jonathan said unto David, Come,

<sup>c</sup> This is a suggestive incident. Saul ought to have learned from what had occurred to his servants, that God had the hearts as well as the bodies of men in his power. But passion triumphed over judgment, and made him mad. He went himself to seize David. The Spirit of the LORD seized him, as he had done before, and brought him for the time under his almighty influence. This new occurrence occasioned a renewal of the proverb: "Is Saul also among the prophets?"

and let us go out into the field. And they went out both of them into the field.

12 And Jonathan said unto David, O LORD God of Israel,<sup>a</sup> when I have sounded my father about to-morrow any time, or the third day, and, behold, if there be good toward David, and I then send not unto thee, and show it thee;<sup>b</sup>

13 The LORD do so and much more to Jonathan: but if it please my father to do thee evil, then I will show it thee, and send thee away, that thou mayest go in peace; and the LORD be with thee, as he hath been with my father.<sup>c</sup>

14 And thou shalt not only, while yet I live, show me the kindness of the LORD, that I die not;

15 But also thou shalt not cut off thy kindness from my house for ever: no, not when the LORD hath cut off the enemies of David every one from the face of the earth.<sup>d</sup>

16 So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David, saying, Let the LORD even require it at the hand of David's enemies.<sup>e</sup>

17 And Jonathan caused David to swear again, because he loved him: for he loved him as he loved his own soul.

18 ¶ Then Jonathan said to David, To-morrow is the new-moon; and thou shalt be missed, because thy seat will be empty.<sup>f</sup>

19 And when thou hast stayed three days, then thou shalt go down quickly,<sup>g</sup> and come to the place where thou didst hide thyself when the business<sup>h</sup> was in hand, and shalt remain by the stone Ezel.<sup>i</sup>

20 And I will shoot three arrows on the side thereof, as though I shot at a mark.

21 And, behold, I will send a lad, saying, Go, find out the arrows. If I expressly say unto the lad, Behold, the arrows are on this side of thee, take them; then come thou: for there is peace to thee, and no hurt,<sup>j</sup> as the LORD liveth.

22 But if I say thus unto the young man, Behold, the arrows are beyond thee; go thy way: for the LORD hath sent thee away.

23 And as touching the matter which thou and I have spoken of, behold, the LORD be between thee and me for ever.

24 ¶ So David hid himself in the field: and when the new-moon was come, the king sat him down to eat meat.

25 And the king sat upon his seat, as <sup>4</sup>at other times, even upon a seat by the wall; and Jonathan arose, and Abner sat by Saul's side, and David's place was empty.<sup>1</sup>

26 Nevertheless Saul spake not any thing that day: for he thought, Something hath befallen him, he 'is not clean; surely he is not clean.<sup>2</sup>

27 And it came to pass on the morrow, which was the second day of the month,<sup>3</sup> that David's place was empty; and Saul said unto Jonathan his son, 'Wherefore cometh not the son<sup>4</sup> of Jesse to meat, neither yesterday nor today?<sup>4</sup>

28 And Jonathan <sup>5</sup>answered Saul, David earnestly asked leave of me to go to Beth-lehem:

29 And he said, Let me go, I pray thee; for our family hath a sacrifice in the city, and my brother, he hath commanded me to be there: and now, if I have found favour in thine eyes, let me get away, I pray thee, and see my brethren: therefore he cometh not unto the king's table.

30 Then Saul's anger was kindled against Jonathan, and he said unto him, 'Thou son of the perverse rebellious<sup>5</sup> woman,<sup>6</sup> do not I know that thou hast chosen the son of Jesse to thine own confusion, and unto the confusion of thy mother's nakedness?<sup>7</sup>

31 For as long as the son of Jesse liveth upon the ground, thou shalt not be established, nor thy kingdom: wherefore now send and fetch him unto me; for he shall surely die.<sup>8</sup>

32 And Jonathan answered Saul his father, and said unto him, 'Wherefore shall he be slain? what hath he done?

33 And Saul <sup>9</sup>cast a javelin at him to smite him: whereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to slay David.

34 So Jonathan arose from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no meat the second day of the month: for he was grieved for David,<sup>9</sup> because his father had done him shame.

35 ¶ And it came to pass in the morning, that Jonathan went out into the field, <sup>10</sup>at the time appointed with David, and a little lad with him.

36 And he said unto his lad, Run, find out

<sup>12</sup> As there is no word for woman in the Hebrew, some understand the phrase as in the margin. But the subsequent allusion to his mother shows that this does not exhaust the meaning. Among eastern nations it is the extremity of abuse to speak evil of any one's mother. Mungo Park relates the expression of an African, 'Strike me, but do not curse my mother.' Yet the intention is commonly not so much to stigmatize the mother as the son; for not only is she often unknown to the reviler, but a father will (like Saul) use such expressions to his own son, and one brother to another.—I.

<sup>13</sup> An angry man always talks foolishly, and little regards the impropriety of his language. Saul, according to an eastern custom, upbraids the mother rather than the son, charging his kindness to David as a proof of illegitimacy.—C.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 David at Nob obtaineth of Ahimelech hallowed bread. 7 Doeg is present. 8 David taketh Goliath's sword. 10 He fleeth to Gath, where to save his life he feigneth himself mad.

2 And David <sup>4</sup>said unto Ahimelech the priest, The king hath commanded me a business, and hath said unto me, Let no man know any thing of the business whereabout I send thee, and what I have commanded thee: and I have appointed my servants to such and such a <sup>5</sup>place.

3 Now therefore what is under thine hand? give me five loaves of bread in mine hand, or what there is present.<sup>3</sup>

4 And the priest answered David, and said, There is no common bread under mine hand; but there is <sup>6</sup>hallowed bread, if the young men have kept themselves at least <sup>7</sup>from women.

5 And David answered the priest,<sup>4</sup> and said unto him, Of a truth women have been kept from us about these three days, since I came with the first clause of ver. 15, and that the two may be thus joined: 'And thou wilt not remove thy mercy from my house. . . . And Jonathan will (not) remove (his out, and the vessels of the young men are holy, and the bread is in a manner common, yea, though it was sanctified this day in the vessel.

6 So the priest gave him hallowed bread; for there was no bread there but the showbread that was taken from before the LORD, to put hot bread in the day when it was taken away.

7 Now a certain man of the servants of Saul was there that day, detained before the LORD; and his name was Doeg, an Edomite,<sup>5</sup> the chiefest of the herdmen that belonged to Saul.<sup>6</sup>

8 ¶ And David said unto Ahimelech, And is there not here under thine hand spear or sword? for I have neither brought my sword nor my weapons with me, because the king's business required haste.<sup>7</sup>

9 And the priest said, The sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom thou slewest in the valley of Elah, behold, it is here wrapped in a cloth behind the ephod: if thou wilt take that, take it; for there is no other save that here. And David said, There is none like that; give it me.

10 ¶ And David arose, and fled that day for fear of Saul, and went to Achish the king of Gath.

11 And the servants of Achish said unto him, Is not this David the king of the land? did they not sing one to another of him in dances, saying, Saul hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands?

12 And David laid up these words in his heart, and was sore afraid of Achish the king of Gath.

13 And he changed his behaviour before them, and feigned himself mad in their hands, and scrambled<sup>8</sup> on the doors of the gate, and let his spittle fall down upon his beard.<sup>9</sup>

14 Then said Achish unto his servants, Lo, ye see the man is mad:<sup>1</sup> wherefore then have ye brought him to me?

15 Have I need of madmen, that ye have brought this fellow to play the madman in my presence? shall this fellow come into my house?

CHAPTER XXII.

1 Companies resort unto David at Adullam. 3 At Mizpeh he commendeth his parents to the protection of the king of Moab. 5 Admonished by Gad, he cometh to Hareth. 6 Saul going to pursue him, complaineth of his servants' unfaithfulness. 9 Doeg accuseth Ahimelech. 11 Saul commandeth to kill the priests. 17 The footmen refusing, Doeg executeth it. 20 Abiathar escaping, bringeth David the news.

DAVID therefore departed thence, and escaped to the cave Adullam:<sup>1</sup> and when his brethren, and all his father's house, heard it, they went down thither to him.

2 And every one that was in distress, and every one that was in debt, and every one that was discontented, gathered themselves unto him, and he became a captain over them: and there were with him about four hundred men.

3 ¶ And David went thence to Mizpeh of Moab: and he said unto the king of Moab, Let my father and my mother, I pray thee, come forth, and be with you, till I know what God will do for me.

4 And he brought them before the king of Moab; and they dwelt with him all the while that David was in the hold.

5 ¶ And the prophet Gad said unto David, Abide not in the hold; depart, and get thee into the land of Judah. Then David departed, and came into the forest of Hareth.

6 ¶ When Saul heard that David was discovered, and the men that were with him, (now Saul abode in Gibeah under a tree in Ramah,<sup>3</sup> having his spear in his hand, and all his servants were standing about him.)

7 Then Saul said unto his servants that stood about him, Hear now, ye Benjamites; will the son of Jesse give every one of you fields and vineyards, and make you all captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds;

8 That all of you have conspired against me, and there is none that sheweth me that my son hath made a league with the son of Jesse; and there is none of you that is sorry for me, or sheweth unto me that my son hath stirred up my servant against me, to lie in wait, as at this day?

9 ¶ Then answered Doeg the Edomite, which was set over the servants<sup>4</sup> of Saul, and of the country, I have come to the conclusion that it stood upon the conical hill now called Tell es-Sâfieh. It is about 7 miles from Bethshemesh, and 6 miles north of Eleutheropolis. It stands close to the base of the mountains of Judah. The site is a most commanding one, and well suited to a royal city. Gath appears to have been in ruins in the time of Amos. ch. 6. 2. and house of God Satan has his spies, who come pretending to worship, but are sent by him for mischief. Oppression sometimes makes a wise man mad; and the fear of man causeth a snare. But in every trial God can open a way for our escape, and make even our enemies instruments of our deliverance. In distress let me flee to God's sanctuary.

the refugees in debt may have merely fled from slavery to which the law subjected them and their families. Nor is every discontented man necessarily a bad subject—indeed how any wise man could have been otherwise than discontented with the wicked government of Saul is a problem that infidels should solve before said, I saw the son of Jesse coming to Nob, to Ahimelech the son of Ahitub.

10 And he inquired of the LORD for him, and gave him victuals, and gave him the sword of Goliath the Philistine.

11 ¶ Then the king sent to call Ahimelech the priest, the son of Ahitub, and all his father's house, the priests that were in Nob: and they came all of them to the king.

12 And Saul said, Hear now, thou son of Ahitub. And he answered, Here I<sup>5</sup> am, my lord.

13 And Saul said unto him, Why have ye conspired against me,<sup>6</sup> thou and the son of Jesse, in that thou hast given him bread, and a sword, and hast inquired of God for him, that he should rise against me, to lie in wait, as at this day?

14 Then Ahimelech answered the king, and said, And who is so faithful among all thy servants as David, which is the king's son-in-law, and goeth at thy bidding, and is honourable in thine house?

15 Did I then begin<sup>7</sup> to inquire of God for him? be it far from me. Let not the king impute any thing unto his servant, nor to all the house of my father; for thy servant knew nothing of all this, less or more.<sup>8</sup>

16 And the king said, Thou shalt surely die, Ahimelech, thou, and all thy father's house.<sup>9</sup>

17 ¶ And the king said unto the footmen<sup>2</sup> that stood about him, Turn and slay the priests of the LORD; because their hand also is with David, and because they knew when he fled, and did not show it to me. But the servants of the king would not put forth their hand to fall upon the priests of the LORD.

18 And the king said to Doeg, Turn thou, and fall upon the priests. And Doeg the Edomite<sup>3</sup> turned, and he fell upon the priests, and slew on that day fourscore and five persons that did wear a linen ephod.

19 And Nob, the city of the priests, smote he with the edge of the sword, both men and women, children and sucklings, and oxen, and asses, and sheep, with the edge of the sword.<sup>4</sup>

20 ¶ And one of the sons of Ahimelech the son of Ahitub, named Abiathar, escaped, and fled after David.

21 And Abiathar showed David that Saul had slain the LORD's priests.

4 This was one of the worst acts in Saul's life. His malice was implacable, and his wrath cruel; there is no motive of justice or policy by which such a barbarous massacre can be justified. It was well said by Justin Martyr, 'Let us pray that kings and rulers may be found having a sober mind.' Saul's unrighteous command fulfilled (1) the threatening against the house of Eli. (2) the massacre of the priests Saul weakened the power of those whom he had made his enemies, and obtained their possessions to bestow upon his followers. It was a most decided act of defiance to the Most High (Delany).

5 Saul hereby for ever deprived himself of the protection and counsel of Jeho-

ah. Abiathar fled with the ephod, in which was the judgment of Urim; and David thereby received the fullest and plainest directions in circumstances of danger and difficulty (Chandler).—f

Had not David loved his country, and been above all motives of private and personal revenge, he would have rejoiced in this invasion of Judah, as producing a strong diversion in his favour, and embroiling his inveterate enemy.

In most cases, a man with David's wrongs would have gained with the enemies of his country, and avenged himself on the author of his calamities; but he thinks of nothing but of succouring Keilah, and using his power and influence in behalf of his brethren.

This is a rare instance of disinterested heroism.—Clarke.

4 The courage of David in saving Keilah seems very unlikely, as he is before Achish, and his complete dependence in the reply of the Lord very different from the weakness, or rather want of faith formerly ascribed to him. Yet to what does all this amount? Not even to any ground of suspicion against the history, but merely to an evidence of the weakness and inconsistency of man. Let him who has never acted inconsistently with his better feelings or convictions, cast the first stone at David.—C.

22 And David said unto Abiathar, I knew it that day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would surely tell Saul: I have occasioned the death of all the persons of thy father's house.<sup>5</sup>

23 Abide thou with me, fear not: for he that seeketh my life<sup>6</sup> seeketh thy life; but with me thou shalt be in safeguard.

CHAPTER XXIII.

1 The Philistines fight against Keilah; David, inquiring of the Lord by Abiathar, smiteth them, and saveth Keilah. 9 God showing him the coming of Saul, and the treachery of the Keilites, he escapeth from Keilah. 13 In Ziph Jonathan cometh and comforteth him. 19 The Ziphites discover him to Saul. 25 At Maon he is rescued from Saul by the invasion of the Philistines. 29 He dwelleth at Engedi.

THEN they told David, saying, Behold, the Philistines fight against Keilah,<sup>1</sup> and they rob the thrashing-floors.

2 Therefore David inquired of the LORD, saying, Shall I go and smite these Philistines? And the LORD said unto David, Go and smite the Philistines, and save Keilah.

3 And David's men said unto him, Behold, we be afraid here in Judah, how much more then if we come to Keilah against the armies of the Philistines?

4 Then David inquired of the LORD yet again. And the LORD answered him, and said, Arise, go down to Keilah; for I will deliver the Philistines into thine hand.

5 So David and his men went to Keilah, and fought with the Philistines, and brought away their cattle, and smote them with a great slaughter. So David saved the inhabitants of Keilah.

6 And it came to pass, when Abiathar the son of Ahimelech fled to David to Keilah, that he came down with an ephod<sup>3</sup> in his hand.

7 ¶ And it was told Saul that David was come to Keilah. And Saul said, God hath delivered him into mine hand; for he is shut in, by entering into a town that hath gates and bars.

8 And Saul called all the people together to war, to go down to Keilah, to besiege David and his men.

9 ¶ And David knew that Saul secretly practised mischief against him, and he said to Abiathar the priest, Bring hither the ephod.<sup>4</sup>

10 Then said David, O LORD God of Israel, thy servant hath certainly heard that Saul seeketh to come to Keilah, to destroy the city for my sake.

into his hand? will Saul come down, as thy servant hath heard? O LORD God of Israel, I beseech thee, tell thy servant. And the LORD said, He will come down.<sup>5</sup>

12 Then said David, Will the men of Keilah deliver<sup>6</sup> me and my men into the hand of Saul? And the LORD said, They will deliver thee up.<sup>7</sup>

13 ¶ Then David and his men, <sup>8</sup>which were about six hundred, arose and departed out of Keilah, and went whithersoever they could go. And it was told Saul that David was escaped from Keilah; and he forbore to go forth.

14 And David abode in the wilderness in strong holds, and remained in a mountain in the wilderness of Ziph:<sup>8</sup> and "Saul sought him every day; "but God delivered him not into his hand.<sup>9</sup>

15 And David saw that Saul was come out to seek his life: and David was in the wilderness of Ziph in a wood.

16 And Jonathan, Saul's son, arose, and went to David into the wood, and "strengthened his hand in God.<sup>1</sup>

17 And he said unto him, Fear not; for the hand of Saul my father "shall not find thee: and thou shalt be king over Israel, and I shall be next unto thee; and that also "Saul my father knoweth.

18 And "they two made a covenant before the LORD. And David abode in the wood, and Jonathan went to his house.

19 ¶ Then "came up the Ziphites to Saul to Gibeah, saying, Doth not David hide himself with us in strong holds in the wood, in the hill of Hachilah,<sup>2</sup> which is on the south<sup>3</sup> of "Jeshimon?<sup>5</sup>

20 Now therefore, O king, come down according to all the desire of thy soul to come down; and our part<sup>6</sup> shall be to deliver him into the king's hand.

21 And Saul said, "Blessed be ye of the LORD; for ye have compassion on me.

22 Go, I pray you, prepare yet, and know and see his place where his "haunt is, and who hath seen him there: for it is told me that he dealth very subtly.

23 See therefore, and take knowledge of all the lurking-places where he hideth himself, and come ye again to me with the certainty, and I will go with you: and it shall come to pass, if he be in the land, that I "will search him out

1 David in a cave at Engedi, having cut off Saul's skirt, spareth his life. 8 He sheweth thereby his innocency. 16 Saul, acknowledging his fault, taketh an oath of David, and departeth.

AND it came to pass, when Saul was returned from "following<sup>1</sup> the Philistines, that it was told him, saying, Behold, David is in the wilderness of En-gedi.

2 Then Saul "took three thousand chosen men<sup>2</sup> out of all Israel, and went to seek David and his men upon the rocks of the wild goats.

3 And he came to the sheep-cotes by the way, where was a cave; and Saul "went in to cover his feet: and "David and his men remained in the sides<sup>3</sup> of the cave.<sup>4</sup>

4 And the men of David said unto him, "Behold the day of which the LORD said unto thee, Behold, I will deliver thine enemy into thine hand, that thou mayest do to him as it shall seem good unto thee. Then David arose, and cut off the skirt of Saul's robe<sup>5</sup> privily.

5 And it came to pass afterward, that "David's heart smote him, because he had cut off Saul's skirt.<sup>6</sup>

6 And he said unto his men, "The LORD forbid that I should do this thing unto my master, the LORD's anointed, to stretch forth mine hand against him, seeing he is the anointed of the LORD.

7 So David "stayed<sup>7</sup> his servants with these words, and suffered them not to rise against Saul. But Saul rose up out of the cave, and went on his way thou men's words, saying, Behold, David seeketh thy hurt?

10 Behold, this day thine eyes have seen how that the LORD had delivered thee to-day into mine hand in the cave: and some bade me kill thee: but mine eye spared thee; and I said, I will not put forth mine hand against my lord; for he is the LORD's anointed.

11 Moreover, 'my father, see; yea, see the skirt of thy robe in my hand: for in that I cut off the skirt of thy robe, and killed thee not, know thou and see that there is neither evil nor transgression in mine hand, and I have not sinned against thee; yet thou huntest my soul to take it.

12 The LORD judge between me and thee, and the LORD avenge me of thee:<sup>8</sup> but mine hand shall not be upon thee.

13 As saith the proverb of the ancients, Wickedness<sup>9</sup> proceedeth from the wicked: but mine<sup>10</sup> hand shall not be upon thee.

14 After whom is 'the king of Israel come out? after whom dost thou pursue? after 'a dead dog, after a flea?<sup>9</sup>

15 The LORD therefore 'be judge, and judge between me and thee, and see, and plead my cause, and deliver<sup>1</sup> me out of thine hand.

16 ¶ And it came to pass, when David had made an end of speaking these words unto Saul, that Saul said, 'Is this thy voice,<sup>2</sup> my son David? And Saul lifted up his voice, and wept.<sup>3</sup>

17 And he said to David, 'Thou art more righteous than I; for thou hast rewarded me good, whereas I have rewarded thee evil.

18 And thou hast showed this day how that thou hast dealt well with me: forasmuch as when the LORD had delivered<sup>4</sup> me into thine hand, thou killedst me not.

19 For if a man find his enemy, will he let him go well away? wherefore the LORD reward thee good for that thou hast done unto me this day.

CHAPTER XXV.

1 Samuel dieth. 2 David in Paran sendeth to Nabal. 10 Provoked by Nabal's churlishness, he intendeth to destroy him. 14 Abigail understanding thereof, 18 taketh a present, 23 and by her wisdom 32 pacifieth David. 36 Nabal, hearing thereof, dieth. 39 David taketh Abigail and Ahinoam to be his wives. 44 His wife Michal is given to Phalti.

AND Samuel<sup>a</sup> died;<sup>1</sup> and all the Israelites were gathered together, and lamented him, and buried him in his house at Ramah. And David arose, and went down to the wilderness of Paran.

2 ¶ And there was a man in Maon, whose possessions<sup>2</sup> were in 'Carmel;<sup>3</sup> and the man was very great, and he had three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats: and he was shearing his sheep in Carmel.

3 Now the name of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wife Abigail: and she was <sup>a</sup>a woman of good understanding, and of a beautiful countenance: but the man was churlish, and evil in his doings; and he was of the house of 'Caleb.<sup>4</sup>

4 ¶ And David heard in the wilderness that Nabal did shear his sheep.

5 And David<sup>5</sup> sent out ten young men; and David said<sup>6</sup> unto the young men, Get you up to Carmel, and go to Nabal, and greet him in my name.

6 And thus shall ye say to him that liveth in prosperity, Peace be both to thee, and peace be to thine house, and peace be unto all that thou hast.

7 And now I have heard that thou hast shearers: now, thy shepherds which were with friendship with these be renewed day by day! Behold how men's malice renders them miserable; and how ready brethren of the same tribe are to betray us! but God in his providence interposes for the relief of his people when their danger is at the greatest. Fear not then, my soul—only believe, and thou shalt see the glory of God.

CHAPTER XXIV. [Ver. 21. Saul's character is a most remarkable one. It is in part illustrated by the fierce, wayward, fitful nature of the moments he never lost the strong affection which he had contracted for David. But then the paroxysm of rage and jealousy returns, and he pursues him over the hills of Judah. P.]

REFLECTIONS.—Restless is the malice of wicked men; but God can bring us very near to danger and yet keep us in perfect safety. And easily can he deliver up his enemies into the hand of the weakest of his people. How falsely rash men misinterpret the promises and providences of God! But we must not have been persecuting our principal friends! But there may be confession and remorse where there is no real repentance. Love to our enemies, and a mild and generous behaviour under great provocations, are glorious tokens of future greatness. But how mad is the malicious injuring of those at whose mercy we, and all that we have, may soon lie! and how prudent to keep on our guard against a known enemy! Fits of partial repentance will not last long.

us we hurt them not, neither was there ought missing unto them, all the while they were in Carmel.

8 Ask thy young men, and they will show thee: wherefore let the young men find favour in thine eyes; (for we come in 'a good day;) give, I pray thee, whatsoever cometh to thine hand unto thy servants, and to thy son David.<sup>5</sup>

9 And when David's young men came, they spake to Nabal according to all those words in the name of David,<sup>6</sup> and ceased.<sup>7</sup>

10 ¶ And Nabal answered David's servants, and said, "Who is David? and who is the son of Jesse? There be many servants now-a-days that break away every man from his master.

11 Shall I then take 'my bread and my water, and my flesh<sup>8</sup> that I have killed for my shearers, and give it unto men whom I know not whence they be?<sup>9</sup>

12 So David's young men turned their way, and went again, and came and told him all those sayings.

13 And David said unto his men, "Gird ye on every man his sword. And they girded on every man his sword; and David also girded on his sword: and there went up after David about four hundred men, and two hundred abode by the stuff.<sup>1</sup>

14 ¶ But one of the young men told Abigail, Nabal's wife, saying, Behold, David sent messengers out of the wilderness to salute our master; and he railed<sup>2</sup> on them:

15 But the men were 'very good unto us, and we were not hurt,<sup>3</sup> neither missed we any thing, as long as we were conversant with them, when we were in the fields.

16 They were 'a wall unto us both by night and day, all the while we were with them keeping the sheep.

17 Now therefore know and consider what thou wilt do; for evil is determined against our master, and against all his household: for he is such 'a son of Belial, that a man cannot speak to him.

18 ¶ Then Abigail made haste, and took two hundred loaves,<sup>4</sup> and two bottles<sup>5</sup> of wine, and five sheep ready dressed, and five measures of parched corn, and an hundred clusters<sup>6</sup> of raisins, and two hundred cakes of figs, and laid them on asses.

19 And she said unto her servants, Go on before me: behold, I come after you. But she told not her husband Nabal.

20 And it was so, as she rode on the ass, that she came down by the covert of the hill, and, behold, David and his men came down against her; and she met them.

21 (Now David had said, Surely in vain have I kept all that 'this fellow hath in the wilderness, so that nothing was missed of all that pertained unto him; and he hath requited me evil for good.

22 So<sup>a</sup> and more also do God unto the enemies of David, if I leave of all that pertain to him by the morning light<sup>7</sup> any that pisseth against the wall.)<sup>8</sup>

23 And when Abigail saw David, she hasted, and lighted off the ass, and fell before David on her face, and bowed herself to the ground.

24 And fell at his feet, and said, Upon me, my lord, upon me let this iniquity be; and let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak in thine audience,<sup>9</sup> and hear the words of thine handmaid.

25 Let not my lord, I pray thee, regard<sup>1</sup> this man of Belial, even Nabal: for as his name is, so is he; <sup>2</sup>Nabal<sup>3</sup> is his name, and folly is with him: but I thine handmaid saw not the young men of my lord, whom thou didst send.

26 Now therefore, my lord, 'as the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, seeing the LORD hath witholden<sup>4</sup> thee from coming to shed blood, and from 'avenging thyself with thine own hand, now let thine enemies, and they that seek evil to my lord, be as Nabal.<sup>5</sup>

27 And now this 'blessing, which thine handmaid hath brought unto my lord, let it even be given unto the young men that follow my lord.

28 I pray thee, forgive the 'trespass<sup>6</sup> of thine handmaid: for the LORD will certainly make my lord a sure house; because my lord fighteth procure lasting friendship with Heaven, and noted victories and mercies on earth. How marvellous his conquest of enemies, and restoration of the treacherously abandoned worship of God! Gracious are his instructions, sharp his reproofs, and certain his predictions! By him kings reign, and princes decree justice. Candid upright to use entreaties. While we feast we should distribute our bread to the hungry. One good turn deserves and requires another; but a foul tongue is the sign of a wicked heart. Scurrilous invectives are too commonly the fare of God's precious saints in this world. They have puny, if not thievish hearts, who grudge to be-us back from sin! And great is the mercy of God, which prevents our sin when we are upon the very point of committing it. If we have sworn to commit wickedness, it is sinful to keep our oath, but our duty bitterly to repent the taking of it. Those who are churlish to God and his people are often abundantly the<sup>a</sup> battles of the LORD, and 'evil hath not been found in thee all thy days.

29 Yet a man is risen to pursue thee, and to seek thy soul: but the soul of my lord shall be bound<sup>a</sup> in the bundle of life<sup>7</sup> with the LORD thy God; and the souls of thine enemies, them shall he 'sling out, as out of the middle<sup>8</sup> of a sling.<sup>9</sup>

30 And it shall come to pass, when the LORD shall have done to my lord according to all the good that he hath spoken concerning thee, and shall have appointed thee ruler over Israel, 31 That this shall be "no grief unto thee, nor offence of heart unto my lord, either that thou hast shed blood causeless, or that my lord hath avenged himself: but when the LORD shall have dealt well with my lord, then "remember thine handmaid.

32 ¶ And David 'said to Abigail, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which sent thee this day to meet me:

33 And blessed be thy advice, and blessed be thou, which hast kept me this day from coming to shed blood, and from avenging myself with mine own hand.

34 For in very deed, as the LORD God of Israel liveth, which hath kept me back from hurting thee,<sup>1</sup> except thou hadst hastened and come to meet me, surely there had not been left unto Nabal by the morning light any that pisseth against the wall.<sup>2</sup>

35 So David received of her hand that which she had brought him,<sup>3</sup> and said unto her, Go up in peace to thine house: see, I have hearkened to thy voice, and have accepted thy person.

36 ¶ And Abigail came to Nabal; and, behold, he held "a feast in his house, like the feast of a king; and Nabal's heart was merry within him, for he "was very drunken: wherefore she 'told him nothing, less or more, until the morning light.

37 But it came to pass in the morning, when the wine was gone out of Nabal, and his wife had told him "these things, that "his heart died within him, and he became as a stone.<sup>4</sup>

38 And it came to pass, about ten days after, that the LORD smote Nabal, that he died.

39 ¶ And when David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, "Blessed be the LORD, that hath pleaded the cause of my reproach from the hand of Nabal, and hath kept his servant from evil: for 'the LORD hath returned the wickedness of Nabal upon his own head.

3 This proposal of David, for two to make their way through Saul's army, indicates a very low opinion of his military arrangements—an opinion verified by the event. ## CHAPTER XXVI.

1 Saul, by the discovery of the Ziphites, cometh to Hachilah against David. 5 David coming into the trench stayeth Abishai from killing Saul, but taketh his spear and cruse. 13 David reproverth Abner's negligence, 18 and exhorteth Saul. 21 Saul acknowledgeth his sin, and returneth home.

AND the "Ziphites came unto Saul to Gibeah, saying, Doth not David hide himself in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeshimon?

2 Then 'Saul arose, and went down to the wilderness of Ziph, having three thousand chosen men of Israel with him, to seek David in the wilderness of Ziph.

3 And Saul pitched in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeshimon, by the way: but David abode in the wilderness; and he saw that Saul came after him into the wilderness.<sup>1</sup>

4 David therefore 'sent out spies, and understood that Saul was come in very deed.

5 ¶ And David arose, and came to the place where Saul had pitched; and David beheld the place where Saul lay, 'and Abner the son of Ner, the captain of his host: and Saul lay in the 'trench,<sup>2</sup> and the people pitched round about him.

6 Then answered David, and said to 'Ahimelech the Hittite, and to 'Abishai the son of Zeruiah, brother to Joab, saying, Who will go h down with me to Saul to the camp?<sup>3</sup> And Abishai said, I will go down with thee.

7 So David and Abishai came to the people by night; and, behold, Saul lay 'sleeping within the trench,<sup>4</sup> and his spear stuck in the ground at his bolster: but Abner and the people lay round about him.

with the spear even to the earth at once, and I will not smite him the second time.

9 And David said to Abishai, 'Destroy him not: for who can stretch forth his hand against the LORD's anointed, and be guiltless?'<sup>5</sup>

10 David said furthermore, As the LORD liveth, the LORD shall smite him;<sup>6</sup> or <sup>7</sup>his day shall come to die; or <sup>8</sup>he shall descend into battle, and perish.

11 The LORD forbid that I should stretch forth mine hand against the LORD's anointed; but, I pray thee, take thou now the spear that is at his bolster, and the cruse of water, and let us go.<sup>7</sup>

12 So David took the spear and the cruse of water from Saul's bolster; and they gat them away, and no man saw it, nor knew it, neither awaked: for they were all asleep; because <sup>8</sup>a deep sleep from the LORD<sup>8</sup> was fallen upon them.

13 ¶ Then David went over to the other side, and stood on the top of an hill afar off; a great space being between them:

14 And David cried to the people, and to Abner the son of Ner, saying, Answerest thou not, Abner? Then Abner answered and said, Who art thou that criest to the king?

15 And David said to Abner, Art not thou a valiant man? and who is like to thee in Israel? wherefore then hast thou not kept thy lord the king? <sup>9</sup>for there came one of the people in to destroy the king thy lord.

16 This thing is not good that thou hast done. As the LORD liveth, ye are worthy to die, because ye have not kept your master, the LORD's anointed. And now see where the king's spear is, and the cruse of water that was at his bolster.

17 And Saul knew David's voice, and said, Is this thy voice, my son David? And David said, It is my voice, my lord, O king.

18 And he said, Wherefore doth my lord thus pursue after his servant? for what have I done? <sup>10</sup>what evil is in mine hand?

19 Now therefore, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his servant. If the LORD have stirred thee up against me, let him accept an offering:<sup>11</sup> but if they be the children of men, <sup>12</sup>cursed be they before the LORD;<sup>12</sup> for they have driven me out this day from abiding in the inheritance of the LORD, saying, Go 21 ¶ Then said Saul, I have sinned: return,<sup>6</sup> my son David; for I will no more do thee harm, because my soul was precious in thine eyes this day: behold, I have played the fool, and have erred exceedingly.

22 And David answered and said, Behold the king's spear! and let one of the young men come over and fetch it.

23 The LORD render to every man his righteousness and his faithfulness: for the LORD delivered thee into my hand to-day, but I would not stretch forth mine hand against the LORD's anointed.

24 And, behold, as thy life was much set by this day in mine eyes, so let my life be much set by in the eyes of the LORD, and let him deliver me out of all tribulation.

25 Then Saul said to David, Blessed be thou, my son David; thou shalt both do great things, and also shalt still prevail. So David went on his way, and Saul returned to his place.

CHAPTER XXVII.

1 Saul hearing that David was fled to Gath, seeketh no more for him. 5 David beggetteth Ziklag of Achish. 8 He, invading other countries, persuadeth Achish he fought against Judah.

AND David said in his heart, I shall now perish<sup>1</sup> one day by the hand of Saul: there is nothing better for me than that I should speedily escape into the land of the Philistines; and Saul shall despair of me, to seek me any more in any coast of Israel: so shall I escape out of his hand.

2 And David arose, and he passed over with the six hundred men that were with him unto Achish, the son of Maach, king of Gath.

3 And David dwelt with Achish at Gath, he and his men, every man with his household, even David with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the Carmelitess, Nabai's wife.<sup>4</sup>

4 And it was told Saul that David was fled to Gath; and he sought no more again for him.

5 ¶ And David said unto Achish, If I have now found grace in thine eyes, let them give me a place in some town in the country, that I may dwell there: for why should thy servant dwell in the royal city with thee?

6 Then Achish gave him Ziklag that day:

7 ¶ And the time<sup>s</sup> that David dwelt in the country of the Philistines was <sup>a</sup>a full year and four months.

8 ¶ And David and his men went up and invaded the <sup>b</sup>Geshurites, and the <sup>c</sup>Gezrites, and the <sup>d</sup>Amalekites:<sup>e</sup> for those nations were of old the inhabitants of the land, as thou goest to Shur,<sup>f</sup> even unto the land of Egypt.

9 And David <sup>g</sup>smote the land, and left neither man nor woman alive, and took away the sheep, and the oxen, and the asses, and the camels, and the apparel, and returned, and came to Achish.

10 And Achish said, Whither have ye made a road<sup>h</sup> to-day? And David <sup>i</sup>said, Against the<sup>o</sup> south of Judah, and against the south of the Jerahmeelites, and against the south of the Kenites.<sup>8</sup>

11 And David saved neither man nor woman alive to bring tidings to Gath, saying, <sup>j</sup>Lest they should tell on us, saying, So did David, and so will be his manner all the while he dwelleth in the country of the Philistines.

12 And Achish believed David, saying, He hath made his people Israel utterly to abhor him;<sup>9</sup> therefore he shall be my servant for ever.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

AND it came to pass in those days, <sup>a</sup>that the Philistines gathered their armies together for warfare to fight with Israel. And Achish said unto David, Know thou<sup>1</sup> assuredly <sup>b</sup>that thou shalt go out with me to battle, thou and thy men.

2 And David said to Achish, <sup>c</sup>Surely thou shalt know what thy servant can do. And Achish said to David, Therefore will I make thee keeper of mine head for ever.

3 ¶ Now <sup>d</sup>Samuel was dead, and all Israel had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city: and Saul had put away those that had <sup>e</sup>familiar spirits, and the wizards,<sup>2</sup> out of the land.<sup>3</sup>

<sup>16</sup> This answer of David was not false in words, for he had done what he said; but it was equivocal in words, and evidently was misunderstood by Achish.

How then is David to be vindicated? He cannot be vindicated at all. He had sinned in despising God's protection—he had erred in joining himself with the enemies of his country, and now he was again a melancholy example of the weakness of man, when leaning on his own understanding, and for a moment ceasing to trust solely in God.

CHAPTER XXIX.

1 David marcheth with the Philistines: their princes are offended therewith. 6 Achish dismisseth him, with commendations of his fidelity.

NOW the Philistines gathered together all their armies to <sup>a</sup>Aphek:<sup>1</sup> and the Israelites pitched by a fountain which is in Jezreel.

2 And the lords of the Philistines passed on by hundreds and by thousands:<sup>2</sup> but <sup>b</sup>David and his men passed on in the re-re-ward with Achish.<sup>3</sup>

3 Then said the princes of the Philistines, What do these Hebrews <sup>c</sup>here? And Achish said unto the princes of the Philistines, Is not this David, the servant of Saul the king of Israel, which hath been with me <sup>d</sup>these days, or these years, and I have found <sup>e</sup>no fault in him since he fell <sup>f</sup>unto me unto this day?

4 And the princes of the Philistines were wroth with him; and the princes of the Philistines said unto him, <sup>g</sup>Make this fellow return, that he may go again to his place which thou hast appointed him, and let him not go down with us to battle, lest in the battle he be an adversary to us: for wherewith should he reconcile himself <sup>h</sup>unto his master? <sup>i</sup>should it not be with the heads of these men?

5 Is not this David, of whom they sang one to another in dances, saying, <sup>j</sup>Saul slew his thousands, and David his ten thousands?

6 ¶ Then Achish called David, and said unto him, Surely, <sup>k</sup>as <sup>l</sup>the LORD <sup>m</sup>liveth, <sup>n</sup>thou hast been upright, and thy going out and thy coming in with me in the host is good in my sight; for I have not found evil in thee since the day of thy coming unto me unto this day: nevertheless the lords favour thee not.<sup>7</sup>

7 Wherefore now return, and go in peace, that thou displease not the lords<sup>8</sup> of the Philistines.

8 And David said unto Achish, <sup>o</sup>But what have I done? and what hast thou found in thy servant, so long as I have been with thee<sup>9</sup> unto this day, <sup>p</sup>that I may not go fight against the enemies of my lord the king?<sup>11</sup>

9 And Achish answered and said to David, I know that thou <sup>q</sup>art good in my sight, <sup>r</sup>as an angel of God: notwithstanding the princes of the Philistines have said, He shall not go up with us to the battle.

10 Wherefore now rise up early in the morning with thy master's servants, that are come thou disquieted me, to bring me up?<sup>1</sup> And Saul answered, I am <sup>s</sup>sore distressed; for the Philistines make war against me, and God is departed from me, and answereth me no more, neither by prophets,<sup>2</sup> nor by dreams: therefore I have called thee, that thou mayest make known unto me what I shall do.

16 Then said Samuel, Wherefore then dost thou ask of me, <sup>t</sup>seeing the LORD is departed from thee, and is become thine enemy?<sup>3</sup>

17 And the LORD hath done to <sup>u</sup>him <sup>v</sup>as he spake by me:<sup>4</sup> for the LORD hath rent the kingdom out of thine hand, and given it to thy neighbour, <sup>w</sup>even to David;

18 Because thou <sup>x</sup>obeyedst not the voice of the LORD, nor executedst his fierce wrath upon Amalek, therefore hath the LORD done this thing unto thee this day.

19 Moreover, the LORD will also deliver Israel with thee into the hand of the Philistines; and <sup>y</sup>to-morrow shalt thou and thy sons be with me: <sup>z</sup>the LORD also shall deliver the host of Israel into the hand of the Philistines.

20 Then Saul fell straightway all along on the earth,<sup>5</sup> and <sup>a</sup>was sore afraid, because of the words of Samuel:<sup>6</sup> and there was no strength in him; for he had eaten no bread all the day, nor all the night.

21 ¶ And the woman came unto Saul, and saw that he was sore troubled, and said unto him, Behold, thine handmaid hath obeyed thy voice, and <sup>b</sup>I have put my life in my hand, and have hearkened unto thy words which thou spakest unto me:

22 Now therefore, I pray thee, hearken thou also unto the voice of thine handmaid, and let me set a morsel of bread before thee; and eat, that thou mayest have strength when thou goest on thy way.

23 But he refused, and said, <sup>c</sup>I will not eat. But his servants, together with the woman, compelled him; and he hearkened unto their voice: so he arose from the earth, and sat upon the bed.

24 And the woman had a fat calf<sup>7</sup> in the house; and she hastened and killed it, and took flour, and kneaded it, and did bake unleavened<sup>8</sup> bread thereof:

25 And she brought it before Saul, and before his servants; and they did eat. Then they

6 Here was another proof of the reality of the appearance. The question as to the more immediate agency by which it was effected presents greater difficulties. That the woman seemed to arrogate the power to herself, ver. 21, proves nothing. Yet it might be conceded that diabolical agency was enabled and permitted to effect such a result in this particular instance, without its following that demons were vested with any such power at other times. But the simpler view is to suppose that before the woman had time to employ her usual incantations, the Almighty, for wise and important ends, sent back Samuel for a short season from the world of spirits. This was the belief of the ancient Jewish church. After his death he prophesied, and showed the king his end, and lift up his voice in prophecy to blot out the wickedness of the people, Ecclus. 40. 20. Various great purposes were served by the transaction, e.g. Saul's crime in asking counsel of Ob<sup>1</sup> was made the means of his punishment 1 Ch. 10. 13, 14: the superiority of the oracles of Jehovah to the real or imaginary oracles of Satan was clearly evinced; and the doctrines of a future state and a resurrection of the dead received an awfully solemn confirmation, which was very necessary in that age of darkness.—

The Aphek in the text was a city of Issachar in the valley of Jezreel. A fourth city of the same name was situated in Syria, 1 Ki. 20. 26. i How does Achish a Philistine idolater come thus to acknowledge the deity of Jehovah? Either because he was, to some extent, a convert to the true religion, or because, like other heathens, he did not deny the deity of the gods of other people, but merely insisted on the absolute superiority or local government of his own. The total denial of deity to idols and false gods, has ever been the point upon which he has been founded the hatred of heathens against Judaism and Christianity.—

FAMILY CONVEYANCE, SYRIA—A PICTURE TAKEN NEAR JEZREEL, WHERE AHAB LIVED. [1. Samuel, xxix:1.]—"Now the Philistines gathered together all their armies to Aphek: and the Israelites pitched by a fountain which is in Jezreel." This picture illustrates for us the method of traveling in Palestine. There are very few roads over which a carriage or a buggy can pass in the Holy Land. In going from Jerusalem to Nazareth there is nothing but a path. Tourists even have in many places to ride in single file. So rocky is this single pathway that it often becomes necessary in going down steep hills to alight from the saddle and walk. The horses and mules are very sure-footed, and appear to have learned from many generations of experience how to pick their way among the rocks, and to hold their footing even on the side of the steepest and roughest mountains. In the above conveyance the family of the man who leads the horse is balanced and packed away in the covered boxes you see strapped to the horse's back.

21 ¶ And David came to the <sup>u</sup>two hundred men, which were so faint that they could not out of them. He can at once arrest the adversary, and conduct us to them. Even discouraging providences in our way should but excite and animate our faith to follow David, whom they had made also to abide at the brook Besor; and they went forth to meet David, and to meet the people that were with him: and when David came near to the people, he saluted them.<sup>2</sup>

22 ¶ Then answered all the wicked men and men<sup>a</sup> of Belial,<sup>3</sup> of those<sup>4</sup> that went with David, and said, Because they went not with us, we will not give them ought of the spoil that we have recovered, save to every man his wife and his children, that they may lead them away, and depart.

23 Then said David, Ye shall not do so, <sup>b</sup>my brethren, with that which the LORD hath given us, <sup>c</sup>who hath preserved us, and delivered the company that came against us into our hand.

24 For who will hearken unto you in this matter? but <sup>d</sup>as his part is that goeth down to the battle, so shall his part be that tarrieth by the stuff: they shall part alike.<sup>5</sup>

25 And it was so from that day forward,<sup>6</sup> that he made it a statute and an ordinance for Israel unto this day.

26 ¶ And when David came to Ziklag, he sent of the spoil unto the elders of Judah, even to<sup>e</sup> his friends, saying, Behold a <sup>f</sup>present for you of the spoil of the enemies of the LORD:<sup>7</sup>

27 To them which were in <sup>g</sup>Beth-el,<sup>8</sup> and to them which were in south Ramoth,<sup>9</sup> and to them which were in Jattir,<sup>1</sup>

28 And to them which were in <sup>h</sup>Aroer, and to them which were in Siphmoth, and to them which were in Eshtemoa,

29 And to them which were in Rachal, and to them which were in the cities of the Jerahmeelites, and to them which were in the cities of the Kenites,

30 And to them which were in <sup>i</sup>Hormah, and to them which were in Chor-ashan, and to them which were in Athach,

31 And to them which were in <sup>j</sup>Hebron, and to all the places where David himself and his men were wont to haunt.<sup>2</sup>

1 It seems probable that the events related in the last two chapters of 1 Samuel did not take place in the order of time in which they are placed, and especially, that David's victory over the Amalekites was about the time of the battle of Gilboa, and his return subsequent. Such anachronisms are unavoidable in history.—C.

4 There is no such contradiction, as infidels have asserted, between this account of Saul's death and that contained in 1 Sam. xxii. This narrative was a mere fiction of the Amalekite in order to ingratiate himself with David. It is not, however, uncommon for men to take to themselves the credit, if we may so speak, of wicked actions which they wanted either the courage or the opportunity of achieving.—C.

But the sense of the translators seems the true one; for Saul, having been wounded by the Philistine archers (see 1 Sa. 31. 3), and the whole battle having been gained by them, an ordinance for teaching the use of the bow seems naturally connected with such a national this ancient people. We know at least that the woman is a Mohammedan by the fact that her head is covered. There is but one item in this scene that serves to distinguish it from like scenes, such as might have been witnessed in Jaffa from the days of the ancient Philistines down to the present time. That item is the umbrella. That is modern. In all other respects the picture illustrates thousands of years of history.

dew, neither let there be rain, upon you, nor fields of offerings: for there the shield of the mighty is vilely cast away, the shield of Saul, as though he had not been anointed with oil.

22 From the blood of the slain, from the fat of the mighty, the bow of Jonathan turned not back, and the sword of Saul returned not empty.<sup>3</sup>

23 Saul and Jonathan were lovely and pleasant in their lives, and in their death they were not divided: they were swifter than eagles, they were stronger than lions.

24 Ye daughters of Israel, weep over Saul, who clothed you in scarlet,<sup>4</sup> with other delights,<sup>5</sup> who put on ornaments<sup>6</sup> of gold upon your apparel.

25 How are the mighty fallen in the midst of the battle! O Jonathan, thou wast slain in thine high places.

26 I am distressed for thee, my brother Jonathan: very pleasant hast thou been unto me: thy love to me was wonderful, passing the love of women.

27 How are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war perished!

CHAPTER II.

1 David, by God's direction, with his company goeth up to Hebron, where he is made king over Judah. 5 He commendeth the men of Jabesh-gilead for their kindness to Saul. 8 Abner maketh Ishbosheth king of Israel. 12 A mortal skirmish between twelve of Abner's and twelve of Joab's men. 18 Asahel is slain. 25 At Abner's motion Joab soundeth a retreat. 32 Asahel's burial.

AND it came to pass after this, that David inquired of the LORD,<sup>1</sup> saying, Shall I go up into any of the cities of Judah? And the LORD said unto him, Go up. And David said, Whither shall I go up? And he said, Unto Hebron.<sup>2</sup>

2 So David went up thither, and his two wives also, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail, Nabal's wife, the Carmelite.

5 And David sent messengers unto the men of Jabesh-gilead,<sup>3</sup> and said unto them, Blessed be ye of the LORD, that ye have showed this kindness unto your lord, even unto Saul, and have buried him.

6 And now the LORD show kindness and truth unto you: and I also will requite you this kindness, because ye have done this thing.

treatises. Many of the titles appear at first sight to have little connection with the subject-matter, and it often requires a lengthened explanation to show their significance. I have no doubt that the title of this noble ode was Kesheth, 'The bow.' The reason for the title it is not difficult to perceive. The bow is mentioned in ver. 22; it is besides a martial ode, and the bow was one of the principal weapons used in the fatal battle of Gilboa—a weapon, too, in the use of which the Benjamites were especially skilled. Taken in this sense the words of David are appropriate and most expressive. 'Teach the children of Judah Kesheth; behold, it is written in the Book of the Righteous.' P.]

Ver. 19. [This is one of the finest odes of the Old Testament. For martial fire, mingled with lofty sentiment and deep pathos, it is scarcely surpassed in the whole compass of literature. The noblest qualities of David are here displayed in a way that is almost unique in the history of poetry.]

oil.' It is the shield, and not the king, that is spoken of. It was not cleansed or polished. P.]

Ver. 23. [Saul and Jonathan were lovely and pleasant in their lives. This seems inconsistent with Saul's attempt against the life of Jonathan, 1 Sa. 20. 30-34. But however deeply culpable, this was but a solitary act, and not any habitual disagreement. C.]

Ver. 25. [Jonathan was noted for daring exploits. A trained mountaineer, the widest cliffs were the scenes of his greatest feats of arms. Yet on Mount Gilboa he fell. This in the mind of the enthusiastic warrior-poet enhanced the humiliation of defeat: 'Jonathan slain on thy heights!' P.]

REFLECTIONS.—How glorious is it to be thoroughly mortified to all worldly advancements, even when a kingdom is promised! He that believeth does not make haste. But base minds readily measure others by themselves: who, for the sake of power or have been done to us. And let us speak nothing but in commendation, unless when duty forces us to it. But let the triumphing of the wicked over the cause of God be always grievous to us. In fine, let this song teach us generosity towards our injurers, gratitude towards our steady friends, and a deep concern for the honour of our God and the welfare of our country.

CHAPTER II. REFLECTIONS.—It is proper to commence every important project with solemn prayer to God. Such as wait upon God for direction shall be led in the right way to their kingdom; but ordinarily their advancement is gradual. Such as shared with us in our sufferings should share with us in our honours. If we suffer with Christ, we shall also reign with him. Kindness to our friends, or even injurious predecessors in office, ought to be considered as by the pool of Gibeon: and they sat down, the one on the one side of the pool, and the other on the other side of the pool.

14 And Abner said to Joab, Let the young men now arise and <sup>2</sup>play before us.<sup>3</sup> And Joab said, Let them arise.

15 Then there arose and went over by number, twelve of Benjamin, which pertained to Ish-bosheth<sup>4</sup> the son of Saul, and twelve of the servants of David.

16 And they caught every one his fellow by the head,<sup>4</sup> and thrust his sword in his fellow's side; so they fell down together: wherefore that place was called Helkath-hazzurim,<sup>5</sup> which is in Gibeon.

17 And there was a very sore battle that day; and Abner was <sup>6</sup>beaten, and the men of Israel, before the servants of David.

18 ¶ And there were <sup>7</sup>three sons of Zeruiah there, Joab, and Abishai, and Asahel: and Asahel was <sup>8</sup>as light of foot as a wild <sup>9</sup>roe.<sup>7</sup>

19 And Asahel pursued after Abner; and in going he turned not to the right hand nor to the left <sup>10</sup>from following Abner.

20 Then Abner looked behind him, and said, Art thou Asahel? And he answered, I am.

22 And Abner said again to Asahel, Turn thee aside from following me: wherefore should I <sup>12</sup>smite thee to the ground? how then should I hold up my face to Joab thy brother?<sup>8</sup>

23 Howbeit he refused to turn aside: wherefore Abner with the hinder end of the spear smote him <sup>13</sup>under the fifth rib, that the spear came out behind him; and he fell down there, and died in the same place: and it came to pass, that as many as came to the place where Asahel fell down and died stood still.

24 Joab also and Abishai pursued after Abner: and the sun went down when they were come to the hill of Ammah, that lieth before Giah, by the way of the wilderness of Gibeon.<sup>9</sup>

25 ¶ And the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together after Abner, and became one troop, and stood on the top of an hill.<sup>9</sup>

26 Then Abner called to Joab, and said,

<sup>3</sup> So it ever has been, since sin entered into the world, that the infliction of mutual injury or death has been matter of sport to the spectators. We wonder little at such a circumstance in the rude and unsettled times from which Israel was but emerging; we wonder little at it amongst the gladiators of leavened Rome: but that remnants of it should still linger in Christian lands, is both matter of wonder, sorrow, and deep humiliation. C.—The leaders, no doubt, met with hostile intent, but the men on each side felt they were countrymen, and were reluctant to fight. The two generals, therefore, thought of a device which has often been employed in the East and elsewhere, to excite them to battle when relationship or other causes made them unwilling to engage. Twelve men were matched to fight against each other, and so well matched, that they all fell by each other's hand, which exasperated the opposing forces into a general action.—L.

NOW there was <sup>1</sup>long war between the house of Saul and the house of David: but <sup>2</sup>David waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

3 And his second, <sup>5</sup>Chileab, of Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite; and the third, <sup>6</sup>Abshalom, the son of Maacah, the daughter of <sup>7</sup>Talmai king of <sup>8</sup>Geshur;<sup>2</sup>

4 And the fourth, <sup>9</sup>Adonijah, the son of Haggith; and the fifth, Shephatiah, the son of Abital;

5 And the sixth, Ithream, by Eglah, David's wife.<sup>3</sup> These were born to David in Hebron.

6 ¶ And it came to pass, while there was war between the house of Saul and the house of David, that Abner made <sup>4</sup>himself strong for the house of Saul.

THE JORDAN AT DAN—WHERE JEROBOAM SET UP THE GOLDEN CALF. [II, SAMUEL III: 10.]—"To translate the kingdom from the house of Saul, and to set up the throne of David over Israel and over Judah, from Dan even to Beer-sheba." Dan is the most northern city of Canaan. It was originally called Leshem (Josh. xix: 47). The inhabitants were related to the Sidonians. They lived by trade and had no defense. Hence the place was easily conquered by the Danites and named Dan. It is now known as Tell el-Kadi, and is the western and smaller of the two sources of the Jordan. It is four miles from Caesarea Philippi on the road to Tyre. There are many ruins here, all overgrown with rank weeds and poplar trees. This was the chief seat of Jeroboam's idolatry, where he set up a golden calf. A little more than a mile southwest of Tell el-Kadi is a ruined mound, called Daphne by Josephus, on which he said stood the idolatrous shrine which Jeroboam erected.

7 And Saul had a concubine, whose name was Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah: and Ish-bosheth said to Abner, Wherefore hast thou gone<sup>m</sup> in unto my father's concubine?<sup>3</sup>

8 Then was Abner very wroth for the words of Ish-bosheth, and said, Am I a dog's head, which against Judah do show kindness this day unto the house of Saul thy father, to his brethren, and to his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David, that thou chargest me to-day with a fault concerning this woman?

9 So<sup>p</sup> do God to Abner, and more also, except, as the LORD hath sworn to David, even so I do to him;

10 To translate the kingdom from the house of Saul, and to set up the throne of David over Israel and over Judah, from Dan even to Beer-sheba.

11 And he could not answer Abner a word again, because he feared him.

12 ¶ And Abner sent messengers to David on his behalf, saying, Whose is the land?<sup>4</sup> saying also, Make thy league with me, and, behold, my hand shall be with thee, to bring about all Israel unto thee.

13 ¶ And he said, Well; I will make a league with thee: but one thing I require of thee, that is,<sup>5</sup> Thou<sup>a</sup> shalt not see my face, except thou first bring Michal,<sup>6</sup> Saul's daughter, when thou comest to see my face.

14 And David sent messengers to Ish-bosheth, Saul's son, saying, Deliver me<sup>a</sup> my wife Michal, which I espoused to me for an hundred foreskins of the Philistines.

15 And Ish-bosheth sent, and took her from her husband, even<sup>a</sup> from Phaltiel the son of Laish.

16 And her husband went with her along weeping<sup>a</sup> behind her to Bahurim.<sup>7</sup> Then said Abner unto him, Go, return. And he returned.

17 ¶ And Abner had communication with the elders of Israel, saying, Ye sought for David in times past<sup>8</sup> to be king over you:

18 Now then do it; for the LORD hath spoken of David, saying, By the hand of my servant David I will save my people Israel out of the hand of the Philistines, and out of the hand of all their enemies.<sup>9</sup>

19 And Abner also spake in the ears of Benjamin:<sup>1</sup> and Abner went also to speak in the ears of David in Hebron all that seemed and go, and will gather all Israel unto my lord the king, that they may make a league with thee, and that thou mayest reign over all that thine heart desireth. And David sent Abner away; and he went in peace.

22 ¶ And, behold, the servants of David and Joab came from pursuing a troop,<sup>3</sup> and brought in a great spoil with them: but Abner was not with David in Hebron; for he had sent him away, and he was gone in peace.

23 When Joab and all the host that was with him were come, they told Joab, saying, Abner the son of Ner came to the king, and he hath sent him away, and he is gone in peace.

24 Then Joab came to the king, and said, What hast thou done?<sup>4</sup> behold, Abner came unto thee; why is it that thou hast sent him away, and he is quite gone?<sup>5</sup>

25 Thou knowest Abner the son of Ner, that he came to deceive thee, and to know thy going out, and thy coming in, and to know all that thou doest.

26 And when Joab was come out from David, he sent messengers after Abner, which brought him again from the well of Sirah: but David knew it not.

27 And when Abner was returned to Hebron, Joab took him aside in the gate to speak with him quietly,<sup>6</sup> and smote him there under the fifth rib,<sup>7</sup> that he died, for the blood of Asahel his brother.

28 ¶ And afterward, when David heard it, he said, I and my kingdom are guiltless before the LORD for ever from the blood of Abner the son of Ner:

29 Let<sup>m</sup> it rest on the head of Joab, and on all his father's house; and let there not fail from the house of Joab one that hath an issue; or that is a leper, or that leaneth on a staff, or that falleth on the sword, or that lacketh bread.<sup>7</sup>

30 So Joab and Abishai his brother slew Abner, because he had slain their brother Asahel at Gibeon in the battle.

31 ¶ And David said to Joab, and to all the people that were with him, Rend your clothes, and gird you with sackcloth, and mourn before Abner. And king David himself followed the bier.

32 And they buried Abner in Hebron: and the king lifted up his voice, and wept at the grave of Abner; and all the people wept.

35 And when all the people came to 'cause David to eat meat while it was yet day, David ware, saying, 'So do God to me, and more so, if I taste bread, or ought else, till the sun be down.

37 For all the people, and all Israel, understood that day, that it was not of the king to slay Abner the son of Ner.

39 And I am this day weak, though anointed king; and these men the sons of Zeruiah be too hard for me:<sup>5</sup> the LORD shall reward the doer of evil according to his wickedness.

6 And they came thither into the midst of the house, as though they would have fetched wheat;<sup>6</sup> and they <sup>k</sup>smote him under the fifth rib: and Rechab and Baanah his brother escaped.

THEN <sup>a</sup>came all the tribes of Israel<sup>1</sup> to David unto Hebron, and spake, saying, Behold, we are thy <sup>b</sup>bone and thy flesh.

2 Also in time past, when Saul was king over us, thou wast he that <sup>c</sup>leddest out and broughtest in Israel: and the LORD <sup>a</sup>said to thee, Thou shalt feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be a captain over Israel.<sup>2</sup>

3 So all the elders of Israel came to the king to Hebron; and king David <sup>e</sup>made a <sup>3</sup>league with them in Hebron <sup>f</sup>before the LORD: and they <sup>g</sup>anointed David king over Israel.

4 ¶ David was <sup>h</sup>thirty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years.

5 In<sup>t</sup> Hebron he reigned over Judah seven years and six months; and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years over all Israel and Judah.

8 And David said on that day, <sup>Whosoever</sup> getteth up to the gutter, and smiteth the Jebusites, and the lame and the blind, <sup>that are</sup> hated of David's soul, <sup>he shall be chief and captain</sup>. Wherefore they said, The blind and the lame shall not come into the house.<sup>4</sup>

9 So David dwelt in the fort, and called it, The city of David: and David built round about, from <sup>Millo</sup> and inward.

10 And David <sup>went</sup> on, and grew great; and the LORD God of hosts <sup>was</sup> with him.

It lies south of Jerusalem, beginning immediately behind the low ridge which skirts the ravine of Hinnom, and extending southward along the road to Bethle- hem for more than a mile. The plain is flat and fertile, but is shut in on all sides by rocky hill-tops and ridges.—P.

The Philistines had indeed conveyed the ark home upon a cart, but that should have formed no precedent for David. It forms a melancholy example either of ignorance, inattention, or neglect, even in a reformation commenced and carried on with zeal for the glory of God. Shall I go up to the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the LORD <sup>said</sup> unto David, Go up; for I will doubtless deliver the Philistines into thine hand.<sup>9</sup>

20 And <sup>David</sup> came to Baal-perazim, and David smote them there, and said, The LORD hath broken forth upon mine enemies before me, as the breach of waters. Therefore he called the name of that place Baal-perazim.<sup>1</sup>

22 ¶ And the Philistines came up <sup>yet</sup> again, and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim.

23 And when David <sup>inquired</sup> of the LORD, he said, Thou shalt not go up; <sup>but</sup> <sup>fetch</sup> a compass behind them, and come upon them over against the mulberry-trees.

24 And let it be, when thou hearest the <sup>sound</sup> of a going in the tops of the mulberry-trees, that then <sup>thou</sup> shalt bestir thyself: for then shall the LORD go out before thee, to smite the host of the Philistines.

25 And <sup>David</sup> did so, as the LORD had commanded him; and smote the Philistines from <sup>Geba</sup> until thou come to Gazer.

CHAPTER VI.

1 David fetcheth the ark from Kirjath-jearim on a new cart. 6 Uzzah is smitten at Perez-uzzah. 9 God blesseth Obed-edom for the ark. 12 David bringing the ark into Zion with sacrifices, danceth before it, for which Michal despiseth him. 17 He placeth it in a tabernacle with sacrifices and feasting. 20 Michal reproving David for his religious joy is childless to her death.

AGAIN David <sup>gathered</sup> together all the chosen men of Israel, thirty thousand.

2 And <sup>David</sup> arose, and went with all the people that <sup>were</sup> with him from <sup>Baale</sup> of Judah, to bring up from thence the ark of God, <sup>whose</sup> name is called by the name of The LORD of hosts, that <sup>dwell</sup>eth <sup>between</sup> the cherubims.

3 And they <sup>set</sup> the ark of God upon a new cart,<sup>2</sup> and brought it out of the house of Abinadab that <sup>was</sup> in Gibeah: and Uzzah and Ahio, the sons of Abinadab, drave the new cart.

4 And they brought it out of the house of Abinadab, which <sup>was</sup> at <sup>Gibeah</sup>, accompanying blind and the lame continued to say, He shall not come into this house.' C.]

Ver. 8. [This passage, which has given rise to so much difficulty and discussion, when translated literally and correctly, is easily understood:—and the Jebusite 'spake to David, saying, Thou shalt not come up hither, for the blind and the lame will drive you back; meaning (or saying) that David would not (that is, could not) go up thither. But David captured the whole of Zion, which is the city of David. The with fresh vigour, and his fiery spirit being stung by the taunts of the Jebusites, he spake the words recorded above. The walls were scaled by Joab and his men, the blind and the lame were smitten, and the fortress taken. In memory of this remarkable incident blind and lame persons were never afterwards permitted to enter the citadel of Zion. Hence the proverb. P.]

gods can take of themselves or their votaries! And how men prosper in war when they make God their director!

CHAPTER VI. REFLECTIONS.—Perpetual visibility and splendour are no marks of a true church. The ark, the most noted symbol of God's presence, continued long in obscurity. God can be graciously present with his people even when they want his solemn

EXTERIOR OF THE TOWER OF DAVID. [II. Samuel, v:9].—"So David dwelt in the fort, and called it the City of David. And David built round about from Millo and inward." The Tower of David stands in that part of Jerusalem which he first captured, and where he lived. The present building we see is called the Hippicus of Herod, which was spared by Titus, as Josephus asserts, in order to remain as a perpetual testimony of the difficulties which the Roman conquerers overcame. It was erected by Herod and named in honor of his friend Hippicus. The present entrance is on the west side. The royal castle and palace of Herod was connected with this and other towers. The whole was very strongly fortified and fitted up with great splendor. Josephus speaks of its magnificent halls, gardens, and sculptures. Nothing is left but the base of the tower we see.

GENERAL VIEW OF THE MOSQUE EL-AKSA—A PLACE OF MOHAMMEDAN WORSHIP ON THE PREMISES, WHERE THE TEMPLE BUILT BY DAVID'S SON, SOLOMON, ONCE STOOD. [II. Samuel, vi:17.]—"And they brought in the ark of the Lord, and set it in his place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had pitched for it; and David offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before the Lord." The Mosque el-Aksa stands upon a portion of the ground once occupied by the temple. Where the ark rested in

Jerusalem before the temple was built we do not know. In all probability the tabernacle which David pitched in Jerusalem was upon the same ground upon which Solomon afterwards built the temple. This is very probable, because this part of Jerusalem, containing thirty-five acres of land, has, as far as we know, in all ages been reserved for purposes of worship. It seems very reasonable, then, to conclude that the tabernacle David pitched for the ark rested upon the same premises we now behold represented in this picture.

the ark of God; and Ahio went before the ark.

5 And David, and all the house of Israel, played before the LORD on all manner of instruments made of fir-wood; even on harps, and on psalteries, and on timbrels, and on cornets, and on cymbals.

6 ¶ And when they came to Nachon's thrashing-floor, Uzzah put forth his hand to the ark of God, and took hold of it; for the oxen shook<sup>3</sup> it.

7 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Uzzah; and God smote him there for his error;<sup>4</sup> and there he died by the ark of God.<sup>5</sup>

8 And David was displeased,<sup>6</sup> because the LORD had made a breach<sup>7</sup> upon Uzzah: and he called the name of the place Perez-uzzah<sup>8</sup> to this day.

9 And David was afraid of the LORD that day, and said, How shall the ark of the LORD come to me?

10 So David would not remove the ark of the LORD unto him into the city of David; but David carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom the Gittite.<sup>9</sup>

11 And the ark of the LORD continued in the house of Obed-edom the Gittite three months: and the LORD blessed Obed-edom, and all his household.

12 ¶ And it was told king David, saying, The LORD hath blessed the house of Obed-edom, and all that pertaineth unto him, because of the ark of God. So David went and brought up the ark of God from the house of Obed-edom, into the city of David with gladness.

13 And it was so, that, when they that bare the ark<sup>1</sup> of the LORD had gone six paces, he sacrificed oxen and fatlings.<sup>2</sup>

14 And David danced<sup>3</sup> before the LORD with all his might; and David was girded with a linen ephod.

15 So David and all the house of Israel brought up the ark of the LORD with shouting, and with the sound of the trumpet.

16 And as the ark of the LORD came into the city of David, Michal, Saul's daughter, looked through a window, and saw king David leaping and dancing before the LORD; and she despised him in her heart.

5 Nathan spoke according to his own judgment. He drew his conclusion from David's divine call to the kingdom the evident prosperity that God had bestowed upon him, and the goodness of the object proposed. But God, who judges not as men judge, directs the prophet to countermand his own order.—Nitz. It is not enough to mean well in what we propose for God's cause and honour, we must take care that the plan, the time, and the agency are such as God approves.

6 But how easy these be known, if there be no prophet to receive and deliver the mind of God? Search the Scriptures, pray for the Spirit, and wait upon Providence.—C.

17 ¶ And they brought in the ark of the LORD, and set it in his place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had pitched<sup>5</sup> for it: and David offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before the LORD.

18 And as soon as David had made an end of offering burnt-offerings and peace-offerings, he blessed<sup>6</sup> the people in the name of the LORD of hosts.

19 And he dealt among all the people, even among the whole multitude of Israel, as well to the women as men, to every one a cake of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine. So all the people departed every one to his house.

20 ¶ Then David returned to bless his household. And Michal, the daughter of Saul, came out to meet David, and said, How glorious was the king of Israel to-day, who uncovered<sup>8</sup> himself to-day in the eyes of the handmaids of his servants, as one of the vain fellows shamelessly uncovereth himself!

21 And David said unto Michal, It was before the LORD, which chose me before thy father, and before all his house, to appoint me ruler over the people of the LORD, over Israel: therefore will I play before the LORD.

22 And I will yet be more vile than thus, and will be base in mine own sight;<sup>9</sup> and of the maid-servants which thou hast spoken of, of them shall I be had in honour.

23 Therefore<sup>h</sup> Michal, the daughter of Saul, had no child unto the day of her death.

CHAPTER VII.

1 Nathan, first approving the purpose of David to build God an house, 4 afterward by the word of God forbiddeth it. 12 He promiseth him benefits and blessings in his seed. 18 David's prayer and thanksgiving.

AND it came to pass, when the king sat in his house, and the LORD had given him rest round about from all his enemies,

2 That the king said unto Nathan the prophet, See now, I dwell in an house of cedar, but the ark of God dwelleth within curtains.

3 And Nathan said to the king, Go, do all that is in thine heart;<sup>1</sup> for the LORD is with thee.

4 ¶ And it came to pass that night, that the word of the LORD came unto Nathan, saying,

5 Go and tell my servant David, Thus saith the LORD, 'Shalt thou build me an house for me to dwell in?

6 Whereas<sup>g</sup> I have not dwelt in any house since the time that I brought up the children of Israel out of Egypt even to this day, but have walked in a tent and in a tabernacle.

7 In all the places wherein I have walked with all the children of Israel, spake I a word with any of the tribes of Israel, whom I commanded to feed my people Israel, saying, Why build ye not me an house of cedar?

8 Now therefore so shalt thou say unto my servant David, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, I<sup>t</sup> took thee from the sheep-cote, from following the sheep, to be ruler over my people, over Israel: .

9 And I<sup>k</sup> was with thee whithersoever thou wentest, and have cut off all thine enemies out of thy sight, and have made thee a great name, like unto the name of the great men that are in the earth.

10 (Moreover, I will appoint<sup>a</sup> a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, that they may dwell in a place of their own, and move no more; neither shall the children of wickedness afflict them any more, as beforetime, 11 And as since the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Israel, and have caused thee to rest from all thine enemies.) Also the LORD telleth thee, that he<sup>m</sup> will make thee an house.

12 ¶ And when thy days be fulfilled, and thou shalt sleep with thy fathers,<sup>3</sup> I will set up thy seed after thee, which shall proceed out of thy bowels, and I will establish his kingdom.

13 He<sup>o</sup> shall build an house for my name, and I will stablish the throne of his kingdom for ever.

14 I<sup>p</sup> will be his father, and he shall be my son. If<sup>a</sup> he commit iniquity,<sup>4</sup> I will chasten him with the rod of men, and with the stripes of the children of men:

15 But my mercy shall not depart away from him, as I took it from Saul, whom I put away before thee.

16 And thine house and thy kingdom shall be established for ever before thee: thy throne shall be established for ever.

17 According<sup>t</sup> to all these words, and according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David.

14 How could this be Messiah, seeing it is admitted this son may commit iniquity? The passage should be translated thus:—'Even in his

him with the rod of men (i.e. with the rod due to men), and with the stripes (due

6 Dr. J. Pye Smith translates the passage thus:—'What am I, O Lord, Jehovah, and what my house, that thou hast brought me to this point (of exaltation)? And little (us) even this in thine eyes, O Lord, Jehovah; thou hast never spoken with respect to the house of thy servant, unto a vast extent: And this (is) the law of the Adam,
O Lord, Jehovah.'—
This passage reveals the second Adam as David's son, with a spiritual house, and an everlasting kingdom. It cannot mean Solomon, for he was on the throne during David's life; but the seed here promised, ver. 12, is set up after David's death, and his throne and kingdom (ver. 13) are for ever.—C.

LORD God? and what is my house, that thou hast brought me hitherto?<sup>5</sup>

19 And this was yet a small thing in thy sight, O LORD God; but thou hast spoken also of thy servant's house for a great while to come: and is this the manner<sup>6</sup> of man, O LORD God?

20 And what can David say more unto thee? for thou, LORD God, knowest thy servant.

21 For<sup>a</sup> thy word's sake, and according to thine own heart, hast thou done all these great things, to make thy servant know them.

22 Wherefore<sup>b</sup> thou art great, O LORD God: for there is none like thee, neither is there any God besides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

23 And what one nation in the earth is like thy people, even like Israel, whom God went to redeem for a people to himself, and to make him a name, and to do for you great things and terrible, for thy land, before thy people, which thou redeemedst to thee from Egypt, from the nations and their gods?

24 For thou hast confirmed to thyself thy people Israel, to be a people unto thee for ever; and thou, LORD, art become their God.

25 And now, O LORD God, the word that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, establish it for ever, and do as thou hast said.

26 And let thy name be magnified for ever, saying, The LORD of hosts is the God over Israel: and let the house of thy servant David be established before thee.

27 For thou, O LORD of hosts, God of Israel, hast revealed to thy servant, saying, I will build thee an house; therefore hath thy servant found in his heart to pray this prayer unto thee.

28 And now, O LORD God, thou art that God, and thy words be true, and thou hast promised this goodness unto thy servant:

29 Therefore now let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may continue for ever before thee: for thou, O LORD God, hast spoken it; and with thy blessing let the house of thy servant be blessed for ever.<sup>1</sup>

CHAPTER VIII.

1 David subdueth the Philistines, and maketh the Moabites tributary. 3 He smiteth Hadadezer and the Syrians. 9 Toi sendeth his son with presents to bless him. 11 The presents and the spoil David dedicateth to God. 14 He putteth garrisons in Edom. 16 A list of his principal officers.

2 And he smote Moab, and measured them with a line, casting them down to the ground; even<sup>d</sup> with two lines measured he to put to death, and with one full line to keep alive: and so the Moabites became David's servants, and brought gifts.

3 ¶ David smote<sup>2</sup> also Hadadezer, the son of Rehob, king of Zoobah, as he<sup>4</sup> went to recover his border at the river Euphrates.

4 And David took from him a thousand chariots, and seven hundred<sup>5</sup> horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen: and David houghed all the chariot-horses, but reserved of them for an hundred chariots.

5 And when the Syrians<sup>6</sup> of Damascus came to succour Hadadezer king of Zobah, David slew of the Syrians two and twenty thousand men.

6 Then David put garrisons in Syria of Damascus; and the Syrians became servants to David, and brought gifts. And the Lord preserved David whithersoever he went.

7 And David took<sup>m</sup> the shields of gold that were on the servants of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jerusalem.

8 And from Bethah, and from Berothai, cities of Hadadezer, king David took exceeding much brass.

9 ¶ When Toi king of Hamath heard that David had smitten all the host of Hadadezer,

10 Then Toi sent Joram his son unto king David to salute him, and to bless him, because he had fought against Hadadezer, and smitten him: (for Hadadezer had wars<sup>7</sup> with Toi:) and Joram brought with him<sup>8</sup> vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and vessels of brass;

11 Which also king David did dedicate unto the Lord, with the silver and gold that he had dedicated of all nations which he subdued;

David is said to have taken seven thousand horsemen, here only seven hundred; and as the Hebrew letters that stand for these numbers are very similar, the difference is generally ascribed to some error of a transcriber. There is, however, no necessity for a reconciliation where there is really no contradiction; both accounts may be correct, but referring to two different decisions. C.

AND David said, Is there yet any that is left of the house of Saul, that I may show him kindness for Jonathan's sake?<sup>1</sup>

2 And there was of the house of Saul a servant, whose name was Ziba: and when they had called him unto David, the king said unto him, Art thou Ziba? And he said, Thy servant is he.

3 And the king said, Is there not yet any of the house of Saul, that I may show the kindness of God<sup>2</sup> unto him? And Ziba said unto the king, Jonathan hath yet a son, which is lame on his feet.

¶ Heb. the house of Saul had a servant, Ge. 15. 3. 24. 2. ch. 16. 1. 19. 17. 18. c 1 Sa. 20. 14. 15. Lu. 6. 36. Mat. 5. 44. 1 Pe. 3. 9. d 1 Ch. 8. 34. 38. 9. 40. 44. ch. 4. 4. 119. 24. 30.

brew, word for word as here, except that instead of Metheg-ammah, it has 'Gath and her daughters.' The word metheg signifies 'bridle,' and ammah 'mother,' which in eastern idiom is often applied to a metropolis. Hence the word Metheg-ammah may mean 'the bridle (i.e. the command or government) of the metropolis.' Thus interpreted the parallel passages are identical in meaning. Gath was the metropolis of Philistia. When David took 'Gath and her daughters,' he took the government of the metropolis of the Philistines. P.]

Ver. 2. [With one full line to keep alive. Some interpreters think, that according to an asserted oriental custom, David caused his prisoners to be cast on the ground; and, as a summary form of judgment, divided them by lines for life or death. Others conceive the Hamath on the north, Damascus on the south, and the Euphrates on the east. It seems to me probable that the city of Zobah stood upon the site of the classic Emesa, now Hums; and that during the reign of the Seleucidae the ancient name was forgotten. P.]

Ver. 13. [There appears to be a slight error in the Hebrew text here. The valley of Salt was in the Arabah, near the southern shore of the Dead Sea, where there is a remarkable range of salt hills. Syria or Aram was far distant, at the extreme north of Palestine. The parallel passage in 1 Ch. 18. 12 enables us to detect and correct the error: 'Moreover, Abishai slew of the Edomites in the valley of Salt eighteen thousand.' The words Aram and Edom closely resemble each other, in Hebrew; and the context, as well as the parties is applied to certain Philistines, 1 Sa. 30. 14; Eze. 25. 16; Zep. 2. 5; hence some conclude they were, by birth, Philistines, enlisted into David's army. Others consider them to be those Israelites who, having adhered to David when he sojourned in Philistia, took this distinctive title to mark their early and well-tryed loyalty. The Pelethites some derive from Peleth, mentioned ch. 12. 2 as one of David's principal officers. The Jewish Targum calls them 'archers and slingers;' Gesenius 'headsmen' and 'couriers;' and these several explanations may all be true, as the duties assigned are not incompatible. C.]

REFLECTIONS.—Faithful is he who hath promised. Now, after many ages, he put Israel into the full enjoyment of all their promised territory, from the

ROAD FROM BEYROUT TO DAMASCUS—IN KING DAVID'S DOMINIONS. [II. Samuel, viii:8.]—"And from Betah, and from Berothai, cities of Hadadezer, King David took exceeding much brass." Dr. William M. Thompson thinks that the Berothai of II. Samuel, viii:8, is possibly Beyrout. This he supposes because Hadadezer was either King of Damascus or in close alliance with it, and thus that Beyrout may have been the seaport of Damascus as it is to-day, and that after David had conquered Damascus he might have crossed over Lebanon to her seaport where he collected exceeding much brass. The view we give above is on the road between Beyrout and Damascus. We get a view of a little spur of the Lebanon mountains of which Isaiah speaks as follows: "Lebanon is ashamed and hewn down." "The high ones of stature shall be hewn down." "Lebanon shall fall by a mighty one." (Isaiah xxxiii:9; x:33, 34.) And of which Ezekiel speaks as follows: "Upon the mountains and in all the valleys his branches are fallen." —(Ezekiel, xxxi:12.)

4 And the king said unto him, Where is he? And Ziba said unto the king, Behold, he is in the house of Machir, the son of Ammiel, in Lo-debar.<sup>3</sup>

5 ¶ Then king David sent and fetched him out of the house of Machir, the son of Ammiel, from Lo-debar.

6 Now when Mephibosheth, the son of Jonathan, the son of Saul, was come unto David, he fell on his face,<sup>4</sup> and did reverence. And David said, Mephibosheth! And he answered, Behold thy servant!

7 ¶ And David said unto him, Fear not; for I will surely show thee kindness for Jonathan thy father's sake, and will restore thee all the land of Saul thy father; and thou shalt eat bread at my table continually.

8 And he bowed himself, and said, What is thy servant, that thou shouldest look upon such a dead dog as I am?

9 ¶ Then the king called to Ziba, Saul's servant, and said unto him, I have given unto thy master's son all that pertained to Saul, and to all his house.

10 Thou therefore, and thy sons, and thy servants, shall till the land for him, and thou shalt bring in the fruits, that thy master's son may have food to eat;<sup>5</sup> but Mephibosheth thy master's son shall eat bread always at my table.<sup>6</sup> Now Ziba had fifteen sons and twenty servants.

11 Then said Ziba unto the king, According to all that my lord the king hath commanded his servant, so shall thy servant do. As for Mephibosheth, said the king, he shall eat at my table, as one of the king's sons.

12 And Mephibosheth had a young son, whose name was Micah: and all that dwelt in the house<sup>7</sup> of Ziba were servants unto Mephibosheth.

13 So Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem: for he did eat continually at the king's table; and was lame on both his feet.

CHAPTER X.

1 David's messengers, sent to comfort Hanun the son of Nahash, are disgracefully entreated. 6 The Ammonites, strengthened by the Syrians, are overcome by Joab and Abishai. 15 Hadadrezzer sendeth a new army of Syrians under Shobach, which is defeated by David.

AND it came to pass after this, that the king<sup>a</sup> of the children of Ammon died, and Hanun his son reigned in his stead.

2 Then said David, I will show kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash, as his father showed kindness unto me.<sup>b</sup> And David sent

It is a remarkable fact that when David fled from Jerusalem, at the time of Absalom's rebellion, and settled at Mahanaim, Machir of Lodebar was among the first to supply the wants of the royal refugees.—P.

<sup>12</sup> This eating at a king's table was of two kinds, the one public and ceremonious, the other private. Sir John Chardin understands these passages which speak of a right to eat at the royal table as meaning only a right to a seat there when the repast was public and solemn.

<sup>13</sup> Thus in a MS. note on 1 Ki. 2. 7 he tells us that it was to be understood of the term for an assembly of lords, not of the daily and ordinary repast. Hence, though Mephibosheth was to eat at all public times at the king's table, yet he would require the produce of his own lands for food at other times.—L.

s The noblest military virtues are concord; and, if Joab really felt as he spoke, indicating more of pious regard and resignation to the will of God than his previous character would lead us to expect. One fact it develops, as it shows that Joab's popularity with the army, which rendered him more a master than a servant to David, arose from the energy of his appropriate to comfort him by the hand of his servants for his father. And David's servants came into the land of the children of Ammon.

3 And the princes of the children of Ammon said unto Hanun their lord, Thinkest thou that David<sup>2</sup> doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? hath not David rather sent his servants unto thee to search the city, and to spy it out, and to overthrow it?

4 Wherefore Hanun took David's servants, and shaved off the one half of their beards, and cut off their garments in the middle, even to their buttocks, and sent them away.

5 When they told it unto David, he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed: and the king said, Tarry at Jericho<sup>4</sup> until your beards be grown, and then return.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon saw that they stank before David, the children of Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-rehob, and the Syrians of Zoba, twenty thousand footmen, and of king Maacah<sup>5</sup> a thousand men, and of Ish-tob twelve thousand men.

7 And when David heard of it, he sent Joab, and all the host of the mighty men.

8 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battle in array at the entering in of the gate: and the Syrians of Zoba, and of Rehob, and Ish-tob, and Maacah, were by themselves in the field.<sup>6</sup>

9 When Joab saw that the front of the battle was against him before and behind,<sup>7</sup> he chose of all the choice men of Israel, and put them in array against the Syrians:

10 And the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of Abishai his brother, that he might put them in array against the children of Ammon.

11 And he said, If the Syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me; but if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will come and help thee.

12 Be<sup>m</sup> of good courage, and let us play the men for our people, and for the cities of our God; and the Lord do that which seemeth him good.<sup>8</sup>

Joab returned from the children of Ammon, and came to Jerusalem.

15 ¶ And when the Syrians saw that they were smitten before Israel, they gathered themselves together.

16 And Hadarezer sent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the river; and they came to Helam: and Shobach, the captain of the host of Hadarezer, went before them.

17 And when it was told David, he gathered all Israel together, and passed over Jordan, and came to Helam: and the Syrians set themselves in array against David, and fought with him.

18 And the Syrians fled before Israel; and David slew the men of seven hundred chariots of the Syrians, and forty thousand horsemen, and smote Shobach, the captain of their host, who died there.

19 And when all the kings that were servants to Hadarezer saw that they were smitten before Israel, they made peace with Israel, and served them. So the Syrians feared to help the children of Ammon any more.

CHAPTER XI.

1 While Joab besieged Rabbah, 2 David committeth adultery with Bathsheba. 6 Uriah, sent for by David to cover the adultery, cometh to David, but refuseth to go down to his house. 14 He carrieth to Joab the letter of his death. 18 Joab sendeth the news thereof to David. 26 David taketh Bathsheba to wife.

AND it came to pass, after the year was expired, at the time when kings go forth to battle, that David sent Joab, and his servants with him, and all Israel; and they destroyed the children of Ammon, and besieged Rabbah: but David tarried still at Jerusalem.

2 ¶ And it came to pass in an evening-tide, that David arose from off his bed, and walked upon the roof of the king's house: and from the roof he saw a woman washing herself; and the woman was very beautiful to look upon.

3 And David sent and inquired after the woman. And one said, Is not this Bathsheba, the daughter of Eliam, the wife of Uriah the Hittite?

5 ¶ And the woman conceived, and sent and told David, and said, I am with child.

6 And David sent to Joab, saying, 'Send me Uriah the Hittite.' And Joab sent Uriah to David.

7 And when Uriah was come unto him, David demanded of him how<sup>5</sup> Joab did, and how the people did, and how the war prospered.

8 And David said to Uriah, "Go down to thy house, and wash thy feet." And Uriah departed out of the king's house, and there followed him<sup>7</sup> a mess<sup>8</sup> of meat from the king.

9 But Uriah slept at the door of the king's house with all the servants of his lord, and went not down to his house.

10 And when they had told David, saying, Uriah went not down unto his house, David said unto Uriah, Camest thou not from thy journey? why then didst thou not go down unto thine house?

11 And Uriah said unto David, *"The ark, and Israel, and Judah, abide in tents; and my lord Joab, and the servants of my lord, are encamped in the open fields; shall I then go into mine house, to eat and to drink, and to lie with my wife? 13 And when David had called him, he did eat and drink before him; and he made him drunk: and at even he went out to lie on his bed with the servants of his lord, but went not down to his house.

14 ¶ And it came to pass in the morning, that David wrote a letter to Joab, and sent it by the hand of Uriah.

When the devil has once got a soul before the wind of his temptations, he can drive it to the very brink of hell—to deliberate malice and murder. God, however highly displeased, may permit men for a time

16 And it came to pass, when Joab observed the city, that <sup>1</sup>he assigned Uriah unto a place where he knew that valiant men were.

17 And the men of the city went out and fought with Joab: and there fell some of the people of the servants of David; and Uriah the Hittite<sup>4</sup> died also.

18 ¶ Then Joab sent and told David all the things concerning the war;

19 And charged the messenger, saying, When thou hast made an end of telling<sup>5</sup> the matters of the war unto the king, 20 And if so be that the king's <sup>6</sup>wrath<sup>6</sup> arise, and he say unto thee, Wherefore approached ye so nigh unto the city when ye did fight? knew ye not that they would shoot from the wall?

21 Who smote <sup>7</sup>Abimelech the son of Jerubesheth? did not a woman cast a piece of a millstone upon him from the wall, that he died in Thebez?<sup>7</sup> why went ye nigh the wall? then say thou, Thy servant Uriah the Hittite is dead also.

22 ¶ So the messenger went, and came and showed David all that Joab had sent him for.

23 And the messenger said unto David, Surely the men prevailed against us, and came out unto us into the field, and we were upon them even unto the entering of the gate.

24 And the shooters shot from off the wall upon thy servants; and some of the king's servants be dead, and thy servant<sup>8</sup> Uriah the Hittite is dead also.

25 Then David said unto the messenger, Thus shalt thou say unto Joab, Let not this thing displease<sup>9</sup> thee; for <sup>10</sup>the sword devoureth one as well as another: <sup>11</sup>make thy battle more strong against the city, and overthrow it; and encourage thou him.

26 ¶ And when the wife of Uriah heard that Uriah her husband was dead, she mourned<sup>1</sup> for her husband.

27 And when the mourning was past, David sent and <sup>2</sup>fetcheth her to his house, and she became his wife,<sup>2</sup> and bare him a son. But the thing that David had done <sup>3</sup>displeased the LORD.<sup>3</sup>

8 Heb. caused to pass over.

9 He deserved to die as an adulterer and murderer. And though men have not sinned after the similitude of David's transgression, let them not be angry with God because

2 The rich man had <sup>1</sup>exceeding many flocks and herds;

3 But the poor man had nothing, save <sup>2</sup>one little ewe-lamb,<sup>1</sup> which he had bought, and nourished up; and it grew up together with him, and with his children: it did eat of his own meat, and drank of his own cup, and lay in his bosom, and was unto him as a daughter.

4 And there came a <sup>3</sup>traveller unto the rich man; and he spared to take of his own flock, and of his own herd, to dress for the wayfaring man that was come unto him; but <sup>4</sup>took the poor man's lamb, and dressed it for the man that was come to him.<sup>2</sup>

5 And <sup>5</sup>David's anger was greatly kindled against the man: and he said to Nathan, As the LORD liveth, the man that hath done this thing <sup>6</sup>shall surely<sup>3</sup> die.<sup>4</sup>

6 And he shall <sup>7</sup>restore the lamb fourfold, because he did this thing, and because he had no pity.

7 ¶ And Nathan said to David, <sup>8</sup>Thou art the man. Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, <sup>9</sup>I anointed thee king over Israel, and I delivered thee out of the hand of Saul;

8 And I gave thee thy master's house, and thy master's wives<sup>5</sup> into thy bosom, and gave thee the house of Israel and of Judah; and if that had been too little, I would moreover have given unto thee such and such things.

9 Wherefore hast thou <sup>10</sup>despised the commandment of the LORD, to do evil in his sight? thou hast killed Uriah the Hittite with the sword, and hast taken his wife to be thy wife, and hast slain him with the sword of the children of Ammon.

10 Now therefore <sup>11</sup>the sword shall never depart from thine house; because thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife.

11 Thus saith the LORD, Behold, <sup>12</sup>I will raise up evil against thee out of thine own house;<sup>6</sup> and I will take thy wives before thine eyes, and give them unto thy neighbour, and he shall lie with thy wives in the sight of this sun.

12 For thou didst it secretly: but I will do this thing before all Israel, and before the sun.

15 ¶ And Nathan departed unto his house: and the LORD <sup>1</sup>struck the child that Uriah's wife bare unto David, and it was very sick.

16 David therefore <sup>2</sup>besought God for the child; and David fasted,<sup>1</sup> and went in and lay all night upon the earth.<sup>2</sup>

17 And the elders<sup>3</sup> of his house arose, and went to him, to raise him up from the earth: but he would not, neither did he eat bread with them.

18 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that the child died. And the servants of David reared to tell him that the child was dead; for they said, Behold, while the child was yet alive, we spake unto him, and he would not hearken unto our voice; how will he then vex<sup>4</sup> himself, if we tell him that the child is dead?

19 But when David saw that his servants whispered, David perceived that the child was dead: therefore David said unto his servants, Is the child dead? And they said, He is dead.

20 Then David <sup>5</sup>arose from the earth, and washed, and anointed himself, and changed his apparel, and came into the house of the LORD, and worshipped:<sup>5</sup> then he came to his own house; and, when he required, they set bread before him, and he did eat.

21 Then said his servants unto him, What thing is this that thou hast done? thou didst fast and wept for the child, while it was alive; but when the child was dead, thou didst rise and eat bread.

22 And he said, <sup>6</sup>While the child was yet alive, I fasted and wept: for I said, Who can tell whether God will be gracious to me, that the child may live?

23 But now he is dead, wherefore should I fast? can I bring him back again? I shall <sup>7</sup>go to him, but he shall not return to me.<sup>6</sup>

25 And he<sup>1</sup> sent by the hand of <sup>9</sup>Nathan the prophet; and he called his name <sup>10</sup>Jedidiah, because of the LORD.

It is now called Aman, and is situated on the banks of the Jabbok, which rises in a pond on the south-west of the town. C.—Rabbah, or Rabbath-Ammon, called by the Greeks Philadelphia, stood on one of the upper tributaries of the Jabbok, about 25 miles east of the Jordan. It is now deserted. The ruins lie in a dreary valley, on both sides of a little stream which in winter becomes a torrent. The source of the stream is a short distance to the west, and the waters flow eastward. Another valley comes in from the north, and on its easterly side, at the point of junction, stands an isolated steep hill, on the top of which is the citadel, a fortress of great extent and strength.

Joab in his first attack took 'the city of the waters,' i.e. the lower town, which lay on the banks of the stream. But the citadel held out. Messengers were sent to David, who marched to the spot with a reinforcement, and captured the fortress.—C.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 Amnon loving Tamar, by Jonadab's counsel feigning himself sick, ravisheth her. 15 He hateth her, and shamefully turneth her out of his house. 19 Absalom entertaineth her, and concealeth his purpose. 23 At a sheep-shearing, among all the king's sons, he killeth Amnon. 30 David grieving at the news is comforted by Jonadab. 37 Absalom fleeth to Talmai at Geshur.

AND it came to pass after this, that <sup>1</sup>Absalom the son of David had <sup>2</sup>a fair sister, whose name was Tamar; and Amnon the son of David <sup>3</sup>loved her.

2 And Amnon was so <sup>4</sup>vexed, that he fell sick for his sister Tamar; for she was a virgin: and Amnon thought it hard for him to do any thing to her.<sup>1</sup>

3 But Amnon had <sup>5</sup>a friend, whose name was Jonadab, the son of Shimeah, David's brother: and Jonadab was a very <sup>6</sup>subtile man.

4 And he said unto him, Why art thou, <sup>7</sup>being the king's son, lean<sup>2</sup> to <sup>8</sup>day? wilt thou not tell me<sup>3</sup> And Amnon said unto him, <sup>9</sup>I love Tamar, my brother Absalom's sister.

Whiston, however, calculates the talent here mentioned at 7 lbs., which would give a weight that might be borne. Others think that value and not weight is indicated; this would make the crown worth about £6000. Others suppose

Reprovers ought to deal plainly and closely with the consciences of sinners, and lay before them the aggravating circumstances of their guilt; for unbelief is the great source of all our wickedness. They must pay dear for their lusts who dare indulge them. The only way to escape the judgment which we have deserved, is by returning to God, through Jesus Christ, with

PANORAMA OF JERUSALEM—AS SEEN FROM THE TOP OF THE MOUNT OF OLIVES. [II. Samuel, xii:31.]—"So David and all the people returned unto Jerusalem." We are looking toward the Holy City now from the top of the Mount of Olives. Between where we stand and Jerusalem is the valley of Jehoshaphat. To the extreme left is a cluster of minarets with a small dome. This is the tomb of David on Mount Zion. To the north of it is Zion's Gate. Coming eastward nearer to our point of view, almost at the bottom of the valley, you see the pillar of Absalom. The road passing it leads to Bethany. On the hillside near the Jerusalem wall is the Moslem cemetery. To the west of the extreme right of the picture is the tower of David near the Jaffa Gate. No other city on earth has had a history so interesting. More pilgrimages are perhaps made to it to-day than in any former period. This is the city of David.

5 And Jonadab said unto him, <sup>1</sup>Lay thee down on thy bed, and make thyself sick:<sup>4</sup> and when thy father cometh to see thee, say unto him, I pray thee, let my sister Tamar come and give me meat, and dress the meat in my sight, that I may see it, and eat it at her hand.<sup>5</sup>

6 ¶ So Amnon lay down, and made himself sick: and when the king was come to see him, Amnon said unto the king, I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come and make me a couple of cakes in my sight, that I may eat at her hand.

7 Then David sent home to Tamar, saying, Go now to thy brother Amnon's house, and dress him meat.

8 So Tamar went to her brother Amnon's house, and he was laid down. And she took flour,<sup>6</sup> and kneaded it, and made cakes in his sight, and did bake the cakes.

9 And she took a pan, and poured them out before him; but he refused to eat. And Amnon said, Have out all men from me.<sup>7</sup> And they went out every man from him.

10 And Amnon said unto Tamar, Bring the meat into the chamber, that I may eat of thine hand. And Tamar took the cakes which she had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother.

11 And when she had brought them unto him to eat, he took hold of her, and said unto her, Come lie with me, my sister.

12 And she answered him, Nay, my brother, do not force me;<sup>8</sup> for no such thing ought to be done in Israel: do not thou this <sup>9</sup>folly.<sup>1</sup>

13 And I, whither shall I cause my shame to go? and as for thee, thou shalt be as one of the fools in Israel. Now therefore, I pray thee, speak unto the king: for he will not withhold me from thee.<sup>2</sup>

14 Howbeit he would not hearken unto her voice; but, being stronger than she, forced her, and lay with her.

15 ¶ Then Amnon hated her<sup>3</sup> exceedingly; so that the hatred wherewith he hated her was greater than the love wherewith he had loved her: and Amnon said unto her, Arise, be gone.<sup>5</sup>

16 And she said unto him, There is no

12 This awful picture of the evils of polygamy, of divided families, of personal lasciviousness, individual misery, and meditated revenge, forms no argument for the in- fidelity against the Bible, but an illustration of the weakness and wickedness of human nature. In reality, that truth, the whole truth, which is to be found in the Bible alone, constitutes an evidence of its divine origin, that the infidel, if he studied the laws of moral evidence, could neither gainsay nor resist.—C.

cause; this evil in sending me away<sup>6</sup> is greater than the other that thou didst unto me. But he would not hearken unto her.

17 Then he called his servant that ministered unto him, and said, Put now this woman out from me, and bolt the door after her.

18 And she had a garment of divers colours upon her: for with such robes were the king's daughters that were virgins apparelled. Then his servant brought her out, and bolted the door after her.

19 ¶ And Tamar put ashes on her head, and rent her garment of divers colours that was on her, and laid her hand on her head, and went on crying.

20 And Absalom her brother said unto her, Hath Amnon<sup>7</sup> thy brother been with thee? but hold now thy peace, my sister, he is thy brother; regard<sup>8</sup> not this thing. So Tamar remained desolate<sup>9</sup> in her brother Absalom's house.<sup>1</sup>

21 ¶ But when king David heard of all these things, he was very wroth.

22 And Absalom spake unto his brother Amnon neither good nor bad:<sup>2</sup> for Absalom hated Amnon, because he had forced his sister Tamar.

23 ¶ And it came to pass after two full years,<sup>3</sup> that Absalom had sheep-shearers in Baal-hazor, which is beside Ephraim:<sup>4</sup> and Absalom invited all the king's sons.

24 And Absalom came to the king, and said, Behold now, thy servant hath sheep-shearers: let the king, I beseech thee, and his servants, go with thy servant.

25 And the king said to Absalom, Nay, my son, let us not all now go, lest we be chargeable unto thee. And he pressed him: howbeit he would not go, but blessed him.

26 Then said Absalom, If not, I pray thee, let my brother Amnon go with us. And the king said unto him, Why should he go with thee?

27 But Absalom pressed him, that he let Amnon and all the king's sons go with him.<sup>5</sup>

28 Now Absalom had commanded his servants, saying, Mark ye now when Amnon's heart is merry with wine, and when I say unto you, smite Amnon; then kill him, fear not: have not I commanded you?<sup>2</sup> be courageous, and be valiant.<sup>7</sup>

29 And the servants of Absalom did unto Amnon as Absalom had commanded: then all the king's sons arose, and every man gat<sup>8</sup> him up upon his mule,<sup>9</sup> and fled.

30 ¶ And it came to pass, while they were in the way, that tidings came to David, saying, Absalom hath slain all the king's sons,<sup>1</sup> and there is not one of them left.

31 Then the king arose, and tare his garments, and lay on the earth; and all his servants stood by with their clothes rent.

32 ¶ And Jonadab, the son of Shimeah David's brother, answered and said, Let not my lord suppose that they have slain all the young men the king's sons; for Amnon only is dead: for by the appointment of Absalom this hath been determined from the day that he forced his sister Tamar.<sup>2</sup>

33 Now therefore let not my lord the king take the thing to his heart, to think that all the king's sons are dead; for Amnon only is dead.

34 But Absalom fled. And the young man that kept the watch lifted up his eyes and looked, and, behold, there came much people by the way of the hill-side behind him.

35 And Jonadab said unto the king, Behold, the king's sons come! as thy servant said,<sup>3</sup> so it is.

36 And it came to pass, as soon as he had made an end of speaking, that, behold, the king's sons came, and lifted up their voice and wept: and the king also and all his servants wept<sup>4</sup> very sore.<sup>5</sup>

37 ¶ But Absalom fled, and went to Talmai, the son of Ammihud,<sup>6</sup> king of Geshur: and David mourned for his son every day.

38 So Absalom fled, and went to Geshur, and was there three years.

39 And the soul of king David longed to go forth unto Absalom: for he was comforted concerning Amnon, seeing he was dead.

thence<sup>a</sup> a wise woman, and said unto her, I pray thee, feign thyself to be a mourner, and put on now mourning apparel, and anoint not thyself with oil, but be as a woman that had a long time mourned for the dead;

3 And come to the king, and speak on this manner unto him. So Joab put the words in her mouth.

4 ¶ And when the woman of Tekoah spake to the king, she fell on her face to the ground, and did obeisance, and said, Help, O king!

5 And the king said unto her, What aileth thee? And she answered, I am indeed a widow woman, and mine husband is dead.<sup>2</sup>

6 And thy handmaid had two sons, and they two strove together in the field, and there was none to part them, but the one smote the other, and slew him.

7 And, behold, the whole family<sup>3</sup> is risen against thine handmaid; and they said, Deliver him that smote his brother, that we may kill him, for the life of his brother whom he slew; and we will destroy the heir also: and so they shall quench my coal<sup>4</sup> which is left, and shall not leave to my husband neither name nor remainder upon the earth.

8 And the king said unto the woman, Go to thine house, and I will give charge concerning thee.

9 And the woman of Tekoah said unto the king, My lord, O king, the iniquity be on me, and on my father's house; and the king and his throne be guiltless.

10 And the king said, Whosoever saith ought unto thee, bring him to me, and he shall not touch thee any more.

11 Then said she, I pray thee, let the king remember the LORD thy God, that thou wouldest not suffer the revengers of blood to destroy any more, lest they destroy my son. And he said, As the LORD liveth, there shall not one hair of thy son fall to the earth.<sup>5</sup>

12 Then the woman said, Let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak one word unto my lord the king. And he said, Say on.

13 And the woman said, Wherefore then hast thou thought such a thing against the people of God? for the king doth speak this thing as one which is faulty, in that the king doth not fetch home again his banished.<sup>6</sup> yet doth he <sup>6</sup>devise means, that his banished be not expelled from him.

14 For we trust and rely on the king's word.

15 Now therefore that I am come to speak of this thing unto my lord the king, it is because the people have made me afraid:<sup>7</sup> and thy handmaid said, I will now speak unto the king; it may be that the king will perform the request of his handmaid.

16 For the king will hear, to deliver his handmaid out of the hand of the men that would destroy me and my son<sup>8</sup> together out of the inheritance of God.

17 Then thine handmaid said, The word of my lord the king shall now be comfortable:<sup>9</sup> for as an angel of God,<sup>1</sup> so is my lord the king, to discern good and bad; therefore the LORD thy God will be with thee.

18 Then the king answered and said unto the woman, Hide not from me, I pray thee, the thing that I shall ask thee. And the woman said, Let my lord the king now speak.

19 And the king said, Is not the hand of Joab with thee in all this? And the woman answered and said, As thy soul liveth, my lord the king, none can turn to the right hand or to the left from ought that my lord the king hath spoken: for thy servant Joab, he bade me, and he put all these words in the mouth of thine handmaid:

20 To fetch about this form of speech hath thy servant Joab done this thing: and my lord is wise, according to the wisdom of an angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth.

21 ¶ And the king said unto Joab, Behold now, I have done this thing: go therefore, bring the young man Absalom again.

22 And Joab <sup>b</sup>fell to the ground on his face, and bowed himself, and <sup>c</sup>thanked the king: and Joab said, To-day thy servant knoweth that <sup>d</sup>I have found grace in thy sight, my lord, O king, in that the king hath fulfilled the request of his servant.<sup>2</sup>

23 So Joab arose and went to <sup>e</sup>Geshur, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem.

24 And the king said, Let him turn to his own house, and let him not <sup>f</sup>see my face. So Absalom returned to his own house, and saw not the king's face.

25 ¶ But<sup>g</sup> in all Israel there was none to be so much praised as Absalom for his beauty: from<sup>h</sup> the sole of his foot even to the crown of <sup>d</sup> Some have hence supposed the woman of Tekoah had a real case to plead, and that Joab took advantage of it; but this seems totally inconsistent with ver. 2, 3, 19, 20. She merely employs the words my son for her son in the parable, who had no other but a figurative existence.

<sup>k</sup> Joab had two reasons for his anxiety for Absalom. (1) He saw the king was anxious for a good excuse for recalling Absalom. (2) To afford an additional example for the safety of a murderer, in which class he himself ranked, but was so great a favourite with the army that David could not punish him.—Note, David sinned through tender but mistaken lenity. According to the divine law, the deliberate and malicious murderer should die. But David's tenderness as a father soon punished his error as a judge.—C.

Being vain of the abundance and beauty of his hair (of which the people of the East are very proud), he wore it as long as he could without much inconvenience; and when at length he was compelled to part with it, he made it be weighed, in order that the fame of its quantity might compensate his vanity for the temporary loss. 27 ¶ And unto <sup>1</sup>Absalom there were born three sons, and one daughter, whose name was Tamar: she was a woman of a fair countenance.

28 ¶ So Absalom dwelt two full years in Jerusalem, and <sup>m</sup>saw not the king's face.

29 Therefore Absalom sent for Joab, to have sent him to the king; but he would not come to him: and when he sent again the second time, he would not come.

30 Therefore he said unto his servants, See, Joab's field is near mine,<sup>5</sup> and he hath barley there; <sup>n</sup>go and set it on fire. And Absalom's servants set the field on fire.

31 Then Joab arose, and came to Absalom unto his house, and said unto him, Wherefore have thy servants set my field on fire?

32 And Absalom answered Joab, Behold, I sent unto thee, saying, Come hither, that I may send thee to the king, to say, Wherefore am I come from Geshur? it had been good for me to have been there still: now therefore let me see the king's face;<sup>6</sup> and <sup>o</sup>if there be any iniquity in me, let him kill me.

33 So Joab came to the king, and told him: and when he had called for Absalom, he came to the king, and <sup>p</sup>bowed himself on his face to the ground before the king: and the king <sup>q</sup>kissed Absalom.

CHAPTER XV.

1 Absalom, by fair speeches and courtesies, stealeth the hearts of the men of Israel. <sup>7</sup> Under pretence of a row he obtaineth leave to go to Hebron. 10 He maketh there a dangerous conspiracy. 13 David upon the news fleeth from Jerusalem. 19 Ittai would not leave him. 24 Zadok and Abiathar are sent back with the ark. 30 David and his company go up mount Olivet weeping. 31 He prayeth God to defeat Ahithophel's counsel. 32 Hushai is sent back with instructions.

AND it came to pass after this, that <sup>a</sup>Absalom prepared him chariots and horses, and fifty men to run before him.

2 And Absalom <sup>b</sup>rose up early, and stood beside the way of the gate: and it was so, that when any man that had a controversy came<sup>1</sup> to the king for judgment, then Absalom called unto him, and said, Of what city art thou? And he said, Thy servant is of one of the tribes of Israel.

3 And Absalom said unto him, See, <sup>c</sup>thy matters are good and right; but <sup>d</sup>there is no man deputed of the king to hear thee.

4 Absalom said moreover, Oh that I were <sup>e</sup>made judge in the land, that every man which hath any suit or cause might come unto me, and <sup>f</sup>I would do him justice!

5 And it was so, that when any man came

PANORAMA OF JERUSALEM—THE HOLY CITY IN WHICH DAVID LIVED SEEN FROM THE EAST. [11. Samuel, xv:14.]—"And David said unto all his servants which were with him at Jerusalem, Arise and let us flee; for we shall not else escape from Absalom." From our point of view we now move further northward, and again look across the valley of the Kedron from the Mount of Olives upon the Holy City. The swelling domes and towers and crosses of a new Russian church are at our feet. We see more tombs stretching along the eastward wall of the city to the extreme left. The Mosque of Omar, always the most conspicuous object in Jerusalem to-day, as the temple was in ancient times, stands with its enclosure of thirty-five acres of ground. There once stood the Jewish temple, and perhaps the tabernacle David pitched for the ark of the covenant before the temple was built. To the west and to the right of the mosque is the English church. This is the city from which David fled to escape from Absalom.

that Absalom said unto the king, I pray thee, let me <sup>4</sup>go and pay my vow, which I have vowed unto the LORD, in Hebron.

8 For thy servant vowed a vow while I abode<sup>1</sup> at Geshur in Syria, saying, If the LORD shall bring me again indeed to Jerusalem, then I<sup>m</sup> will serve the LORD.

9 And the king said unto him, Go in peace. So he arose, and went to Hebron.

10 ¶ But Absalom sent <sup>2</sup>spies throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, As soon as ye hear the sound of the trumpet,<sup>5</sup> then ye shall say, Absalom <sup>3</sup>reigneth in Hebron.<sup>6</sup>

11 And with Absalom went two hundred men out of Jerusalem, that were <sup>2</sup>called; and they went in <sup>4</sup>their simplicity, and they knew not any thing.

13 ¶ And there came a messenger to David, saying, <sup>2</sup>The hearts of the men of Israel are after Absalom.

14 And David said unto all his servants that were with him at Jerusalem, Arise, and let us flee:<sup>2</sup> for we shall not else escape from Absalom: make speed to depart, lest he overtake us suddenly, and bring<sup>3</sup> evil upon us, and smite the city with the edge of the sword.

15 And the king's <sup>2</sup>servants said unto the king, Behold, thy servants are ready to do whatsoever my lord the king shall appoint.<sup>9</sup>

16 And the king went forth, and all his household after him:<sup>1</sup> and the king left <sup>2</sup>ten women, which were concubines, to keep the house.

17 And the king <sup>2</sup>went forth, and all the people after him, and tarried in a place that was far off.

18 And all his servants passed on beside him; and all the <sup>2</sup>Cherethites, and all the Pelethites,<sup>3</sup> and all the Gittites,<sup>3</sup> six hundred men which came after him from Gath, passed on before the king.

19 ¶ Then said the king to <sup>2</sup>Ittai the Gittite,

But he might already suspect that he was to be passed over by the appointment of Solomon; and, indeed, the law of primogeniture had not yet been applied to the succession to the crown. Besides, in his present unnatural attempt he had but one rival, and that was his fondly attached father: whereas, had he waited for David's death, he might have had several formidable competitors in his brothers.—I.

25 David wept, not from unmanly grief, but from paternal feeling. Covering the head was an eastern mode of mourning. A relic of the custom may still be seen in hat-crapes and the peculiar head-dress often worn by widows.—C.

Wherefore goest thou also with us? return to thy place, and abide with the king: for thou art a stranger, and also an exile.

20 Whereas thou comest but yesterday, should I this day make thee go up and down<sup>4</sup> with us? Seeing I go whither I may, return thou, and take back thy brethren: <sup>2</sup>mercy and truth be with thee.

21 And Ittai answered the king, and said, As the LORD liveth, and as my lord the king liveth, surely in what place my lord the king shall be, whether in death or life, even there also will thy servant be.

22 And David said to Ittai, Go and pass over. And Ittai the Gittite passed over, and all his men, and all the little ones<sup>5</sup> that were with him.

23 And all the country wept with a loud voice, and all the people passed over: the king also himself passed over the <sup>2</sup>brook Kidron, and all the people passed over, toward the way of <sup>1</sup>the wilderness.<sup>6</sup>

24 ¶ And lo Zadok also, and all the Levites were with him, <sup>2</sup>bearing the ark of the covenant of God: and they set down the ark of God; and Abiathar went up,<sup>7</sup> until all the people had done passing out of the city.

25 And the king said unto Zadok, <sup>2</sup>Carry back the ark of God into the city: if I shall find favour in the eyes of the LORD, he will bring me again, and show me both it and <sup>1</sup>his habitation:

26 But if he thus say, I have no delight in thee; behold, <sup>2</sup>where am I, let him do to me as seemeth good unto him.<sup>8</sup>

27 The king said also unto Zadok the priest, Art not thou <sup>2</sup>a seer? return into the <sup>1</sup>city in peace, and your two sons with you, Ahimaaz thy son, and Jonathan the son of Abiathar.

28 See, I will tarry in the <sup>2</sup>plain of the wilderness, until there come <sup>1</sup>word from you to certify me.

29 Zadok therefore and Abiathar carried the ark of God again to Jerusalem: and they tarried there.

31 ¶ And one told David, saying, 'Ahitophel is among the conspirators with Absalom. And David said, O LORD, I pray thee, "turn the counsel of Ahithophel into foolishness.

32 ¶ And it came to pass, that when David was come to the "top of the mount, where he worshipped<sup>1</sup> God,<sup>2</sup> behold, 'Hushai the Archite<sup>3</sup> came to meet him with "his coat rent, and earth upon his head:

33 Unto whom David said, If thou passest on with me, then thou shalt be a burden unto me:

34 But if thou return to the city, and say unto Absalom, I will be thy servant, O king; as I have been thy father's servant hitherto, so will I now also be thy servant: then mayest thou for me defeat the counsel of Ahithophel.

35 And hast thou not there with thee Zadok and Abiathar the priests? therefore it shall be, that what thing soever thou shalt hear out of the king's house, thou shalt tell it to Zadok and Abiathar the priests.

36 Behold, they have "there with them their two sons, Ahimaaz Zadok's son, and Jonathan Abiathar's son; and by them ye shall send unto me every thing that ye can hear.

37 So Hushai, David's "friend, came into the city, and Absalom came into Jerusalem.

8 The LORD hath "returned upon thee all the blood of the house of Saul, in whose stead thou hast reigned; and the LORD hath delivered the kingdom into the hand of Absalom thy son: and, behold, thou art taken in thy mischief,<sup>1</sup> because thou art a bloody man.<sup>2</sup>

9 ¶ Then said Abishai the son of Zeruiah unto the king, Why should this "dead dog curse my lord the king? "let me go over, I pray<sup>3</sup> thee, and take off his head.

10 And the king said, "What have I to do with you, ye sons of Zeruiah? "so let him curse, because the LORD hath said unto him,<sup>4</sup> Curse David. "Who shall then say, Wherefore hast thou done so?

11 And David said to Abishai, and to all his servants, Behold, my son, which came forth of my bowels, seeketh my life: how much more now may this Benjamite do it? Let him alone, and let him curse; for the LORD hath bidden him.<sup>5</sup> our intimates, yea, almost all beside, go over to our enemy. Our severest strokes often come from hands which we least suspected: and fear of God's wrath, in our sufferings, sinks the spirits, and makes men cowards. In suffering times large families are great encumbrances: and, though terrible revolutions are great trials for young converts, yet strangers are often more faithful than the hired servants of the house.

Lord shall perish. Often our friends, and especially our Jesus, help us most when unseen. It is not the craft of politicians, but the God of heaven, that governs the world. He can easily turn the counsels of the crafty into foolishness, and cause the traitors to be betrayed. Let us commit our way to God, and he will bring it to pass.

it. Wicked revilers are fond of interpreting God's righteous judgments as a patronizing of their malice: and innocence is no protection from a malicious and lying tongue. But no provocation can warrant our revenging ourselves, and returning evil for evil. The vilest reproaches should make us to search our ways, and condemn ourselves for our real faults. To see God's hand in our trials is the first step to our deliverance.

mine affliction, and that the LORD will "requite me good for his cursing this day.

13 And as David and his men went by the way, Shimei went along on the hill's side over against him, and cursed as he went, and threw stones at him, and "cast dust.<sup>6</sup>

14 And the king, and all the people that were with him, came weary,<sup>7</sup> and refreshed themselves "there.<sup>8</sup>

15 ¶ And Absalom, and all the people the men of Israel, came to Jerusalem, and Ahithophel with him.

16 And it came to pass, when Hushai the Archite, David's friend, was come unto Absalom, that Hushai said unto Absalom, God save the king, God save the king.<sup>9</sup>

17 And Absalom said to Hushai, Is this thy kindness to thy friend? why wentest thou not with "thy friend?

18 And Hushai said unto Absalom, Nay; but "whom the LORD, and this people, and all the men of Israel, choose, his will I be, and with him will I abide.

19 And again, whom should I serve? "should I not serve in the presence of his son? As I have served in thy father's presence, so will I be in thy presence.

20 ¶ Then said Absalom to Ahithophel, Give<sup>a</sup> counsel among you what we shall do.

21 And Ahithophel said unto Absalom, "Go in unto thy father's concubines,<sup>1</sup> which he hath left<sup>7</sup> to keep the house; and all Israel shall hear that thou art abhorred of thy father: then shall the hands of all that are with thee be strong.

22 So they spread Absalom a tent upon "the top of the house;<sup>2</sup> and Absalom went in unto his father's concubines in the sight of all Israel.

23 And the "counsel of Ahithophel, which he counselled in those days, was as if a man had inquired at the oracle<sup>3</sup> of God: so was all the counsel of Ahithophel both with David and with Absalom.

CHAPTER XVII.

MOREOVER Ahithophel said unto Absalom, Let me now choose out twelve thousand men,<sup>1</sup> and I will arise and pursue after David this<sup>a</sup> night:

2 And I will come upon him while he is weary and weak-handed, and will make him afraid: and all the people that are with him shall flee; and "I will smite the king only:

3 And I will bring back all the people unto thee; the man whom thou seekest is as if all returned:<sup>2</sup> so all the people shall be "in peace.

4 And the saying "pleased<sup>3</sup> Absalom well, and all the elders of Israel.<sup>4</sup>

5 Then said Absalom, Call now "Hushai the Archite also, and let us hear likewise what he saith.<sup>5</sup>

6 And when Hushai was come to Absalom, Absalom spake unto him, saying, Ahithophel hath spoken after this manner: shall we do after his saying?<sup>6</sup> if not, speak thou.

7 And Hushai said unto Absalom, The counsel that Ahithophel hath given<sup>7</sup> is "not good at this time.

8 For, said Hushai, thou knowest thy "father and his men, that they be "mighty men, and they be chafed in their "minds, "as a bear robbed of her whelps in the field: and thy father is a man of war, and will not lodge with the people.

9 Behold, he "is hid now in some pit, or in some other place: and it will come to pass, "when some of them be overthrown at the first, that whosoever heareth it will say, There is a slaughter among the people that follow Absalom.

10 And he<sup>9</sup> also that is "valiant, whose heart is as the heart of a lion, shall "utterly melt: for all Israel knoweth that thy father is "a mighty man, and they which be with him are valiant men.

11 Therefore I counsel, that "all Israel be generally gathered unto thee, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, as "the sand that is by the sea for multitude, and "that thou go to battle in thine own person.

12 So shall we come upon him in some place where he shall be found, and we will light upon him as the dew<sup>1</sup> falleth on the ground: and of him, and of all the men that are with him, there shall not be left so much as one.

13 Moreover, if he be gotten into a city, then shall all Israel bring ropes to that city, and we will "draw it into the river, until there be not one small stone found there.

14 And Absalom and all the men of Israel said, The counsel of Hushai the Archite is

JOAB'S WELL, WHERE JONATHAN AND AHIMAAZ WAITED FOR NEWS ABOUT ABSALOM. [II. SAMUEL, XVIII; 17.]—"Now Jonathan and Ahimaaz stayed by En-rogel; for they might not be seen to come into the city: and a wench went and told them; and they went and told King David." This well is situated in the valley of Kedron, near where it unites with the valley of Hinnom. Here David's servants waited for news from Hushai during Absalom's rebellion in order to gather and send unto their king. Here also Adonijah, David's son, assembled his friends when he aspired to be king in his father's place. The well is 125 feet deep. It is walled up with large rocks with an arch above of great antiquity. There is a large chamber at a depth of 113 feet, from the bottom of which a shaft leads to a rock-hewn chamber below. The people of Siloam sell this water in Jerusalem.

better than the counsel of Ahithophel:<sup>a</sup> for the LORD had appointed to defeat the good counsel of Ahithophel, to the intent that the LORD might bring evil upon Absalom.<sup>b</sup>

15 ¶ Then said Hushai unto Zadok and to Abiathar the priests, Thus and thus did Ahithophel counsel Absalom and the elders of Israel; and thus and thus have I counselled.

16 Now therefore send quickly, and tell David, saying, Lodge not this night in the plains of the wilderness,<sup>c</sup> but speedily pass over; lest the king be swallowed up, and all the people that are with him.

17 Now Jonathan and Ahimaaz stayed by En-rogel;<sup>d</sup> (for they might not be seen to come into the city:) and a wench went and told them; and they went and told king David.

18 Nevertheless a lad saw them, and told Absalom: but they went both of them away quickly, and came to a man's house in Bahurim, which had a well in his court; whither they went down.

19 And the woman took and spread a covering over the well's mouth, and spread ground corn thereon; and the thing was not known.

20 And when Absalom's servants came to the woman to the house, they said, Where is Ahimaaz and Jonathan? And the woman said unto them, They be gone over the brook of water.<sup>e</sup> And when they had sought and could not find them, they returned to Jerusalem.

21 And it came to pass, after they were departed, that they came up out of the well, and went and told king David, and said unto David, Arise, and pass quickly over the water:<sup>f</sup> for thus hath Ahithophel counselled against you.

22 Then David arose, and all the people that were with him, and they passed over Jordan: by the morning light there lacked not one of them that was not gone over Jordan.

23 ¶ And when Ahithophel saw that his counsel was not followed, he saddled his ass, and arose, and gat him home to his house, to his city, and put his household in order,<sup>g</sup> and hanged himself, and died, and was buried in the sepulchre of his father.

24 Then David came to Mahanaim: and Absalom passed over Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him.

<sup>a</sup> The speech of Hushai is an astonishing specimen of simple eloquence. <sup>o</sup> Rosenmüller, in his Bibl. Geography, Winer, in his Bibl. Dictionary, and other German writers, maintain that this was in the tribe of Ephraim, on this side Jordan; but English writers hold it to have been beyond Jordan, near Mahanaim. It is certain that Absalom and his army did cross the Jordan and pitch in the land of Gilead (ch. 17:26), and as there is no mention of that river having been recrossed either by them or by David's men previous to the battle, the inference is that it was fought beyond Jordan. If we suppose that the Ephraimites, who lived on the Jordan, a man's son, whose name was Ithra an Israelite, that went in<sup>9</sup> to Abigail the daughter of Nahash,<sup>1</sup> sister to Zeruiah, Joab's mother.

1 David viewing the armies in their march giveth them charge of Absalom. 6 The men of Israel are sore smitten in the wood of Ephraim. 9 Absalom, hanging in an oak, is slain by Joab, and cast into a pit. 18 Absalom's place. 19 Ahimaaz and Cushite bring tidings to David. 33 David mourneth for Absalom.

AND David numbered the people that were with him, and set captains<sup>1</sup> of thousands and captains of hundreds over them.

2 And David sent forth<sup>a</sup> a third part of the people under the hand of Joab, and a third part under the hand of Abishai the son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, and a third part under the hand of Ittai the Gittite: and the king said unto the people, I will surely go forth with you myself also.

3 But the people answered, Thou shalt not go forth: for if we flee away, they will not care for us;<sup>2</sup> neither if half of us die, will they care for us; but now thou art worth ten thousand of us:<sup>3</sup> therefore now it is better that thou succour us out of the city.

4 And the king said unto them, What seemeth you best I will do. And the king stood by the gate-side, and all the people came out by hundreds and by thousands.<sup>4</sup>

5 And the king commanded Joab, and Abishai, and Ittai, saying, Deal gently, for my sake, with the young man, even with Absalom. And all the people heard when the king gave all the captains charge concerning Absalom.

6 ¶ So the people went out into the field against Israel: and the battle was in the wood

TOMB OF ABSALOM. [II. Samuel, xviii:18.]—"Now Absalom in his lifetime had taken and reared up for himself a pillar, which is in the king's dale; for he said, I have no son to keep my name in remembrance; and he called the pillar after his own name; and it is called unto this day Absalom's place." This tomb of Absalom is in the valley of Kedron. It is generally called the Pillar of Absalom. It is cut out of solid rock. Each side measures 22 feet. Over the columns is a dark frieze, and an Egyptian cornice above this. The height above the surface is 54 feet. It is not absolutely known that this is the pillar Absalom had reared for himself during his lifetime in the king's dale. It is a strange fact, however, that it answers to what is said in the 18th verse of the 18th chapter of II. Samuel, "And it is called unto this day, Absalom's place."

before the servants of David; and there was there a 'great slaughter that day of twenty thousand men.

8 For the battle was there scattered over the face of all the country: and <sup>m</sup>the wood <sup>n</sup>devoured<sup>e</sup> more people that day than the sword devoured.

9 ¶ And Absalom met the servants of David: And Absalom rode upon a mule, and the mule went under the thick boughs of a great oak, and his head caught hold of the oak, and he was taken up between the heaven and the earth; and the mule that was under him went away.

10 And a certain man saw it, and told Joab, and said, Behold, I saw Absalom hanged in an oak.<sup>7</sup>

11 And Joab said unto the man that told him, And, behold, thou sawest him; and why didst thou not smite him there to the ground? and I would have given thee ten shekels of silver,<sup>8</sup> and a girdle.

13 Otherwise I should have wrought falsehood <sup>3</sup>against mine own life: for there is no matter hid from the king, and thou <sup>4</sup>thyself wouldest have set thyself against me.

14 Then said Joab, I may not tarry thus with thee.<sup>3</sup> And he took three darts<sup>4</sup> in his hand, and <sup>5</sup>thrust them through the heart of Absalom, while he was yet alive in the <sup>6</sup>midst of the oak.

15 And ten young men that bare Joab's armour compassed about and smote Absalom, and slew him.

16 And Joab <sup>7</sup>blew the trumpet, and the people returned from pursuing after Israel: for Joab held back the people.

17 And they took Absalom, and cast him into a great pit in the wood, and <sup>8</sup>laid a very great heap of stones<sup>5</sup> upon him: and all Israel fled every one to his tent.

18 ¶ Now Absalom in his lifetime had taken and reared up for himself a pillar, <sup>9</sup>which is in the king's dale: for he said, <sup>10</sup>I have no son to keep my name in remembrance: and he <sup>11</sup>called the pillar his name.

19 ¶ Then said Ahimaaz the son of Zadok, Let me now run and bear the king tidings, how that the LORD hath <sup>1</sup>avenged him of his enemies.

20 And Joab said unto him, Thou shalt not <sup>2</sup>bear tidings this day, but thou shalt bear tidings another day: but this day thou shalt bear no tidings, because the king's son is dead.

21 Then said Joab to Cushi, Go tell the king what thou hast seen. And Cushi bowed himself unto Joab, and ran.

22 Then said Ahimaaz the son of Zadok yet again to Joab, But, howsoever,<sup>6</sup> let me, I pray thee, also run after Cushi.<sup>7</sup> And Joab said, Wherefore wilt thou run, my son, seeing that thou hast no tidings ready?<sup>8</sup>

23 But howsoever, said he, let me run. And he said unto him, Run. Then Ahimaaz ran by the way of the plain, and over-ran Cushi.

24 ¶ And David sat <sup>9</sup>between the two <sup>9</sup>gates: and the watchman went up to the <sup>9</sup>roof over the gate unto the wall, and lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold a man running alone.

25 And the watchman cried, and told the king. And the king said, If he be alone, there is tidings in his mouth.<sup>1</sup> And he came apace, and drew near.

26 And the watchman saw another man running: and the watchman called unto the porter, and said, Behold another man running alone. And the king said, He also bringeth tidings.

27 And the watchman said, Methinketh the running<sup>2</sup> of the foremost is like the running of Ahimaaz the son of Zadok. And the king said, <sup>3</sup>He is a good man, and cometh with good tidings.

28 And Ahimaaz called, and said unto the king, <sup>3</sup>All is well.<sup>4</sup> And he <sup>5</sup>fell down to the earth upon his face before the king, and said, Blessed be the LORD thy God, which hath <sup>6</sup>delivered up the men that lifted up their hand against my lord the king.

29 And the king said, Is the young man Absalom safe?<sup>5</sup> And Ahimaaz answered, When Joab sent the king's servant, and me thy servant, I saw a great tumult, but I knew not what it was.<sup>6</sup>

30 And the king said unto him, Turn aside, and stand here. And he turned aside, and stood still.

32 And the king said unto Cush, Is the young man Absalom safe? And Cush answered, The enemies of my lord the king, and all that rise against thee to do thee hurt, be as that young man<sup>8</sup> is.

33 ¶ And the king was much moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate,<sup>9</sup> and wept; and as he went, thus he said, O my son Absalom! my son, my son Absalom! 'would God I had died for thee, O Absalom, my son, my son!<sup>1</sup>

AND it was told Joab, Behold, the king weepeth and mourneth for Absalom.

2 And the "victory that day was turned into mourning unto all the people: for the people heard say that day how the king was grieved for his son.

3 And the people gat them by stealth that day into the city, as people being ashamed steal away when they flee in battle.

4 But the king covered his face, and the king cried with a loud voice, O my son Absalom! O Absalom, my son, my son!<sup>1</sup>

5 And Joab came into the house to the king, and said, Thou hast 'shamed this day the faces of all thy servants, which this day have saved thy life, and the lives of thy sons and of thy daughters, and the lives of thy wives, and the lives of thy concubines;

6 In that thou lovest<sup>2</sup> thine enemies, and hatest thy friends: for thou hast declared this day, that thou regardest neither princes nor servants:<sup>3</sup> for this day I perceive, that if Absalom had lived, and all we had died this day, "then it had pleased thee well.

7 Now therefore arise, go forth, and 'speak comfortably unto thy servants: for I swear by the LORD, if thou go not forth, there 'will not tarry one with thee this night;<sup>4</sup> and that will be worse unto thee than all the evil that befell thee from thy youth until now.

8 Then the king arose, and sat in the gate. And they told unto all the people, saying, Behold, the king doth sit in the gate. And all

1 Why is the conduct of David, in the case of Bathsheba's child, ch. 12. 23, and in the case of Absalom, so different? There are two reasons for the difference. (1) Young children are less endeared to parents than they afterwards, by association, generally become. (2) David was lamenting Absalom, not merely as a rebel son, but a lost sinner; a thought, of all thoughts, the most grievous to a parent's heart.—C.

4 'It might seem the obvious consequence of his victory, that David should re-pass the Jordan at the head of his conquering army, and resume his throne at Jerusalem. But the mass of the people had chosen another for their king, and by that act had virtually, to the extent of their power, deposed David; and it would appear that the civil principles of the constitution required that he should, in a certain sense, be re-elected to the crown.—K'tto.

6 David was still at Mahanaim, on the east of Jordan, Zadok and Abiathar in Jerusalem, on the west. But the presence of Amasa, ver. 13, whom Absalom had made general of his army, ch. 17. 25, prevented an expression of public opinion in the capital in favour of David's return. Amasa was nephew to David, by his sister Abigail, as Joab was by Zeruah. Amasa's advancement was therefore well calculated to bring back the discontented of Judah.—C.

1 The house of Ephraim and Manasseh—why then does not Shimei rather speak of Benjamin to which he belonged? The reference is most ingenious. He calls up to David's mind the king 'saved us out of the hand of our enemies, and he delivered us out of the hand of the Philistines, and now he is fled out of the land for Absalom.

10 And Absalom, whom we anointed over us, is dead in battle: now therefore why "speak ye not a word of bringing the king back?<sup>5</sup>

11 ¶ And king David sent to "Zadok and to Abiathar the priests,<sup>6</sup> saying, Speak unto the elders of Judah, saying, Why are ye the 'last to bring the king back to his house? seeing the speech of all Israel is come to the king, even to his house.

12 Ye are 'my brethren, ye are my bones and my flesh: wherefore then are ye the last to bring back the king?

13 And say ye "to Amasa, Art thou not of my bone, and of my flesh? 'God do so to me, and more also, if thou be not captain of the host before me continually 'in the room of Joab.

14 And he bowed the heart of all the men of Judah,<sup>7</sup> even "as the heart of one man; so that they sent this word unto the king, Return thou, and all thy servants.

15 So the king returned, and came to Jordan. And Judah came to "Gilgal, to go to meet the king, to conduct the king over Jordan.

16 ¶ And "Shimei the son of Gera, a Benjamite, which was of Bahurim, hasted, and came down with the men of Judah to meet king David.

17 And there were a thousand men of Benjamin with him, and "Ziba the servant of the house of Saul, and his fifteen sons and his twenty servants with him; and they went over Jordan before the king.

18 And there went over a ferry-boat<sup>8</sup> to carry over the king's household, and to do what he thought good.<sup>9</sup> And Shimei the son of Gera fell down before the king, as he was come over Jordan;

19 And said unto the king, Let not my lord impute iniquity unto me, neither do thou remember "that which thy servant did perversely the day that my lord the king went out of Jerusalem, that the king should take it to his heart.

20 For thy servant doth know that I have sinned: therefore, behold, I am come the first this day of all the house of Joseph<sup>1</sup> to go down to meet my lord the king.

with you, ye sons of Zeruiah, that ye should this day be adversaries unto me? <sup>a</sup>shall there any man be put to death this day in Israel? for do not I know that I am this day king over Israel?

23 Therefore the king said unto <sup>a</sup>Shimei, Thou shalt not die: and the king <sup>a</sup>swore unto him.

24 ¶ And <sup>a</sup>Mephibosheth the son of Saul came down to meet the king, and had neither dressed<sup>1</sup> his feet, nor trimmed his beard,<sup>1</sup> nor washed his clothes, from the day the king departed until the day he came again in peace.

25 And it came to pass, when he was come to Jerusalem to meet the king, that the king said unto him, Wherefore wentest not thou with me, Mephibosheth?

26 And he answered, My lord, O king, my servant deceived me: for thy servant said, I will saddle me an ass, that I may ride thereon, and go to the king; because thy servant is lame.

27 And <sup>a</sup>he hath slandered<sup>2</sup> thy servant unto my lord the king; but my lord the king is as an <sup>a</sup>angel of God: do therefore what is good in thine eyes.

28 For <sup>a</sup>all of my father's house were but dead men<sup>3</sup> before my lord the king; yet didst thou set thy servant among them that did eat at thine own table: what right therefore have I yet to cry any more unto the king?

29 And the king said unto him, Why speakest thou any more of thy matters? I have said, Thou<sup>a</sup> and Ziba divide the land.<sup>4</sup>

30 And Mephibosheth said unto the king, Yea,<sup>a</sup> let him take all, forasmuch as my lord the king is come again in peace unto his own house.

31 ¶ And <sup>a</sup>Barzillai the Gileadite came down from Rogelim, and went over Jordan with the king, to conduct him over Jordan.

32 Now Barzillai was a very aged man, even fourscore years old; and <sup>a</sup>he had provided the king of sustenance while he lay at Mahanaim; for he was a very great man.

33 And the king said unto Barzillai, <sup>a</sup>Come thou over with me, and I will feed thee with me in Jerusalem.

34 And Barzillai said unto the king, <sup>a</sup>How long have I to live, that I should go up with the king unto Jerusalem?

35 I am this day <sup>a</sup>fourscore years old: and can I discern between good and evil?

4 Some think the decision signifies—divide the land, as directed, ch. 9. 3. 10.

Mephibosheth (to speak in modern terms) holding as landlord, Ziba as tenant: others think both title and occupancy were divided between the parties.

The former seems more consonant with justice, as Mephibosheth had committed no fault. But if so, why is Ziba continued in office?

David had purposed not to give cause of sorrow on the day of his joyous restoration, ver. 22.

Besides Ziba had been an active, though not the most faithful, servant—he had also aided David in his difficulties; and to offend a man with such a family and connection would have been very imprudent.—Note.

Extr. tremity of deserved punishment is seldom wise, and where mercy can be exercised with safety, it is always the best policy.—C.

1 Whenever the passions of men are in a ferment, it requires little to guide them. Here the counsel of one vain bad man produces the death of many, and goes near to dismember, and thereby weaken and barbarize the Jewish kingdom, which David had rescued from slavery, and advanced to greatness.

thy servant be yet a burden unto my lord the king?

36 Thy servant will go a little way over Jordan with the king: and why should the king recompense it me with such a reward?

37 Let thy servant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in mine own city, and be buried by the grave of my father and of my mother: but behold thy servant <sup>a</sup>Chimham; let him go over with my lord the king; and do to him what shall seem good unto thee.

38 And the king answered, Chimham shall go over with me, and I will do to him that which shall seem good unto thee: and whatsoever thou shalt require<sup>6</sup> of me, that will I do for thee.

39 And all the people went over Jordan. And when the king was come over, the king <sup>a</sup>kissed Barzillai, <sup>a</sup>and blessed him; and he returned unto his own place.

40 Then the king went on to Gilgal, and Chimham went on with him: and <sup>a</sup>all the people of Judah conducted the king, and also half the people of Israel.<sup>7</sup>

41 ¶ And, behold, <sup>a</sup>all the men of <sup>a</sup>Israel came to the king, and said unto the king, Why have our brethren the men of Judah<sup>9</sup> stolen thee away, and have brought the king and his household, and all David's men with him, over Jordan?

43 And the men of Israel answered the men of Judah, and said, <sup>a</sup>We have ten parts<sup>2</sup> in the king, and we have also more right in David than ye: why then did ye despise us,<sup>3</sup> that our advice should not be first had in bringing back our king? ## CHAPTER XX.

1 By occasion of the quarrel, Sheba maketh a party in Israel. 3 David's ten concubines are shut up in perpetual prison. 4 Amasa, made captain over Judah, is slain by Joab. 14 Joab pursueth Sheba unto Abel. 16 A wise woman saveth the city by Sheba's head. 23 David's great officers.

AND there <sup>a</sup>happened to be there a <sup>b</sup>man of Belial,<sup>1</sup> whose name was Sheba, the son of Bichri, a Benjamite; and he <sup>a</sup>blew a trumpet.

David, and followed Sheba the son of Bichri: but the men of Judah clave unto their king, from Jordan even to Jerusalem.<sup>2</sup>

3 ¶ And David came to his house at Jerusalem; and the king took the ten women his concubines, whom he had left to keep the house, and put them in ward, and fed them, but went not in unto them: so they were shut up unto the day of their death, living in widowhood.<sup>4</sup>

4 ¶ Then said the king to Amasa, Assemble me the men of Judah within three days, and be thou here present.

5 So Amasa went to assemble the men of Judah: but he tarried longer than the set time which he had appointed him.<sup>5</sup>

6 And David said to Abishai, Now shall Sheba the son of Bichri do us more harm than did Absalom: take thou thy lord's servants, and pursue after him, lest he get him fenced cities, and escape us.<sup>6</sup>

7 And there went out after him Joab's men, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and all the mighty men: and they went out of Jerusalem, to pursue after Sheba the son of Bichri.

8 When they were at the great stone which is in Gibeon, Amasa went before them: and Joab's garment that he had put on was girded unto him, and upon it a girdle with a sword fastened upon his loins in the sheath thereof; and as he went forth it fell out.<sup>7</sup>

9 And Joab said to Amasa, Art thou in health, my brother? And Joab took Amasa by the beard with the right hand to kiss him.<sup>8</sup>

10 But Amasa took no heed to the sword that was in Joab's hand: so he smote him therewith in the fifth rib, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and struck him not again, and he died. So Joab and Abishai his brother pursued after Sheba the son of Bichri.

11 And one of Joab's men stood by him, and said, He that favoureth Joab, and he that is for David, let him go after Joab.<sup>9</sup>

12 And Amasa wallowed in blood in the midst of the highway: and when the man saw that all the people stood still, he removed Amasa out of the highway into the field, and cast a cloth upon him, when he saw that every one that came by him stood still.

13 When he was removed out of the highway, all the people went on after Joab, to pur-

But does not the obscurity of the text arise principally from the insertion of the word 'counsel'? Instead of the word 'questions'? Is not the object of the wise woman to excuse her questions by pleading the inquisitive character of her town? Her first question, ver. 17, is very artful: 'Art thou Joab?' As much as to inquire—The hero of whom we have heard so much? Her second, ver. 19, 'Why wilt thou swallow up the inheritance of the Lord?' is an irresistible appeal to mercy, generosity, patriotism, and piety, and had Joab been a worse man than he was, we could not be surprised at its success.—I.

of Beth-maachah, and they cast up a bank against the city, and it stood in the trench: and all the people that were with Joab battered the wall, to throw it down.<sup>3</sup>

16 ¶ Then cried a wise woman out of the city, Hear, hear; say, I pray you, unto Joab, Come near hither, that I may speak with thee.

17 And when he was come near unto her, the woman said, Art thou Joab? And he answered, I am he. Then she said unto him, Hear the words of thine handmaid. And he answered, I do hear.

18 Then she spake, saying, They were wont to speak in old time, saying, They shall surely ask counsel at Abel:<sup>4</sup> and so they ended the matter.

19 I am one of them that are peaceable and faithful in Israel:<sup>5</sup> thou seekest to destroy a city and a mother in Israel: why wilt thou swallow up the inheritance of the LORD?

20 And Joab answered and said, Far be it, far be it from me, that I should swallow up or destroy.

21 The matter is not so: but a man of mount Ephraim, (Sheba the son of Bichri by name,) hath lifted up his hand against the king, even against David: deliver him only, and I will depart from the city. And the woman said unto Joab, Behold, his head shall be thrown to thee over the wall.

22 Then the woman went unto all the people in her wisdom: and they cut off the head of Sheba the son of Bichri, and cast it out to Joab: and he blew a trumpet, and they retired from the city, every man to his tent; and Joab returned to Jerusalem unto the king.

SMYRNA THROUGH A BREACH IN THE CASTLE WALL—A MODERN CITY FILLED WITH THE DESCENDANTS OF GOD'S ANCIENT PEOPLE ISRAEL. [11. Samuel, xxi.]—About the time that the events recorded in this chapter were taking place in Palestine, away over on the coast of Asia Minor, the city of Smyrna was being founded by the Aeolian, Ionian and Dorian colonies. Smyrna in after years was to be the seat of one of the seven churches of Asia. It was the home of Polycarp, and this picture was taken from near the martyr's grave. There are more Jews here in proportion to population perhaps than in any other city. Smyrna's relation to the people of God, 1000 B. C., is not geographical but chronological. So we think it helps the mind to understand better the history of God's people to take a look occasionally into the lands around the great blue sea that washes the shores of Palestine. It is doubtless true that the history of Palestine was very much influenced by the ideas and movements of surrounding people.

of the children of Israel, but <sup>4</sup>of the remnant of the Amorites; and the children of Israel had sworn unto them: and Saul sought to slay them<sup>2</sup> in<sup>c</sup> his zeal to the children of Israel and Judah:)

3 Wherefore David said unto the Gibeonites, What shall I do for you? and wherewith shall I make the atonement, that ye may <sup>1</sup>bless the inheritance of the LORD?

4 And the Gibeonites said unto him, <sup>9</sup>We will have no silver nor gold of Saul, nor of his house; neither for us shalt thou kill any man in Israel. And he said, What ye shall say, that will I do for you.

5 And they answered the king, The man that consumed us, and that <sup>2</sup>devised against us, that we should be destroyed from remaining in any of the coasts of Israel,

6 Let <sup>1</sup>seven men of his sons be delivered unto us, and we will hang them up unto the LORD in Gibeah of Saul, <sup>2</sup>whom the LORD did choose.<sup>3</sup> And the king said, I will give them.<sup>4</sup>

7 But the king spared <sup>1</sup>Mephibosheth, the son of Jonathan, the son of Saul, because of the <sup>2</sup>LORD's oath that was between them, between David and Jonathan the son of Saul.

8 But the king took the two sons of <sup>2</sup>Rizpah the daughter of Aiah, whom she bare unto Saul, Armoni and Mephibosheth; and the five sons of <sup>3</sup>Michal<sup>5</sup> the daughter of Saul, whom she brought up<sup>6</sup> for Adriel, the son of Barzillai the Meholahite:

9 And he delivered them into the hands of the Gibeonites, and they hanged them <sup>2</sup>in the hill before the LORD: and they fell all seven together, and were put to death in the days of harvest, in the first days, <sup>3</sup>in the beginning of barley harvest.<sup>7</sup>

10 ¶ And <sup>2</sup>Rizpah the daughter of Aiah took sackcloth, and spread it for her<sup>8</sup> upon the rock, from the beginning of harvest until water dropped upon them<sup>9</sup> out of heaven, and suffered neither the birds of the air to rest on them by day, nor the beasts of the field by night.<sup>1</sup>

11 And it was told David what Rizpah the daughter of Aiah, the concubine of Saul, had done.

12 ¶ And David went and took the <sup>2</sup>bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan his son, from the men of Jabesh-gilead, which had stolen them from the street of Beth-shan, where the 14 And <sup>2</sup>the bones of Saul and Jonathan his son buried they in the country of Benjamin in Zelah, <sup>3</sup>in the sepulchre of Kish his <sup>4</sup>father; and they performed all <sup>5</sup>that the king commanded: and after that <sup>6</sup>God was entreated for the land.

15 ¶ Moreover the Philistines had yet war again with Israel; and David went down, and his servants with him, and fought against the Philistines: and David waxed faint.

16 And Ishbi-benob, which was of the sons of <sup>2</sup>the giant,<sup>3</sup> (the weight of whose <sup>4</sup>spear weighed three hundred<sup>5</sup> shekels of brass in weight,) he being girded with a new sword, thought to have slain David.

17 But Abishai the son of Zeruiah <sup>2</sup>succoured him, and smote the Philistine, and killed him. Then the men of David sware unto him, saying, <sup>3</sup>Thou shalt go no more out with us to battle, that thou <sup>4</sup>quench not the light<sup>6</sup> of Israel.

18 And<sup>c</sup> it came to pass after this, that there was again<sup>7</sup> a battle with the Philistines at <sup>8</sup>Gob: then Sibbechai the Hushathite slew Saph, which was of the sons of the giant.<sup>9</sup>

19 And there was again<sup>1</sup> a battle in Gob with the Philistines, where <sup>2</sup>Elhanan the son of Jaare-oregim, a Beth-lehemite, slew the brother of Goliath<sup>2</sup> the Gittite, the staff of whose spear was like a weaver's beam.

20 And <sup>2</sup>there was yet a battle in Gath, where was a man of great stature, that had on every hand six fingers, and on every foot six toes, four and twenty in number; and he also was born to the giant.

21 And when he defied<sup>3</sup> Israel, Jonathan the son of <sup>4</sup>Shimeah the brother of David, slew him.

22 These<sup>9</sup> four were born to the giant in Gath, and fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

CHAPTER XXII.

A psalm of thanksgiving for God's mighty deliverances, and manifold blessings.

AND David <sup>2</sup>spake unto the LORD the words of this song<sup>1</sup> in the day that the LORD had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul:

2 And he said, "The LORD is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer;

3 The God of my rock; in him will I trust: he is my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my high tower, and my refuge, my saviour; thou savest me from violence.

4 I<sup>a</sup> will call on the LORD, who is worthy to be praised: so shall I be saved from mine enemies.

5 When<sup>a</sup> the waves<sup>a</sup> of death compassed me, the floods of ungodly<sup>2</sup> men made me afraid;

6 The sorrows of hell<sup>3</sup> compassed me about; the snares of death prevented<sup>4</sup> me.

7 In<sup>a</sup> my distress I called upon the LORD, and cried to my God; and he did hear my voice out of his temple, and my cry did enter into his ears.

8 Then<sup>a</sup> the earth shook and trembled; the foundations of heaven moved and shook, because he was wroth.

9 There<sup>a</sup> went up a smoke out of his nostrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured: coals<sup>5</sup> were kindled by it.

10 He<sup>a</sup> bowed the heavens also, and came down; and darkness was under his feet.

11 And he rode upon a cherub, and did fly: and he was seen upon the wings of the wind.

12 And he made "darkness pavilions round about him, dark<sup>6</sup> waters, and thick clouds of the skies.

13 Through the brightness before him were coals of fire kindled.

14 The "LORD thundered from heaven, and the most High uttered his voice.

15 And he sent out arrows, and scattered them; lightning, and discomfited them.

17 He<sup>a</sup> sent from above, he took me; he drew me out of "many waters:

18 He<sup>a</sup> delivered me from my strong enemy, and from them that hated me; for they were too strong for me.

19 They<sup>a</sup> prevented me in the day of my calamity: but the LORD was my stay.

20 He "brought me forth also into a large place:<sup>8</sup> he delivered me, because he delighted

STEAMERS AT SMYRNA—WHERE HOMER WAS BORN, WHO WROTE AT THE SAME TIME DAVID DID. [II. Samuel, xxii.]—The 22d chapter of Samuel contains a Psalm of David praising God for his powerful deliverance and manifold blessings. It is a sublime specimen of poetry, and about the same time that this was written, Homer lived who was born in Smyrna. Other cities claim to be the birth-place of Homer, but the inhabitants of Smyrna confirm the opinion that their city was the place of his birth by not only paying him divine honors but by showing the place which bore the poet's name. It is interesting to compare the writings of the two poets, David and Homer, living as they did in the same age about 1000 B. C. Such a comparison reveals the infinite difference between the rational conception which the Hebrews had of God and the mythological and puerile ideas of the divine held by the Greeks.

42 They <sup>a</sup>looked, but there was none to save; even unto the LORD, but he answered them not.

43 Then <sup>a</sup>did I beat them as small as the dust of the earth; I did stamp them as the mire of the street, and did spread them abroad.

44 Thou <sup>a</sup>also hast delivered me from the strivings of my people; thou hast kept me to be head<sup>a</sup> of the heathen: a people which I knew not shall serve me.

45 Strangers<sup>a</sup> shall <sup>b</sup>submit<sup>1</sup> themselves unto me: as soon as they hear, they shall be obedient unto me.

46 Strangers shall fade away, and they shall be <sup>a</sup>fraid out of their close places.

47 The <sup>a</sup>LORD liveth; and blessed be my rock; and exalted be the God of the rock of my salvation.

48 It is <sup>a</sup>God that avengeth me, and that bringeth<sup>7</sup> down the people under me, 49 And that bringeth me forth from mine enemies: <sup>a</sup>thou also hast lifted me up on high above them that rose up against me: thou hast delivered me from the violent man.

50 Therefore <sup>a</sup>I will give thanks unto thee, O LORD, among the heathen, and I will sing praises unto thy name.<sup>2</sup>

51 He <sup>a</sup>is the tower of salvation for his king; and sheweth mercy to his anointed, unto David, and to his seed for evermore.

CHAPTER XXIII.

NOW these be <sup>a</sup>the last words<sup>1</sup> of David. David the son of Jesse said, and <sup>b</sup>the man who was raised up on high, the anointed of the God of Jacob, and the <sup>c</sup>sweet psalmist of Israel, said,

THE ALTAR OF THE CHURCH OF THE NATIVITY—OVER THE PLACE WHERE CHRIST WAS BORN. [II. Samuel, xxiii:16.]—"And the three mighty men brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: nevertheless he would not drink thereof, but poured it out unto the Lord." Bethlehem is celebrated because of its relation to Boaz and Ruth, and because it was the birthplace of David; but most of all it holds its place in the affections of the human race because here was the advent of the Savior. Here the angels announced his birth to the shepherds as they minded their flocks by night. The Church of the Nativity stands over the Inn where our Savior was born. The traditional well of David from which the men drew water at the peril of their lives, is in a yard through a narrow passage on the left as we enter Bethlehem.

23 He was more honourable<sup>3</sup> than the thirty, but he attained not to the first three: and David set him over his <sup>4</sup>guard.<sup>5</sup>

Beer-sheba, and number ye the people, <sup>a</sup>that I may know the number of the people.

3 And Joab said unto the king, <sup>a</sup>Now the LORD thy God add unto the people, how many soever they be, an hundred-fold, and that the eyes of my lord the king may see it: but why doth my lord the king delight in this thing?

4 Notwithstanding the king's word prevailed against Joab, and against the captains of the host: and Joab and the captains of the host went out from the presence of the king to number the people of Israel.

5 ¶ And they passed over Jordan, and pitched in <sup>a</sup>Aroer, on the right side of the city that lieth in the midst of the river<sup>1</sup> of Gad, and toward <sup>b</sup>Jazer:

6 Then they came to <sup>c</sup>Gilead, and to the land of Tahtim-hodshi,<sup>2</sup> and they came to Dan-jaan,<sup>3</sup> and about to <sup>d</sup>Zidon,

7 And came to the strong hold of <sup>e</sup>Tyre, and to all the cities of the Hivites, and of the Canaanites;<sup>4</sup> and they went out to the south of Judah, even to Beer-sheba.

8 So, when they had gone through all the land, they came to Jerusalem at the end of nine months and twenty days.

9 And <sup>f</sup>Joab gave up the sum of the number of the people unto the king: and there were in Israel eight hundred thousand valiant men that drew the sword; and the men of Judah were five hundred thousand men.<sup>5</sup>

10 ¶ And David's heart <sup>g</sup>smote him<sup>6</sup> after that he had numbered the people. And David said unto the LORD, <sup>h</sup>I have sinned greatly in that I have done: and now, I beseech thee, O LORD, take away the iniquity of thy servant; for I have done very foolishly.

11 For, when David was up in the morning, the word of the LORD came unto the prophet Gad,<sup>7</sup> David's seer, saying, 12 Go<sup>8</sup> and say unto David, Thus saith the LORD, I offer thee three things; choose thee one of them, <sup>i</sup>that I may do it unto thee.

13 So Gad came to David, and told him, and said unto him, <sup>j</sup>Shall seven years of famine<sup>9</sup> come unto thee in thy land? or wilt thou flee ab The time appointed has been variously interpreted. The most probable meaning is the time of the evening sacrifice, and assembling of the people for worship. If this be correct, then the plague only lasted part of a day. Its ravages were so sad and so terrible that all must acknowledge it to be a signal mark of the divine displeasure. — P.

ac He had been proud of the numbers of his people, and therefore the judgment must be such as will make them fewer. What makes the matter of our pride, it is just with God to take from us, and to make the means of our punishment. He had chosen the pestilence, because he and his family would be as much exposed to it as the poorest Israelite, and he would continue for a shorter time under the divine rebuke, however severe it might be. — P.

ad Perhaps there was more wickedness, especially more pride (and that was the sin now chastised), in Jerusalem, than elsewhere, and therefore the hand of the destroyer is stretched upon that city; but then the Lord repented him of the evil, changed not his mind, but his way. 'Jerusalem shall be spared for the ark's sake, for it is the place God hath chosen to put his name there.' — P.

three months before thine enemies, while they pursue thee? or that there be three days' pestilence in thy land? now advise, and see what answer I shall return to him that sent me.

14 And David said unto Gad, <sup>a</sup>I am in a great strait: let us fall now into the hand of the LORD, (for his mercies are <sup>b</sup>great,) and let me not fall into the hand of <sup>c</sup>man.

15 ¶ So the LORD sent a <sup>d</sup>pestilence upon Israel from the morning even to the time appointed:<sup>8</sup> and there died of the people, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, seventy thousand <sup>e</sup>men.

16 And when the angel stretched out his hand upon Jerusalem<sup>1</sup> to destroy it, <sup>b</sup>the LORD repented<sup>2</sup> him of the evil, and said to the angel that destroyed the people, It is enough; stay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD was by the thrashing-place of <sup>c</sup>Araunah the Jebusite.

17 And David spake <sup>a</sup>unto the LORD, when he saw the angel that smote the people, and said, <sup>b</sup>Lo, I have sinned, and I have done wickedly; but <sup>c</sup>these sheep, what have they done? Let thine hand, I pray thee, be against me,<sup>3</sup> and against my father's house.

18 ¶ And Gad came <sup>a</sup>that day to David, and said unto him, Go up, rear an altar unto the LORD in the thrashing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite.

19 And David, according to the saying of Gad, went up, <sup>b</sup>as the LORD commanded.

20 And <sup>a</sup>Araunah looked, and saw the king and his servants coming on toward him: and Araunah went out, and <sup>b</sup>bowed himself before the king on his face upon the ground.

21 And Araunah said, <sup>a</sup>Wherefore is my lord the king come to his servant? And David said, To buy the thrashing-floor of thee, to build an altar unto the LORD, that <sup>b</sup>the plague may be stayed from the people.

23 All these <sup>a</sup>things did Araunah, as a king, his interest, and was thereby generally too strong for David. But he dreaded such addition of new troops as might enable David to overpower him or depose him from the chief command. Next, what was the sin of David and Israel, for which they are delivered over to the tempter and punished with the plague? Their sin was the appetite for military glory beyond the purposes of defence, and of foreign conquest beyond the

The route taken by the king's messengers was first eastward to Moab; then northward through Gilead; then <sup>a</sup>to the land of Tahtim-hodshi, and on to Dan-jaan and Zidon. The land of Tahtim-hodshi was thus manifestly a section of the upper valley of the Jordan, probably the 'netherland' or 'lowland,' now called Ard el-Huleh, lying deep down at the western base of Hermon. called the Gordian Canon, is charged to the error of a transcriber. But as there is great danger in this violent criticism, so there is no need of it. An altar was erected; and the spot which had been originally consecrated by the sacrifice of Abraham, and called Moriah, 'the vision of Jehovah,' was now again dedicated to God. In a few years more the spot became the site of the great altar of Solomon's temple. To this day the site of Araunah's thrashing-floor is one of the holiest shrines of Mohammedanism. P.]

REFLECTIONS.—It is very dangerous when the sins of subjects provoke God to permit Satan to tempt their kings. He exactly discerns our pride, and detests it and everything leading to or produced by it. And it is cause of great shame to the saints, when monsters of wickedness are made to put them in mind of the promises of God and of their own duty. The pleasures obtained by sinful methods are quickly turned into the gall of asps within us: and bitter are the griefs and great the straits, when we have no choice but of destructive judgments allowed us by God. Alas! our sin, our folly, makes it so! But let a sense of guilt put an edge of importunity upon our prayers;—it may be the Lord will be gracious. He often smites where he means not to destroy. And though in his just judgment he will abase our pride by smiting our idol, he nothing. So David bought the thrashing-floor and the oxen for 'fifty shekels of silver.'

25 And David 'built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings. So the LORD was 'entreated for the land, and the plague was stayed from Israel.

will mingle mercy with judgment. While, therefore, we tremble at his judgments, let us beware of provoking him by our sins. How it stings a generous mind to have neighbours, and especially a Saviour, suffering for his sins! But under all our guilt, and all our plagues, let Jesus, our altar, our sacrifice, and ransom, be applied to as the means of our reconciliation to God. Let sacrifices of praise attend our pardon, and every manifestation of it. And however generous our friends may be, let us never willingly come under needless obligations to them; and never let us wish to serve God at the expense of others.

THE FIRST BOOK OF KINGS.

Perhaps this and the following book were written by the prophets who lived in their respective periods; and the whole connected together by Jeremiah or Ezra. They contain the history of the Jewish church and nation for about 427 years, from the coronation of Solomon to the burning of the temple by the Chaldeans. The alternate changes of mercies and judgments therein represented are an exact fulfilment of Le. xxvi.; De. xxviii. xxxii.

Forty years the kingdom of Israel continued united under Solomon, whose instalment, wisdom, wealth, erection of the temple, and idolatrous apostasy, are largely described, i. —xi. After the division, the kingdom of the ten tribes continued two hundred and fifty-four years under nineteen kings, descended from nine different families; viz. Jeroboam I., Nadab;—Baasha, Elah;—Zimri;—Omri, Ahab, Ahaziah, Jehoram;—Jehu, Jehoahaz, Jehoash, Jeroboam II., Zechariah;—Shallum;—Menahem, Pekahiah;—Pekah;—Hoshea: all of them idolaters. The kingdom of Judah continued three hundred and eighty-seven years under nineteen kings of the line of David; viz. Rehoboam, Abijah, Asa, Jehoshaphat, Jehoram, Ahaziah (Athaliah was an usurper), Joash, Amaziah, Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, Manasseh, Amon, Josiah, Jehoahaz, Jehoikim, and Zedekiah: of whom Asa, Jehoshaphat, Jotham, Hezekiah, and Josiah were pious, and Manasseh a penitent. The history of these thirty-nine sovereigns, with that of the prophets Elijah and Elisha, is the subject-matter of these books. The scope is to show how righteousness exalts a nation, and sin is the reproach of any people.

[The First and Second Books of Kings were originally only one book. They are so still in Jewish manuscripts. They were divided in the Septuagint version, and printed so for the first time in Hebrew in the Bible edited by Bomberg. In the Septuagint and Vulgate they are called the Third and Fourth Books of Kings, First and Second Samuel being counted as First and Second Kings. The reason of this is obvious. The history in the four books is continuous, forming in fact a complete outline of the whole Israelitish monarchy from the anointing of David till the captivity.

There can be little doubt that Jeremiah was the author of the Books of Kings. Jewish tradition affirms the fact, and the language and style fully corroborate it. The last chapter bears evidence that the writer of it was an eye-witness of the triumph of the Babylonish arms and the capture of the Jews, while he himself remained in Judea. This exactly accords with the history of Jeremiah. The sources from which he derived his information were doubtless national records and other authentic documents. The latter part of the history came under the author's own observation; and accordingly we find that the narrative of the appointment of Gedaliah as governor, of his murder, and of the flight of the Jews to Egypt, is just an abridgment of the Book of Jeremiah, ch. xl.—xliii. Several works are mentioned by the writer as sources of information:—The Book of the Acts of Solomon, 1 Ki. 11. 41; The Book of Jonah, 2 Ki. 14. 25. Others are named in Chronicles; such as The Acts of David; The Book of Nathan; The Prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite; and The Visions of Iddo the Seer, &c. These were doubtless accessible to Jeremiah; and formed part of the materials from which, under divine inspiration, he composed the Books of Kings. P.]

6 And his father<sup>m</sup> had not displeased him at any time<sup>1</sup> in saying, Why hast thou done so? and he also was a very<sup>n</sup> goodly man: and his mother<sup>o</sup> bare him after Absalom.<sup>2</sup>

7 And he<sup>p</sup> conferred with<sup>q</sup> Joab the son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the priest: and they, following Adonijah, helped him.

8 But Zadok the priest, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and Nathan the prophet, and Shimei,<sup>3</sup> and Rei, and the mighty men which belonged to David, were not with Adonijah.

9 And Adonijah slew sheep, and oxen, and fat cattle, by the stone of Zoheleth, which is by En-rogel,<sup>4</sup> and called all his brethren the king's sons, and all the men of Judah the king's servants:

10 But Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty men, and Solomon his brother, he called not.<sup>5</sup>

11 ¶ Wherefore Nathan spake unto Bathsheba the mother of Solomon, saying, Hast thou not heard that Adonijah the son of Haggith doth reign, and David our lord knoweth it not?

12 Now therefore come, let me, I pray thee, give thee counsel, that thou mayest save thine own life, and the life of thy son Solomon.

13 Go and get thee in unto king David, and say unto him, Didst not thou, my lord, O king, swear unto thine handmaid, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne? why then doth Adonijah reign?

14 Behold, while thou yet talkest there with the king, I also will come in after thee, and confirm<sup>r</sup> thy words.

15 ¶ And Bathsheba went in unto the king into the chamber: and the king was very old; and Abishag the Shunammite ministered unto the king.

16 And Bathsheba bowed, and did obeisance unto the king. And the king said, What wouldest thou?

17 And she said unto him, My lord, thou swarest by the LORD thy God unto thine handmaid, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne:<sup>6</sup>

<sup>3</sup> It appears that David's right to nominate which of his sons he pleased to succeed him was recognized by his subjects.

Michaelis thinks that he had secured this right by the terms of his covenant with the people. But it rather seems to have been a right which needed no stipulation, being sanctioned by general usage; as we see exemplified in the case of Jacob, who deprived his eldest son Reuben of that priority which would otherwise have belonged to him. The right of the eldest son was in general recognized, but with a reserved right in the father to give the preference to a younger son if he saw occasion. Oriental kings still enjoy this power. The late King of Persia, for instance, publicly recognized his second son (Abbas Mirza) as his successor, to the exclusion of the eldest, who, however, took no pains to conceal his intention to put the matter to the arbitrament of the sword.—A. 22 ¶ And, lo, while she yet talked with the king, Nathan the prophet also came in.<sup>8</sup>

23 And they told the king, saying, Behold Nathan the prophet. And when he was come in before the king, he bowed himself before the king with his face to the ground.

24 And Nathan said, My lord, O king, hast thou said, Adonijah shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne?

25 For he is gone down this day, and hath slain oxen, and fat cattle, and sheep in abundance, and hath called all the king's sons, and the captains of the host, and Abiathar the priest; and, behold, they eat and drink before him, and say, God save king Adonijah.

27 Is this thing done by my lord the king and thou hast not showed<sup>9</sup> it unto thy servant, who should sit on the throne of my lord the king after him?

32 ¶ And king David said, Call me 'Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada. And they came before the king.

33 The king also said unto them, Take with you the servants of your lord, and cause Solomon my son to 'ride upon mine own mule,' and bring him down to 'Gihon.'

34 And let Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet, 'anoint him there king over Israel: and' blow ye with the trumpet, and say, God save king Solomon.

9 There is no precept in the law directing a culprit to take hold of the horns of the altar. Yet it seems to be an act admitted as testimony of an appeal to the legal but temporary protection afforded to certain culprits in the cities of refuge. It is not said where this altar was, but as Gibeon was a city of refuge, and as an altar was still there, ch. 3.4, it is most likely Adonijah would flee to it, if he might fear to be ranked, if not with actual, yet still with intentional manslaughter, according to that principle of European jurisprudence, which condemns even the imagining the death of a king. C.—The altar erected on the threshing-floor of Araunah, 2 Sa. 24.25. The altar of the Hebrews seems to have been a refuge till a man's case was heard, or till pardon was obtained; though there is no precept in the law to make it a privileged place, as it was among the Greeks and Romans. The murderer was to be taken from the altar and slain. Ex. 21.12-14. 46 And also Solomon 'sitteth on the throne of the kingdom.

47 And, moreover, the king's servants came to 'bless our lord king David, saying. 'God make the name of Solomon better than thy name, and make his throne greater than thy throne. And the king 'bowed himself upon the bed.

48 And also thus said the king, 'Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which hath given one to sit on my throne this day, mine eyes even seeing it.

50 ¶ And Adonijah feared because of Solomon, and arose, and went, 'and caught hold on the horns of the altar.<sup>9</sup>

51 And it was told Solomon, saying, Behold, Adonijah feareth king Solomon: for, lo, he hath caught hold on the horns of the altar, saying, Let king Solomon swear unto me to-day, that he will not slay his servant with the sword.

52 And Solomon said, If he will show himself a worthy man, there 'shall not an hair of him fall to the earth: but if 'wickedness<sup>1</sup> shall be found in him, he shall die.

53 So king Solomon sent, and they brought him down from the altar. And he came and bowed himself to king Solomon: and Solomon said unto him, 'Go to thine house.

CHAPTER II.

1 David, having given a charge to Solomon, 3 of religiousness, 5 of Joab, 7 of Barzillai, 8 of Shimei, 10 dieth. 12 Solomon succeedeth him. 13 Adonijah, moving Bathsheba to sue unto Solomon for Abiathar, is put to death. 26 Abiathar, having his life spared, is deprived of the priesthood. 28 Joab fleeing to the horns of the altar is there slain. 35 Benaiah is put in Joab's room, and Zadok in Abiathar's. 36 Shimei, confined to Jerusalem, by occasion of going thence to Gath in defiance of the king's orders, is put to death.

NOW the days of David drew nigh 'that he should die; and he charged Solomon his son, saying,

2 I go 'the way of all the earth: 'be thou strong therefore, and show thyself a man;

3 And 'keep the charge<sup>1</sup> of the LORD thy

TOMBS OF THE KINGS, JERUSALEM—WHERE THE KINGS OF ISRAEL ARE REPUTED TO BE BURIED. [1 KINGS, ii: 10.]—"So David slept with his fathers and was buried in the city of David." The tombs of the kings are surrounded by a wall. They are entered from the west side. Twenty-four steps are cut out of the solid rock, nine yards wide. These lead down into the tombs in an easterly direction. These tombs are held in high esteem by the Jews. They call them the cavern of Zedekiah, or the tomb of the rich Kalba Sabua. It is supposed that Queen Helena of Adiabene was also buried here. This queen with her son Izates became converted to Judaism in her own country, and after the death of her husband moved to Jerusalem to live. She returned home, but after her death was brought to Jerusalem and buried. They are called the tombs of the kings, but there is no definite information by which we can know whether any of the kings of Judah are buried here.

his testimonies,<sup>2</sup> as it is written in the law of Moses, that thou mayest prosper in all that thou doest, and whithersoever thou turnest thyself;

4 That the LORD may 'continue his word<sup>3</sup> which he spake concerning me, saying, If thy children take heed to their way, to walk before me in truth, with all their heart, and with all their soul, there shall not fail thee (said he) a man on the throne of Israel.

5 Moreover, thou knowest also 'what Joab the son of Zeruiah did to me, and what he did to the two captains of the hosts of Israel, unto Abner the son of Ner, and unto Amasa the son of Jether, whom he slew, and shed the blood of war in peace, and put the blood of war upon his girdle that was about his loins, and in his shoes that were on his feet.

6 Do therefore 'according to thy wisdom, and let not his hoar head go down to the grave in peace.<sup>4</sup>

7 But 'show kindness unto the sons of Barzillai the Gileadite, and let them be of those that eat at thy table: for so they came to me when I fled because of Absalom thy brother.

8 And, behold, thou hast with thee 'Shimei the son of Gera, a Benjamite of Bahurim, which cursed me with a grievous<sup>5</sup> curse in the day when I went to Mahanaim: 'but he came down to meet me at Jordan, and I sware to him by the LORD, saying, I will not put thee to death with the sword.

9 Now therefore 'hold him not guiltless: for thou art a 'wise man, and knowest what thou oughtest to do unto him; but his hoar head bring thou down to the grave with blood.<sup>6</sup>

10 ¶ So 'David slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David.

11 And 'the days that David reigned over Israel were forty years: seven years reigned he in Hebron, and thirty and three years reigned he in Jerusalem.

12 ¶ Then<sup>7</sup> sat Solomon upon the throne of David his father; and his kingdom was established greatly.

13 ¶ And 'Adonijah the son of Haggith came to Bath-sheba the mother of Solomon: and she said, Comest thou 'peaceably? And he said, Peaceably.

14 He said moreover, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And she said, Say on.

<sup>8</sup> Hales says, 'David did not advise Solomon to put Joab to death absolutely or unconditionally. His words imply, Though you have now pardoned Joab through policy, and as I was compelled to do myself by the exigency of the times, and the predominate influence of the sons of Zeruiah, yet should he offend again, act according to your discretion, and then punish him as a hoary murderer and confirmed traitor with death.'—J.

And it is evident that Solomon so understood him: for while he sentenced Joab to death, ver. 31, he merely confined Shimei to Jerusalem, ver. 36, where his conduct might be under the royal surveillance, and his seditious spirit restrained. —C.

18 And Bath-sheba said, 'Well; I will speak for thee unto the king.

19 Bath-sheba therefore went unto king Solomon, to speak unto him for Adonijah. And the king 'rose up to meet her, and bowed himself unto her, and sat down on his throne, and caused a seat to be set for the king's mother; and she sat on his 'right hand.

29 And it was told king Solomon that Joab was fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD; and, behold, he is by the altar: then Solomon <sup>3</sup>sent Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, saying, Go, fall upon him.

30 And Benaiah came to the tabernacle of the LORD, and said unto him, Thus saith the king, Come forth. And he said, Nay; but I will die here.<sup>4</sup> And Benaiah brought the king word again, saying, Thus said Joab, and thus he answered me.

31 And the king said unto him, Do as he hath said, and <sup>5</sup>fall upon him, and bury him; that thou mayest take away the innocent blood, which Joab shed, from me, and from the house of my father.

32 And the LORD shall <sup>6</sup>return his blood upon his own head, who fell upon <sup>7</sup>two men more righteous and better than he, and slew them with the sword, my father David not knowing thereof, to wit, Abner the son of Ner, captain of the host of Israel, and Amasa the son of Jether, captain of the host of Judah.

l 'No doubt Solomon suspected that Shimei's influence would be dangerous upon his own estate, and among his numerous dependants in different parts of the land, and therefore he proposed to him, as the condition of his indemnity for former crimes, that he should live in Jerusalem under his eye, and by no means remove thence. These terms Shimei readily agreed to, and solemnly swore to observe, and for three years he lived unmolested and in affluence. But growing of Solomon's authority and of the oath of God, upon an unnecessary business he took a journey, which, according to his own engagement, forfeited his life. Thus the Lord left him to be infatuated, that due punishment might be inflicted upon him, in order that every ringleader of opposition to Solomon's kingdom might be crushed, and others be intimidated by their examples; and that his throne might be established in peace as the type of the Redeemer's kingdom of peace and righteousness.—Scott.

m From 2 Sa. 19.17 it is evident that Shimei was a powerful prince in Benjamin, for his followers were a thousand warriors. His confinement to Jerusalem was therefore a prudent precaution, and Jerusalem being in the neighbourhood of his own tribe and estate, the sentence was most lenient and favourable.—C.

f It would seem from this and similar statements that the Lord had specially sanctioned the offering up of sacrifices in certain of the high-places in Palestine—such as Shiloh, Shechem, Bethel, Gibeah, and Gilgal. This was a provisional arrangement continued only until the temple was dedicated. 'The great high-place' at Gibeon was apparently the same round which the Israelites assembled when called together at Mizpah. Gibeon and Mizpah were within a very short distance of each other—the latter on the top of the hill, and the former in the valley.

40 And Shimei <sup>2</sup>arose, and saddled his ass, and went to Gath to Achish to seek his servants: and Shimei went, and brought his servants from Gath.

41 And it was told Solomon that Shimei had gone from Jerusalem to Gath, and was come again.

42 And the king sent and called for Shimei, and said unto him, 'Did I not make thee to swear by the LORD, and protested unto thee, saying, Know for a certain, that on the day thou goest out, and walkest abroad any whither, that thou shalt surely die? and thou saidst unto me, The word that I have heard is good.

CHAPTER III.

1 Solomon married Pharaoh's daughter. 2 High places being in use, Solomon sacrificed at Gibeon. 3 Solomon at Gibeon, in the choice which God gave him, preferring wisdom, obtaineth wisdom, riches, and honour. 4 His judgment between the two karlots maketh his wisdom renowned.

AND Solomon<sup>a</sup> made affinity with Pharaoh king of Egypt, and took Pharaoh's daughter, and brought her into <sup>1</sup>the city of David, until he had made an end of <sup>2</sup>building his own house, and the house of the LORD, and the wall of Jerusalem round about.

2 ¶ Only<sup>a</sup> the people sacrificed in high places, because there <sup>3</sup>was no house built unto the name of the LORD in Jerusalem.

THE SPHINX—STANDING 2,719 YEARS WHEN SOLOMON TOOK PHARAOH'S DAUGHTER AND BROUGHT HER TO THE CITY OF DAVID. [I. Kings, iii:1.]—"And Solomon made affinity with Pharaoh, King of Egypt, and took Pharaoh's daughter, and brought her into the City of David, until he had made an end of building his own house, and the house of the Lord, and the wall of Jerusalem round about." In this verse we see God's people brought through their king into relation with Egypt again. So we present here one of the most interesting pictures of the Sphinx that has ever been taken to illustrate this fact. This monument stood where it appears to-day 3733 B. C., and had been standing here 2,719 years when Solomon took Pharaoh's daughter, and brought her into the City of David. The Sphinx represented among the Egyptians the God Harmachis, "Horus in the horizon, or Rising Sun, the Conquerer of Darkness, the God of the Morning." The Sphinx is hewn out of the living rock. The body is 153 feet long, paws 50 feet, the head 30 feet long, the face 14 feet wide, and from the top of the head to the base of the monument the distance is about 70 feet.

3 And Solomon loved the LORD, walking in the statutes of David his father: only he sacrificed and burnt incense in high places.

4 And the king went to Gibeon to sacrifice there; for that was the great high place: a thousand burnt-offerings did Solomon offer upon that altar.

5 ¶ In Gibeon the LORD appeared to Solomon in a dream by night: and God said, Ask what I shall give thee.

6 And Solomon said, Thou hast showed unto thy servant David my father great mercy, according as he walked before thee in truth, and in righteousness, and in uprightness of heart with thee; and thou hast kept for him this great kindness, that thou hast given him a son to sit on his throne, as it is this day.

7 And now, O LORD my God, thou hast made thy servant king instead of David my father; and I am but a little child: I know not how to go out or come in.

8 And thy servant is in the midst of thy people which thou hast chosen, a great people, that cannot be numbered nor counted for multitude.

9 Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people, that I may discern between good and bad: for who is able to judge this thy so great a people?

10 And the speech pleased the LORD, that Solomon had asked this thing.

11 And God said unto him, Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast not asked for thyself long life; neither hast asked riches for thyself, nor hast asked the life of thine enemies; but hast asked for thyself understanding to discern judgment;

12 Behold, I have done according to thy words: lo, I have given thee a wise and an understanding heart, so that there was none like thee before thee, neither after thee shall any arise like unto thee.

13 And I have also given thee that which thou hast not asked, both riches and honour; so that there shall not be any among the kings like unto thee all thy days.

14 And if thou wilt walk in my ways, to keep my statutes and my commandments, as thy father David did walk, then I will lengthen thy days.

15 And Solomon awoke; and, behold, it stood before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and offered up burnt-offerings, and offered peace-offerings, and made a feast to all his servants.

16 ¶ Then came there two women, that were harlots, to the king, and stood before him.

17 And the one woman said, O my lord, I and this woman dwell in one house; and I was delivered of a child with her in the house.

18 And it came to pass the third day after that I was delivered, that this woman was delivered also: and we were together; there was no stranger with us in the house, save we two in the house.

19 And this woman's child died in the night; because she overlaid it.

20 And she arose at midnight, and took my son from beside me, while thine handmaid slept, and laid it in her bosom, and laid her dead child in my bosom.

21 And when I rose in the morning to give my child suck, behold, it was dead: but when I had considered it in the morning, behold, it was not my son which I did bear.

22 And the other woman said, Nay; but the living is my son, and the dead is thy son. And this said, No; but the dead is thy son, and the living is my son. Thus they spake before the king.

23 Then said the king, The one saith, This is my son that liveth, and thy son is the dead: and the other saith, Nay; but thy son is the dead, and my son is the living.

24 And the king said, Bring me a sword. And they brought a sword before the king.

25 And the king said, Divide the living child in two, and give half to the one, and half to the other.

26 Then spake the woman whose the living child was unto the king, (for her bowels were yearned upon her son,) and she said, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wise slay it: but the other said, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

27 Then the king answered and said, Give her the living child, and in no wise slay it: she is the mother thereof.

28 And all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had judged; and they feared

CHAPTER IV.

1 Solomon's princes. <sup>1</sup> His twelve officers who provided for his household. 20, 24 The peace and largeness of his kingdom. 22 His daily provision. 26 His stables. 29 His extraordinary wisdom.

SO king Solomon was king over all Israel.

2 And these were the princes which he had: Azariah the son of Zadok the priest;<sup>1</sup>

3 Elihoreph and Ahiah, the sons of Shisha, scribes;<sup>2</sup> Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud, the recorder;<sup>3</sup>

4 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over the host: and Zadok and Abiathar were the priests;<sup>3</sup>

5 And Azariah the son of Nathan was over the officers: and Zabud the son of Nathan was principal officer, and the king's friend;<sup>4</sup>

6 And Ahishar was over the household: and Adoniram the son of Abda was over the tribute.<sup>5</sup>

7 ¶ And Solomon had twelve officers over all Israel, which provided victuals for the king and his household: each man his month in a year made provision.<sup>6</sup>

8 And these are their names: The son of Hur,<sup>7</sup> in mount Ephraim.

9 The son of Dekar,<sup>8</sup> in Makaz, and in Shaalbim,<sup>1</sup> and Beth-shemesh, and Elon-beth-hanan.<sup>9</sup>

10 The son of Hesed,<sup>1</sup> in Aruboth; to him pertained Sochoh, and all the land of Hopher:<sup>2</sup>

11 The son of Abinadab,<sup>3</sup> in all the region of Dor;<sup>4</sup> which had Taphath the daughter of Solomon to wife:

12 Baana the son of Ahilud; to him pertained Taanach, and Megiddo, and all Beth-shean, which is by Zartanah, beneath Jezreel, from Beth-shean to Abel-meholah, even unto the place that is beyond Jokneam:<sup>5</sup>

13 The son of Geber,<sup>6</sup> in Ramoth-gilead; to him pertained the towns of Jair the son of Manasseh, which are in Gilead; to him also pertained the region of Argob, which is in Bashan, threescore great cities with walls and brazen bars:<sup>7</sup>

14 Ahinadab the son of Iddo had Mahanaim.<sup>8</sup>

15 Ahimaaz was in Naphtali; he also took Basmath the daughter of Solomon to wife:

16 Baanah the son of Hushai was in Asher and in Aloth:

20 ¶ Judah and Israel were many, as the sand which is by the sea in multitude, eating and drinking, and making merry.

21 And Solomon reigned over all kingdoms from the river<sup>1</sup> unto the land of the Philistines, and unto the border of Egypt: they brought presents, and served Solomon all the days of his life.

22 ¶ And Solomon's provision for one day was thirty measures<sup>2</sup> of fine flour, and threescore measures of meal,

23 Ten fat oxen, and twenty oxen out of the pastures, and an hundred sheep, besides harts, and roe-bucks, and fallow-deer, and fatted fowl.<sup>3</sup>

24 For he had dominion over all the region on this side the river, from Tiphshah<sup>4</sup> even to Azzah,<sup>5</sup> over all the kings on this side the river: and he had peace on all sides round about him.

25 And Judah and Israel dwelt safely, every man under his vine and under his fig-tree, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, all the days of Solomon.

26 ¶ And Solomon had forty thousand stalls of horses for his chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen.

27 And those officers provided victual for king Solomon, and for all that came unto king Solomon's table, every man in his month: they lacked nothing.

28 Barley also and straw for the horses and dromedaries brought they unto the place where the officers were, every man according to his charge.

29 ¶ And God gave Solomon wisdom and understanding exceeding much, and largeness of heart, even as the sand that is on the seashore.

30 And Solomon's wisdom excelled the wisdom of all the children of the east country, and all the wisdom of Egypt.

DAM, ABANA RIVER—A SCENE IN THE OLDEST CITY IN THE WORLD, INCLUDED IN THE KINGDOM OVER WHICH SOLOMON REIGNED. [I. KINGS, iv:21.]—"And Solomon reigned over all kingdoms from the river unto the land of the Philistines, and unto the border of Egypt: they brought presents and served Solomon all the days of his life." In the first chapter of Joshua, the Lord spake unto Joshua, saying, "Every place that the soul of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you, as I said unto Moses from the wilderness, and this Lebanon even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great sea towards the going down of the sun shall be your coast." The promise made to Joshua was practically confirmed and realized at the conclusion of David's reign. Solomon came into possession of this great inheritance, but by forgetting God he prepared the way for the dismemberment of his great kingdom. The Abana river is a scene near Damascus, at this time embraced within the dominions of Solomon.

31 For he was <sup>1</sup>wiser than all men; than Ethan<sup>2</sup> the Ezrahite, and Heman, and Chalcol, and Darda, the sons of Mahol:<sup>3</sup> and his fame was in all nations round about.

32 And he <sup>4</sup>spake three thousand proverbs: and his songs were a thousand and five.

33 And he spake of trees, from the cedar-tree that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyssop that springeth out of the wall: he spake also of beasts, and of fowl, and of creeping things, and of fishes.<sup>5</sup>

34 And there came <sup>6</sup>of all people to hear the wisdom of Solomon, from all kings of the earth, which had heard of his wisdom.

AND Hiram<sup>a</sup> king of Tyre<sup>1</sup> sent his servants unto Solomon; (for he had heard that they had anointed him king in the room of his father:) for Hiram<sup>b</sup> was ever a lover of David.

2 And <sup>c</sup>Solomon sent to Hiram, saying,

3 Thou knowest how that David my father could<sup>d</sup> not build an house unto the name of the LORD his God, for the wars which were about him on every side, until the LORD <sup>e</sup>put them under the soles of his feet.

4 But now the LORD my God <sup>f</sup>hath given me rest on every side, so that there is neither adversary nor evil occurrent.

5 And, behold, I <sup>g</sup>purpose <sup>h</sup>to build an house unto the name of the LORD my God,<sup>3</sup> as the LORD spake unto David my father, saying, Thy son, whom I will set upon thy throne in thy room, he shall build an house unto my name.

6 Now therefore command thou that they hew me <sup>i</sup>cedar-trees out of Lebanon; and my servants shall be with thy servants: and unto thee will <sup>j</sup>I give hire for thy servants, according to all that thou shalt appoint:<sup>4</sup> for thou knowest that there is not among us any that can skill to hew timber like unto the <sup>k</sup>Sidonians.<sup>5</sup>

8 And Hiram sent to Solomon, saying, I have considered<sup>7</sup> the things which thou sentest to me for: and I will do all thy desire concerning timber of cedar, and concerning <sup>m</sup>timber of fir.

9 My servants shall bring them down from <sup>n</sup>Lebanon unto the sea; and I will convey them by sea in floats unto the place that thou shalt appoint<sup>8</sup> me, and will cause them to be discharged there, and thou shalt receive them: and thou shalt accomplish my desire in <sup>o</sup>giving food for my household.<sup>9</sup>

10 So Hiram gave Solomon cedar-trees, and fir-trees, according to all his desire.

REFLECTIONS.—Great men should appear great, answerably to their stations. And it is often prudent the treasures of wisdom and knowledge, let us receive, and grace for grace.

CHAPTER V. [Ver. 6. The skill of the Sidonians in hewing timber was owing to two causes: 1. The cedar forests were in the mountains of Lebanon, within to be dragged along by strength of arm. Thousands were thus required to do work which as many scores could now do by the aid of machinery. The bearers of burdens and hewers spoken of in this verse were employed in the mountains around Jerusalem. It appears from 2 Ch. 2. 17, 18, that there

GENERAL VIEW OF THE POOLS OF SOLOMON—PART OF THE WATER SUPPLY OF THE MOSQUE OF OMAR. [1. Kings, vi:14.]—"So Solomon built the house, and finished it." We give a general view of the Pools of Solomon here because a part of the water which supplied the temple was brought to Jerusalem from this place. There are three of these pools. They are about nine miles from Jerusalem. The length of the upper cistern is about 380 feet, the breadth about 230 feet, the depth 25 feet. The middle cistern is 423 feet long, something over 200 feet broad, 39 feet deep. The lower cistern is 580 feet long, and over 200 feet broad, and 50 feet deep. The road from Hebron to Jerusalem passes just westward of them. Even to a recent day these cisterns sent water to the great mosque in Jerusalem, which is built on the site of Solomon's Temple.

32 The two doors<sup>3</sup> also were of olive-tree; and he carved upon them carvings of cherubims, and palm-trees, and open flowers,<sup>4</sup> and overlaid them with gold, and spread gold upon the cherubims, and upon the palm-trees.

33 So also made he for the door of the temple posts of olive-tree, a fourth part<sup>5</sup> of the wall.

34 And the two doors were of fir-tree: the two leaves of the one door were folding, and the two leaves of the other door were folding.

1 The building of Solomon's house. 2 Of the house of Lebanon. 6 Of the porch of pillars. 7 Of the porch of judgment. 8 Of the house for Pharaoh's daughter. 13 Hiram's work of the two pillars. 23 Of the molten sea. 27 Of the ten bases. 38 Of the ten lavers, 40 and all the other vessels.

BUT Solomon was building his own house thirteen<sup>4</sup> years,<sup>1</sup> and he finished all his house.<sup>2</sup>

2 ¶ He built<sup>3</sup> also the house of the forest of Lebanon;<sup>4</sup> the length thereof was an hundred cubits, and the breadth thereof fifty cubits, and the height thereof thirty cubits, upon four rows of cedar-pillars, with cedar-beams upon the pillars.

3 And it was covered with cedar above upon the beams,<sup>5</sup> that lay on forty-five pillars, fifteen in a row.

4 And there were windows in three rows, and light was against light<sup>6</sup> in three ranks.

5 And all the doors and posts were square with the windows;<sup>7</sup> and light was against light in three ranks.

6 ¶ And he made a porch of pillars; the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth thereof thirty cubits: and the porch was before them;<sup>8</sup> and the other pillars and the thick beam were before them.<sup>9</sup>

7 ¶ Then<sup>1</sup> he made a porch for the throne where he might judge, even the porch of judgment: and it was covered with cedar from one side of the floor to the other.<sup>2</sup>

8 ¶ And his house where he dwelt had height 30. The interior was 60 cubits long by 20 wide, and was divided by the veil into two chambers. The inner chamber, or holy of holies, was an exact cube, 20 cubits each way. The outer, or holy place, measured two cubes, being 40 cubits long, 20 wide, and 20 high. In front was a porch measuring half a cube, and containing the two pillars Jachin and Boaz. The door was in the east end, and in front of it was the great altar of burnt-offering. Along each side and the west end of the shrine was a range of small chambers for the priests, carried up in three stories to near the top of the temple walls. Above the whole rose a peaked roof 10 cubits high. The porch was remarkable. It was 120 cubits high. Probably each wing was carried up so as to form a great tower, resembling some of the English cathedrals. P.]

Ver. 37, 38. Never was such a magnificent structure on earth as this temple of Solomon. God himself had given the plan of it to David, 1 Ch. 28. 19. David and his princes prepared for the erection of it about 46,000 ton weight of gold and silver; amounting in all to about £942,719,750. About 183,600 Canaanites and Hebrews were employed in building it.

porch of the temple, 36½ feet from north to south, and 18¼ from east to west, and about 219 feet high: on each side it had an ornamental pillar of brass about 33 feet high. This served as a magnificent steeple, and as a place of shelter and prayer for the serving priests. Passing through this porch you entered into the sanctuary, an apartment about 73 feet long, 36½ broad, and 54¼ high. This was illuminated by at least ten golden candlesticks; each of which had seven curiously adorned branches for lamps: five of these were placed on the north, and as many on the south side of the house. An equal number of golden tables, furnished each with 12 loaves of show-bread, stood on each side of the house, probably between the candlesticks. Close to the west end, in the middle, stood the golden altar of incense: passing by it, through a doorway hung with a fine veil, and having leaves for shutting it, the high-priest, on the day of atonement, entered into the Oracle, or most holy place. It was an apartment 36½ feet in length, and as much in breadth, and 54¼ in height. Here, amidst perpetual darkness, was placed the ark, with its golden cherubims overthe entrance of the cloud of glory, the priests, singers, and porters attended it in the order prescribed by king David. After it had stood about 416 years, and had been frequently pillaged, it was burned by Nebuchadnezzar. About 70 years after it was rebuilt, with inferior glory, by the captives who returned from Babylon. This had stood about 500 years when it was rebuilt with far more magnificence by Herod the Great; and a new court for the Gentiles was added; but in little more than 80 years after it was finally destroyed by the Romans, A.D. 72, 1 Ch. xvii. xxii.—xxix.; 2 Ch. ii.—viii.; 2 Ki. xxv.; Je. iii.; Ezr. ii.—vi.; Jn. i.

REFLECTIONS.—How little God regards pomp in his worship who wanted a temple so long in his holy nation! But when he calls for our substance, we ought cheerfully to give in proportion to our greatness and wealth. What we do in God's church should be done diligently, orderly, and peaceably. But a hearty obedience to his law is more valuable than the most expensive donations to his church. They who go forth with a desire to his glory, may confidently expect some tokens of his approbation. And who can doubt that 9 ¶ All these <sup>3</sup> were of costly stones, according to the measures of hewed stones, sawed with saws, <sup>4</sup> within and without, even from the foundation unto the coping, and so on the outside toward the great court.

10 And the <sup>4</sup> foundation was of costly stones, even great stones, stones of ten cubits, and stones of eight cubits.

11 And above were costly stones (after the measures of hewed stones) and cedars.

12 And the great court round about was with <sup>4</sup> three rows of hewed stones, and a row of cedar-beams, both for the inner court of the house of the LORD, and for the porch of the house.

14 He was a widow's son <sup>7</sup> of the tribe of Naphtali, <sup>8</sup> and his father was a man of Tyre, a worker in brass; and he was <sup>m</sup>filled with wisdom and understanding, and cunning to work all works in brass: and he came to king Solomon, and wrought all his work.

15 ¶ For he <sup>n</sup>cast two pillars of brass, of eighteen cubits high apiece; <sup>9</sup> and a line of twelve cubits did compass either of them about.

16 And he made two chapters of molten brass, to set upon the tops of the pillars: the height of the one chapter <sup>2</sup> was five cubits, and the height of the other chapter was five cubits:

17 And nets of checker-work, and wreaths of chain-work, for the chapters which were upon the top of the pillars; seven for the one chapter, and seven for the other chapter.

18 And he made the pillars, and two rows round about upon the one net-work, to cover the chapters that were upon the top with pomegranates: and so did he for the other chapter.

19 And the chapters that were upon the top of the pillars were of lily-work <sup>4</sup> in the porch, four cubits.

20 And the chapters upon the two pillars had pomegranates also above, over against the belly which was by the net-work: and the pomegranates were <sup>p</sup>two hundred, in rows round about upon the other chapter.

12 How is this to be reconciled with 2 Ch. 2. 14, which says she was of the tribe of Dan? She may have been of the one tribe by the father, and of the other tribe by the mother; or a daughter of Naphtali married into the tribe of Dan; or the reverse, and when a widow, married to a man of Tyre, by whom she had this son.—C.

The common cubit, accordingly, was but one-half the cubit of the sanctuary, so that 18 of the one would give 36 of the other, which, deducting a foot for the plinth, would give 35 for the shaft of the pillar.—C.

6 The Hebrews called any large collection of water a sea—as the Sea of Tiberias, which was a mere fresh-water lake. This vessel was called a sea, from its size, being computed to contain about 10,000 gallons.—C.

11 This may easily be reconciled with the 2000 baths stated as its contents, 2 Ch. 4. 5, for here it is said to have contained 2000 baths, the actual quantity put in for use; in Ch. it is said to have received and held 3000 baths, that is, when filled to the brim. The one estimation is by the actual contents, the other by absolute capacity.—C.

14 The rabbins conceive that the vessel was round for the two upper cubits of its height, and square below. This seems to have been devised for the purpose of giving a greater capacity to the sea, and also is somewhat sanctioned by the statement that the twelve oxen faced by the three cardinal points of the compass. Josephus says that the vessel was hemispherical, its bottom resting on a pillar a cubit in diameter, and on the hinder parts of the twelve oxen. The present text says (ver. 26) that it contained 2000 baths, which is about 10,000 gallons; but in 2 Ch. 4. 5, which is followed by Josephus, 3000 is the number given. Some suppose one of these texts corrupted; while others endeavour to account for the discrepancy by a difference of measures, or by relative explanations. Calmet concludes that the cup held 2000, and the base or foot 1000 more.—Kitt.

15 The left pillar, and called the name thereof 'Boaz.'

22 And upon the top of the pillars was lily-work: so was the work of the pillars finished.

23 ¶ And he made a 'molten sea,' ten cubits from the one brim to the other: it was round all about, and his height was five cubits: and a line of thirty cubits did compass it round about.

24 And under the brim of it round about there were knops compassing it, ten in a cubit, compassing the sea round about: the knops were cast in two rows, when it was cast.

25 It stood upon twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east: and the sea was set above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

26 And it was an 'handbreadth thick, and the brim thereof was wrought like the brim of a cup, with flowers of lilies: it contained two thousand baths.'

27 ¶ And he made ten bases of brass: four cubits was the length of one base, and four cubits the breadth thereof, and three cubits the height of it.

28 And the work of the bases was on this manner: they had 'borders, and the borders were between the ledges:

29 And on the borders that were between the ledges were lions, oxen, and cherubims: and upon the ledges there was a base above: and beneath the lions and oxen were certain additions made of thin work.

30 And every base had four brazen wheels, and plates of brass: and the four corners thereof had undersettlers: under the laver were undersettlers molten, at the side of every addition.

31 And the mouth of it within the chapter and above was a cubit: but the mouth thereof was round, after the work of the base, a cubit and an half: and also upon the mouth of it were gravings with their borders, four-square, not round.

32 And under the borders were four wheels; and the axle-trees of the wheels were joined to the base: and the height of a wheel was a cubit and half a cubit.

33 And the work of the wheels was like the work of a chariot wheel, their axle-trees

22 And upon the top of the pillars was lily-work: so was the work of the pillars finished.

27 ¶ And he made ten bases of brass: four cubits was the length of one base, and four cubits the breadth thereof, and three cubits the height of it.

28 And the work of the bases was on this manner: they had 'borders, and the borders were between the ledges:

29 And on the borders that were between the ledges were lions, oxen, and cherubims: and upon the ledges there was a base above: and beneath the lions and oxen were certain additions made of thin work.

31 And the mouth of it within the chapter and above was a cubit: but the mouth thereof was round, after the work of the base, a cubit and an half: and also upon the mouth of it were gravings with their borders, four-square, not round.

32 And under the borders were four wheels; and the axle-trees of the wheels were joined to the base: and the height of a wheel was a cubit and half a cubit.

33 And the work of the wheels was like the work of a chariot wheel, their axle-trees four corners of one base: and the undersettors were of the very base itself.<sup>2</sup>

35 And in the top of the base was there a round compass of a half cubit high: and on the top of the base, the ledges thereof and the borders thereof were of the same.

36 For on the plates of the ledges<sup>3</sup> thereof, and on the borders thereof, he graved <sup>4</sup>cherubims, lions, and palm-trees, according to the proportion<sup>4</sup> of every one, and additions round about.

37 After this manner he made the ten bases; all of them had one casting, one measure, and one size.

38 ¶ Then made he ten <sup>5</sup>lavers of brass: one laver contained forty baths;<sup>5</sup> and every laver was four cubits: and upon every one of the ten bases one laver.

39 And he put five bases on the right side<sup>6</sup> of the house, and five on the left side of the house: and he set the sea on the right side of the house eastward, over against the south.

40 ¶ And <sup>7</sup>Hiram made the lavers,<sup>7</sup> and the shovels, and the basons. So Hiram made an end of doing all the work that he made king Solomon for the house of the LORD:

41 The <sup>8</sup>two pillars, and the two bowls of the chapters that were on the top of the two pillars; and the two net-works to cover the two bowls of the chapters which were upon the top of the pillars;

42 And four hundred pomegranates for the two net-works, even two rows of pomegranates for one net-work, to cover the two bowls of the chapters that were upon the pillars;<sup>8</sup>

43 And the <sup>9</sup>ten bases, and ten lavers on the bases;

44 And <sup>10</sup>one sea, and twelve oxen under the sea;

45 And the <sup>11</sup>pots, and the shovels, and the basons: and all these vessels, which Hiram made to king Solomon for the house of the LORD, were of bright<sup>9</sup> brass.

46 In the plain of Jordan did the king cast them, <sup>12</sup>in the clay-ground<sup>1</sup> between Succoth and Zarthan.

48 ¶ And Solomon <sup>14</sup>made all the vessels that pertained unto the house of the LORD: the altar of gold and the table of gold and the golden vessels

2 The wheels being intended for motion, the undersettors seem to have been intended for rest, so that when the laver was brought to its proper place the weight might not rest altogether upon the axle. If shorter than the wheels they could have been of no use in bearing up the weight. But if equal, and of the very base itself, how could the wheels move? The whole is evidently the emblem of motion and stability—apparent contradictions, yet reconciled by Solomon. On the smooth floor of the temple the wheel must revolve, the undersetter slide—they must move, yet be steadfast.—C.

19 The clay was not used in the ordinary sense of moulds for the castings, such moulds being made of a species of fine sand, rendered adhesive by pressure. But such moulds can be formed only when there are metallic or wooden models. The clay in this case was used, as in bronze castings, to form first the model of the interior of the vessel or figure, then to be covered by a layer of wax, of the proper thickness, and finished in form of the exterior. This being again covered with clay, the clay being dried, the wax is melted, thus leaving between the two surfaces a perfect mould for the vessel or figure required. In ruder castings of this description the wax is not required, but the internal and external moulds formed separately, and placed the one over the other. But in such a work as that of Hiram, with so many complicated figures, the clay and wax most probably were used as described.—C.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 The feast of the dedication of the temple. 12, 54 Solomon's blessing. 22 Solomon's prayer. 62 His sacrifice of peace-offerings.

THEN Solomon<sup>1</sup> assembled the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief<sup>1</sup> of the fathers of the children of Israel, unto king Solomon in Jerusalem, that they might <sup>2</sup>bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the city of David, which is Zion.

2 And all the men of Israel assembled themselves unto king Solomon<sup>2</sup> at the <sup>3</sup>feast in the month Ethanim, which is the seventh month.

3 And all the <sup>4</sup>elders of Israel came, and the priests <sup>5</sup>took up the ark.

4 And they brought up the <sup>6</sup>ark of the LORD, and the <sup>7</sup>tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, even those did the priests and the Levites bring up.

5 And <sup>8</sup>king Solomon, and all the congregation of Israel, that were assembled unto him, were with him before the ark, sacrificing sheep and oxen, that could not be told nor numbered for multitude.<sup>3</sup>

6 And <sup>9</sup>the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, into the oracle of the house, to the most holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims.

7 For the <sup>10</sup>cherubims spread forth their two wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark and the staves thereof above.

8 And they drew out the staves, that the ends<sup>4</sup> of the staves were seen out in the <sup>11</sup>holy place before the oracle, and they were not seen two tables of stone," which Moses put there at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of the land of Egypt.<sup>6</sup>

10 ¶ And it came to pass, when the priests were come out of the holy place, that "the cloud filled the house of the LORD, 11 So that the "priests could not stand to minister because of the cloud: for the glory of the LORD<sup>7</sup> had filled the house of the LORD.

12 ¶ Then spake Solomon, The LORD "said that he would dwell in the thick darkness.

13 I have "surely built thee an house to dwell in, a settled place for thee to abide in for ever.

14 And the king turned his face about, and blessed<sup>8</sup> all the congregation of Israel: (and all the congregation of Israel stood:)

15 And he said, "Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which spake with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his hand "fulfilled it, saying,

16 Since<sup>9</sup> the day that I brought forth my people Israel out of Egypt, I chose no city out of all the tribes of Israel to build an house, that my name might be therein; but "I chose David to be over my people Israel.<sup>8</sup>

17 And "it was in the heart of David my father to build an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

18 And the LORD "said unto David my father, Whereas it was in thine heart to build an house unto my name, thou didst well that it was in thine heart:

19 Nevertheless thou "shalt not build the house; but thy son that shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house unto my name.

20 And the LORD "hath performed his word that he spake; and I am risen up in the room of David my father, and sit on the throne of Israel, as the LORD promised, and have built an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

21 And "I have set there a place for the ark, wherein is the "covenant of the LORD, which he made with our fathers, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt.

22 ¶ And Solomon "stood before the altar of the LORD, in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands toward heaven.<sup>9</sup>

5 Aaron's rod, the pot of manna, and the copy of the law, for merly deposited there, must have been placed before or beside the ark; or it is possible these sacred relics had been purloined, perhaps at Bethshes, and if so that would well account for the heavy judgment there inflicted.—C.

6 Ex. 16. 33, 34. Nu. 17. 10, and this assertion may be easily reconciled with He. 9. 4 by referring the word "wherein," not to the ark, but to the tabernacle, in which all the articles enumerated were contained, the ark itself inclusive.—C.

18 From this it is evident that solemn oath—oath rightly understood being acts of worship, were wont to be taken at the altar. This prayer for righteous judgment between man and man is the first of seven distinct cases in which Solomon enters the divine favour to himself and people.

19 Solomon puts here seven cases in which the mercy and intervention of God would be indispensably requisite, and he earnestly bespeaks that mercy and intervention whenever the people should pray toward the holy place with sincerity and earnestness.—It would appear from this that it was the custom to take solemn oaths at the altar, whence arose the practice of swearing by the altar, Mat. 23. 20.—C.

47 Yet if they shall bethink themselves in the land whither they were carried captives, and repent, and make supplication unto thee in the land of them that carried them captives, saying, We have sinned, and have done perversely, we have committed wickedness;

48 And so return unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their enemies which led them away captive, and pray unto thee toward their land which thou gavest unto their fathers, the city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy name:

54 ¶ And it was so, that, when Solomon had made an end of praying all this prayer and supplication unto the LORD, he arose from before the altar of the LORD, from kneeling on his knees with his hands spread up to heaven.

55 And he stood, and <sup>a</sup>blessed all the congregation of Israel with a loud voice, saying,

60 That 'all the people of the earth may know that the LORD is God, and that there is none else.<sup>1</sup>

61 Let your heart therefore be <sup>m</sup>perfect with the LORD our God, to walk in his statutes, and to keep his commandments, as at this day.

62 ¶ And <sup>m</sup>the king, and all Israel with him, offered sacrifice before the LORD.

63 And Solomon offered a <sup>o</sup>sacrifice of peace-offerings, which he offered unto the LORD, two and twenty thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep. So the king and all the children of Israel dedicated the house of the LORD.<sup>2</sup>

64 The<sup>p</sup> same day did the king hallow the middle of the court that was before the house of the LORD: for there he offered burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings; because <sup>t</sup>the brazen altar that was before the LORD was too little to receive the burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings.

65 ¶ And at that time Solomon <sup>t</sup>held a feast, and all Israel with him, a great congregation, <sup>t</sup>from the entering in of Hamath unto the river of Egypt, before the LORD our God, seven days and seven days, even fourteen days.

66 On <sup>t</sup>the eighth day he sent the people away: and they blessed<sup>3</sup> the king, and went unto their tents<sup>4</sup> joyful and glad of heart, for all the goodness that the LORD had done for David his servant, and for Israel his people.

3 And the LORD said unto him, <sup>c</sup>I have heard thy prayer and thy supplication that thou hast made before me: I <sup>d</sup>have hallowed this house, which thou hast built, to put my name there for ever; and mine eyes and mine heart shall be there perpetually.

6 But <sup>g</sup>if ye shall at all turn<sup>1</sup> from following me, you or your children, and will not keep my commandments and my statutes, which I have set before you, but go and serve other gods, and worship them;

7 Then <sup>h</sup>will I cut off Israel out of the land which I have given them: and this house, which I have hallowed for my name, will I cast out of my sight; and Israel shall be a proverb and a by-word among all people:

8 And <sup>i</sup>at this house, which is high, every one that passeth by it shall be astonished, and shall hiss; and they shall say, <sup>k</sup>Why hath the LORD done thus unto this land, and to this house?

10 ¶ And <sup>m</sup>it came to pass at the end of twenty years,<sup>3</sup> when Solomon had built the two houses, the house of the LORD, and the king's house,<sup>4</sup>

11 (Now Hiram the king of Tyre had furnished Solomon with cedar-trees and fir-trees, and with gold, according to all his desire,) that then king Solomon gave Hiram <sup>n</sup>twenty cities in the land of Galilee.<sup>5</sup>

A VIEW IN LEBANON. [I KINGS, ix: 11.]—(Now Hiram, king of Tyre, had furnished Solomon with cedar trees and fir trees, and with gold, according to all his desire), that then King Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee." As illustrative of this Scripture we give a picture of a view in Lebanon, because from the Lebanon Mountains, we are told, Hiram, King of Tyre, secured the cedars which he sent by way of Joppa to Solomon for use in building the temple. The Lebanon Mountains have been called the focus of Syria. In these mountains arise four great rivers. The Orontes flows northward, making Antioch possible; the Abana flows east, creating Damascus; the Litany flows west, and the Jordan flows south. Of these rivers only two reach the open sea—the Litany and the Orontes. The Jordan ends in the Dead Sea, and the Abana sinks out of sight in the Syrian desert. The Lebanon Mountains have always been celebrated for the great cedar trees which grow in them.

thou hast given me, <sup>26</sup>my brother? And he called them the land of Cabul<sup>7</sup> unto this day.

14 And Hiram sent<sup>8</sup> to the king sixscore talents of gold.<sup>9</sup>

16 For Pharaoh king of Egypt had gone up and taken Gezer, and burnt it with fire, and slain the Canaanites that dwelt in the city, and given it for a present unto his daughter, <sup>17</sup>Solomon's wife.

17 And <sup>18</sup>Solomon built Gezer, and Beth-horon the nether, 18 And <sup>19</sup>Baalath, and Tadmor<sup>2</sup> in the wilderness, in the land, 19 And all <sup>20</sup>the cities of store that Solomon had, and cities for his chariots, and cities for his horsemen, and that which Solomon desired to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion.

20 ¶ And all the people that were <sup>21</sup>left of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites, which were not of the children of Israel,

22 But <sup>24</sup>of the children of Israel did Solomon make no bond-men:<sup>3</sup> but they were men of war, and his servants, and his princes, and his captains, and rulers of his chariots, and his horsemen.

23 These <sup>25</sup>were the chief of the officers that were over Solomon's work, five hundred and fifty, which bare rule over the people that wrought in the work.

24 ¶ But <sup>26</sup>Pharaoh's daughter came up out of the city of David unto her house which Solomon had built for her: then did <sup>27</sup>he build Millo.

25 ¶ And <sup>28</sup>three times in a year did Solomon offer burnt-offerings and peace-offerings upon the altar which he built unto the LORD, and <sup>29</sup>he burnt incense upon the altar that was before the LORD. So he finished the house.<sup>4</sup>

26 ¶ And king Solomon made a navy of ships <sup>27</sup>in Ezion-geber, which is beside Eloth, on the shore of the Red sea, in the land of Edom.<sup>5</sup>

27 And Hiram sent in the navy his servants, shipmen that had knowledge of the sea, <sup>28</sup>with the servants of Solomon.

28 And they came to <sup>29</sup>Ophir,<sup>6</sup> and fetched from thence gold, <sup>30</sup>four hundred and twenty talents, and brought it to king Solomon.

CHAPTER X.

AND when the <sup>1</sup>queen of Sheba<sup>1</sup> heard of the fame of Solomon concerning the name of the LORD, she came to prove him with hard questions.

2 And she came to Jerusalem with a <sup>3</sup>very great train, with camels that bare <sup>4</sup>spices, and very much gold, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart.

3 And Solomon <sup>5</sup>told her all her questions: there was not any thing hid from the king, which he told her not.

4 ¶ And when the queen of Sheba had seen all Solomon's <sup>6</sup>wisdom, and the house that he had built,

5 And <sup>7</sup>the meat of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance of his ministers, and their apparel, and his cup-bearers, and his <sup>8</sup>ascent by which he went up unto the house of the LORD;<sup>2</sup> there was no more spirit in her.

6 And she <sup>9</sup>said to the king, It was a true report that I heard in mine own land of thy acts,<sup>3</sup> and of thy wisdom.

7 Howbeit <sup>10</sup>I believed not the words, until I came, and mine eyes had seen it; and, behold, the half was not told me: thy wisdom and prosperity exceedeth the fame which I heard.<sup>4</sup>

8 Happy<sup>5</sup> are thy men, happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and that hear thy wisdom.

9 Blessed<sup>6</sup> be the LORD thy God, which delighted in thee, to set thee on the throne of Israel: <sup>10</sup>because the LORD loved Israel for ever, therefore <sup>11</sup>made he thee king, to do judgment and justice.

STABLES OF SOLOMON. [I. Kings, x:28.]—"And Solomon had horses brought out of Egypt." In this picture we have the vaults which are found under the temple area. A tourist in 1722 gives a distinct account of these stables. One traveler represents them as capable of accommodating 2,000 horses, and it is thought that they were used to the times of crusades as stables. The floor of this vault is a little over 38 feet below the level of the pavement above. The arches are 11 feet 5 inches in span, and 5 feet 9 inches in height. The aisles open from south to north. Here the Jews sought refuge during the struggle against the Romans. Solomon's intercourse with Egypt brought horses into use in Israel. He was the first to ride in a chariot through the streets of Jerusalem.

10 ¶ And she gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices very great store, and precious stones: there came no more such abundance of spices as these which the queen of Sheba gave to king Solomon.<sup>5</sup>

11 And the navy also of Hiram, that brought gold from Ophir, brought in from Ophir great plenty of almug-trees,<sup>6</sup> and precious stones.

12 And the king made of the almug-trees 'pillars' for the house of the LORD, and for the king's house, harps also and psalteries for singers: there came no such almug-trees, nor were seen unto this day.

13 And king Solomon gave unto the queen of Sheba all her desire, whatsoever she asked, besides that which Solomon gave her of his royal bounty. So she turned and went to her own country, she and her servants.

14 ¶ Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred threescore and six talents<sup>7</sup> of gold, 15 Besides that he had of the merchant-men, and of the traffick of the spice-merchants, and of all the kings of Arabia, and of the governors of the country.

16 ¶ And king Solomon made two hundred targets of beaten gold: six hundred shekels<sup>8</sup> of gold went to one target.<sup>9</sup>

17 And he made three hundred shields of beaten gold; three pound<sup>1</sup> of gold went to one shield:<sup>2</sup> and the king put them in the house of the forest of Lebanon.

18 ¶ Moreover, the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with the best gold.

19 The throne had six steps, and the top of the throne was round behind:<sup>3</sup> and there were stays<sup>4</sup> on either side on the place of the seat, and two lions stood beside the stays.

20 And twelve lions stood there on the one side and on the other upon the six steps: there was not the like<sup>5</sup> made in any kingdom.

21 ¶ And all king Solomon's drinking-vessels were of gold, and all the vessels of the house of Amongst different conjectures, the most probable is that there are more countries or places than one called Tarshish in Scripture, and that one may be found in the Indian Ocean, another probably in Spain, and a third in Tarsus of Cilicia. This community of a name is amply exemplified in modern geography.—C.

Of course this cannot mean the actual price of the horse, for some horses are far more valuable than others. The sums here stated were over and above the intrinsic value of each animal and chariot. Such, at least, appears to me the sense.—P.

the forest of Lebanon were of pure gold; none were of silver:<sup>6</sup> it was nothing accounted of in the days of Solomon.<sup>7</sup>

22 For the king had at sea a navy of Tharshish<sup>8</sup> with the navy of Hiram: once in three years came the navy of Tharshish, bringing gold, and silver, ivory, and apes, and peacocks.

23 So king Solomon exceeded all the kings of the earth for riches and for wisdom.

24 ¶ And all the earth sought to Solomon, to hear his wisdom, which God had put in his heart.

25 And they brought every man his present, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and garments, and armour, and spices, horses, and mules, a rate year by year.

26 ¶ And Solomon gathered together chariots and horsemen: and he had a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, whom he bestowed in the cities for chariots, and with the king at Jerusalem.

27 And the king made silver to be in Jerusalem as stones, and cedars made he to be as the sycamore-trees<sup>9</sup> that are in the vale, for abundance.

28 ¶ And Solomon had horses brought out of Egypt, and linen yarn: the king's merchants received the linen yarn at a price.

29 And a chariot came up and went out of Egypt for six hundred shekels of silver, and an horse for an hundred and fifty: and so for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, did they bring them out by their means.<sup>1</sup> some estimate of its colossal dimensions. The breadth of the roadway was 50 feet; the span of each arch was 45 feet, and there were five arches; and the total height above the bed of the Tyropoeon was 225 feet. The stones with which it was built were of colossal size; the spring-stones of one arch which are still in position measure 24 feet in length by 6 in thickness. I am inclined to believe that this was 'the ascent by which Solomon went up into the house of the Lord.' P.1

REFLECTIONS.—So respectable is true wisdom that one cannot purchase it too dear or fetch it too far; nor hath God confined it to one sex more than another. And such as have real knowledge should delight in the communication of it. But especially let us observe that God, on every occasion, has taken delight to prefigure the gathering of the Gentiles to Jesus Christ, in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. Good order in families, courts, and kindoms peaceful, prudent, and wise; and to him everything is naked and open. Notwithstanding oppositions innumerable, he was solemnly chosen, anointed, and enthroned by his Father. Justly he punishes the guilty and rewards the virtuous, particularly such as have favoured his cause in distress. Wisely he judges his subjects, and will judge the world. In infinite wisdom he indites and applies his revelations of truth. At infinite expense he builds the temple of his church, and

MILITARY MOSQUE, DAMASCUS—THE CITY PASSED BY ABRAHAM, WHEN HE CAME UP FROM UR, OF THE CHALDEES. [1. Kings, xi:24.]—"And he gathered men unto him, and became captain over a band, when David slew them of Zobah: and they went to Damascus, and dwelt therein, and reigned in Damascus." In going from Jerusalem to Damascus we pass through the gate in the west wall, and before reaching the center of the city we pass the military mosque on the side of the Abana river. Here the soldiers are quartered, and this building is both a place of worship and a barrack. Turkish soldiers are always in evidence in Damascus, and it is well that they are. Life and property would not be safe here without them. The foreign policy of the northern king of Israel was very much occupied in its relations to Damascus. During the reign of Solomon, Rezon made himself king of Damascus, and we learn from the 25th verse of the 11th chapter of 1. Kings that he was an adversary of Israel all the days of Solomon.

2 Of the nations concerning which the LORD said unto the children of Israel, 'Ye shall not go in to them, neither shall they come in unto you; for surely they will turn away your heart after their gods. Solomon clave unto these in love.

3 And he had seven hundred wives, princesses, and three hundred concubines: and his wives turned away his heart.

4 For it came to pass, when Solomon was old,<sup>a</sup> that his wives turned away his heart after other gods: and his heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as was the heart of David his father.

5 For Solomon went after 'Ashtaroth the goddess of the Zidonians, and after 'Milcom the abomination of the Ammonites.

6 And Solomon did evil in the sight of the LORD, and went not fully after the LORD, as did David his father.

7 Then did Solomon build an 'high place for 'Chemosh the abomination of Moab, in the hill that is before Jerusalem, and for 'Molech the abomination of the children of Ammon.<sup>9</sup>

8 And likewise did he for 'all his strange wives, which burnt incense, and sacrificed unto their gods.<sup>1</sup>

9 ¶ And the LORD was 'angry with Solomon, because his heart was turned from the LORD God of Israel, which had appeared unto him twice,

10 And had commanded him concerning this thing, 'that he should not go after other gods: but he kept not that which the LORD commanded.

11 Wherefore the LORD said unto Solomon, Forasmuch as this is done of thee, and thou hast not kept my covenant and my statutes, which I have commanded thee, 'I will surely rend the kingdom from thee, and will give it to thy servant.

12 Notwithstanding 'in thy days I will not do it for David thy father's sake: but 'I will rend it out of the hand of thy son.

13 Howbeit I will not rend away all the kingdom; but will give 'one tribe<sup>2</sup> to thy son, for David my servant's sake, and for Jerusalem's sake which I have chosen.

This Pharaoh was Solomon's father-in-law, but such is the want of 'natural affection' in the world, that it has been said, and too truly, that kingdoms are seldom married.—C. o Mat. 20. 14 ¶ And the LORD stirred up an adversary unto Solomon, Hadad the Edomite: he was of the king's seed in Edom,<sup>3</sup>

15 For it came to pass, when David was in Edom, and Joab the captain of the host was gone up to bury the slain, after he had smitten every male in Edom,

16 (For six months did Joab remain there with all Israel, until he had cut off every male in Edom),<sup>4</sup>

17 That Hadad fled, he and certain Edomites of his father's servants with him, to go into Egypt; Hadad being yet a 'little child.<sup>5</sup>

18 And they arose out of 'Midian,<sup>6</sup> and came to 'Paran: and they took men with them out of Paran, and they came to Egypt, unto Pharaoh king of Egypt; which gave him an house, and appointed him victuals, and gave him land.

19 And Hadad found 'great favour in the sight of 'Pharaoh, so that he gave him to wife the sister of his own wife, the sister of Tahpenes the 'queen.

20 And the sister of Tahpenes bare him Genubath his son, whom Tahpenes weaned in Pharaoh's house:<sup>7</sup> and Genubath was in Pharaoh's household among the sons of Pharaoh.

21 And when Hadad heard in Egypt that David slept with his fathers, and that Joab the captain of the host was dead, Hadad said to Pharaoh, Let me depart,<sup>8</sup> that I may go to mine own country.

22 Then Pharaoh said unto him, But what hast thou lacked with me, that, behold, thou seekest to go to thine own country? And he answered, Nothing:<sup>9</sup> howbeit let me go in any wise.

23 ¶ And God stirred him up another adversary, Rezon the son of Eliadah, which fled from his 'lord Hadadezer king of Zobah:

24 And he gathered men unto him, and became captain over a band, 'when David slew them of Zobah: and they went to Damascus, and dwelt therein, and reigned in Damascus.<sup>1</sup>

25 And he was an adversary to Israel 'all the days of Solomon, besides the mischief that Hadad did: and he abhorred Israel, and reigned over Syria.

26 ¶ And 'Jeroboam the son of Nebat, an sun in his splendour, now we must view him sadly clouded and eclipsed. Blessed with unexampled and uninterrupted prosperity he forgets the God who gave it, breaks his law in principle, comp. Ex. 34. 16: De. 7.

Solomon—the beloved of the Lord—the miracle of wisdom—the man of prayer—the builder of the temple! How art thou fallen from heaven, O son of the morning! How ensnared is the aged saint is ensnared by youthful lusts! How the wisest sage is made an arrant fool by silly women! How the man who so often warned others against Ephrathite of Zereda, Solomon's servant, (whose mother's name was Zeruah, a widow woman,) even he lifted up his hand against the king.

27 And this was the cause that he lifted up his hand against the king: Solomon built Millo,<sup>2</sup> and repaired<sup>3</sup> the breaches of the city of David his father.

28 And the man Jeroboam was a mighty man of valour: and Solomon seeing the young man that he was industrious, he made him ruler over all the charge of the house of Joseph.<sup>4</sup>

29 And it came to pass at that time, when Jeroboam went out of Jerusalem, that the prophet Ahijah the Shilonite found him in the way; and he had clad himself with a new garment; and they two were alone in the field:

30 And Ahijah caught the new garment that was on him, and rent it in twelve pieces.<sup>5</sup>

31 And he said to Jeroboam, Take thee ten pieces: for thus saith the LORD, the God of Israel, Behold, I will rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and will give ten tribes to thee:

32 (But he shall have one tribe for my servant David's sake, and for Jerusalem's sake, the city which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel:)

33 Because that they have forsaken me,<sup>6</sup> and have worshipped Ashtarothe the goddess of the Zidonians, Chemosh the god of the Moabites, and Milcom the god of the children of Ammon,<sup>7</sup> and have not walked in my ways, to do that which is right in mine eyes, and to keep my statutes and my judgments, as did David his father.

34 Howbeit I will not take the whole kingdom out of his hand: but I will make him prince all the days of his life for David my servant's sake, whom I chose, because he kept my commandments and my statutes:

35 But I will take the kingdom out of his son's hand, and will give it unto thee, even ten tribes.<sup>8</sup>

36 And unto his son will I give one tribe,<sup>9</sup> that David my servant may have a light alway before me in Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen me to put my name there.

37 And I will take thee, and thou shalt reign according to all that thy soul desireth, and shalt be king over Israel.

the assembly being not appear. The most probable are:

(1) It was situated was the place of 39 And I will for this afflict the seed of David, but not for ever.

40 Solomon sought therefore to kill Jeroboam:<sup>1</sup> and Jeroboam arose, and fled into Egypt, unto Shishak<sup>2</sup> king of Egypt, and was in Egypt until the death of Solomon.

41 ¶ And the rest of the acts of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wisdom, are they not written in the book<sup>3</sup> of the acts of Solomon?<sup>4</sup>

42 And the time that Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel was forty years.

GARDENS OF SHECHEM—WHERE REHOBAM WAS CROWNED KING OF ISRAEL. [I. KINGS, xii : 1.]—"And Rehoboam went to Shechem; for all Israel were come to Shechem to make him king." Rehoboam was the son of Solomon, by the Ammonite princess Naamah (I. Kings, xiv : 21.) He selected Shechem as the place of his coronation, 975 B. C. The people at Shechem demanded a remission of the severe burdens imposed by Solomon, but Rehoboam rejected the advice of his father's counsellors, and followed that of his young courtiers, and returned an insulting answer, which resulted in an open rebellion among the tribes. He fled to Jerusalem, the tribes of Judah and Benjamin alone remaining true to him. Jeroboam was made king of the Northern tribes. During Rehoboam's lifetime peaceful relations between Israel and Judah were never restored. In the fifth year of Rehoboam's reign Jerusalem was captured by the Egyptian Shishak.

wilt be a servant unto this people<sup>3</sup> this day, and wilt serve them, and answer them, and speak good words to them, then they will be thy servants for ever.

8 But he <sup>forsook</sup> the counsel of the old men, which they had given him, and consulted with the young men that were grown up with him, and which stood before him:

9 And he said unto them, <sup>What</sup> counsel give ye that we may answer this people, who have spoken to me, saying, Make the yoke which thy father did put upon us lighter?

10 And the young men that were grown up with him spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou speak unto this people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter unto us; thus shalt thou say unto them, <sup>My little finger</sup> shall be thicker than my father's loins.

11 And now whereas my father did lade you with a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke: my father hath chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.<sup>4</sup>

12 ¶ So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king had appointed, saying, Come to me again the third day.

13 And the king answered the people roughly,<sup>5</sup> and forsook the old men's counsel that they gave him;

14 And spake to them after the counsel of the young men, saying, <sup>My father</sup> made your yoke heavy, and I will add to your yoke: my father also chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

15 Wherefore the king hearkened not unto the people: for the cause was from the LORD, that <sup>he</sup> might perform his saying, which the LORD spake by Ahijah the Shilonite unto Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

16 ¶ So when all Israel saw that the king hearkened not unto them, the people answered the king, saying, <sup>What</sup> portion have we in David? neither have we inheritance in the son of Jesse: to your tents, O Israel: now see to thine own house, David. So Israel departed unto their tents.

17 But as <sup>for</sup> the children of Israel which dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then king Rehoboam sent <sup>Adoram</sup>, who with stones, that he died: therefore king Rehoboam made speed<sup>6</sup> to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem.

19 So Israel <sup>rebelled</sup> against the house of David unto<sup>7</sup> this day.<sup>8</sup>

20 ¶ And it came to pass, when all Israel heard that Jeroboam was come again, that they <sup>sent</sup> and called him unto the congregation, and made him king over all Israel: there was <sup>none</sup> that followed the house of David, but the tribe of Judah only.<sup>9</sup>

21 ¶ And<sup>10</sup> when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he assembled all the house of Judah, with the tribe of Benjamin, an hundred and fourscore thousand chosen men, which were warriors, to fight against the house of Israel, to bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam the son of Solomon.

22 But <sup>the</sup> word of God came unto Shemaiah the <sup>man</sup> of God, saying,

23 Speak unto Rehoboam the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and unto all the house of Judah and Benjamin, and to the <sup>remnant</sup> of the people,<sup>1</sup> saying,

24 Thus saith the LORD, <sup>Ye</sup> shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren the children of Israel: return every man to his house; <sup>for</sup> this thing is from me.<sup>2</sup> They <sup>hearkened</sup> therefore to the word of the LORD, and returned to depart, according to the word of the LORD.

26 ¶ And Jeroboam <sup>said</sup> in his heart, Now shall the kingdom return to the house of David:

27 If this people <sup>go</sup> up to do sacrifice in the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, then shall the heart of this people turn again unto their lord, even unto Rehoboam king of Judah, and they <sup>shall</sup> kill me, and go again to Rehoboam king of Judah.

28 Whereupon the king <sup>took</sup> counsel, and made two calves of gold, and said unto them, <sup>It</sup> is too much for you to go up to Jerusalem: behold thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

29 And he set the one in <sup>Beth-el</sup>,<sup>4</sup> and the other put he in <sup>Dan</sup>.

30 And this thing <sup>became</sup> a sin:<sup>5</sup> for the people went to worship before the one, even unto Dan<sup>6</sup> and made priests of the lowest of the people, which were not of the sons of Levi.<sup>7</sup>

32 And Jeroboam ordained a feast in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like unto the feast that is in Judah; and he offered upon the altar, (so did he in Beth-el,) sacrificing unto the calves that he had made: and he placed in Beth-el the priests of the high places which he had made.

33 So he offered upon the altar<sup>9</sup> which he had made in Beth-el the fifteenth day of the eighth month, even in the month which he had devised of his own heart; and ordained a feast unto the children of Israel: and he offered upon the altar, and burnt incense.<sup>1</sup>

AND, behold, there came a man of God out of Judah by the word of the LORD unto Beth-el: and Jeroboam stood by the altar to burn incense.

2 And he cried against the altar in the word of the LORD, and said, O altar, altar! thus saith the LORD, Behold, a child shall be born unto the house of David, Josiah by name, and upon thee shall he offer the priests of the high places that burn incense upon thee, and men's bones shall be burnt upon thee.<sup>1</sup>

3 And he gave a sign the same day, saying, This is the sign which the LORD hath spoken; Behold, the altar shall be rent, and the ashes that are upon it shall be poured out.

4 And it came to pass, when king Jeroboam heard the saying of the man of God, which had cried against the altar in Beth-el, that he put forth his hand from the altar, saying, Lay hold on him. And his hand, which he put forth against him, dried up, so that he could not pull it in again to him.

5 The altar also was rent, and the ashes poured out from the altar, according to the sign which the man of God had given by the word of the LORD.

8 Here is one of the clearest and most remarkable prophecies in the Bible, and we know it was fulfilled about 360 years after its delivery, 2 Ki. 23:15-20. It was attested by both nations. The Jews would guard it most carefully; and it was the interest of the Israelites, against whom it was levelled, to impugn its authenticity and expose its falsehood had that been possible.—I.

25 It is not, perhaps, possible to say what motive moved the aged prophet to lie so deliberately, when he knew that he could only inflict evil on his brother by bringing him back. Probably he proposed to weaken the solemn warning of the man of God, and prevent the people from becoming alienated from Jeroboam. But certain it is, that the calamitous death by the lion was peculiarly fitted to awaken inquiry concerning the message from heaven, and this might prove an unspeakable blessing to many Israelites, by leading them to repent of their idolatry.—Davidson.

26 2 Pe. 1:19. Ga. 2:18. ver. 9.

LORD thy God, and pray for me, that my hand may be restored me again. And the man of God besought the LORD, and the king's hand was restored him again, and became as it was before.

7 And the king said unto the man of God, Come home with me, and refresh thyself, and I will give thee a reward.<sup>2</sup>

8 And the man of God said unto the king, If thou wilt give me half thine house, I will not go in with thee, neither will I eat bread nor drink water<sup>3</sup> in this place:

9 For so was it charged me by the word of the LORD, saying, Eat no bread, nor drink water,<sup>4</sup> nor turn again by the same way that thou camest.<sup>5</sup>

10 So he went another way, and returned not by the way that he came to Beth-el.

11 Now there dwelt an old prophet in Beth-el; and his sons came and told him all the works that the man of God had done that day in Beth-el: the words which he had spoken unto the king, them they told also to their father.

12 And their father said unto them, What way went he? For his sons had seen what way the man of God went which came from Judah.

13 And he said unto his sons, Saddle me the ass. So they saddled him the ass: and he rode thereon;

14 And went after the man of God, and found him sitting under an oak: and he said unto him, Art thou the man of God that camest from Judah? And he said, I am.

15 Then he said unto him, Come home with me, and eat bread.

16 And he said, I may not return with thee, nor go in with thee; neither will I eat bread nor drink water with thee in this place:

17 For it was said to me by the word of the LORD, Thou shalt eat no bread nor drink water there, nor turn again to go by the way that thou camest.

18 He said unto him, I am a prophet<sup>6</sup> also as thou art; and an angel spake unto me by the word of the LORD, saying, Bring him back with thee into thine house, that he may eat bread and drink water. But he lied unto him.

19 So he went back with him, and did eat bread in his house, and drank water.

without cause. But it is common at courts to study the pleasure of the king more than the profit of the kingdom. Subjects are ready to comply with any form of religion.

20 ¶ And it came to pass, as they sat at the table, that the word of the LORD came unto the prophet that brought him back.<sup>8</sup>

21 And he cried unto the man of God that came from Judah, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Forasmuch<sup>b</sup> as thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the LORD, and hast not kept the commandment which the LORD thy God commanded thee, 22 But camest back, and hast eaten bread and drunk water in the place of the which the LORD did say to thee, Eat no bread, and drink no water; thy carcass shall not come unto the sepulchre of thy fathers.

23 ¶ And it came to pass, after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he saddled for him the ass, to wit, for the prophet whom he had brought back.

24 And when he was gone, a lion<sup>9</sup> met him by the way, and slew him; and his carcass was cast in the way, and the ass stood by it, the lion also stood by the carcass.

25 And, behold, men passed by, and saw the carcass cast in the way, and the lion standing by the carcass: and they came and told it in the city where the old prophet dwelt.

26 ¶ And when the prophet that brought him back from the way heard thereof, he said, It is the man of God, who was disobedient unto the word of the LORD; therefore the LORD hath delivered him unto the lion, which hath torn him, and slain him, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake unto him.

27 And he spake to his sons, saying, Saddle me the ass. And they saddled him.

28 And he went, and found his carcass cast in the way, and the ass and the lion standing by the carcass: the lion had not eaten the carcass nor torn the ass.<sup>1</sup>

29 And the prophet took up the carcass of the man of God, and laid it upon the ass, and brought it back; and the old prophet came to the city, to mourn and to bury him.

30 And he laid his carcass in his own grave; and they mourned over him, saying, Alas, my brother!<sup>2</sup>

31 And it came to pass, after he had buried him, that he spake to his sons, saying, When I am dead, then bury me in the sepulchre where-

In 2 Ki. 2. 24 we find that there was a wood near Beth-el out of which came two she-bears; and it is probable that this lion came from the same wood. All the circumstances of this transaction, 'the cluster of miracles' (as Patrick calls them), viz. that the lion did not devour the body, nor rend the ass, nor molest the passing travellers, nor the old prophet and his ass—all was calculated in the most striking manner to direct the attention of the people to that divine power which thus authenticated its own message by the very destruction of the messenger; and all counteracted the interference which Jeroboam might otherwise have drawn from his death against the truth of his prophecy.—f.

2 An anxious curiosity, with the vanity of entertaining a distinguished guest, joined to an unscrupulous carelessness about truth, with a portion of that esprit de corps, that if not affection, may be its substitute, seems to have been the leading motives in the mind of the prophet, in tempting the brother whom he now uselessly lamented.—Note. In all the lamentation there is no recorded acknowledgment of his own sin. Does not the dead here, as in many cases, seem to say, 'Weep not for me, but weep for yourselves'—C.

1 Jeroboam had openly renounced the Mosaic institutions, by violating the first principles of the decalogue, and yet, in his time of need, he has recourse to a prophet of the Lord.

This inconsistency is to be accounted for in three ways. (1) The idea of local gods, common to all idolaters. (2) The admission of superiority in one over another, in oracular responses. (3) The readiness of wicked men to acknowledge the true God in times of trouble, whom they had forgotten in their day of prosperity.—C.

It was customary to carry a present to a prophet when he was inquired of. 1 Sa. 9. 7. Patrick thinks this was designedly a poor present, to conceal the feigned character she had assumed; yet D'Arviex mentions that when he waited on an Arab emir, his mother and sister sent him a present of 'pastury, honey, and fennel, with a bason of sweetmeats of Damascus,' a present not unlike that of Jeroboam's wife to the prophet. And provisions are still made in the East, by persons in good circumstances to others whom they respect. We need not therefore suppose that the queen thought the nation's defection of a very low condition necessary for her purpose.—f.

32 For the saying which he cried by the word of the LORD against the altar in Beth-el, and against all the houses of the high places which are in the cities of Samaria, shall surely come to pass.

33 ¶ After this thing Jeroboam returned not from his evil way,<sup>3</sup> but made again of the lowest of the people priests of the high places: whosoever would, he consecrated him, and he became one of the priests of the high places.

CHAPTER XIV

1 Abijah being sick, Jeroboam sendeth his wife disguised with presents to the prophet Ahijah at Shiloh. 5 Ahijah, forewarned by God, denounceth God's judgments. 17 Abijah dieth, and is buried. 19 Nadab succeedeth Jeroboam. 21 Rehoboam's wicked reign. 25 Shishak spoileth Jerusalem. 29 Abijah succeedeth Rehoboam.

AT that time Abijah the son of Jeroboam fell<sup>b</sup> sick.

2 And Jeroboam said to his wife, Arise, I pray thee, and disguise thyself, that thou be not known to be the wife of Jeroboam,<sup>1</sup> and get thee to Shiloh: behold, there is Ahijah the prophet, which told me that I should be king over this people.

3 And take with thee<sup>2</sup> ten loaves, and cracknels,<sup>3</sup> and a cruse<sup>4</sup> of honey, and go to him: he shall tell thee what shall become of the child.

4 And Jeroboam's wife did so, and arose, and went to Shiloh, and came to the house of Ahijah: but Ahijah could not see; for his eyes were set by reason of his age.

5 ¶ And the LORD said unto Ahijah, Behold, the wife of Jeroboam cometh to ask a thing of thee for her son; for he is sick: thus and thus shalt thou say unto her: for it shall be, when she cometh in, that she shall feign herself to be another woman.

6 And it was so, when Ahijah heard the sound of her feet, as she came in at the door, that he said, Come in, thou wife of Jeroboam; why feignest thou thyself to be another? for I am sent to thee with heavy tidings.

7 Go, tell Jeroboam, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Forasmuch as I exalted thee fear no danger. But it is infinitely dangerous to condemn God's warnings, when he can so easily make us monuments of his justice. They who in prosperity contempt the 8 And "rent the kingdom away from the house of David, and gave it thee; and yet thou hast not been as my servant David, who kept my commandments, and who followed me with all his heart, to do that only which was right in mine eyes;

9 But "hast done evil above all that were before thee: for thou hast gone and made thee other gods, and molten images, to provoke me to anger, and "hast cast me behind thy back:

10 Therefore, behold, "I will bring evil upon the house of Jeroboam, and will cut off from Jeroboam "him that pisseth against the wall,<sup>5</sup> and him that is shut up and left in Israel,<sup>6</sup> and will take away the remnant of the house of Jeroboam, as a man taketh away "dung, till it be all gone.

11 Him<sup>a</sup> that dieth of Jeroboam in the city shall the dogs eat; and him that dieth in the field shall the fowls of the air eat: for the LORD hath spoken it.

12 Arise thou therefore, get thee to thine own house; and "when thy feet enter into the city, the child shall die.

13 And all Israel "shall mourn for him, and bury him; for he only of Jeroboam shall come to the grave, because in him there is found some<sup>b</sup> good thing toward the LORD God of Israel in the house of Jeroboam.

14 Moreover, "the LORD shall raise him up a king over Israel, who shall cut off the house of Jeroboam that day: but what? "even now.

15 For the LORD "shall smite Israel, as a reed is shaken in the water,<sup>8</sup> and he shall root up Israel out of this good land, which he gave to their fathers, and shall scatter them beyond the river,<sup>9</sup> because they have made their groves, provoking the LORD to anger.

16 And "he shall give Israel up, because of the sins of Jeroboam, who did sin, and who made Israel to sin.

17 ¶ And Jeroboam's wife arose, and departed, and came to "Tirzah: and "when she came to the threshold of the door, the child died;

He followed God with all his heart in opposition to idolatry, which he never countenanced. 2. In zealously reforming the church of God, according to the divine model, in doctrine and worship. 3. In faith, unwavering in the divine promises, and in deep repentance wherever he had sinned. Here, by grace truly he denied himself, took up his cross, and followed Christ, even God in Christ, reconciling him to himself, and not imputing his trespasses.—C.

LORD, which he spake by the hand of his servant<sup>1</sup> Ahijah the prophet.

19 ¶ And "the rest of the acts of Jeroboam, how he warred, and how he reigned, behold, they are written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel.<sup>2</sup>

20 And the days which Jeroboam reigned were two and twenty years: and he slept with his fathers;<sup>3</sup> and Nadab his son reigned in his stead.

21 ¶ And Rehoboam the son of Solomon reigned<sup>4</sup> in Judah. Rehoboam<sup>a</sup> was forty and one years old when he began to reign; and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which the LORD did choose out of all the tribes of Israel, to put his name there: and his mother's name was Naamah an Ammonitess.<sup>5</sup>

22 And Judah "did evil in the sight of the LORD,<sup>6</sup> and they provoked him "to "jealousy<sup>b</sup> with their sins which they had committed, above all that their fathers had done.

23 For they also "built them high places and images,<sup>8</sup> and groves, on every high hill, and under every green tree.

24 And there were also "sodomites in the land: and they did according to all the abominations of the nations which the LORD cast out before the children of Israel.<sup>9</sup>

25 ¶ And it came to pass, in the fifth year of king Rehoboam, that "Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem:

26 And he took away the "treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king's house; he even took away all: and he took away all "the shields of gold which Solomon had made.

27 And king Rehoboam "made in their stead brazen shields, and committed them unto the hands of the chief of "the guard, which kept the door of the king's house.

28 And it was so, when the king went into the house of the LORD, that the guard bare them, and brought them back into the guard-chamber.

29 ¶ Now "the rest of the acts of Rehoboam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

30 And there "was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all their days.

and then he broke out into the abrupt exclamation—"This is the day: i.e. the time is at hand when it shall happen."

CHAPTER XV.

NOW, in the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam the son of Nebat reigned <sup>a</sup>Abijam over Judah.

2 Three<sup>b</sup> years reigned he in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Maachah, the daughter of Abishalom.<sup>1</sup>

3 And he <sup>c</sup>walked in all the sins of his father, which he had done before him: and his heart was <sup>d</sup>not perfect with the LORD his God, as the heart of David his father.

4 Nevertheless, <sup>e</sup>for David's sake, did the LORD his God give him a lamp<sup>2</sup> in Jerusalem, to set up his son after him, and to establish Jerusalem;

5 Because David <sup>f</sup>did that which was right in the eyes of the LORD, and turned not aside from any thing that he commanded him all the days of his life, <sup>g</sup>save only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite.<sup>3</sup>

6 And there was war between <sup>h</sup>Rehoboam<sup>4</sup> and Jeroboam all the days of his life.

7 ¶ Now <sup>i</sup>the rest of the acts of Abijam, and all that he did, <sup>j</sup>are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? And there was war between Abijam and Jeroboam.

8 And <sup>k</sup>Abijam slept with his fathers; and they buried him in the city of David: and Asa his son reigned in his stead.

9 ¶ And in the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Israel reigned Asa over Judah.

10 And forty and one years reigned he in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Maachah, the daughter of Abishalom.

11 And Asa did that which was <sup>l</sup>right in the eyes of the LORD, as <sup>m</sup>did David his father.

12 And he took away the <sup>n</sup>sodomites out of the land,<sup>5</sup> and <sup>o</sup>removed all the idols that <sup>p</sup>his fathers had made.

nevertheless Asa's heart was <sup>a</sup>perfect with the LORD all his days.

15 And he <sup>b</sup>brought<sup>7</sup> in the things<sup>8</sup> which his father had dedicated, and the things which himself had dedicated, into the house of the LORD, silver, and gold, and vessels.<sup>9</sup>

16 ¶ And<sup>2</sup> there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.

17 And <sup>c</sup>Baasha king of Israel went up against Judah, and built <sup>d</sup>Ramah,<sup>1</sup> that he might not suffer any to go out or come in to Asa king of Judah.

18 Then <sup>e</sup>Asa took all the silver and the gold <sup>f</sup>that were left in the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king's house, and delivered them into the hand of his servants: and king Asa sent<sup>2</sup> them to <sup>g</sup>Ben-hadad, the son of Tabrimon, the son of Hezion, king of Syria, that dwelt at Damascus, saying,

19 <sup>h</sup>There is a league between me and thee, and between my father and thy father: behold, I have sent unto thee a present of silver and gold;<sup>3</sup> come and break thy league with Baasha king of Israel, that he may depart from me.

20 So <sup>i</sup>Ben-hadad hearkened unto king Asa, and sent the captains of the hosts which he had against the cities of Israel, and smote <sup>j</sup>Ijon, and Dan, and Abel-beth-maachah, and all Cinneroth, with all the land of Naphtali.

21 And it came to pass, <sup>k</sup>when Baasha heard thereof, that he left off building of Ramah, and dwelt in <sup>l</sup>Tirzah.

22 Then <sup>m</sup>king Asa made a proclamation throughout all Judah, (none <sup>n</sup>was exempted:) and they took away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha had builded; and king Asa built with them <sup>o</sup>Geba<sup>4</sup> of Benjamin, and Mizpah.

23 ¶ The <sup>p</sup>rest of all the acts of Asa, and all his might, and all that he did, and the cities which he built, <sup>q</sup>are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah? Nevertheless in the time of his old age he was diseased in his feet.<sup>5</sup>

24 And Asa slept with his fathers,<sup>6</sup> and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and <sup>r</sup>Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead.

25 ¶ And Nadab the son of Jeroboam <sup>s</sup>began

GOVERNMENT CAFE, DAMASCUS—THE CITY WHERE BEN-HADAD LIVED, TO WHOM ASA SENT THE GOLD AND SILVER THAT WERE IN THE HOUSE OF THE LORD. [1. Kings, xv:18.]—"Then Asa took all the silver and the gold that were left in the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the king's house, and delivered them into the hands of his servants: and King Asa sent them to Ben-hadad, the son of Tabrimon, the son of Hezion, king of Syria, that dwelt in Damascus." Ben-hadad was the name which several of the princes of Damascus bore, as Pharaoh was the name of the kings of Egypt.

Damascus is the oldest city in the world. Shakespeare refers to the story that the murder of Abel took place here in King Henry VI:

"Winchester:—Nay, stand thou back, I will not budge a foot;
This be Damascus, be thou cursed king
To slay thy brother Abel, if thou wilt."

This city was founded before Balbek and Palmyra. It is in the midst of a desert, and the Abana river is its life. The government cafe is simply one of the many coffee gardens of the city.

LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin.

27 ¶ And Baasha the son of Ahijah, of the house of Issachar, conspired against him: and Baasha smote him at Gibbethon,<sup>8</sup> which belonged to the Philistines; (for Nadab and all Israel laid siege to Gibbethon:)

28 Even in the third year of Asa king of Judah did Baasha slay him,<sup>9</sup> and reigned in his stead.

29 And it came to pass, when he reigned, that he smote all the house of Jeroboam;<sup>1</sup> he left not to Jeroboam any that breathed, until he had destroyed him, according unto the saying of the LORD, which he spake by his servant Ahijah the Shilonite.<sup>2</sup>

30 Because of the sins of Jeroboam which he sinned, and which he made Israel sin, by his provocation wherewith he provoked the LORD God of Israel to anger.

31 Now<sup>4</sup> the rest of the acts of Nadab, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?<sup>3</sup>

32 ¶ And there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.<sup>4</sup>

33 In the third year of Asa king of Judah began<sup>5</sup> Baasha the son of Ahijah to reign over all Israel in Tirzah, twenty and four years.

34 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin.

THEN the word of the LORD came to Jehu the son of Hanani<sup>1</sup> against Baasha, saying, 2 Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the dust, and made thee prince over my people Israel, and thou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and hast made my people Israel to sin, to provoke me to anger with their sins;

3 Behold, I will take away the posterity of Baasha, and the posterity of his house; and will make thy house like the house of Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

1 He doubtless left the dead bodies of Jeroboam's family unburied, as Ahijah had foretold, ch. 14. 9—14. Baasha soon showed that his motive in this massacre was his own malice and ambition, and that in gratifying his thirst for blood he might secure his usurped authority; for though he roots out the sinners, he cleaves to their sins. Thus ungodly men are the rod of God's anger, even when ripening themselves for his judgment.

l It was suggested (see editorial note on ch. 15. 9), that instead of solving the difficulty by the common refuge of the 'error of a transcriber,' it were easier better to consider Abijah as being also called Rehoboam. Now, is not this suggestion confirmed here? For Baasha did not kill Jeroboam, but Nadab, who seems also to have been called Jeroboam, by the Jeroboam, by the structure of the verse, is undoubtedly the person said to be killed.—C.

m This ought to be translated as follows: 'And because he smote him, i.e. the house of Jeroboam, as Ahijah had prophesied. It seems that Baasha exterminated the race of Jeroboam, not in obedience to divine command, but to gratify his own passion. 4 Him<sup>a</sup> that dieth of Baasha in the city shall the dogs eat; and him that dieth of his in the fields shall the fowls of the air eat.

5 ¶ Now<sup>e</sup> the rest of the acts of Baasha, and what he did, and his might, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

6 So<sup>f</sup> Baasha slept with his fathers,<sup>2</sup> and was buried in Tirzah: and Elah his son reigned in his stead.

7 And also by the hand<sup>3</sup> of the prophet Jehu the son of Hanani came the word of the LORD against Baasha, and against his house, even for all the evil that he did in the sight of the LORD, in provoking him to anger with the work of his hands, in being like the house of Jeroboam; and because he killed<sup>4</sup> him.<sup>5</sup>

8 ¶ In the twenty and sixth year of Asa king of Judah began Elah the son of Baasha to reign over Israel in Tirzah, two years.

9 And his servant Zimri (captain of half his chariots) conspired against him, as he was in Tirzah, drinking himself drunk in the house of Arza, steward of his house in Tirzah.

10 And Zimri went in and smote him, and killed him, in the twenty and seventh year of Asa king of Judah, and reigned in his stead.

11 ¶ And it came to pass, when he began to reign, as soon as he sat on his throne, that he slew all the house of Baasha: he left him not one that pisseth against a wall,<sup>6</sup> neither of his kinsfolks, nor of his friends.

12 Thus did Zimri destroy all the house of Baasha, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake against Baasha by<sup>7</sup> Jehu the prophet, 13 For<sup>8</sup> all the sins of Baasha, and the sins of Elah his son, by which they sinned, and by which they made Israel to sin, in provoking the LORD God of Israel to anger with their vanities.

REFLECTIONS.—How few great men, especially reformation; and great proneness to rely upon an arm of flesh in the time of trouble. But God generally imbibers to his people the success of their own sinful present Jehovah; whereas Ahab made Baal the national deity, and built a temple of Baal in the capital. Baal

16 And the people that were encamped heard say, Zimri hath conspired, and hath also slain the king: wherefore all Israel made <sup>9</sup>Omri, the captain of the host, king over Israel that day in the camp.

17 And Omri went up from Gibbethon, and all Israel with him, and they <sup>10</sup>besieged Tirzah.

18 And it came to pass, when Zimri saw that the city was taken, that he went into the palace of the king's house, and <sup>11</sup>burnt the king's house over him with fire; and died,

19 For his sins which he sinned in doing evil<sup>b</sup> in the sight of the LORD, in walking in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin which he did, to make Israel to sin.<sup>9</sup>

20 Now<sup>c</sup> the rest of the acts of Zimri, and his treason that he wrought, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

21 ¶ Then were the people of Israel <sup>d</sup>divided into two parts: half of the people followed Tibni the son of Ginath, to make him king, and half followed Omri.<sup>1</sup>

22 But the people that followed Omri prevailed against the people that followed Tibni the son of Ginath: so Tibni died, and Omri reigned.

23 ¶ In the thirty and first year of Asa king of Judah began Omri to reign over Israel<sup>2</sup> twelve<sup>e</sup> years: six years reigned he in Tirzah.

24 And he bought the hill Samaria of Shemer for two talents of silver,<sup>3</sup> and built on the hill, and called the name of the city which he built, after the name of Shemer, owner of the hill, <sup>f</sup>Samaria.<sup>4</sup>

25 ¶ But Omri wrought evil in the eyes of the LORD, and did <sup>g</sup>worse than all that were before him.

26 For he <sup>h</sup>walked in all the way of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, and in his sin where-with he made Israel to sin, to provoke the LORD God of Israel to anger with their vanities.

27 ¶ Now <sup>i</sup>the rest of the acts of Omri which he did, and his might that he showed, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

28 So Omri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria: and Ahab his son reigned in his stead.

v The building of Jericho here referred to is manifestly the rebuilding of its walls, so as to make it a city. It appears to have had some inhabitants from the time of its capture by Joshua, but still the ban lay upon it.

Its walls remained in ruins for five centuries; and now when they were rebuilt

the prophetic curse fell upon the builder.

d Elijah is one of the most majestic characters in the Old Testament. In many respects he is scarcely inferior to Moses, while in a few he even excels him.

Yet their missions were very different

Moses was a deliverer; Elijah a destroyer. Moses was a lawgiver; Elijah a reformer. Elijah was valued, and is still celebrated, not for what he taught or said, but for what he did; not because he created a new and pure worship, but because he annihilated an old and corrupt

one. Stern, fearless, uncompromising, Elijah was specially fitted to counteract and overthrow the haughty and cruel

Jezebel.—P.

29 ¶ And in the <sup>k</sup>thirty and eighth year of Asa king of Judah began Ahab the son of Omri to reign over Israel: and Ahab the son of Omri reigned over Israel in Samaria twenty and two years.

30 And Ahab the son of Omri did evil in the sight of the LORD <sup>l</sup>above all that were before him.

31 And it came to pass, as if it had been a light thing<sup>5</sup> for him to walk in the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, that he took to wife <sup>m</sup>Jezebel, the daughter of Ethbaal king of the Zidonians, and went and served <sup>n</sup>Baal, and worshipped him.

32 And he reared up an altar, for Baal in the <sup>o</sup>house of Baal, which he had built in Samaria.

33 And Ahab <sup>p</sup>made a grove; and Ahab <sup>q</sup>more to provoke the LORD God of Israel to anger than all the kings of Israel that were before him.

34 ¶ In his days did Hiel the <sup>r</sup>Beth-elite build Jericho: he laid the foundation thereof in Abiram his first-born, and set up the gates thereof in his youngest son <sup>s</sup>Segub, <sup>t</sup>according to the word of the LORD, which he spake by Joshua the son of Nun.<sup>7</sup>

CHAPTER XVII.

1 Elijah, having prophesied against Ahab, is sent to Cherith, where the ravens feed him. 8 He is sent to a widow of Zarephath. 17 He raiseth the widow's son: the woman believeth him.

AND Elijah<sup>a</sup> the Tishbite, who was of the inhabitants of Gilead,<sup>1</sup> said unto Ahab, <sup>b</sup>As the LORD God of Israel liveth, before whom I stand, there shall not be dew nor rain these years, but according to my word.<sup>2</sup>

2 And <sup>c</sup>the word of the LORD came unto him, saying,

3 Get thee hence, and turn thee eastward, and <sup>d</sup>hide thyself by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.<sup>3</sup>

4 And it shall be, that thou shalt drink of the brook; and I have <sup>e</sup>commanded the ravens to feed thee there.

5 So he went and did <sup>f</sup>according unto the word of the LORD: for he went<sup>4</sup> and dwelt by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

6 And the <sup>g</sup>ravens brought him bread and flesh in the morning, and bread and flesh in the evening; and he drank of the brook.

PALACE OF HEROD, SAMARIA—THE REMAINS OF THE PALACE, BUILT BY HEROD IN HONOR OF AUGUSTUS. [1. Kings, xvi:24.]—“And he bought the hill Samaria of Shemer for two talents of silver.” The city of Samaria was built by Omri about 925 B. C. For two centuries it was the capital of the Ten Tribes of Israel. It was a seat of idolatry; a temple of Baal was built here by Ahab and destroyed by Jehu. Ahab was buried here. After the capture of the city by Shalmaneser and the exile of the Ten Tribes, Shechem became the capital of the new residents. The pillars we see in the picture are supposed to be the remains of the palace built by Herod in honor of Augustus. The site of this city is now occupied by the village of Sebustieh, and it is built chiefly out of the ruins of the ancient city. It is one of the most beautiful sites for a city in Palestine. Its strength, fertility and beauty have been praised by all who have seen it.

7 And it came to pass after a while,<sup>4</sup> that the brook dried up, because there had been no rain in the land.

8 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto him, saying,

9 Arise, get thee to 'Zarephath,<sup>5</sup> which belongeth to Zidon, and dwell there: behold, I have commanded a widow woman<sup>6</sup> there to sustain thee.

10 So he arose, and went to Zarephath: and when he came to the gate of the city, behold, the widow woman was there gathering of sticks: and he called to her, and said, 'Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink.

11 And as she was going to fetch it, he called to her, and said, 'Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread in thine hand.

12 And she said, 'As the LORD thy God liveth,<sup>7</sup> I have not a cake, but an handful of meal in a barrel, and a little oil in a cruse: and, behold, I am gathering two sticks, that I may go in and dress it for me and my son, that we may eat it, and die.

13 And Elijah said unto her, Fear not; go and do as thou hast said: but make me thereof a little cake first, and bring it unto me, and after make for thee and for thy son.

14 For thus saith the LORD God of Israel, The barrel of meal shall not waste, neither shall the cruse of oil fail, until the day that the LORD sendeth rain upon the earth.

15 And she went and did according to the saying of Elijah: and she, and he, and her house, did eat many days.<sup>8</sup>

16 And the barrel of meal wasted not, neither did the cruse of oil fail, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake by<sup>9</sup> Elijah.

17 ¶ And it came to pass after these things, that the son of the woman, the mistress of the house, fell sick; and his sickness was so sore, that there was no breath left in him.

18 And she said unto Elijah, 'What have I to do with thee, O thou man of God? art thou come unto me to call my sin to remembrance,<sup>1</sup> and to slay my son?

19 And he said unto her, Give me thy son.

CHAPTER XVIII.

AND it came to pass after many days, that the word of the LORD came to Elijah in the third year,<sup>1</sup> saying, 'Go, show thyself unto Ahab; and I will send rain upon the earth.

2 And Elijah went to show himself unto Ahab: and there was a sore famine in Samaria.

3 ¶ And Ahab called Obadiah, which was the governor of his house: (now Obadiah feared the LORD greatly;

4 For it was so, when Jezebel cut off the prophets of the LORD, that Obadiah took an hundred prophets, and hid them by fifty in a cave, and fed them with bread and water:)<sup>2</sup>

5 And Ahab said unto Obadiah, Go into the land, unto all fountains of water, and unto all brooks;<sup>3</sup> peradventure we may find grass to save the horses and mules alive, that we lose not all the beasts.<sup>4</sup>

6 So they divided the land between them to pass throughout it: Ahab went one way by

God. They who dare to be bold for God may trust him with their protection; he will take care that they shall not starve. He can make the most ravenous or the most destitute creatures on earth to provide for them. When one created source runs dry, he can make another to break forth. And plentifully he re-harder it is to be composed under it at first. In our troubles, how apt are we to quarrel with our best friends, and in our haste to speak unadvisedly with our lips! But it is more decent and becoming humbly to search out, confess, and acknowledge our sin, which is himself, and Obadiah went another way <sup>by</sup> himself.

7 ¶ And as Obadiah was <sup>in</sup> the way, behold, Elijah met him: and he knew him, and fell <sup>on</sup> his face, and said, Art thou that my lord Elijah?

8 And he answered him, I am: go, tell thy lord, <sup>Elijah is here</sup>.

9 And he said, <sup>What</sup> have I sinned, that thou wouldest deliver thy servant into the hand of Ahab, to slay me?

10 <sup>As</sup> the LORD thy God liveth, there is no nation or kingdom <sup>whither</sup> my lord hath not sent to seek thee: and when they said, He is not there, he took an oath of the kingdom and nation, that they found thee not.

11 And now thou sayest, Go, tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here.

12 And it shall come to pass, as soon as I am gone from thee, that the Spirit of the LORD shall carry thee whither I know not; and so when I come and tell Ahab, and he cannot find thee, he shall slay me: <sup>but</sup> I thy servant fear the LORD <sup>from</sup> my youth.

13 Was it not told my lord <sup>what</sup> I did when Jezebel slew the prophets of the LORD, how I hid an hundred men of the LORD's prophets by fifty in a cave, and fed them with bread and water?

14 And now thou sayest, Go, tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here: and he shall slay me.

15 And Elijah said, As the LORD of hosts liveth, before whom <sup>I</sup> stand, I will surely show myself unto him to-day.

16 So Obadiah went to meet Ahab, and told him; and Ahab went to meet Elijah.

17 ¶ And it came to pass, when Ahab saw Elijah, that Ahab said unto him, Art thou he that troubleth Israel?

18 And he answered, I <sup>have</sup> not troubled Israel; but thou, and thy father's house, in that ye have forsaken the commandments of the LORD, and thou hast followed Baalim.

19 Now therefore send, and gather to me all Israel unto mount Carmel, <sup>and</sup> the prophets of Baal four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the groves <sup>four</sup> hundred, which eat at Jezebel's table.

20 So Ahab sent unto all the children of Israel, and gathered the prophets together unto mount Carmel.

21 ¶ And Elijah came unto all the people.

I only, remain a prophet of the LORD; but Baal's prophets are <sup>four</sup> hundred and fifty men.

23 Let them therefore give us two bullocks; and let them choose one bullock for themselves, and cut it in pieces, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under: and I will dress the other bullock, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under:

24 And call ye on the name of your gods, and I will call on the name of the LORD; and the God that <sup>answereth</sup> by fire, let him be God.<sup>3</sup> And all the people answered and said, It is well spoken.<sup>4</sup>

25 ¶ And Elijah said unto the prophets of Baal, Choose you one bullock for yourselves, and dress it first; for ye are many; and call on the name of your gods, but put no fire under.

26 And they took the bullock which was given them, and they dressed it, and called on the name of Baal from morning even until noon, saying, O Baal, hear<sup>5</sup> us!<sup>6</sup> But there was <sup>no</sup> voice, nor any that answered.<sup>7</sup> And they <sup>leaped</sup> upon the altar<sup>8</sup> which was made.

27 And it came to pass at noon, that Elijah <sup>mocked</sup> them, and said, Cry aloud: for he is a god;<sup>1</sup> either he is talking,<sup>2</sup> or he is pursuing, or he is in a journey, or peradventure he sleepeth, <sup>and</sup> must be awaked.

28 And they cried aloud, and <sup>cut</sup> themselves after their manner with knives and lancets, till the blood gushed out upon them.

29 And it came to pass, when mid-day was past, and they <sup>prophesied</sup> until the time of the offering of the evening sacrifice, that there was <sup>neither</sup> voice, nor any to answer, nor any that regarded.

30 ¶ And Elijah said unto all the people, Come near unto me. And all the people came near unto him: and he repaired the altar of the LORD<sup>4</sup> that was <sup>broken</sup> down.

31 And Elijah took <sup>twelve</sup> stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, unto whom the word of the LORD came, saying, <sup>Israel</sup> shall be thy name;

32 And with the stones he <sup>built</sup> an altar in the name of the LORD: and he made a trench about the altar, as great as would contain two measures of seed.

33 And he <sup>put</sup> the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces and laid him on <sup>it</sup>.

MOUNT CARMEL—WHERE FIRE FELL AND CONSUMED THE SACRIFICE OF ELIJAH. [I. Kings, xviii:42.]—"So Ahab went up to eat and to drink. And Elijah went up to the top of Carmel; and he cast himself down upon the earth, and put his face between his knees." Carmel is first mentioned in Joshua, xix:26. Its name signifies "a fertile field." Ahab, the king of Israel who had married Jezebel, a Sidonian princess, introduced the Phœnician worship upon Carmel and built an altar to Baal there. It was here that through Elijah the relationship of the Israelite worship and that of the Phœnicians was brought into marked contrast and Carmel was brought into prominence by being the scene of it. Mountains were regarded as sacred places, as we learn that Tabor was in the time of Deborah, and when Samuel lived he sought the heights of Mizpah as a place of worship, and we are told in Micah, vii:14, that Jehovah himself dwelt upon Mount Carmel.

35 And the water ran<sup>5</sup> round about the altar; and he filled the trench also with water.

36 And it came to pass, at the time of the offering of the evening sacrifice,<sup>6</sup> that Elijah the prophet came near, and said, 'LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel, let it be known this day that thou art God in Israel, and that I am thy servant, and that I have done all these things at thy word.

37 Hear<sup>a</sup> me, O LORD, hear me, that this people may know that thou art the LORD God, and that thou hast turned their heart back again.

38 Then<sup>c</sup> the fire of the LORD fell,<sup>7</sup> and consumed the burnt-sacrifice, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust, and licked up the water that was in the trench.<sup>8</sup>

39 And when all the people saw it, they fell on their faces: and they said, The LORD, he is the God; the LORD, he is the God.

40 And Elijah said unto them, Take the prophets of Baal, let not one of them escape. And they took them: and Elijah brought them down to the brook Kishon, and slew them there.<sup>9</sup>

41 ¶ And Elijah said unto Ahab, Get thee up, eat and drink; for there is a sound of abundance of rain.<sup>1</sup>

42 So Ahab went up to eat and to drink: and Elijah went up to the top of Carmel; and he cast himself down upon the earth, and put his face between his knees, 43 And said to his servant, Go up now, look toward the sea. And he went up, and looked, and said, There is nothing. And he said, Go again seven times.

44 And it came to pass, at the seventh time, that he said, Behold, there ariseth a little cloud out of the sea, like a man's hand. And he said, Go up, say unto Ahab, Prepare thy chariot, and get thee down, that the rain stop thee not.

45 And it came to pass, in the mean while, that the heaven was black with clouds and wind, and there was a great rain. And Ahab rode, and went to Jezreel.<sup>3</sup>

CHAPTER XIX.

1 Elijah, threatened by Jezebel, fleeth to Beersheba. 4 In the wilderness, being weary of his life, he is comforted by an angel. 9 At Horeb God appeareth unto him, sending him to anoint Hazael, Jehu, and Elisha. 19 Elisha, taking leave of his friends, followeth Elijah.

AND Ahab told Jezebel all that Elijah had done, and withal how he had slain all the prophets with the sword.

2 Then Jezebel sent a messenger unto Elijah, saying, So let the gods do to me, and more also, if I make not thy life as the life of one of them by to-morrow about this time.

3 And when he saw that, he arose, and went for his life, and came to Beer-sheba,<sup>1</sup> which belongeth to Judah, and left his servant there.

4 ¶ But<sup>2</sup> he himself went a day's journey into the wilderness,<sup>3</sup> and came and sat down under a juniper-tree: and he requested for himself that he might die; and said, It is enough; now, O LORD, take away my life; for I am not better than my fathers.<sup>4</sup>

5 And as he lay and slept under a juniper-tree,<sup>5</sup> behold, then an angel touched him, and said unto him, Arise and eat.

6 And he looked, and, behold, there was a cake baked on the coals, and a cruse of water at his head:<sup>6</sup> and he did eat and drink, and laid him down again.

7 And the angel of the LORD came again the second time, and touched him, and said, Arise and eat; because the journey is too great for thee.

8 And he arose, and did eat and drink, and went in the strength of that meat forty days and forty nights unto Horeb<sup>7</sup> the mount of God.

9 ¶ And he came thither unto a cave, and lodged there; and, behold, the word of the LORD came to him,<sup>8</sup> and he said unto him, What doest thou here, Elijah?

10 And he said, I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hosts: for the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and slain thy prophets with REFLECTIONS.—God can turn a fruitful land into barrenness for the sins of them that dwell therein: but judgments, instead of humbling, enrage the impenitent. When persecutors cannot wreak their malice and fury on God they do it upon his servants. But what a mercy is it that God, even in wicked courts, hath those who fear him and protect his ministers. It they who by their sins provoke God against a nation, are the real troublers of it, and ought faithfully to be told it. God can overrule the hearts of his most inveterate enemies, and make them to grant what his servants demand for his honour. Unsettled notions of religion lead to unsound practices: and there can be he answers the fervent prayers of his zealous servants: and gloriously he overcomes when he is judged. Dreadful is the ruin of such as obstinately dispute his supremacy. But when false prophets and evil ministers are removed from a land God will return and refresh it. Secret, importunate, and repeated the sword; and 'I, even I only, am left; and they seek my life, to take it away.

11 And he said, Go forth, and 'stand upon the mount before the LORD. And, behold, the LORD passed by, and a great and strong wind rent the mountains, and brake in pieces the rocks before the LORD; but the LORD was not in the wind: and after the wind an earthquake; but the LORD was not in the earthquake:

12 And after the earthquake a fire; but the LORD was not in the fire: and after the fire a still small voice.<sup>9</sup>

13 And it was so, when Elijah heard it, that he wrapped his face in his mantle,<sup>1</sup> and went out, and stood in the entering in of the cave: and, behold, there came a voice unto him, and said, 'What doest thou here, Elijah?<sup>2</sup>

14 And he said, 'I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hosts: because the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and slain thy prophets with the sword; and I, even I only, am left; and they seek my life, to take it away.

15 And the LORD said unto him, Go, return on thy way to the wilderness of Damascus: and when thou comest, anoint Hazael to be king over Syria:

16 And 'Jehu the son of Nimshi shalt thou anoint to be king over Israel: and 'Elisha the son of Shaphat of 'Abel-meholah<sup>3</sup> shalt thou anoint to be prophet in thy room.<sup>4</sup>

17 And it shall come to pass, that him that escapeth 'the sword of Hazael shall Jehu slay; and him that escapeth from the 'sword of Jehu shall 'Elisha slay.

18 Yet<sup>1</sup> I have left me seven thousand in Israel, all the knees which have not bowed unto Baal, and every mouth which hath not kissed him.

19 'So he departed thence, and found Elisha the son of Shaphat, who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and 'he with the twelfth: and Elijah passed by him, and cast his 'mantle upon him.<sup>5</sup>

20 And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah, and said, Let me, I pray thee, kiss my father and my mother, and then I will follow

CHAPTER XX.

1 Benhadad, king of Syria, not content with Ahab's homage, besiegeth Samaria. 13 By the direction of a prophet the Syrians are slain. 22 As the prophet had forewarned Ahab, the Syrians, trusting in the valleys, come against him in Aphek. 28 By the word of the prophet, and God's judgment, the Syrians are smitten again. 31 The Syrians submitting themselves, Ahab sendeth Benhadad away with a covenant. 35 The prophet, under the parable of a prisoner, making Ahab to judge himself, denounceth God's judgment against him for his unseasonable lenity.

AND Ben-hadad<sup>a</sup> the king of Syria gathered all his host together: and there were <sup>b</sup>thirty and two kings with him,<sup>1</sup> and horses and chariots: and he went up and 'besieged Samaria, and warred against it.

2 And he 'sent messengers to Ahab king of Israel into the city, and said unto him, Thus saith Ben-hadad, 3 Thy 'silver and thy gold is mine; thy wives also and thy children, even the goodliest, are mine.

4 And the king of Israel answered and said, My lord, O king, according to thy saying, 'I am thine, and all that I have.

9 Wherefore he said unto the messengers of Ben-hadad, Tell my lord the king, All that thou didst send for to thy servant at the first I will do; but this thing I may not do. And the messengers departed and brought him word again.

10 And Ben-hadad sent unto him, and said, The gods do so unto me, and more also, if the dust of Samaria shall suffice for handfuls for all the people that follow me.

11 And the king of Israel answered and said, Tell him, Let not him that girdeth on his harness boast himself as he that putteth it off.

12 And it came to pass, when Ben-hadad heard this message, (as he was drinking, he and the kings in the pavilions,) that he said unto his servants, Set yourselves in array: and they set themselves in array against the city.

13 ¶ And, behold, there came a prophet unto Ahab king of Israel, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Hast thou seen all this great multitude? behold, I will deliver it into thine hand this day; and thou shalt know that I am the LORD.

14 And Ahab said, By whom? And he said, Thus saith the LORD, Even by the young men of the princes of the provinces. Then he said, Who shall order the battle? And he answered, Thou.

15 Then he numbered the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were two hundred and thirty-two: and after them he numbered all the people, even all the children of Israel, being seven thousand.

16 And they went out at noon: but Ben-hadad was drinking himself drunk in the pavilions, he and the kings, the thirty and two kings that helped him.

17 And the young men of the princes of the provinces went out first; and Ben-hadad sent out, and they told him, saying, There are men come out of Samaria.

18 And he said, Whether they be come out for peace, take them alive; or whether they be come out for war, take them alive.

19 So these young men of the princes of the provinces came out of the city, and the army which followed them.

20 And they slew every one his man: and the Syrians fled; and Israel pursued them: and Ben-hadad the king of Syria escaped on an horse with the horsemen.

22 ¶ And the prophet came to the king of Israel, and said unto him, Go, strengthen thyself, and mark, and see what thou doest: for at the return of the year the king of Syria will come up against thee.

23 And the servants of the king of Syria said unto him, Their gods are gods of the hills; therefore they were stronger than we: but let us fight against them in the plain, and surely we shall be stronger than they.

32 So they girded sackcloth on their loins, and put ropes on their heads,<sup>9</sup> and came to the king of Israel, and said, Thy servant Ben-hadad saith, I pray thee, let me live. And he said, Is he yet alive? he is my brother.

33 Now the men did diligently observe whether any thing would come from him, and did hastily catch it: and they said, Thy brother Ben-hadad. Then he said, Go ye, bring him. Then Ben-hadad came forth to him; and he caused him to come up into the chariot.

34 And Ben-hadad said unto him, "The cities, which my father took from thy father, I will restore; and thou shalt make streets for thee in Damascus,"<sup>1</sup> as my father made in Samaria. Then said Ahab, I will send thee away with this covenant. So he made a covenant with him, and sent him away.

35 ¶ And a certain man of the sons of the prophets said unto his neighbour in the word of the LORD, "Smite me, I pray thee."<sup>2</sup> And the man refused to smite him.

36 Then said he unto him, "Because thou hast not obeyed the voice of the LORD, behold, as soon as thou art departed from me, a lion shall slay thee. And as soon as he was departed from him, a lion found him, and slew him."

37 Then he found another man, and said, Smite me, I pray thee. And the man smote him, so that in smiting he wounded him.<sup>3</sup> 38 So the prophet departed, and waited for the king by the way,<sup>4</sup> and disguised himself with ashes<sup>5</sup> upon his face.

39 And as the king passed by, he cried unto the king: and he said, Thy servant went out into the midst of the battle; and, behold, a man turned aside, and brought a man unto me, and said, Keep this man: if by any means he be missing, then shall thy life be for his life, or else thou shalt pay<sup>6</sup> a talent of silver.

40 And as thy servant was busy here and there, he was<sup>7</sup> gone.<sup>8</sup> And the king of Israel said unto him, "So shall thy judgment be; thyself hast decided it."

41 And he hasted, and took the ashes away from his face; and the king of Israel discerned him that he was of the prophets.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 Ahab being denied Naboth's vineyard is grieved. 5 Jezebel writing letters against Naboth, he is condemned of blasphemy. 15 Ahab taketh possession of the vineyard. 17 Elijah denounceth judgments against Ahab and Jezebel. 27 Wicked Ahab repenting, God deferreth the judgment.

AND it came to pass after these things, that Naboth the Jezreelite had a vineyard, which was in Jezreel, hard by the palace of Ahab king of Samaria.

2 And Ahab spake unto Naboth, saying, Give me thy vineyard, that I may have it for a garden of herbs, because it is near unto my house; and I will give thee for it a better vineyard than it; or, if it seem good to thee,<sup>1</sup> I will give thee the worth of it in money.

3 And Naboth said to Ahab, The LORD forbid it me, that I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee.<sup>2</sup>

4 And Ahab came into his house heavy and displeased because of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had spoken to him; for he had said, I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers: and he laid him down upon his bed, and turned away his face, and would eat no bread.<sup>3</sup>

5 ¶ But Jezebel his wife came to him, and said unto him, Why is thy spirit so sad, that thou eatest no bread?

6 And he said unto her, Because I spake unto Naboth the Jezreelite, and said unto him, Give me thy vineyard for money; or else, if it please thee, I will give thee another vineyard for it: and he answered, I will not give thee my vineyard.

7 And Jezebel his wife said unto him, Dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel? arise, and eat bread, and let thine heart be merry:<sup>4</sup> I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

8 So she wrote letters in Ahab's name, and sealed them with his seal, and sent the letters unto the elders and to the nobles that were in his city, dwelling with Naboth.

9 And she wrote in the letters, saying, "Proclaim<sup>5</sup> a fast,<sup>6</sup> and set Naboth on high among the people:<sup>7</sup>

10 And set two men, sons of Belial, before

AT THE WELL, SAMARIA—WHERE AHAB, KING OF ISRAEL, BUILT A TEMPLE TO BAAL, THE GOD OF THE SIDONIANS. [1. Kings, xxi:18.]

—“Arise, go down to meet Ahab, king of Israel, which is in Samaria.” The city of Samaria was built by Omri, king of Israel, and became the capital of the ten tribes until the captivity. Ahab built a temple to Baal here, which was destroyed by Jehu. “He reared up an altar for Baal in the house of Baal which he had built in Samaria. And Ahab made a grove: and Ahab did more to provoke the Lord God of Israel to anger than all the kings of Israel that were before him.”—1. Kings, xvi:32-33. We give above a picture of the well in Samaria. The prophecy uttered with reference to this place in Micah, i:6, is literally fulfilled: “I will make Samaria as an heap of the field, and as plantings of a vineyard: and I will pour down the stones thereof into the valley, and I will discover the foundations thereof.” This has literally come to pass.

him, to bear witness against him, saying, Thou didst blaspheme God and the king:<sup>8</sup> and then carry<sup>9</sup> him out, and stone him, that he may die.<sup>9</sup>

11 And the men of his city, even the elders and the nobles who were the inhabitants in his city, did as Jezebel had sent unto them, and as it was written in the letters which she had sent unto them:

12 They proclaimed a fast, and set Naboth on high among the people.

13 And there came in two men, children of Belial, and sat before him: and the men of Belial witnessed against him, even against Naboth, in the presence of the people, saying, Naboth did blaspheme God and the king. Then they carried him forth out of the city, and stoned him with stones, that he died.

14 Then they sent to Jezebel, saying, Naboth is stoned, and is dead.

15 ¶ And it came to pass, when Jezebel heard that Naboth was stoned, and was dead, that Jezebel said to Ahab, Arise, take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he refused to give thee for money: for Naboth is not alive, but dead.

16 And it came to pass, when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead,<sup>1</sup> that Ahab rose up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take possession of it.

17 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying, 18 Arise, go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, which is in Samaria: behold, he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone down to possess it.

19 And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Hast thou killed, and also taken possession? And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, Thus saith the LORD, In the place where dogs licked the blood<sup>2</sup> of Naboth shall dogs lick thy blood, even thine.

20 And Ahab said to Elijah, Hast thou found me, O mine enemy?<sup>3</sup> And he answered, I have found thee; because thou hast sold thyself to work evil<sup>4</sup> in the sight of the LORD.

21 Behold, I will bring evil upon thee, and will take away thy posterity, and will cut off

28 And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

29 Seest thou how Ahab humbleth himself before me? because he humbleth himself before me, I will not bring the evil in his days:<sup>2</sup> but in his son's days will I bring the evil upon his house.

CHAPTER XXII.

1 Ahab, seduced by false prophets, according to the word of Micahiah is slain at Ramoth-gilead. 37 The dogs lick up his blood, and Ahaziah succeedeth him. 41 Jehoshaphat's good reign. 45 His acts. 50 Jehoram succeedeth him. 51 Ahaziah's wicked reign.

AND they continued three years without war between Syria and Israel.

2 And it came to pass in the third year, that Jehoshaphat the king of Judah came down to the king of Israel.

3 (And the king of Israel said unto his servants, Know ye that Ramoth in Gilead is ours, and we be still,<sup>2</sup> and take it not out of the hand of the king of Syria?)

4 And he said unto Jehoshaphat, Wilt thou go with me to battle to Ramoth-gilead? And Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, I am as adherence to the Lord's command when we meet with strong temptations. How insatiable is a covetous heart! Many great men, in all that they have, can enjoy but small pleasure because of some fancied want: and proud and discontented spirits, terrible does the eternal justice of God perplex and pursue them! Legal terrors may produce strong professions of repentance, but only a sense of God's pardoning love can convert the heart. And if God mark conscience, the life of saints, yea, and all that they have, are endangered by sinful compliances to evil men: but tender saints can never delight in evil and small nor great, save only with the king of Israel.

32 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, that they said, Surely it is the king of Israel. And they turned aside to fight against him; and Jehoshaphat cried out.<sup>9</sup>

33 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Israel, that they turned back from pursuing him.

34 ¶ And a certain man drew a bow at a venture,<sup>1</sup> and smote the king of Israel between the joints<sup>2</sup> of the harness: wherefore he said unto the driver of his chariot, Turn thine hand, and carry me out of the host; for I am wounded.<sup>3</sup>

35 And the battle increased<sup>4</sup> that day: and the king was stayed up<sup>5</sup> in his chariot against the Syrians, and died at even: and the blood ran out of the wound into the midst<sup>6</sup> of the chariot.

36 And there went a proclamation throughout the host about the going down of the sun, saying, Every man to his city, and every man to his own country.<sup>8</sup>

37 ¶ So the king died, and was brought<sup>9</sup> to Samaria; and they buried the king in Samaria.

38 And one washed the chariot in the pool of Samaria; and the dogs licked up his blood; and they washed his armour; according unto the word of the LORD which he spake.

39 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Ahab, and all that he did, and the ivory house<sup>1</sup> which he made, and all the cities that he built, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

40 So Ahab slept with his fathers; and Ahaziah his son reigned in his stead.

41 ¶ And Jehoshaphat the son of Asa began to reign over Judah in the fourth year of Ahab king of Israel.

42 Jehoshaphat was thirty and five years not wonder that they fall into mischief. But if they cry unto the Lord they will find him a present help in the time of trouble. When the hour of men is come there is no avoiding their destiny. By events which to us are purely accidental, God can execute his purpose and accomplish his word. No character on earth except Christ's is perfectly spotless. Even good men are apt to indulge long-rooted customs of sinning. But how unwise is it for them to cultivate familiarity with the wicked, even after they have smarted for it! and it is a mercy if repeated strokes make them amend their error at the last.

A HAH'S WELL IN JEZREEL, WHERE AHAB BUILT HIS IVORY PALACE. [I. KINGS, xii:39.]—"Now the rest of the acts of Ahab, and all that he did, and the ivory house which he made, and all the cities that he built, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?" Jezreel, now known by the name of Zerin, lies at the base of the Gilboa mountain, 10 miles southeast of Nazareth. There are about 20 houses here now and a square tower. It is a beautiful site for a city, and is conspicuous for many miles around. The historic well, which we give in the above picture, is at the bottom of the hill to the north of the city. To this place the women from Jezreel still come, as in Bible times, with their earthen jars to get water. It was in Jezreel that Ahab lived with Jezebel, his heathen wife, and it is in evidence that here he built his ivory house, and here there was a temple and grove of Astarte, with his establishment of 400 priests of Baal supported by Jezebel.

THE SECOND BOOK OF KINGS.

The Second Book of Kings is but a continuation of the former, from the death of Ahab to the death of Jehoiachin, which is about three hundred and forty years. The principal events recorded are, (1) The miracles of Elijah and Elisha, i.-vii. xiii. (2) The destruction of the family of Ahab by Jehu, viii.-x. (3) The misery of Israel under Jehu and Jehoahaz, from the oppressions of the Syrians, and their restoration by Joash and Jeroboam, xiii. xiv.; and in fine, their civil wars, harass-ment and captivity by the Assyrians, xv. xvii. (4) The history of Judah under fifteen kings; of whom Jehoram, Ahaz, Manasseh, and Amon were most wicked, and Hezekiah and Josiah most pious and reforming: and in fine, of their harassment and captivity by the Chaldeans, viii.-xxv.

CHAPTER I.

1 Moab rebelleth. 2 Ahaziah, sending to Baalzebub, hath his judgment by Elijah. 5 Elijah twice bringeth fire from heaven upon those whom Ahaziah sent to apprehend him. 13 He pitieth the third captain, and, encouraged by an angel, telleth the king of his approaching death. 17 Jehoram succeedeth Ahaziah.

3 But the angel of the LORD said to <sup>Elijah</sup> the Tishbite, Arise, go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria, and say unto them, <sup>Is it</sup> not because there is not a God in Israel, that ye go to inquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron?

4 Now therefore thus saith the LORD, <sup>Thou</sup> shalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, <sup>but</sup> shalt surely die. And Elijah departed.

5 ¶ And when the messengers turned back unto him, he said unto them, Why are ye now turned back?

6 And they said unto him, There came a man up to meet us, and said unto us, Go, turn again unto the king that sent you, and say unto him, Thus saith the LORD, <sup>Is it</sup> not because there is not a God in Israel, that thou sendest to inquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron? therefore thou shalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but shalt surely die.

7 Amongst apostates prone to the worship of Baal, or the sun, the appeal to the judgment of fire was the most appropriate. That the prophet prayed, not out of personal resentment, but by divine inspiration, is evident from the text: the lightning descended and smote the mockers of Jehovah—an emblem of the judgment at the end of the world. 9 Then the king <sup>sent</sup> unto him a captain of fifty with his fifty: and he went up to him: (and, behold, he sat <sup>on</sup> the top of an hill:?) and he spake unto him, <sup>Thou</sup> man of <sup>God</sup>, the king hath said, Come down.

10 And Elijah answered and said to the captain of fifty, If I be a man of God, then <sup>let</sup> fire come <sup>down</sup> from heaven,<sup>9</sup> and consume thee and thy fifty. And there came down fire from heaven, and consumed him and his fifty.

11 Again<sup>10</sup> also he <sup>sent</sup> unto him another captain of fifty with his fifty: and he <sup>answered</sup> and said unto him, O man of God, thus hath the king said, Come down quickly.

12 And Elijah answered and said unto them, <sup>If I be</sup> a man of God, let fire come down from heaven, and consume thee and thy fifty. And the fire of God came down from heaven, and consumed him and his fifty.

13 ¶ And he sent <sup>again</sup> a captain of the third fifty with his fifty: and the third captain of fifty went up, and came and <sup>fell</sup> on his knees before Elijah, and besought him, and said unto him, <sup>O</sup> man of God, I pray thee, let my life, and the life of these fifty thy servants, be precious in thy sight.

14 Behold, there came fire down from heaven, and burnt up the two captains of the former fifties with their fifties: therefore let my life now be precious in thy sight.

15 And the angel of the LORD said unto Elijah, Go down with him; <sup>be</sup> not afraid of him. And he arose, and went down with him unto the king.

16 And he said unto him, <sup>Thou</sup> man of <sup>God</sup>,

17 ¶ So he died, according to the word of the LORD which Elijah had spoken: and Jehoram reigned in his stead, in the second year of Jehoram<sup>1</sup> the son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah; because he had no son.<sup>2</sup>

18 Now the rest of the acts of Ahaziah which he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

CHAPTER II.

1 Elijah, taking his leave of Elisha, with his mantle divideth Jordan, and, granting Elisha his request, is taken up by a fiery chariot into heaven. 12 Elisha, dividing Jordan with Elijah's mantle, is acknowledged his successor. 16 The young prophets, with difficulty obtaining leave to seek Elisha, could not find him. 19 Elisha with salt healeth the unwholesome waters. 23 Bears destroy the children that mocked him.

AND it came to pass, when the LORD would take up Elijah into heaven<sup>1</sup> by a whirlwind, that Elijah went with Elisha from Gilgal.

2 And Elijah said unto Elisha, "Tarry here, I pray thee;<sup>2</sup> for the LORD hath sent me to Beth-el. And Elisha said unto him, "As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Beth-el.

3 And the sons of the prophets that were at Beth-el came forth to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the LORD will take away thy master from thy head to-day? And he said, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace.

4 And Elijah said unto him, Elisha, tarry here, I pray thee; for the LORD hath sent me to Jericho.<sup>3</sup> And he said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho.

5 And the sons of the prophets that were at Jericho came to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the LORD will take away thy master from thy head to-day? And he answered, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace.<sup>4</sup>

6 And Elijah said unto him, "Tarry, I pray thee, here; for the LORD hath sent me to Jordan. And he said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And they two went on.

7 And fifty men of the sons of the prophets went, and stood to view afar off: and they two stood by Jordan.

8 And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapped it together, and smote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither; so that they two went over on dry ground.

9 ¶ And it came to pass, when they were gone over, that Elisha said, "Behold, now I will be as thou wast, and I will do all things as thou hast done."

The statement in verse 2 proves this, for it is said 'they went down to Bethel'; whereas Gilgal in the plain of Jericho is more than 3000 ft. below Bethel. REFLECTIONS.—What honour God delights to put upon his faithful servants! The least of them shall lack nothing of Elijah's happiness, but that they must lodge a little in the grave on their way to the perfect felicity above. Faithful saints have the good of the rising generation much on their heart; and we should make the most of their conversation while we can have it. It is very distressing, though hopeful, to part with dear friends, high in favour with God. And how easy and majestic is their composed retirement to the heavenly state, even in their passage through Jordans of trouble and of death! The removal of such is indeed a great loss to churches and nations, especially if iniquity be come to a great height. But when God removes one eminent servant, he can raise up another equally endowed with the Holy Ghost. And when an animating pattern, a powerful prayer of faith, and the distinguished presence of God concur, there is great ground of hope. They whom God honours ought to be honoured; and the strong must bear with the infirmities of the weak. A people ought to make all the profitable improvement possible.

and persecuted. His holy zeal was ardent; his rebukes pungent; his denunciations of wrath terrible and effective: his prayers for mercy to his friends, or destruction to his foes, were always prevalent; his fast was long and afflicting; his great sacrifice was inflamed by infinite and unquenchable love from within, and by infinite wrath from above: and by means of it he showed the Lord to be God, restored the true worship of God in the world, and made the unclean spirits and false prophets to pass out of the land. By him kings are appointed to death or dominion; and prophets, apostles, and ministers called to, and furnished for, their office. In infinite wisdom he removed his ordinances from the Jews, that he might dwell with raven-like publicans and sinners; dwell with long-widowed Gentiles, and restore to life their children, dead in trespasses and sins. Baptized in Jordan, and travelling through trouble and death, he ascended to heaven without seeing corruption. In vain have the Jews ever since searched for a promised Messiah. And dreadful and lasting justice has, or shall overtake his Jewish, heathen, antichristian, or other obstinate enemies, according to the predictions of his mouth.

15 But now bring me a minstrel.<sup>9</sup> And it came to pass, when the minstrel played, that the hand of the LORD came upon him.

16 And he said, Thus saith the LORD, Make this valley full of ditches:

17 For thus saith the LORD, Ye shall not see wind,<sup>1</sup> neither shall ye see rain; yet that valley shall be filled with water, that ye may drink, both ye, and your cattle, and your beasts.<sup>2</sup>

18 And this is but a light thing in the sight of the LORD: he will deliver the Moabites also into your hand.

19 And ye shall smite every fenced city, and every choice city, and shall fell every good tree,<sup>3</sup> and stop all wells of water, and mar every good piece of land with stones.

20 And it came to pass in the morning, when the meat-offering was offered, that, behold, there came water by the way of Edom, and the country was filled with water.<sup>5</sup>

21 And when all the Moabites heard that the kings were come up to fight against them, they gathered<sup>6</sup> all that were able to put on armour,<sup>7</sup> and upward, and stood in the border.

22 And they rose up early in the morning, and the sun shone upon the water, and the Moabites saw the water on the other side as red as blood.<sup>8</sup>

23 And they said, This is blood: the kings are surely slain,<sup>9</sup> and they have smitten one another: now therefore, Moab, to the spoil.

24 And when they came to the camp of Israel, the Israelites rose up and smote the Moabites, so that they fled before them: but they went forward smiting<sup>1</sup> the Moabites in their country.

25 And they beat down the cities, and on every good piece of land cast every man his stone, and filled it; and they stopped all the wells of water,<sup>2</sup> and felled all the good trees: only<sup>3</sup> in Kir-haraseth left they the stones thereof; howbeit the slingers went about it, and smote it.

The storm took place at such a distance from the camp, that the Israelites saw neither wind nor rain.—P.

4 This passage is obscure. The meaning seems to be that the Moabite king, driven to despair by the cruelties of the conquerors, offered up his son as a sacrifice to Chemosh, on the wall of Kir-haraseth, in sight of the Israelites. This is a narrow act, to which the unfortunate monarch was driven by the Israelites, drew down upon them the divine displeasure, so that they abandoned the siege, and returned home. The Hebrew phrase rendered 'there was great indignation' is always employed to denote the anger or displeasure of God on account of sin.—P.

the battle was too sore for him, he took with him seven hundred men that drew swords, to break through even unto the king of Edom: but they could not.

CHAPTER IV.

1 Elisha multiplieth the widow's oil. 8 He giveth a son to the good Shunammite. 18 He raiseth again her dead son. 38 At Gilgal he healeth the deadly pottage. 42 He miraculously satisfieth an hundred men with twenty barley loaves.

NOW there cried a certain woman of the wives of the sons of the prophets unto Elisha,<sup>1</sup> saying, Thy servant my husband is dead; and thou knowest that thy servant did fear the LORD: and the creditor is come to take unto him my two sons to be bondmen.<sup>2</sup>

2 And Elisha said unto her, What shall I do for thee? tell me, what hast thou in the house? And she said, Thine handmaid hath not any thing in the house, save a pot of oil.

3 Then he said, Go, borrow thee vessels abroad of all thy neighbours, even empty vessels; borrow not a few.<sup>3</sup>

4 And when thou art come in, thou shalt shut the door upon thee and upon thy sons, and shalt pour out into all those vessels, and thou shalt set aside that which is full.

5 So she went from him, and shut the door upon her and upon her sons, who brought the vessels to her; and she poured out.

6 And it came to pass, when the vessels were full, that she said unto her son, Bring me yet a vessel. And he said unto her, There is not a vessel more. And the oil stayed.

7 Then she came and told the man of God: and he said, Go, sell the oil, and pay thy debt, and live thou and thy children of the rest.

8 And it fell on a day,<sup>4</sup> that Elisha passed to Shunem,<sup>5</sup> where was a great woman; and she constrained him<sup>6</sup> to eat bread. And so it was, that as oft as he passed by, he turned in thither to eat bread.

GARDENS OF SHUNEM—WHERE ELISHA RESTORED THE WOMAN'S SON TO LIFE. [II. Kings, iv:8.]—"And it fell on a day that Elisha passed to Shunem, where was a great woman; and she constrained him to eat bread. And so it was, that as oft as he passed by, he turned in thither to eat bread. And she said unto her husband, Behold now, I perceive that this is a holy man of God, which passeth by us continually. Let us make a little chamber, I pray thee, on the wall; and let us set for him there a bed and a table and a stool and a candlestick; and it shall be, when he cometh to us, that he shall turn in thither." Shunem literally means "two resting places." It is a city in the territory of Issachar. It is in the plain of Jezreel. Here lived the worthy woman who built a room for Elisha, and whose son the Prophet restored to life. It is now the village on the declivity of the western extremity of Little Hermon.

9 And she said unto her husband, Behold now, I perceive that this is an holy man of God<sup>7</sup> which passeth by us continually.<sup>8</sup>

10 Let us make a little chamber, I pray thee, on the wall;<sup>9</sup> and let us set for him there a bed, and a table, and a stool, and a candlestick: and it shall be, when he cometh to us, that he shall turn in thither.

11 And it fell on a day, that he came thither, and he turned into the chamber, and lay there.

12 And he said to Gehazi his servant, Call this Shunammite. And when he had called her, she stood before him.

13 And he said unto him, Say now unto her, Behold, thou hast been careful for us with all this care; what is to be done for thee? wouldst thou be spoken for to the king, or to the captain of the host? And she answered, I dwell among mine own people.<sup>1</sup>

14 And he said, What then is to be done for her? And Gehazi answered, Verily she hath no child, and her husband is old.

15 And he said, Call her. And when he had called her, she stood in the door.

16 And he said, About this season,<sup>2</sup> according to the time of life, thou shalt embrace a son. And she said, Nay, my lord, thou man of God, do not lie unto thine handmaid.<sup>3</sup>

17 And the woman conceived, and bare a son<sup>4</sup> at that season that Elisha had said unto her, according to the time of life.

18 ¶ And when the child was grown, it fell on a day, that he went out to his father to the reapers.

19 And he said unto his father, My head, my head!<sup>5</sup> And he said to a lad, Carry him to his mother.

20 And when he had taken him, and brought him to his mother, he sat on her knees till noon, and then died.

21 And she went up, and laid him on the bed of the man of God, and shut the door upon him, and went out.

22 And she called unto her husband, and said, Send me, I pray thee, one of the young men, and one of the asses, that I may run to the man of God, and come again.

23 And he said, Wherefore wilt thou go to him to-day? it is neither new-moon, nor sabbath. And she said, It shall be well.<sup>6</sup>

26 Run<sup>m</sup> now, I pray thee, to meet her, and say unto her, Is it well with thee? is it well with thy husband? is it well with the child? And she answered, It is well.

27 And when she came to the man of God to the hill, she caught him by the feet:<sup>8</sup> but Gehazi came near to thrust her away. And the man of God said, Let her alone; for her soul is vexed within her: and the Lord hath hid it from me, and hath not told me.<sup>9</sup>

28 Then she said, Did I desire a son of my lord? did I not say, Do not deceive me?

29 Then he said to Gehazi, Gird up thy loins,<sup>1</sup> and take my staff in thine hand, and go thy way: if thou meet any man, salute him not; and if any salute thee, answer him not again:<sup>2</sup> and lay my staff upon the face of the child.

30 And the mother of the child said, As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And he arose, and followed her.

31 And Gehazi passed on before them, and laid the staff upon the face of the child; but there was neither voice, nor hearing:<sup>4</sup> wherefore he went again to meet him, and told him, saying, The child is not awaked.<sup>5</sup>

32 And when Elisha was come into the house, behold, the child was dead, and laid upon his bed.

33 He went in therefore, and shut the door upon them twain, and prayed unto the Lord.

34 And he went up, and lay upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands; and he stretched himself upon the child, and the flesh of the child waxed warm.

35 Then he returned, and walked in the house to and fro;<sup>6</sup> and went up, and stretched himself upon him: and the child sneezed seven times,<sup>7</sup> and the child opened his eyes.

36 And he called Gehazi, and said, Call this Shunammite. So he called her: and, when she was come in unto him, he said, Take up thy son.

37 Then she went in, and fell at his feet, and bowed herself to the ground, and took up

Kings, v:1.]—"Now Naaman, Captain of the host of the King of Syria, was a great man with his master * * * but he was a leper." There is a house outside of the east gate of Damascus on the banks of the Abana river, that is said to stand upon the site of Naaman, the leper's house. This is now a leper hospital, and there are about thirty-five or forty of as wretched looking human beings in this hospital and strolling about the premises, as are to be found perhaps on the face of the earth. They seem to do their own cooking, go and come at will, and make a living by begging backsheesh in the most pitiable tones, from travelers. It is not surprising that Naaman, the proud Captain who resided at Damascus, should have refused to wash in the River Jordan, when he remembered the beautiful Abana that flowed by his house.

and he said unto his servant, Set on the great pot, and seethe pottage for the sons of the prophets.

39 And one went out into the field to gather herbs, and found a wild vine, and gathered thereof wild gourds<sup>9</sup> his lapfull, and came and shred them into the pot of pottage: for they knew<sup>1</sup> them not.

40 So they poured out for the men to eat: and it came to pass, as they were eating of the pottage, that they cried out, and said, O <sup>thou</sup> man of God, there <sup>is</sup> death in the pot: and they could not eat thereof.

41 But he said, Then bring meal: and he cast<sup>o</sup> it into the pot; and he said, Pour out for the people, that they may eat: and there was no harm<sup>1</sup> in the pot.<sup>2</sup>

42 ¶ And there came a man from <sup>Baal-shalisha</sup>, and <sup>brought</sup> the man of God bread of the first-fruits, twenty loaves of barley, and full ears of corn in the husk<sup>3</sup> thereof: and he said, Give unto the people, that they may eat.

43 And his servitor said, What! <sup>should</sup> I set this before an hundred men? He said again, Give the people, that they may eat: for thus saith the Lord, <sup>They shall eat, and shall leave thereof.</sup>

44 So he set it before them, and they did eat, and left thereof, according to the word of the Lord.

CHAPTER V.

NOW Naaman, <sup>a</sup> captain of the host of the king of Syria, was a <sup>b</sup>great man with<sup>1</sup> his master, and <sup>2</sup>honourable,<sup>3</sup> because by him the Lord had given <sup>d</sup>deliverance unto Syria: he was also a mighty man in valour;<sup>4</sup> but he was a<sup>d</sup> leper.<sup>5</sup>

2 And the Syrians had gone out <sup>by</sup> companies,<sup>6</sup> and had brought away captive out of the land of Israel a little maid; and she <sup>waited</sup> on Naaman's wife.

3 And she <sup>said</sup> unto her mistress, Would God my lord were <sup>with</sup> the prophet that is in Samaria! for he would <sup>recover</sup> him of his leprosy.

9 The Hebrew name is derived from a word that signifies to crack noisily, and by this circumstance it may with considerable confidence be identified with the Cucumis Colocynthis, of which the seed-case, when ripe, bursts with a loud crackling sound. The fruit when ripe, and before complete dryness, is beautiful and inviting to an inexperienced stranger, but tasted, is intensely bitter, and though capable of being usefully employed in medicine, is nevertheless justly ranked among vegetable poisons.—C.

Great men had many suits of apparel, as they used to clothe all their guests at their feasts, Mat. 22. 12.

3 This whole narrative concerning the king of Syria is most graphically characteristic, not of a great man—for the great in name and rank are often truly great—but of a great man spoiled by prosperity. He does not take time to inquire till he decides. He consequently mistakes the king for a prophet, and is in danger of quarrel where he intended a compliment, or of exposing the life of a servant he wished to save.—C.

4 Thus treating him as an equal, or rather as a very inferior person. It is plain that Elisha acted toward Naaman on the principle that he was not fully prepared to receive divine favours, or that he considered rank, and wealth, and dignity somewhat degrading the notice of the God of Israel. To produce genuine humility and submission to the sovereign pleasure of the true God was evidently the design and tendency of the prophet's conduct; and happy was it for the Syrian general that he submitted to be taught.—Davidson.

5 And the king of Syria said, Go to, go, and I will send a letter unto the king of Israel. And he departed, and took with him<sup>1</sup> ten talents of silver, and six thousand <sup>pieces</sup> of gold,<sup>2</sup> and <sup>ten</sup> changes of raiment.

6 And he brought the letter to the king of Israel, saying, Now when this letter is come unto thee, behold, I have <sup>therewith</sup> sent Naaman my servant to thee, that thou mayest recover him of his leprosy.<sup>3</sup>

7 And it came to pass, when the king of Israel had read the letter, that he rent his clothes, and said, <sup>Am</sup> I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of his leprosy? wherefore consider, I pray you, and <sup>see</sup> how he seeketh a quarrel against me.

8 ¶ And it was so, when Elisha the man of God had heard that the king of Israel had <sup>rent</sup> his clothes, that he sent to the king, saying, Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come now to me, and he shall <sup>know</sup> that there is a prophet in Israel.

9 So Naaman came with his horses and with his chariot, and <sup>stood</sup> at the door of the house of Elisha.

10 And Elisha <sup>sent</sup> a messenger unto <sup>him</sup>, saying, Go and <sup>wash</sup> in Jordan seven <sup>times</sup>, and thy flesh shall come again to thee, and thou shalt be clean.

11 But Naaman was <sup>wroth</sup>, and went away, and said, Behold, I thought,<sup>6</sup> He will surely come out<sup>7</sup> to me, and stand, and call on the name of the Lord his God, and strike<sup>8</sup> his <sup>hand</sup> over the place, and recover the leper.

12 <sup>Are</sup> not Abana<sup>1</sup> and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus,<sup>2</sup> better than all the waters of Israel? may I not wash in them, and be clean? So he turned, and <sup>went</sup> away in a rage.

13 And his servants came near, and spake unto him, and said, <sup>My</sup> father, <sup>if</sup> the prophet had bid thee <sup>do</sup> some great thing, wouldst thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash, and be clean?

14 Then <sup>went</sup> he down, and dipped himself seven times in Jordan, according to the saying of the man of God: and his flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child, and he was clean.

15 ¶ And he <sup>returned</sup> to the man of God, he and all his company, and <sup>rose</sup> up and stood

ROADWAY ALONG THE ABANA, DAMASCUS. [II. Kings, v:12.]—"Are not Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? May I not wash in them, and be clean? So he turned and went away in a rage." In reality the Pharpar river does not come up as far as Damascus. This ancient city is watered by the Abana alone, and the Abana has four sources; one is from Fijeh, under the Lebanon Cliff; another from near Amri el-hamah, north of Zebdany; another west of Zebdany, and the fourth west of Rukhish and Hermon. The trees and flowers along the banks of this river are beautiful beyond description. The shrubbery grows down to the very water's edge. The leaves are so green they are almost black. As Egypt is the gift of the Nile, so Damascus is the gift of the Abana river. It really creates an island in a desert.

that there is no God in all the earth but in Israel; now therefore, I pray thee, take a blessing<sup>8</sup> of thy servant.

16 But he said, As the LORD liveth, before whom I stand, I will receive none. And he urged him to take it; but he refused.

17 And Naaman said, Shall there not then, I pray thee, be given to thy servant two mules' burden of earth?<sup>9</sup> for thy servant will henceforth offer neither burnt-offering nor sacrifice unto other gods, but unto the LORD.

18 In this thing the LORD pardon thy servant, that when my master goeth into the house of Rimmon to worship there, and he leaneth on my hand, and I bow<sup>2</sup> myself in the house of Rimmon: when I bow down myself in the house of Rimmon, the LORD pardon thy servant in this thing.

19 And he said unto him, Go in peace.<sup>3</sup> So he departed from him a little way.

20 ¶ But Gehazi, the servant of Elisha the man of God, said, Behold, my master hath spared Naaman this Syrian, in not receiving at his hands that which he brought; but, as the LORD liveth, I will run after him, and take somewhat of him.

21 So Gehazi followed after Naaman: and when Naaman saw him running after him, he lighted down from the chariot to meet him, and said, Is all well?

22 And he said, All is well. My master hath sent me, saying, Behold, even now there be come to me from mount Ephraim two young men of the sons of the prophets: give them, I pray thee, a talent of silver, and two changes of garments.

CHAPTER VI.

1 Elisha, giving leave to the young prophets to enlarge their dwellings, causeth iron to swim. 8 He discloseth the king of Syria's counsel. 13 The army which was sent to Dothan to apprehend Elisha is smitten with blindness. 19 Being brought into Samaria, they are dismissed in peace. 24 The famine in Samaria causeth women to eat their own children. 30 The king sendeth to slay Elisha.

AND the "sons of the prophets said unto Elisha, Behold now, the place where we dwell with thee is too strait for us.

2 Let us go, we pray thee, unto Jordan, and take thence every man a beam,<sup>1</sup> and let us make us a place there where we may dwell. And he answered, Go ye.

3 And one said, Be content, I pray thee, and go with thy servants. And he answered, I will go.

4 So he went with them. And when they came to Jordan, they cut down wood.

Ver. 12. [The Abana, now called Barada, rises in a beautiful plain in the very heart of the range of Anti-Lebanon, and cuts its way through a sublime ravine down to the plain of Damascus. Before entering the plain, and also after entering it, a number of canals are led off from the river at different elevations, and are carried along the higher parts of the plain for purposes of irrigation. By this means an immense extent of country, which would otherwise be a parched desert, is converted into a paradise. The Abana flows through the city and across the plain eastward for 20 miles, and then falls into a lake. The Pharpar, now called Away, rises high up on the eastern side of Mount Hermon, flows through the plain south of Damascus, at the distance of about 7 miles from the city, and falls into a separate lake or marsh. Numerous canals are also led off from the Pharpar for purposes of irrigation; and some of them are carried within 2 miles of the city.]

family. Men are generally willing to try every expedient, and bestow the utmost expense and trouble, to obtain a cure of their bodily distempers: but how few regard the worth or welfare of their souls! and how readily carnal men fancy that supernatural benefits must be purchased by carnal profits! Men who are conscious of their ill deserts often tremble at every shadow, and disquiet their minds by misinterpreting the most innocent intentions of their neighbours. But God in mercy oftentimes helps the wicked far beyond what they have reason to expect. And ministers ought to seize upon every opportunity of manifesting the power and grace of God: but never ought they to sully their character by a complaisant crouching to the pride of great men. Proud spirits readily interpret the least suspected slight into a heinous affront: and the wise in their own conceit often ruin themselves by contempt thus, by the weakest means, produce the greatest ends, and manifest his power and glory. That knowledge of God which is obtained by such an experience of his goodness, will always be most fruitful, while holy gratitude disposes us to a careful performance of duty both towards God and men, leads us to regard the prayers of God's people, to remember past transgressions with grief, and to resolve for the future to abstain from all appearance of evil. But alas! that those who have most and best instructions and examples should have all lost upon them! Parents and masters cannot convert their children or servants. Covetousness tempts to lying and almost every other evil: and one sin always leads on to another. Hope of concealment and impunity is a great encouragement to do evil. But short-lived, transitory, and bitter in the end, is prosperous wickedness: and how

MILL AT DOTHAN—WHERE THE HORSES AND CHARIOTS OF FIRE WERE SEEN ABOUT ELISHA. [II. Kings, vi:13.]—"And he said, Go and spy where he is, that I may send and fetch him. And it was told him, saying, Behold, he is in Dothan." Here in this place, near where Joseph was cast into a pit by his brethren, and where Elisha's young man saw the mountain full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha, we saw the only steam mill that we observed in Palestine. It is rather a crude affair, but shows that the material elements of modern civilization are gradually penetrating this, one of the oldest countries. The civilization of Palestine in the days of David and Solomon, and even down to the coming of Christ, was far higher than what it is to-day. It was not only arrested by Moslem religion, but has been set back and degraded to a degree lower almost than any other civilization in the world, above that of the barbarian.

PART OF OUR CARAVAN AT DOTHAN, WHERE ELISHA'S YOUNG MAN SAW THE MOUNTAINS FULL OF HORSES AND CHARIOTS. [II. KINGS vi:17.]—"And Elisha prayed, and said, Lord, I pray thee, open his eyes, that he may see. And the Lord opened the eyes of the young man; and he saw: and, behold, the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha." The scene which is described in this picture was at Dothan. Dothan lay upon the highway which the Ishmaelite merchants were compelled to travel, and it was during one of their regular marches along this way that they bought Joseph from his brethren, as we are told in Genesis xxxvii:17. Here we know it was that the Lord opened the eyes of Elisha's young man, because when the King of Syria warred against Israel, he wanted to know of the whereabouts of Elisha, the man of God. In the 13th verse of the 6th chapter of II. Kings we are told: "And he said, Go and spy where he is, that I may send and fetch him. And it was told him, saying, Behold, he is in Dothan."

CHAPTER VII.

1 Elisha prophesieth incredible plenty in Samaria. 3 Four lepers, returning into the host of the Syrians, bring tidings of their flight. 12 The king, finding by spies the news to be true, spoileth the tents of the Syrians. 17 The lord who would not believe the prophecy of plenty, having the charge of the gate, is trodden to death in the press.

THEN Elisha "said, Hear ye the word of the LORD; Thus saith the LORD, 'To-morrow about this time 'shall a measure<sup>1</sup> of fine flour be sold for a shekel,<sup>2</sup> and two measures of barley for a shekel, in the gate<sup>3</sup> of Samaria.

2 Then a lord, "on whose hand the king leaned,<sup>4</sup> answered the man of God, and said, Behold, 'if the LORD would make windows in heaven, might<sup>t</sup> this thing be?<sup>5</sup> And he said, Behold, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, but shalt 'not eat thereof.

3 ¶ And there were four leprous men "at the entering in of the gate: and they said one to another, Why sit we here until we die?

4 If we say, We will enter into the city, then the famine is in the city, and we shall die there; and if we sit still here, we die also. Now therefore come, and let us fall unto the host of the Syrians: 'if they save us alive, we shall live; and if they kill us, we shall but die.

5 And they rose up in the 'twilight, to go unto the camp of the Syrians: and when they were come to the uttermost part of the camp of Syria, behold, there was no man there.

6 For the LORD had made the host of the Syrians to "hear a noise of chariots, and a noise of horses, even the noise of a great host: and they said one to another, Lo, the king of Israel hath hired against us the kings of the ¶ 1 Heb. in it. They are as few and lean as ourselves.

2 There is considerable variety in the MSS. in recording this text, part of which is also wanting, both in the Septuagint and Syriac versions.

But as we can discover no special difficulty in understanding the meaning of the text, so we can see little necessity in searching for a varied edition; and, unless where authority is paramount, we are not disposed to receive emendations, however plausible.

Boothroyd translates it thus: "Two of the five horses which remain—for, behold, they only remained of all the multitude that were in Israel unconsumed."

Dr. Clarke renders the last word "fit for service."

3 The construction of this passage as it now stands is very difficult, and the meaning obscure.

Many attempts have been made both in ancient and modern times to modify the text; but they have not been successful.

The various readings were probably occasioned by a desire to overcome the difficulty of interpretation.

The sentence is somewhat prolix, but the meaning seems to be this: Let them take five horses of those that remain in the city. Behold, they are as all the rest of the Israelites which remain in it (i.e. their lot, even should they perish on the expedition, is no worse than that of those who are perishing in the city with famine); behold, they are all the rest of Israel which perished (i.e. at the worst they shall but perish like the thousands that have perished already).

The sending of the horses implies the sending of men with them; and to the men is the special reference made here. This explains the parallel drawn between them and the other Israelites.

4 Heb. chariots of horses.

5 We prefer the text here to the marginal translation, for certainly chariots would not suit the purpose of the spies so well as horses.

¶ Or, furniture.

¶ Ex. 35. 16. Eccl. 7. 15.

8 And when these lepers came to the uttermost part of the camp, they went into one tent, and did eat and drink, and carried thence silver, and gold, and raiment, and went and 'hid it; and came again, and entered into another tent, and carried thence also, and went and 'hid it.

9 Then they "said one to another, We do not well: this day is a °day of good tidings, and we hold our peace: if we tarry till the morning light, some mischief will come upon us:<sup>8</sup> now therefore come, that we may go and tell the king's household.

10 So they came and called unto the porter of the city: and they told them, saying, We came to the camp of the Syrians, and, behold, 'there was no man there, neither voice of man, but horses tied, and asses tied, and the tents as they were.

11 And he called the porters; and they told it to the king's house within.

12 ¶ And the king arose in the night, and said unto his "servants, I will now show you what the Syrians have done to us: they know that we be hungry, therefore are they gone out of the camp to hide themselves in the field, saying, When they come out of the city, we shall catch them alive, and get into the city.<sup>9</sup>

13 And one of his servants answered and said, Let some take, I pray thee, five of the horses that remain, which are left in the city, (behold, they are<sup>1</sup> as all the multitude of Israel that are left in it; behold, I say, they are even as all the multitude of the Israelites that are consumed,)<sup>2</sup> and let us send and see.<sup>3</sup>

14 They took therefore two "chariot<sup>4</sup> horses; and the king sent after the host of the Syrians, saying, Go and see.

15 And they went after them unto Jordan; and, lo, all the way was full of garments and "vessels, which the Syrians had cast away in their haste: and the messengers returned, and told the king.

16 And the people went out, and "spoiled the tents of the Syrians. So a measure of fine flour was sold for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, "according to the word of the LORD.

17 ¶ And the king appointed the lord on whose hand he leaned to have the charge of the gate: and the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died, as the man of God had said, when the king came down to him.

MAT-WEAVERS, SYRIA—CHARACTERISTIC OF SYRIA IN ALL AGES. [II. KINGS, vii: 15.]—"And they went after them unto Jordan; and lo, all the way was full of garments and vessels, which the Syrians had cast away in their haste." There are a great many Bedouins in Syria who live in tents. These tents are woven of black goats' hair, and are covered with thick, heavy mats. We see in the above picture a rude contrivance the natives use for weaving these mats. They cut the rushes of which the mats are woven from the Jordan. The native Bedouins when aroused or threatened are full of hate, but when approached in their tents by foreigners and addressed kindly they appear to be very polite and gentle. Our party spent a night camping within the confines of a Bedouin village, and they treated us with the greatest respect and kindness, brought us milk, assisted our cook in the preparation of our food, and our muleteers in feeding and tying our horses.

19 And that lord answered the man of God, and said Now, behold, if the LORD should make windows in heaven, might such a thing be? And he said, Behold, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, but shalt not eat thereof.

20 And so it fell out unto him: for the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 The Shunammite, having left her country seven years, to avoid the forewarned famine, for Elisha's miracle sake hath her land restored by the king. 7 Hazael, being sent with a present by Benhadad to Elisha at Damascus, after he had heard the prophecy, killeth his master, and succeedeth him. 16 Jehoram's wicked reign in Judah. 20 Edom and Libnah revolt. 23 Ahaziah succeedeth Jehoram. 25 Ahaziah's wicked reign. 28 He visiteth Jehoram wounded, at Jezreel.

THEN spake Elisha unto the woman, whose son he had restored to life, saying, Arise, and go thou and thine household, and sojourn wheresoever thou canst sojourn: for the LORD hath called for a famine; and it shall also come upon the land seven years.

2 And the woman arose, and did after the saying of the man of God: and she went with her household, and sojourned in the land of the Philistines seven years.

3 And it came to pass at the seven years' end, that the woman returned out of the land of the Philistines: and she went forth to cry unto the king for her house, and for her land.

4 And the king talked with Gehazi, the servant of the man of God, saying, Tell me, I pray thee all the great things that Elisha hath done

5 And it came to pass, as he was telling the king how he had restored a dead body to life, that, behold, the woman, whose son he had restored to life, cried to the king for her house, and for her land. And Gehazi said, My lord, O king, this is the woman, and this is her son, whom Elisha restored to life.

6 And when the king asked the woman, she told him. So the king appointed unto her a certain officer, saying, Restore all that was her's, and all the fruits of the field since the day that she left the land, even until now.

7 And Elisha came to Damascus; and Ben-hadad the king of Syria was sick: and it was told him, saying, The man of God is come hither.

8 And the king said unto Hazael, Take a present in thine hand, and go, meet the man of God, and inquire of the LORD by him, saying, Shall I recover of this disease?

1 It appears strange to many that there could be a famine in Israel and plenty in Philistia, countries between which there was no difference of soil or climate, and that lay so contiguous to each other. Those who either wonder or object show little knowledge or observation in agriculture. Such occurrences are common in all countries, and arise from various causes, such as (1) Diversity of agricultural skill. (2) Variety in the staple crop, which people are not easily induced to change to suit seasons. (3) From the local nature of drought and rain, which, though generally equalized, are sometimes very unequal. (4) From the destructive powers of insects, generated at particular degrees of temperature and moisture. (5) From facilities of import—which last was althogether in favour of the Philistines, who dwelt along the borders of the Mediterranean.—C.

10 And Elisha said unto him, Go, say unto him, Thou mayest certainly recover: howbeit the LORD hath showed me that he shall surely die.

11 And he settled his countenance stedfastly, until he was ashamed: and the man of God wept.

12 And Hazael said, Why weepeth my lord? And he answered, Because I know the evil that thou wilt do unto the children of Israel: their strong holds wilt thou set on fire, and their young men wilt thou slay with the sword, and wilt dash their children, and rip up their women with child.

13 And Hazael said, But what! is thy servant a dog, that he should do this great thing? And Elisha answered, The LORD hath showed me that thou shalt be king over Syria.

14 So he departed from Elisha, and came to his master; who said to him, What said Elisha to thee? And he answered, He told me that thou shouldst surely recover.

15 And it came to pass on the morrow, that he took a thick cloth, and dipped it in water, and spread it on his face, so that he died: and Hazael reigned in his stead.

16 And in the fifth year of Joram the son of Ahab king of Israel, Jehoshaphat being then king of Judah, Jehoram the son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah began to reign.

17 Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign; and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

18 And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as did the house of Ahab; for the daughter of Ahab was his wife: and he did evil in the sight of the LORD.

19 Yet the LORD would not destroy Judah for David his servant's sake, as he promised him to give him alway a light, and to his children.

20 In his days Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah, and made a king over themselves.

21 So Joram went over to Zair, and all the chariots with him; and he rose by night, and smote the Edomites which compassed him about, and the captains of the chariots: and the people fled into their tents.

22 Yet Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah unto this day. Then <sup>1</sup>Libnah revolted at the same time.<sup>1</sup>

24 And <sup>3</sup>Joram slept with his fathers,<sup>2</sup> and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Ahaziah his son reigned in his stead.

25 ¶ In the <sup>4</sup>twelfth year of Joram the son of Ahab king of Israel did <sup>5</sup>Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah begin to reign.

26 Two and twenty years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign;<sup>3</sup> and he reigned one year in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Athaliah, the <sup>6</sup>daughter of Omri king of Israel.

27 And he <sup>7</sup>walked in the way of the house of Ahab, and did evil in the sight of the LORD, as did the house of Ahab: for he was the son-in-law of the house of Ahab.

28 ¶ And he <sup>8</sup>went with Joram the son of Ahab, to the war against <sup>9</sup>Hazael king of Syria in <sup>10</sup>Ramoth-gilead; and the Syrians wounded Joram.

29 And king Joram went back to be healed in <sup>11</sup>Jezreel of the wounds <sup>12</sup>which the Syrians had given him at Ramah, when he fought against Hazael king of Syria: and Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah went down to see Joram the son of Ahab in Jezreel, because he was <sup>13</sup>sick.

It was taken by Joshua after the defeat of the confederate kings at Gibeon. The reason of its revolt at this particular period was its connection with the Edomites, who were extending their conquests over the southern border of Philistia, and were anxious to stir up revolt against Israel wherever it was possible. The site of the city is unknown, and the name has perished.

MSS. and translations are introduced accordingly to pronounce the forty-two incorrect. But may not the discrepancy be reconciled thus:—(1) Jehoram was thirty-two when he began to reign as co-regent with Jehoshaphat, who reigned twenty-five years. If co-regent during twenty years, and then sole monarch for eight, he died not at forty, but sixty. (2) Suppose Ahaziah admitted to the co-regency at twenty-two, 2 Ki. 22. 2, and to continue in that office twenty years, he comes to the sole monarchy at forty-two, 2 Ch. 22. 2, in which he reigns one year. The co-regency was early adopted by David to secure the succession to Solomon, and one emperor and two Cæsars were sometimes judged necessary to secure the tranquillity of Rome.—C.

ah! the bloody and barbarous rage of war! Enraged pride sticks at nothing. In high stations men will, without remorse, perpetrate what would have shocked them when in low conditions: and nothing is too horrid for the human heart left to itself and violently tempted. Few courtiers report the naked truth to their sovereigns: and flatterers are most to be suspected for enemies.

so it is in the Septuagint. Beth-haggan, or without the article Beth-gan, is identical with En-gannum, a town of Issachar, seven miles south of Jezreel, on the direct road to Jerusalem. Ahaziah met Jehu in the valley of Jezreel, below the town on the north. When he saw the fate of Joram he turned and fled southward along the highroad to Jerusalem, which ran past En-

TOWER OF JEZREEL—WHERE THE WATCHMAN STOOD AND SPIED THE COMPANY OF JEHU. [II. KINGS, 12:17.]—"And there stood a watchman on the Tower of Jezreel, and he spied the company of Jehu as he came, and said, I see a company. And Joram said, Take a horseman and send to meet them, and let him say, Is it peace?" The modern name of the City of Jezreel is Zerin. It is but a village and is in decay. It consists of only a few houses which stand among the ruins, and it commands a view of the Beisan Plain on the east and the plain of Esdraelon on the west. The Jezreel of the Hebrews was known as Esdraelon among the Greeks, and as Stradela in the Middle Ages. There is a fountain here, and the Israelites are represented as pitching their tents by a fountain which is in Jezreel. Ahab and Jezebel once had their royal residence here. Here was the vineyard of Naboth. We are in full view from this point of Mount Carmel.

of Nimshi, 'conspired against Joram: (now Joram had 'kept Ramoth-gilead,<sup>1</sup> he and all Israel, because of Hazael king of Syria:

15 But 'king Joram<sup>2</sup> was returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds which the Syrians had given him, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria:) and Jehu said, If it be your minds, then 'let none go forth nor escape out of the city, to go to tell it in Jezreel.

16 ¶ So Jehu rode in a chariot, and went to Jezreel; (for Joram lay there:) and 'Ahaziah king of Judah was come down to see Joram.

17 And there stood 'a watchman on the tower in Jezreel, and he spied the company of Jehu as he came, and said, I see a company. And Joram said, Take an horseman, and send to meet them, and let him say, Is it peace?<sup>3</sup>

18 So there went one on horseback to meet him, and said, Thus saith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu said, What hast thou to do with peace?<sup>4</sup> turn thee behind me. And the watchman told, saying, The messenger came to them, but he cometh not again.

19 Then he sent out a second on horseback, which came to them, and said, Thus saith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu answered, What hast thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me.

20 And the watchman told, saying, He came even unto them, and cometh not again: and the driving<sup>5</sup> is like the driving of Jehu the son of Nimshi; for he 'driveth 'furiously.<sup>7</sup>

21 And Joram said, Make ready.<sup>8</sup> And his chariot was made ready. And Joram king of Israel, and Ahaziah king of Judah, went out, each in his chariot, and they went out against Jehu, and met<sup>9</sup> him 'in the portion of Naboth the Jezreelite.

22 And it came to pass, when Joram saw Jehu, that he said, 'Is it peace, Jehu? And he answered, What peace, so long as the 'whoredoms of thy mother Jezebel and her witchcrafts<sup>1</sup> are so many?

23 And Joram 'turned his hands, and fled, and said to Ahaziah, There is treachery, O Ahaziah.

24 And Jehu drew a bow with his full strength,<sup>2</sup> and 'smote Jehoram between his arms, and the arrow went out at his heart, and he sunk<sup>3</sup> down in his chariot.

25 Then said Jehu to Bidkar his captain,

Ramoth-gilead was one of the chief strongholds east of the Jordan, and was appointed a city of refuge in the tribe of Gad. Its site has been identified in the modern town of Salt. The situation is strong and picturesque. It stands on a hill, which is separated by deep ravines from the loftier mountains that encompass it. On the summit is the castle, or citadel, a rectangular building with massive walls and a deep moat. In the cliffs and ravines round it are great numbers of tombs and grottoes.—P.

CHAPTER X.

1 Jehu, by his letters, causeth seventy of Ahab's children to be beheaded. 8 He excuseth the fact by the prophecy of Elijah. 12 At the shearing house he slayeth two and forty of Ahaziah's brethren. 15 He taketh Jehonadab into his company. 18 By subtilty he destroyeth at once all the worshippers of Baal. 29 Jehu followeth Jeroboam's sins. 32 Hazael oppresseth Israel. 34 Jehoahaz succeedeth Jehu.

AND Ahab had "seventy sons<sup>1</sup> in Samaria. And Jehu wrote letters, and sent to Samaria, unto "the rulers of Jezreel,<sup>2</sup> to the elders, and to them that brought up<sup>3</sup> Ahab's children, saying,

2 Now, 'as soon as this letter cometh to you, seeing your master's sons are with you, and there are with you chariots and horses, a fenced city also, and armour,

3 Look even out: "the best and meekest of your master's sons, and set him on his father's throne, and fight<sup>4</sup> for your master's house.<sup>5</sup>

4 But they were exceedingly afraid, and said, Behold, "two kings stood not before him; how then shall we stand?

5 And he that was over the house, and he that was over the city, the elders also, and the bringers-up of the children, sent to Jehu, saying, 'We are thy servants, and will do all that thou shalt bid us; we will not make any king: do thou that which is good in thine eyes.

6 Then he wrote a letter the second time to them, saying, If ye be mine,<sup>6</sup> and if ye will hearken unto my voice, take ye "the heads of the men your master's sons, and come to me to Jezreel by to-morrow this time. (Now the king's sons, being seventy persons, were with the great men of the city, which brought them up.)

7 And it came to pass, when the letter came to them, that they took the king's sons, and slew<sup>7</sup> seventy persons, and put their heads in baskets, and sent him them to Jezreel.

8 ¶ And there came a messenger, and told him, saying, They have brought the heads of the king's sons. And he said, 'Lay ye them in two heaps<sup>7</sup> at the entering in of the gate until the morning.

9 And it came to pass in the morning, that he went out, and stood, and said to all the people, Ye be "righteous:<sup>8</sup> behold, I conspired against my master, and slew him; but who slew all these?

14 And he said, "Take them alive. And they took them alive, and slew them at the "pit of the shearing-house, even two and forty men; neither left he any of them.

15 ¶ And when he was departed thence, he lighted <sup>8</sup>on "Jehonadab the son of Rechab coming to meet him: and he "saluted him, and said to him, "Is thine heart right, as my heart is with thy heart? And Jehonadab answered, It is. If it be, give me thine hand. And he gave him his hand; and he took him up to him into the chariot.<sup>9</sup>

16 And he said, Come with me, and see "my zeal for the LORD. So they made him ride in his chariot.

17 And when he came to Samaria, he slew all that remained unto Ahab in Samaria, till he had "destroyed him, according to the saying of the LORD, which he spake to Elijah.

18 ¶ And Jehu gathered all the people together, and said unto them, "Ahab served Baal a little,<sup>1</sup> but Jehu shall serve him much.

19 Now therefore call unto me all "the prophets of Baal, all his servants, and all his priests, let none be wanting; for I have a great sacrifice to do to Baal: whosoever shall be wanting, he shall not live. But Jehu did it "in subtilty, to the intent that he might destroy the worshippers of Baal.

20 And Jehu said, "Proclaim a solemn assembly for Baal. And they proclaimed it.

21 And Jehu sent through all Israel; and all forms. Painting and pampering do but ripen for tremendous woe. And though for a time sinners may lift their heads high, they will shortly be brought low in death and still lower in hell: and not only their consciences will find the effects of it return on their own heads. Guilt makes men spiritless cowards when brought to a trial: they will be always ready to side with the strongest; and when they want an excuse to apparently good, the Lord will at last discover their hypocrisy and evil. False religion ought to be extirpated, and wicked men overcome: and if men overlook them, Jesus will at last convene them to execute the worshippers of Baal came, so that there was not a man left that came not: and they came into the house of Baal; and the house of Baal was full from one end to another.<sup>1</sup>

22 And he said unto him that was over the vestry, Bring forth vestments for all the worshippers of Baal. And he brought them forth vestments.<sup>3</sup>

23 And Jehu went, and Jehonadab the son of Rechab, into the house of Baal, and said unto the worshippers of Baal, Search, and look that there be here with you none of the servants of the LORD, but the worshippers of Baal only.

24 And when they went in to offer sacrifices and burnt-offerings, Jehu appointed fourscore men without, and said, If any of the men whom I have brought into your hands escape, he that letteth him go, his life shall be for the life of him.

25 And it came to pass, as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt-offering, that Jehu said to the guard and to the captains, Go in, and slay them; let none come forth. And they smote them with the edge<sup>4</sup> of the sword; and the guard and the captains cast them out, and went to the city<sup>5</sup> of the house of Baal.

26 And they brought forth the images<sup>6</sup> out of the house of Baal, and burned them.

27 And they brake down the image of Baal, and brake down the house of Baal, and made it a draught-house<sup>7</sup> unto this day.

28 Thus Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel.

29 ¶ Howbeit<sup>8</sup> from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin, Jehu departed not from after them,<sup>9</sup> to wit, the golden calves that were in Beth-el, and that were in Dan.

30 And the LORD said unto Jehu, Because thou hast done well in executing that which is right in mine eyes, and hast done unto the house of Ahab according to all that was in mine heart, thy children of the fourth generation shall sit on the throne of Israel.<sup>9</sup>

31 But Jehu took no heed<sup>1</sup> to walk in the law of the LORD God of Israel with all his heart: for he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam, which made Israel to sin.<sup>2</sup>

Jehoiada may have first discovered the infant, still alive among the bodies of the slain; but the high-priest must at once have been made acquainted with the discovery, and must have advised the placing of the child in his own apartments in the temple. Jehoiada was evidently a man distinguished for sagacity, courage, and faithfulness to God. He was thus qualified for taking a leading part in the affairs of the kingdom in a time of great danger. ## CHAPTER XI.

1 Jehoash, being saved by Jehosheba his aunt from Athaliah's massacre of the seed royal of Judah, is hid six years in the house of God.
4 Jehoiada, giving order to the captains, in the seventh year anointeth him king. 13 Athaliah is slain. 17 Jehoiada restoreth the worship of God.

AND when Athaliah,<sup>1</sup> the mother of Ahaziah, saw that her son was dead, she arose, and destroyed all the seed royal.<sup>2</sup>

2 But Jehosheba, the daughter of king Joram, sister of Ahaziah, took Joash the son of Ahaziah, and stole him from among the king's sons which were slain; and they hid<sup>3</sup> him, even him and his nurse, in the bed-chamber from Athaliah, so that he was not slain.

3 And he was with her hid in the house of the LORD six years: and Athaliah<sup>4</sup> did reign over the land.<sup>5</sup>

4 ¶ And the seventh year<sup>6</sup> Jehoiada sent and fetched the rulers over hundreds, with the captains and the guard, and brought them to him into the house of the LORD, and made a covenant with them, and took an oath of them in the house of the LORD, and showed them the king's son.

5 And he commanded them, saying, This is the thing that ye shall do; A third part<sup>7</sup> of you that enter in on the sabbath shall even be keepers of the watch of the king's house;

6 And a third part shall be at the gate of Sur; and a third part at the gate behind the guard:<sup>7</sup> so shall ye keep the watch of the house, that it be not broken down.<sup>8</sup>

7 And two parts<sup>1</sup> of all you that go forth on the sabbath, even they shall keep the watch of the house of the LORD about the king.<sup>2</sup>

8 And ye shall compass the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand; and he that cometh within the ranges,<sup>3</sup> let him be slain: and be ye with the king as he goeth out, and as he cometh in.

9 And the captains over the hundreds did according to all things that Jehoiada the priest commanded: and they took every man his men that were to come in on the sabbath with them

11 And the guard stood, every man with his weapons in his hand, round about the king, from the right corner<sup>4</sup> of the temple<sup>5</sup> to the left corner of the temple, along by the <sup>a</sup>altar and the temple.

12 And he brought forth <sup>o</sup>the king's son, and put the crown upon him, and gave him the <sup>p</sup>testimony;<sup>6</sup> and <sup>q</sup>they made him king, and anointed<sup>7</sup> him; and <sup>r</sup>they clapped their hands, and said, <sup>s</sup>God save the king.

13 ¶ And <sup>t</sup>when Athaliah heard the noise of the guard and of the people, she came to the people into the temple of the LORD.

14 And when she looked, behold, the king stood by a <sup>u</sup>pillar,<sup>7</sup> as the manner was, and the princes and the trumpeters by the king; and all<sup>8</sup> the people of the land rejoiced, and blew with trumpets: and Athaliah rent her clothes, and cried, <sup>v</sup>Treason, Treason!

15 But Jehoiada the priest commanded the captains<sup>9</sup> of the hundreds, the officers of the host, and said unto them, Have her forth without the ranges; and him that <sup>w</sup>followeth her kill with the sword. For the priest had said, Let her not be slain in the house of the LORD.<sup>8</sup>

16 And they laid hands on her: and she went by the way by the which the horses came into the king's house; and there<sup>9</sup> was she slain.

17 ¶ And Jehoiada <sup>x</sup>made a covenant between the LORD and the king and the people, that they should be the LORD's people; between the<sup>a</sup> king also and the people.<sup>9</sup>

18 And all the people of the land <sup>y</sup>went into the house of Baal, and brake it down; his altars and his images brake they in pieces thoroughly, and slew Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars: and the priest appointed officers<sup>1</sup> over the house of the LORD.<sup>2</sup>

19 And he took the rulers over hundreds, and the captains, and the guard, and all the people of the land; and they brought down the king from the house of the LORD, and came by the way of the <sup>z</sup>gate of the guard to the king's house: and he sat on the throne of the kings.

20 And all the people of the land <sup>aa</sup>rejoiced, and the city was in quiet: and they slew Athaliah with the sword beside the king's house.

CHAPTER XII.

1 Jehoash reigneth well all the days of Jehoiada. 4 He giveth order for the repair of the temple. 17 Hazael is diverted from his design against Jerusalem by a present of the hallowed treasures. 19 Jehoash being slain by his servants, Amaziah succeedeth him.

IN the<sup>a</sup> seventh year of Jehu Jehoash began to reign; and forty years reigned he in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Zibiah of Beer-sheba.

2 And Jehoash did that which was <sup>r</sup>right in the sight of the LORD all his days wherein Jehoiada the priest instructed him.

3 But <sup>t</sup>the high places were not taken <sup>u</sup>away; the people still sacrificed and burnt incense in the high places.

5 Let the <sup>z</sup>priests take it to them, every man of his acquaintance: and let them repair the breaches of the house, wheresoever any breach shall be found.

6 But it was so, that, in the three and twentieth year of king Jehoash, the priests had not repaired the breaches of the house.

7 Then king Jehoash called for Jehoiada the priest, and the other priests, and said unto them, Why repair ye not the breaches of the <sup>5</sup>house? Now therefore <sup>6</sup>receive no more money of your acquaintance, but deliver it for the breaches of the house.

8 And the priests <sup>7</sup>consented to receive no more money of the people, neither to repair the breaches of the house.<sup>6</sup>

9 But Jehoiada the priest <sup>8</sup>took a chest, and bored a hole in the lid of it, and set it beside the <sup>a</sup>altar, on the right side as one cometh into the house of the LORD: and the priests that kept the <sup>b</sup>door put therein all the money that was brought into the house of the LORD.

10 And it was so, when they saw that there was much money in the chest, that the king's <sup>c</sup>scribe and the high priest came up, and they put up<sup>7</sup> in bags,<sup>8</sup> and told the money that was found in the house of the LORD.

11 And they <sup>d</sup>gave the money, being told, into the hands of them that did the work, that had the oversight of the house of the LORD: and they laid it out<sup>9</sup> to the carpenters and builders that wrought upon the house of the LORD, 12 And to masons, and hewers of stone, and to buy timber and hewed stone to repair the breaches of the house of the LORD, and for all that was laid out<sup>1</sup> for the house to repair it.

13 Howbeit there were not made for the house of the LORD bowls<sup>2</sup> of silver, snuffers, basons, trumpets, any vessels of gold, or vessels of silver, of the money that was brought into the house of the LORD:<sup>3</sup>

14 But they gave that to the workmen, and repaired therewith the house of the LORD.

15 Moreover, they reckoned not with the men into whose hand they delivered the money to be bestowed on workmen; for they dealt faithfully.<sup>4</sup>

16 The trespass-money and sin-money was not brought into the house of the LORD: it was the priests'.

17 ¶ Then<sup>5</sup> Hazael king of Syria went up and fought against Gath,<sup>6</sup> and took it: and Hazael set his face to go up to Jerusalem.

18 And Jehoash king of Judah took all the hallowed things that Jehoshaphat, and Jehoram, and Ahaziah, his fathers, kings of Judah, had dedicated, and his own hallowed things,<sup>7</sup> and all the gold that was found in the treasures of the house of the LORD, and in the king's house, and sent it to Hazael king of Syria: and he went away<sup>8</sup> from Jerusalem.

19 ¶ And<sup>a</sup> the rest of the acts of Joash, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20 And his servants arose, and made a conspiracy,<sup>9</sup> and slew Joash<sup>1</sup> in the house of Millo, which goeth down to Silla.

21 For Jozachar the son of Shimeath, and Jehoabad the son of Shomer, his servants, smote him, and he died; and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David:<sup>2</sup> and Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

the son of Jehu began to reign over Israel in Samaria, and reigned seventeen years.<sup>1</sup>

2 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, and followed<sup>2</sup> the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which made Israel to sin; he departed not therefrom.

3 ¶ And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel; and he delivered them into the hand of Hazael king of Syria, and into the hand of Ben-hadad the son of Hazael, all their days.

4 And Jehoahaz besought the LORD,<sup>3</sup> and the LORD hearkened unto him:<sup>4</sup> for he saw the oppression of Israel, because the king of Syria oppressed them.

5 (And the LORD gave Israel a saviour, so that they went out from under the hand of the Syrians:<sup>5</sup> and the children of Israel dwelt in their tents,<sup>6</sup> as beforetime.<sup>7</sup>

6 Nevertheless they departed not from the sins of the house of Jeroboam, who made Israel sin, but walked<sup>8</sup> therein: and there remained the grove also in Samaria.)

7 Neither did he leave of the people to Jehoahaz but fifty horsemen, and ten chariots, and ten thousand footmen; for the king of Syria had destroyed them, and had made them like the dust by thrashing.

8 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoahaz, and all that he did, and his might, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

9 And Jehoahaz slept with his fathers; and they buried him in Samaria: and Joash his son reigned<sup>1</sup> in his stead.

10 ¶ In the thirty and seventh year of Joash king of Judah began<sup>2</sup> Jehoash the son of Jehoahaz to reign over Israel in Samaria, and reigned sixteen years.

11 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD; he departed not from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel sin, but he walked therein.

12 And the rest of the acts of Joash,<sup>4</sup> and all that he did, and his might wherewith he fought against Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

13 And Joash slept with his fathers;<sup>5</sup> and Jeroboam sat upon his throne: and Joash was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel.

14 ¶ Now Elisha was fallen sick of his sickness whereof he died. And Joash the king of Israel came down unto him, and wept over his face, and said, 'O my father, my father! the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof.'

15 And Elisha said unto him, Take bow and arrows. And he took unto him bow and arrows.

16 And he said to the king of Israel, Put thine hand<sup>7</sup> upon the bow. And he put his hand upon it: and Elisha put his hands upon the king's hands.

17 And he said, Open the window eastward:<sup>8</sup> and he opened it. Then Elisha said, Shoot:<sup>9</sup> and he shot. And he said, 'The arrow of the LORD's deliverance, and the arrow of deliverance from Syria: for thou shalt smite the Syrians in 'Aphek, till thou have consumed them.'

18 And he said, Take the arrows: and he took them. And he said unto the king of Israel, Smite<sup>7</sup> upon the ground: and he smote thrice, and stayed.

19 And the man of God was wroth<sup>1</sup> with him, and said, Thou shouldest have smitten five or six times; then hadst thou smitten Syria till thou hadst consumed it: whereas now thou shalt smite Syria but thrice.

20 ¶ And Elisha<sup>2</sup> died,<sup>3</sup> and they buried him. And the bands of the Moabites invaded the land at the coming in of the year.

21 And it came to pass, as they were burying a man,<sup>4</sup> that, behold, they spied a band<sup>5</sup> of men; and they cast the man into the sepulchre of Elisha: and when the man was let down,<sup>6</sup> and touched the bones of Elisha, he revived,<sup>7</sup> and stood up on his feet.<sup>8</sup>

22 ¶ But Hazael king of Syria oppressed Israel all the days of Jehoahaz.

23 And the LORD was gracious unto them, and had compassion on them, and had respect unto them, because of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob,<sup>9</sup> and would not destroy them, neither cast he them from his presence<sup>1</sup> as yet.

24 So Hazael king of Syria died; and Benhadad his son reigned in his stead.<sup>2</sup>

CHAPTER XIV.

1 Amaziah's good reign. 5 His justice on the murderers of his father. 7 His victory over Edom. 8 Amaziah, provoking Jehoash, is overcome and spoiled. 15 Jeroboam succeedeth Jehoash. 17 Amaziah is slain by a conspiracy. 21 Azariah succeedeth him. 23 Jeroboam's wicked reign. 28 Zachariah succeedeth him.

IN the second year of Joash<sup>1</sup> son of Jehoahaz king of Israel reigned Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah.

2 He was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and reigned twenty and nine years in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

3 And he did that which was bright<sup>2</sup> in the sight of the LORD, yet not like David his father: he did according to all things as Joash his father did.<sup>3</sup>

4 Howbeit the high places were not taken away: as yet the people did sacrifice and burnt incense on the high places.

5 ¶ And it came to pass, as soon as the kingdom was confirmed in his hand, that he slew<sup>4</sup> his servants which had slain the king his father.

6 But the children<sup>5</sup> of the murderers he slew not: according unto that which is written in the book of the law of Moses, wherein the LORD commanded, saying, 'The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, nor the children be put to death for the fathers; but every man shall be put to death for his own sin.'

7 ¶ He slew of Edom in the valley of Salt ten thousand, and took Selah<sup>7</sup> by war,<sup>8</sup> and called the name of it Joktheel unto this day.<sup>9</sup>

8 ¶ Then Amaziah sent messengers to Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, Come, let us look one another in the face.<sup>1</sup>

9 And Jehoash the king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, 'The thistle that was in Lebanon sent to the cedar that was church. And even a prospect of victory over one enemy is attended with trouble from another. But what blessings are good men, by their former examples, instructions, and prayers, even after they are dead! And quickly is the fate of the most powerful and conquering nations reversed when God pleases.—But does not this Elisha, present before us, a figure of the great of gospel truths, ordinances, and influences break forth in the wilderness for perishing sinners; and the barren Gentile world he makes a joyful mother of Christians, and these fruitful in good works. To destitute souls and churches he multiplies their oil of grace, till there be no more room to receive it. By his word he often quickened the dead: and many such his death discharged deliver them. Those ministers who preach for filthy lucre, or who, by error and falsehood, wound his honour, shall infamously perish in their sin. They who attend his ordinances with malignant intentions, shall be smitten with spiritual blindness and delusion. They who discredit his word, or despise his promised fulness, shall see it with their eyes, but never share of in Lebanon, saying, Give thy daughter to my son to wife: and there passed by a wild beast that was in Lebanon, and trode down the thistle.

10 Thou hast indeed smitten Edom, and thine heart hath lifted thee up: glory of this, and tarry at home;<sup>1</sup> for why shouldest thou meddle<sup>2</sup> to thy hurt, that thou shouldest fall, even thou, and Judah with thee?

11 But Amaziah would not hear: therefore Jehoash king of Israel went up;<sup>2</sup> and he and Amaziah king of Judah looked one another in the face at Beth-shemesh,<sup>3</sup> which belongeth to Judah.

12 And Judah was put to the worse before Israel, and they fled every man to their tents.

13 And Jehoash king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah,<sup>4</sup> the son of Jehoash, the son of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh; and came to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, from the gate of Ephraim unto the corner-gate, four hundred cubits.

14 And he took all the gold and silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the king's house, and hostages,<sup>5</sup> and returned to Samaria.

15 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoash which he did, and his might, and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

16 And Jehoash slept with his fathers,<sup>6</sup> and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel; and Jeroboam<sup>7</sup> his son reigned in his stead.

17 ¶ And Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah lived after the death of Jehoash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel fifteen years.

18 And the rest of the acts of Amaziah, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

19 Now they made a conspiracy<sup>8</sup> against him in Jerusalem; and he fled to Lachish:<sup>9</sup> but they sent after him to Lachish, and slew him there.

20 And they brought him on horses: and he was buried at Jerusalem with his fathers in the city of David.

21 ¶ And all the people of Judah took Azariah,<sup>1</sup> which was sixteen years old, and made him king instead of his father Amaziah.

22 He built Elath,<sup>2</sup> and restored it to Judah, after that the king slept with his fathers.

24 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD: he departed not from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

25 He restored the coast of Israel, from the entering of Hamath unto the sea of the plain, according to the word of the LORD God of Israel, which he spake by the hand of his servant Jonah, the son of Amittai, the prophet, which was of Gath-hepher.

26 For the LORD saw the affliction of Israel, that it was very bitter: for there was not any shut up, nor any left,<sup>6</sup> nor any helper for Israel.

27 And the LORD said not that he would blot out the name of Israel from under heaven: but he saved them by the hand of Jeroboam the son of Joash.<sup>7</sup>

28 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jeroboam, and all that he did, and his might, how he warred, and how he recovered Damascus, and Hamath, which belonged to Judah, for Israel, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel?

29 And Jeroboam slept with his fathers, even with the kings of Israel; and Zachariah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAPTER XV.

1 Azariah's good reign. 5 He dying a leper Jotham succeedeth.

8 Zachariah, the last of Jehu's generation, reigning ill, is slain by Shallum. 13 Shallum, reigning a month, is slain by Menahem.

16 Menahem strengtheneth himself by Pul. 21 Pekahiah succeedeth him. 23 Pekahiah is slain by Pekah. 27 Pekah is oppressed by Tiglath-pileser, and slain by Hoshea. 32 Jotham's good reign. 36 Ahaz succeedeth him.

IN the twenty and seventh year<sup>1</sup> of Jeroboam king of Israel began Azariah<sup>2</sup> son of Amaziah king of Judah to reign.

2 Sixteen<sup>3</sup> years old was he when he began to reign; and he reigned two and fifty years in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Jecholiah of Jerusalem.

3 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father Amaziah had done;<sup>3</sup>

4 Save that the high places were not removed: the people sacrificed and burnt incense still on the high places.

5 ¶ And the LORD smote<sup>4</sup> the king,<sup>5</sup> so that he was a leper unto the day of his death, and dwelt in a several house:<sup>6</sup> and Jotham the king's son was over the house, judging the people of the land.

6 And the rest of the acts of Azariah, and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David: and Jotham his son reigned in his stead.

8 ¶ In the <sup>thirty</sup> and eighth year<sup>s</sup> of Azariah king of Judah did Zachariah the son of Jeroboam reign over Israel in Samaria six months.

9 And he <sup>did that which was</sup> evil in the sight of the LORD, as his fathers had done: he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

10 And Shallum the son of Jabesh conspired<sup>9</sup> against him, and <sup>smote</sup> him before the people,<sup>1</sup> and slew him, and reigned in his stead.

11 And the rest of the acts of Zachariah, behold, they are written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel.

12 This was <sup>the</sup> word of the LORD which he spake unto Jehu, saying, Thy sons shall sit on the throne of Israel unto the fourth *genera-*tion. And so it came to pass.

13 ¶ Shallum the son of Jabesh began to reign in the nine and thirtieth year of Uzziah king of Judah; and he reigned <sup>a full</sup> month<sup>s</sup> in Samaria.

14 For Menahem the son of Gadi went up from <sup>Tirzah</sup>, and came to <sup>Samaria</sup>, and smote Shallum the son of Jabesh in Samaria, and slew him, and reigned in his stead.

15 And the rest of the acts of Shallum, and his conspiracy which he made, behold, they are written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Israel.

16 ¶ Then Menahem smote Tiphseh, and all that were therein, and the coasts thereof from Tirzah:<sup>4</sup> because they <sup>opened not to him</sup>, therefore he smote it; and all the women therein that were with child he <sup>ripped</sup> up.

17 ¶ In the nine and thirtieth year<sup>s</sup> of Azariah king of Judah began Menahem the son of Gadi to reign over Israel, and reigned ten years in Samaria.<sup>6</sup>

18 And <sup>he did that which was</sup> evil in the sight of the LORD: he departed not all his days from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

20 And Menahem exacted<sup>1</sup> the money of Israel, even of all the mighty men of wealth of

CHURCH OF ST. JOHN, SAMARIA—WHERE THE KINGS OF ISRAEL ARE BURIED. [II. Kings, xv:17.]—"In the nine and thirtieth year of Azariah king of Judah began Menahem the son of Gadi to reign over Israel, and reigned ten years in Samaria." Samaria was a hill and city in Ephraim. It was the capital of the Ten Tribes of Israel, 42 miles north of Jerusalem. It was built 925 B. C. by Omri, the sixth king of Israel. Its inhabitants were carried away to Assyria by Shalmanezar in 720 B. C., and their place was supplied by persons from Babylon who brought their gods with them. It is six miles northwest of Shechem and nineteen miles east of the Mediterranean. Omri, Ahab, Ahaziah, Jehu, Jehoahaz, Joash, and some of the other kings of Israel were buried in Samaria. Elijah the prophet lived here. The Church of Saint John was erected during the crusades between 1150 and 1180, over the traditional grave of John the Baptist.

35 Howbeit<sup>a</sup> the high places were not removed: the people sacrificed and burnt incense still in the high places. He built the higher gate of the house of the LORD.

36 ¶ Now<sup>f</sup> the rest of the acts of Jotham, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

37 (In those days<sup>g</sup> the LORD began to send<sup>h</sup> against Judah Rezin the king of Syria, and Pekah the son of Remaliah.)

38 And Jotham slept with his fathers,<sup>8</sup> and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Ahaz his son reigned in his stead.

CHAPTER XVI.

IN the seventeenth year of Pekah the son of Remaliah, Ahaz the son of Jotham king of Judah began to reign.

2 Twenty<sup>a</sup> years old was Ahaz<sup>1</sup> when he began to reign, and reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem, and did not that which was right in the sight of the LORD his God, like David his father.

3 But he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, yea, and made his son to pass through the fire,<sup>2</sup> according to the abominations of the heathen, whom the LORD cast out from before the children of Israel.

4 And he sacrificed and burnt incense in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree.<sup>3</sup>

5 ¶ Then<sup>b</sup> Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel, came up to Jerusalem to war: and they besieged Ahaz, but could not overcome him.

6 At that time Rezin king of Syria recovered Elath<sup>c</sup> to Syria, and drove the Jews<sup>d</sup> from Elath: and the Syrians came to Elath, and dwelt there unto this day.<sup>5</sup>

7 ¶ So Ahaz sent messengers to Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, saying, I am thy servant and thy son: come up, and save me out of the hand of the king of Syria, and out of the hand of the king of Israel, which rise up against me.

8 And Ahaz took the silver and gold that was found in the house of the LORD, and in the

Instead of Syrians, in the second clause of this verse, the marginal Masoretic reading has Edomites, which is also found in many MSS., and in the Sept. and Vulg. That this is the correct reading can scarcely be doubted, and in that case we must follow Le Clerc and Houbigant in reading in the first clause Edomites, instead of Syrians. Though there is no critical evidence for this, historical fact seems to require it, for Elath had never belonged to Syria.—I.

7 Ahaz had little cause to congratulate himself. In his policy, the result of which, in reference to Judah, was similar to the result of the protection afforded to the Britons by the Saxons. Instead of two petty princes whom he had before for his neighbours, and with either of whom he was able to cope, he had now for his neighbour this

10 ¶ And king Ahaz went to Damascus<sup>h</sup> to meet Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, and saw an altar<sup>i</sup> that was at Damascus: and king Ahaz sent to Urijah the priest the fashion of the altar, and the pattern of it, according to all the workmanship thereof.

12 And when the king was come from Damascus, the king saw the altar: and the king approached to the altar, and offered thereon.

13 And he burnt his burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and poured his drink-offering, and sprinkled the blood of his<sup>1</sup> peace-offerings, upon the altar.

14 And he brought also the brazen altar, which was before the LORD, from the forefront of the house, from between the altar and the house of the LORD, and put it on the north<sup>2</sup> side of the altar.<sup>3</sup>

15 And king Ahaz commanded Urijah the priest, saying, Upon the great altar burn the morning burnt-offering, and the evening meat-offering, and the king's burnt-sacrifice, and his meat-offering, with the burnt-offering of all the people of the land, and their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings; and sprinkle upon it all the blood of the burnt-offering, and all the blood of the sacrifice: and the brazen altar shall be for me to inquire by.<sup>4</sup>

16 Thus did Urijah the priest, according to all that king Ahaz commanded.

17 ¶ And king Ahaz cut off the borders of the bases, and removed the laver from off them; and took down the sea from off the brazen oxen that were under it, and put it upon a pavement of stones:

CHAPTER XVII.

1 Hoshea's wicked reign. 3 Being subdued by Salmanser, he converted with Sargon king of Assyria. 5 Samaria for their sins

CHURCH OF ST. JOHN, SAMARIA—WHERE HOSHEA REIGNED OVER ISRAEL NINE YEARS. [II. Kings, xvii:1.]—"In the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah began Hoshea the son of Elah to reign in Samaria over Israel nine years. And he did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord." We learn from I. Kings, xvi:23, 24, that the hill upon which Samaria was situated, was bought from Shemer by King Omri. Before the purchase of the hill by Omri, Tirzah had been the capital of Israel and before Tirzah, Shechem had been the capital. Jeroboam transferred his royal residence to Tirzah, as we learn from Solomon's Song, vi:4, and I. Kings, xiv:17, and because of the fertility of the soil about Samaria, Omri was led to purchase it. The Church of Saint John was erected between the years 1150 and 1180, over the traditional grave of Saint John the Baptist. It is now a complete ruin, and was, when this picture was taken, being torn down to make room for a mosque.

22 For the children of Israel walked in all the sins of Jeroboam which he did; they departed not from them;

23 Until the LORD removed Israel out of his sight, as he had said by all his servants the prophets. So was Israel carried away out of their own land to Assyria unto this day.

24 ¶ And the king of Assyria brought<sup>7</sup> men from<sup>9</sup> Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Ava, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of<sup>8</sup> the children of Israel; and they possessed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof.

25 And so it was, at the beginning of their dwelling there, that they feared not the LORD: therefore the LORD sent lions<sup>8</sup> among them, which slew some of them.<sup>9</sup>

26 Wherefore they spake to the king of Assyria, saying, The nations which thou hast removed, and placed in the cities of Samaria, know not the manner of the God of the land: therefore he hath sent lions among them, and, behold, they slay them; because they know not the manner of the God of the land.

27 Then the king of Assyria commanded, saying, Carry thither one of the priests whom ye brought from thence; and let them go and dwell there, and let him teach them the manner of the God of the land.<sup>1</sup>

28 Then one of the priests, whom they had carried away from Samaria, came and dwelt in Beth-el,<sup>10</sup> and taught them how they should fear the LORD.

29 Howbeit every nation made gods of their own, and put them in the houses of the high places which the Samaritans had made, every nation in their cities wherein they dwelt.

30 And the men of Babylon made Succoth-benoth,<sup>2</sup> and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath made Ashima,<sup>3</sup>

31 And the Avites made Nibhaz and Tartak, and the Sepharvites burnt their children in fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech,<sup>4</sup> the gods of Sepharvaim.

32 So they feared the LORD,<sup>5</sup> and made unto themselves of the lowest of them priests of the high places, which sacrificed for them in the houses of the high places.

33 They feared the LORD, and served their

1 Ahaz is said, ch.
16. 2, to have lived
36, and if Hezekiah ascends the throne at 25, he must have been born when his father was but 11 years of age. Calculating, however, that Ahaz was 20 complete, and nearly 21 when he came to the throne, and that though he reigned but 20 complete, he had reigned nearly 21 years, then Ahaz might be 13 years complete at the birth of Hezekiah, an age of which the early marriages of the East remove the difficulty.—C.

own gods, after the manner of the nations whom they carried away from thence.<sup>6</sup>

34 Unto this day they do after the former manners: they fear not the LORD, neither do they after their statutes, or after their ordinances, or after the law and commandment which the LORD commanded the children of Jacob, whom he named Israel;

35 With whom the LORD had made a covenant, and charged them, saying, Ye shall not fear other gods, nor bow yourselves to them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them:

36 But the LORD, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt with great power, and a stretched-out arm, him shall ye fear, and him shall ye worship, and to him shall ye do sacrifice.

37 And the statutes, and the ordinances, and the law, and the commandment, which he wrote for you, ye shall observe to do for evermore; and ye shall not fear other gods.

38 And the covenant that I have made with you ye shall not forget; neither shall ye fear other gods.

39 But the LORD your God ye shall fear; and he shall deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies.

40 Howbeit they did not hearken, but they did after their former manner.

41 So these nations feared the LORD,<sup>7</sup> and served their graven images, both their children, and their children's children: as did their fathers, so do they unto this day.<sup>8</sup>

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 Hezekiah's good reign. 4 He abolisheth idolatry, and prospereth. 9 Samaria is carried captive for their sins. 13 Sennacherib invading Judah is pacified by a tribute. 17 Rabshakeh, sent by Sennacherib again, revileth Hezekiah, and by blasphemous persuasions soliciteth the people to revolt.

NOW it came to pass in the third year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel, that Hezekiah the son of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign.

2 Twenty and five years old<sup>1</sup> was he when he began to reign; and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jerusalem: his mother's name also was Abi, the daughter of Zachariah.<sup>2</sup>

3 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that David his father did.

4 ¶ He removed the high places, and brake

the images,* and cut down the groves, and brake in pieces the <sup>a</sup>brazen serpent that Moses had made: for unto those days the children of Israel did burn incense to it: and he called it Nehushtan.<sup>4</sup>

5 He <sup>a</sup>trusted in the LORD God of Israel; so that after him was <sup>a</sup>none like him among all the kings of Judah. nor any that were before him.

6 For he <sup>a</sup>clave to the LORD, and departed not from following him,<sup>5</sup> but kept his commandments, which the LORD commanded Moses.

7 And the LORD was <sup>a</sup>with him; and he prospered whithersoever he went forth: and he rebelled<sup>1</sup> against the king of Assyria,<sup>6</sup> and served him not.

8 He <sup>a</sup>smote the Philistines, even unto Gaza,<sup>7</sup> and the borders thereof, <sup>a</sup>from the tower of the watchmen to the fenced city.<sup>8</sup>

9 ¶ And <sup>a</sup>it came to pass in the fourth year<sup>9</sup> of king Hezekiah, which was the seventh year of Hoshea son of Elah king of Israel, that Shalmaneser king of Assyria came up against Samaria, and besieged it.

10 And at the <sup>a</sup>end of three years they took it; even in the sixth year of Hezekiah, (that is, the ninth year of Hoshea king of Israel,) Samaria was taken.

11 And the king of Assyria did carry away Israel unto Assyria, and <sup>a</sup>put them in Halah and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes;

12 Because<sup>2</sup> they obeyed not the voice of the LORD their God, but transgressed his covenant, and all that Moses the servant of the LORD commanded, and would not hear them, nor do them.<sup>1</sup>

13 ¶ Now <sup>a</sup>in the fourteenth year of king Hezekiah did Sennacherib<sup>2</sup> king of Assyria come<sup>3</sup> up against all the fenced cities of Judah, and took them.<sup>4</sup>

14 And Hezekiah king of Judah sent to the king of Assyria to Lachish, saying, <sup>a</sup>I have offended; return from me: that which thou puttest on me will I bear. And the king of Assyria appointed unto Hezekiah king of Judah three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold.<sup>5</sup>

15 And Hezekiah <sup>a</sup>gave him all the silver that was found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of the king's house.

confirmation of this narrative has recently been discovered on one of the historical tablets of Nineveh.

The tablet records

the expedition of Sennacherib

in his own words as follows:—(Because

Hezekiah king of Judah would not sub-came up against him, and carried off as

And Hezekiah himself I shut up in Jeruon this Hezekiah

there fell the fear of the figure is taken

Heretofore

Rabshakeh inciteth the people to revolt.

a loud voice in the Jews' language, and spake, saying, Hear the word of the great king, the king of Assyria:

29 Thus saith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you; for he shall not be able to deliver you out of his hand:

30 Neither let Hezekiah make you trust in the LORD, saying, The LORD will surely deliver us, and this city shall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Assyria.

31 Hearken not unto Hezekiah: for thus saith the king of Assyria, 'Make an agreement with me by a present, and come out to me, and then eat ye every man of his own vine, and every one of his fig-tree, and drink ye every one the waters of his cistern;'

32 Until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, 'a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of oil-olive and of honey, that ye may live, and not die: and hearken not unto Hezekiah, when he persuadeth you, saying, The LORD will deliver us.

33 Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered at all his land out of the hand of the king of Assyria?

34 Where are the gods of Hamath, and of Arpad? where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivah? have they delivered Samaria out of mine hand?

35 Who are they among all the gods of the countries that have delivered their country out of mine hand, that the LORD should deliver Jerusalem out of mine hand?

36 But the people held their peace, and answered him not a word: for the king's commandment was, saying, Answer him not.

37 Then came Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, which was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah the son of Asaph the recorder, to Hezekiah, with their clothes rent, and told him the words of Rab-shakeh.

q Hamath on the Orontes still bears the same name; it was on the northern border of Israel. Arpad is always spoken of along with Hamath, it probably adjoined it on the east beyond the Orontes. According to the probable conjecture of Busching, Hena is the town which is still called by the Arabs Anah. It lies on both sides of the Euphrates, amid rich gardens.—C.

r This was one of the places whence Salmatasar sent a colony into Israel, ch. 17. 24. That it was a small state under its own king appears from ch. 19. 13. We include it in Mesopotamia, because it is mentioned along with other places of that province; and Ptolemy speaks of a town of a similar name, Siphara, as the southernmost city of Mesopotamia. Below it the Euphrates divided into two branches, one going to Seleucia, the other to Babylon. Each probably the same as Ava, ch. 17. 24. Michael places it between Berytus and Tripoli.—C.

Isaiah comforteth Hezekiah's messengers.

3 And they said unto him, Thus saith Hezekiah, This day is a day of trouble, and of rebuke, and blasphemy: for the children are come to the birth, and there is not strength to bring forth.

4 It may be the LORD thy God will hear all the words of Rab-shakeh, whom the king of Assyria his master hath sent to reproach the living God; and will reprove the words which the LORD thy God hath heard: wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant that are left.

5 So the servants of king Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

6 ¶ And Isaiah said unto them, Thus shall ye say to your master, Thus saith the LORD, 'Be not afraid of the words which thou hast heard, with which the servants of the king of Assyria have blasphemed me.

7 Behold, I will send a blast upon him, and he shall hear a rumour, and shall return to his own land; and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.

8 ¶ So Rab-shakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Tirhakah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachish.

9 And when he heard say of Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, Behold, he is come out to fight against thee; he sent messengers again unto Hezekiah, saying,

10 Thus shall ye speak to Hezekiah king of Judah, saying, Let not thy God in whom thou trustest deceive thee, saying, Jerusalem shall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Assyria.

11 Behold, thou hast heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands, by destroying them utterly; and shalt thou be delivered?

12 Have the gods of the nations delivered them which my fathers have destroyed; as Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden which were in Thelasar?

13 Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, of Hena, and Ivah?

14 ¶ And Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the messengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up into the house of the LORD, and spread it before the LORD.

15 And Hezekiah prayed before the LORD, and said, O LORD God of Israel, which dwellest between the cherubims, thou art the God, even open, LORD, thine eyes, and see; and hear the words of Sennacherib, which hath sent him to reproach the living God.

17 Of a truth, LORD, the kings of Assyria have <sup>a</sup>destroyed the nations and their lands;

18 And have cast their gods into the fire: for they <sup>b</sup>were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone: therefore they have destroyed them.

19 Now therefore, O LORD our God, I beseech thee, save thou us out of his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou <sup>c</sup>art the LORD God, even thou only.

20 ¶ Then Isaiah the son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, <sup>d</sup>Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, That which thou hast prayed to me against Sennacherib<sup>e</sup> king of Assyria I have heard.

21 This is the word that the LORD hath spoken concerning him; <sup>f</sup>The virgin, the daughter of Zion, hath despised thee, and laughed thee to scorn; the daughter of Jerusalem hath shaken her head at thee.

22 Whom <sup>g</sup>hast thou reproached and blasphemed? and against whom hast thou exalted thy voice, and lifted up thine eyes on high? even against <sup>h</sup>the Holy One of Israel.

23 By thy messengers thou hast reproached the LORD, and hast said, <sup>i</sup>With the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the height of the mountains, to the sides of Lebanon, and will cut down the tall cedar-trees thereof, and the choice fir-trees thereof;<sup>j</sup> and I will enter into the lodgings of his borders, and into <sup>k</sup>the forest of his Carmel.

24 I have digged and drunk strange waters, and with the sole of my feet have I dried up all the rivers of besieged<sup>l</sup> places.

25 Hast thou not heard long ago <sup>m</sup>how I have done it, and of ancient times that I have formed it? now have I brought it to pass, that thou shouldest be to lay waste fenced cities into ruinous heaps.<sup>n</sup>

26 Therefore their inhabitants were of <sup>o</sup>small power, they were dismayed and confounded; they were as the grass of the field, and as the green herb, as the grass on the house-tops, and as corn blasted before it be grown up.

27 But <sup>p</sup>I know thy abode, and thy going out, and thy coming in, and thy rage against me.

e The Old Testament authorizes prayer against an enemy: the New Testament commands us to pray for him. Are these contradictory? are they of different spirits? Is the New Testament a new law? By no means. The command that enjoins us to pray for our enemies, requires us to pray for his conversion: the example that authorizes us to pray against him, is not against him personally, but against his wicked designs and plans. We pray for the spiritual welfare of the most wicked enemy, but we pray against the diabolical plots, and plans, and combinations of his subtlety, malice, and cruelty.

Note. To pray for the conversion of a sinner, is to pray with God—to pray for the success of a sinner in his sinful purposes, would be to pray against God.—C.

CHAPTER XX.

1 Hezekiah, having received a message of death, by prayer hath his life lengthened. 8 The sun goeth ten degrees backward for a sign of that promise. 12 Berodach-baladan sending to visit Hezekiah, because of the wonder, hath notice of his treasures. 14 Isaiah understanding thereof foretelleth the Babylonian captivity. 20 Hezekiah dieth: Manasseh succeedeth him.

IN those<sup>a</sup> days was Hezekiah sick unto death; and the prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz came to him, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, <sup>b</sup>Set thine house in order; for <sup>c</sup>thou shalt die, and not live.<sup>d</sup>

2 Then he <sup>e</sup>turned his face to the wall, and prayed unto the LORD, saying,

3 I beseech thee O LORD, <sup>f</sup>remember now

KINGS, xix: 23.]—"By thy messengers thou hast reproached the Lord, and hast said, With the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the height of the mountains, to the sides of Lebanon." Above is an illustration of the southern side of Mt. Hermon, a mountain which belongs to the Lebanon range. We have here a long line of donkeys on their way to Damascus. Upon the backs of these donkeys little villages through this mountain country are supplied with the freight which is brought to them from the cities. This is not far from a village called Mejd el ash-Sheems, where the Druses live.

is good in thy sight. And Hezekiah wept sore.<sup>2</sup>

4 And it came to pass, afore Isaiah was gone out into the middle court,<sup>3</sup> that the word of the LORD came to him, saying,

5 Turn again, and tell Hezekiah the captain of my people, Thus saith the LORD, the God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, I have seen thy tears: behold, I will heal thee:<sup>4</sup> on the third day thou shalt go up unto the house of the LORD.

6 And I will add unto thy days fifteen years;<sup>5</sup> and I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria; and I will defend this city for mine own sake, and for my servant David's sake.

7 And Isaiah said, Take a lump of figs,<sup>6</sup> and they took and laid it on the boil, and he recovered.

8 ¶ And Hezekiah said unto Isaiah, What shall be the sign that the LORD will heal me, and that I shall go up into the house of the LORD the third day?

9 And Isaiah said, This sign shalt thou have of the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing that he hath spoken: shall the shadow go forward ten degrees,<sup>7</sup> or go back ten degrees?

10 And Hezekiah answered, It is a light thing for the shadow to go down ten degrees: nay, but let the shadow return backward ten degrees.

11 And Isaiah the prophet cried unto the LORD; and he brought the shadow ten degrees backward, by which it had gone down in the dial<sup>8</sup> of Ahaz.<sup>9</sup>

12 ¶ At that time Berodach-baladan, the son of Baladan, king of Babylon,<sup>1</sup> sent letters and a present unto Hezekiah: for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick.

13 And Hezekiah hearkened unto them, and showed<sup>2</sup> them all the house of his precious things,<sup>3</sup> the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and all the house of his armour,<sup>4</sup> and all that was found in his treasures: there was nothing in his house, nor in all his dominion, that Hezekiah showed them not.

14 ¶ Then came Isaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and said unto him, What said these men? and from whence came they unto

7 And he set <sup>a</sup>a graven image of the grove<sup>5</sup> that he had made in the house, of which the LORD said to David, and to Solomon his son, In<sup>k</sup> this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, will I put my name for ever:

8 Neither will I make the feet of Israel move <sup>a</sup>any more out of the land which I gave their fathers; <sup>m</sup>only if they will observe to do according to all that I have commanded them, and according to all the law that my servant Moses commanded them.

9 But <sup>n</sup>they hearkened not: and Manasseh seduced<sup>d</sup> them to do more evil than did the nations whom the LORD destroyed before the children of Israel.

10 ¶ And the LORD spake<sup>6</sup> by his servants the prophets, saying,

11 Because<sup>p</sup> Manasseh king of Judah hath done these abominations, and hath done wickedly above all that the Amorites did, which were before him, and hath made Judah also to sin with his idols;

12 Therefore thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Behold, <sup>q</sup>I am bringing such evil upon Jerusalem and Judah, that whosoever heareth of it, both his ears shall tingle.

13 And I will <sup>r</sup>stretch over Jerusalem the line<sup>7</sup> of Samaria, and the plummet<sup>8</sup> of the house of Ahab: and I will wipe Jerusalem, as a man wipeth a dish, wiping it, and turning it upside down.<sup>9</sup>

14 And I will forsake the <sup>s</sup>remnant<sup>1</sup> of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies; and they shall become a prey and a spoil to all their enemies;

15 Because they have done that which was evil in my sight, and have provoked me to anger, <sup>t</sup>since the day their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even unto this day.

16 Moreover, <sup>u</sup>Manasseh shed innocent blood very much,<sup>2</sup> till he had filled Jerusalem from one end to another;<sup>3</sup> besides <sup>v</sup>his sin wherewith he made Judah to sin, in doing that which was evil in the sight of the LORD.<sup>4</sup> during the first part of his reign; but during the latter part he appears to have been a humble penitent, and an accepted and devoted servant of the God he had so long dishonoured. It is a remarkable fact that only the first or wicked part of his reign is recorded in this book; his repentance is not mentioned, and were it not for the account furnished in the book of Chronicles, we should have known nothing of his conversion. This is one among many examples of the necessity of reading Kings and Chronicles in harmony. During the first part of Manasseh's reign there was a more complete and systematic departure from the worship of the true God in Jerusalem than had ever been seen. Every faith was tolerated there except the faith of JEHOVAH. The great altar of burnt-offering was taken away; the ark was removed from the sanctuary, and an idol substituted; the sacred books were destroyed or proscribed; the Sabbath was despised; prophets and priests of God were slain. Never, in fact, had there been such a thorough national apostasy as was seen at this period. An account of the conversion of Manasseh and its happy results is given in 2 Ch. xxxiii. <sup>e</sup> 1 Ki. 22. 45. 50. ch. 15. 6. 7. 36. 38. 20. 21. 2 Ch. 33. 1-20. <sup>f</sup> 2 Ch. 33. 1-20. <sup>g</sup> 2 Ch. 33. 1-20. <sup>h</sup> This mode of burial prevailed amongst the Jews in the time of our Lord. And the king went up into the house of the Lord, and all the men of Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the priests, and the prophets, and all the people both small and great, and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant which was found in the house of the Lord." the LORD, and to keep his 'commandments, and his testimonies, and his statutes, with all their heart, and all their soul, to perform the words of this covenant that were written in this book: and all the people stood to the covenant.

4 ¶ And the king commanded Hilkiah the high priest, and the 'priests of the second order, and the keepers of the door, to bring forth out of the temple of the LORD all the 'vessels that were made for Baal, and for the grove, and for all the host of heaven:<sup>3</sup> and he burnt them without Jerusalem in the fields of Kidron, and carried the ashes of them unto 'Beth-el.

5 And he put down<sup>4</sup> the idolatrous priests, whom the kings of Judah had ordained to burn incense in the high places in the cities of Judah, and in the places round about Jerusalem; them also that burnt incense unto 'Baal, to the sun, and to the moon, and to the planets,<sup>5</sup> and to all the host of heaven.

6 And he brought out the 'grove<sup>6</sup> from the house of the LORD, without Jerusalem, unto the brook Kidron, and burnt it at the brook Kidron, and stamped it small to powder, and cast the powder thereof upon the graves<sup>7</sup> of the children of the people.<sup>8</sup>

7 And he brake down the houses of the sodomites,<sup>9</sup> that were by the house of the LORD, where the women wove 'hangings<sup>9</sup> for the grove.

8 And he brought all the priests out of the cities of Judah, and defiled the high places where the priests had burnt incense, from Geba<sup>1</sup> to Beer-sheba,<sup>1</sup> and brake down the high places of the gates that were in the entering in of the gate of Joshua the governor of the city, which were on a man's left hand at the gate of the city.

9 Nevertheless the 'priests of the high places came not up to the altar of the LORD in Jerusalem, but they did eat of the unleavened bread among their brethren.

10 And he defiled 'Topheth,<sup>2</sup> which is in the valley of the children of Hinnom,<sup>3</sup> that no man might make his son or his daughter to pass through the fire to Molech.

this was to render

13 And the high places that were before Jerusalem, which were on the right hand of the mount of Corruption,<sup>7</sup> which Solomon the king of Israel had builded for Ashtoreth the abomination of the Zidonians, and for Chemosh the abomination of the Moabites, and for Milcom the abomination of the children of Ammon, did the king defile.

14 And he brake in pieces the images, and cut down the groves, and filled their places with the bones of men.

15 ¶ Moreover, the altar that was at Beth-el, and the high place which Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin, had made, both that altar and the high place he brake down, and burnt the high place, and stamped it small to powder, and burnt the grove.

16 And as Josiah turned himself, he spied the sepulchres that were there in the mount, and sent, and took the bones out of the sepulchres, and burnt them upon the altar, and polluted it, according to the word of the LORD which the man of God proclaimed,<sup>1</sup> who proclaimed these words.<sup>2</sup>

25 And like unto him was there no king before him, that turned to the LORD with all his heart, and with all his soul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moses; neither after him arose there any like him.

26 ¶ Notwithstanding the LORD turned not from the fierceness of his great wrath, wherewith his anger was kindled against Judah, because of all the provocations that Manasseh had provoked him withal.

27 And the LORD said, I will remove Judah also out of my sight, as I have removed Israel, and will cast off this city Jerusalem, which I have chosen, and the house of which I said, My name shall be there.

28 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Josiah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

29 ¶ In his days Pharaoh-nechoh king of Egypt went up against the king of Assyria to the river Euphrates: and king Josiah went against him; and he slew him at Megiddo, when he had seen him.

30 And his servants carried him in a chariot dead from Megiddo, and brought him to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own sepulchre: and the people of the land took Jehoahaz the son of Josiah, and anointed him, and made him king in his father's stead.

31 ¶ Jehoahaz was twenty and three years old when he began to reign; and he reigned three months in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

32 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his fathers had done.

33 And Pharaoh-nechoh put him in bands at Riblah, in the land of Hamath, that he might not reign in Jerusalem: and put the 7 Among the good kings recorded in Scripture, David was signified by many excellences, but was also guilty of great errors, and one surpassing crime, never passed over by the recording Spirit of God. So that his real eminence lies in his deep remorse and repentance, through faith in the Redeemer. Hezekiah stands next distinguished above all other kings, by confidence in God—whom yet he partially forgot in the day of his prosperity—and whom threatened judgments were necessary to bring to his remembrance, ch. 20. 13. 15-19. Josiah stands above them all in purity of life, and ardent and untiring zeal for reformation.

5 It is necessary to remark that this king is called by other names, 1 Ch. 3. 16. Je. 22. 24. Mat. 1. 21. But nothing is more common in all ages than for the same person to be called by different names. Napoleon and Bonaparte is the most striking modern example—that conquering scourge of the nations being indiscriminately called by the one or the other title.—C.

m This is not contradicted by Je. 35. 30, for Jehoiakim had not to sit upon the throne of David, Jehoiachin having scarcely ascended till he is cast away from the royal seat which Nebuchadnezzar did not permit him to occupy.—C.

34 And Pharaoh-nechoh made Eliakim the son of Josiah king in the room of Josiah his father, and turned his name to Jehoiakim, and took Jehoahaz away: and he came to Egypt, and died there.

35 ¶ And Jehoiakim gave the silver and the gold to Pharaoh; but he taxed the land to give the money, according to the commandment of Pharaoh: he exacted the silver and the gold of the people of the land, of every one according to his taxation, to give it unto Pharaoh-nechoh.

36 ¶ Jehoiakim was twenty and five years old when he began to reign; and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Zebudah, the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah.

37 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his fathers had done.

CHAPTER XXIV.

1 Jehoiakim, first submitting to Nebuchadnezzar, then rebelling against him, procureth his own ruin. 5 Jehoiachin succeedeth him. 7 The king of Egypt is vanquished by the king of Babylon. 8 Jehoiachin's evil reign. 10 Jerusalem is taken, and carried captive into Babylon. 17 Zedekiah is made king, and reigneth wickedly: he rebelleth, to the utter destruction of Judah.

IN his days Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up, and Jehoiakim became his servant three years: then he turned and rebelled against him.

2 And the LORD sent against him bands of the Chaldees, and bands of the Syrians, and bands of the Moabites, and bands of the children of Ammon, and sent them against Judah to destroy it, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake by his servants the prophets.

3 Surely at the commandment of the LORD came this upon Judah, to remove them out of his sight, for the sins of Manasseh, according to all that he did;

4 And also for the innocent blood that he shed, (for he filled Jerusalem with innocent blood,) which the LORD would not pardon.

5 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah?

6 So Jehoiakim slept with his fathers: and Jehoiachin his son reigned in his stead.

7 ¶ And the king of Egypt came not again any more out of his land: for the king of Babylon had taken, from the river of Egypt unto the river Euphrates, all that pertained to 14 And he <sup>11</sup>carried away all Jerusalem, and all the princes, and all the mighty men of valour, <sup>12</sup>even ten thousand captives, and all the craftsmen and smiths: none remained, save the poorest sort of the people of the land.

15 And <sup>13</sup>he carried away Jehoiachin to Babylon, and the king's mother, and the king's wives, and his officers, <sup>14</sup>and the mighty of the land; <sup>15</sup>those carried he into captivity from Jerusalem to Babylon.

16 And all <sup>16</sup>the men of might, <sup>17</sup>even seven thousand, and craftsmen and smiths a thousand, <sup>18</sup>all that were strong and apt for war, even them the king of Babylon brought captive to Babylon.

CHAPTER XXV.

1 Jerusalem is again besieged. 4 Zedekiah taken, his sons slain, and his eyes put out. 8 Nebuzaradan defaceth the city, carrieth the remnant, except a few poor labourers, into captivity. 13 spoileth and carrieth away the treasures. 18 The nobles of Judah are slain at Riblah. 22 Gedaliah, who was set over the people that remained, being slain, the rest flee into Egypt. 27 Evil-merodach advanceth Jehoiachin in his court.

AND it came to pass <sup>1</sup>in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, <sup>2</sup>that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came, he, and all his host, against Jerusalem, and pitched against it; and they built forts against it round about.<sup>1</sup>

2 And the city was besieged unto the eleventh year of king Zedekiah.<sup>2</sup>

3 And on the ninth day of the <sup>3</sup>fourth month the famine prevailed in the city, and there was <sup>4</sup>no bread for the people of the land.<sup>3</sup>

4 ¶ And the city <sup>5</sup>was broken up, and all the men of war fled by night by the way of the gate between two walls, which <sup>6</sup>is by the king's garden; (now the Chaldees were against the city round about;) and <sup>7</sup>the king went the way toward the plain.<sup>4</sup>

5 And the army of the Chaldees <sup>8</sup>pursued after the king, and overtook him in the plains of Jericho; and all his army were scattered from him.

6 So <sup>9</sup>they took the king, and brought him up to the king of Babylon to Riblah; and they gave judgment upon him.<sup>5</sup>

7 And they slew the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and <sup>10</sup>put out the eyes<sup>6</sup> of Zedekiah, and bound him with fetters of brass, and carried him to Babylon.<sup>7</sup>

8 ¶ And <sup>11</sup>in the fifth month, on the seventh day of the month, (which <sup>12</sup>is the nineteenth year of king Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon,) came Nebuzar-adan, captain of the guard,<sup>8</sup> a servant of the king of Babylon, unto Jerusalem:

9 And <sup>13</sup>he burnt the house of the <sup>14</sup>LORD, and the king's house, and all the houses of Jerusalem, and every great <sup>15</sup>man's house burnt he with fire.

10 And all the army of the Chaldees, that were with the captain of the guard, <sup>16</sup>brake down the walls of Jerusalem round about.

11 Now the <sup>17</sup>rest of the people that were left in the city, and the fugitives that fell away<sup>1</sup> to the king of Babylon, with the remnant of the multitude, did Nebuzar-adan the captain of the guard carry away.

interior of the temple that stood where the Mosque of Omar now stands was richly furnished. So the interior of this Mohammedan place of worship is most elaborately furnished. The building has 8 sides, each 68 feet long, the whole being covered with richly colored porcelain tiles, and a frieze of tiles running around the building upon which are written passages from the Koran. The great dome is supported by Corinthian columns. There are 56 stained glass windows of great brilliancy and beauty. The dome is 98 feet high, and 66 in diameter.

16 The two pillars, one sea,<sup>2</sup> and the bases which Solomon had made for the house of the LORD; the brass of all these vessels was without weight.

17 The height of the one pillar was eighteen cubits, and the chapter upon it was brass: and the height of the chapter three cubits; and the wreathen work, and pomegranates upon the chapter round about, all of brass: and like unto these had the second pillar with wreathen-work.

Providence, by thus distinguishing the captive monarch of Judah, had the great end in view of drawing the attention of the Babylonian monarch to the revealed word and divine ordinances of Moses and the prophets, and of thus preparing the way for the development of those instructions and warnings which, through Babylon, continue to be still addressed by Daniel and other prophets, to the mighty kings and proud cities of the earth.—C.

22 ¶ And as for the people that remained in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had left, even over them he made Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, ruler.

23 And when all the captains of the armies, they and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had made Gedaliah governor, there came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, even Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and Johanan the son of Careah, and Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah the son of a Maachathite, they and their men.

24 And Gedaliah sware to them, and to their men, and said unto them, Fear not to be the servants of the Chaldees: dwell in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you.

25 But it came to pass in the seventh month, that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, the son of Elishama, of the seed royal,<sup>2</sup> came, and ten men with him, and smote Gedaliah, that he died, and the Jews and the Chaldees that were with him at Mizpah.<sup>3</sup> impenitent sinners is to be bound with chains of darkness unto the judgment of the great day! How terribly the ordinances of God suffer for the sin of their attendants! And woe to that city or kingdom from which they are removed! Dreadful is the universal overthrow that surely follows: and men of rank, in the time of such public calamities, are exposed to the most distinguished miseries, answerable to their distinguished influence in the sinful causes thereof. But observe here how exactly the threatenings of God by Moses and the prophets are now fulfilled. Notwithstanding Nebuchadnezzar's intentions, not a remnant of Jews is left in the land of Canaan: and yet, in the very midnight of their captivity, he grants them a token of their future deliverance.

THE FIRST BOOK OF CHRONICLES.

This and the following book were probably written by Ezra the noted reformer after the captivity. They comprehend a history of about 3500 years from the creation till after the Jews returned from Babylon. Their manifest scope is to fix the genealogies of the Jewish nation, and to narrate the noted transactions of David and his royal descendants. As the ancient names of persons or places are sometimes altered in whole or in part, and a number of circumstances, not formerly mentioned, inserted, there is sometimes a seeming, but not a real, contradiction between them and the preceding books; particularly 2 Samuel and the two books of Kings. If we are at any loss to reconcile some of these passages let us blame our own weakness, but never the oracles of God. Things relative to these mere circumstances might be obvious to the ancient Jews, which are now to us obscure or unknown. The first book contains, (1) A collection of sacred genealogy for about 3600 years, from Adam till long after the captivity, mingled with some shreds of history not formerly inserted, i.-ix. This genealogy was of great use to the Jews who returned from Babylon, to fix them in their respective tribes and families; and is of use to us, to manifest our Redeemer to be the promised seed of David, Judah, Abraham, and Eve, according to the flesh. And now that he is come, for whose sake the registers were chiefly preserved, no genealogy of the Jews, for more than 1700 years backwards, is in the least to be depended on. (2) A repeated view of the translation of the kingdom of Israel from Saul to David, and of the triumphs of the latter, with several additions, x.-xii. xviii.-xxi. (3) An account of David's settling the ark at Jerusalem; fixing the orders of the priests, Levites, singers, porters, and other ecclesiastical officers; appointing the officers of his property and trained bands; of the vast preparations he made for building the temple; and the directions he gave to Solomon and others concerning it; most of which is not before narrated; xiv.-xvii. xxii.-xxix.

[The First and Second Books of Chronicles were originally one. Jerome informs us that in his time they formed but one book in all Hebrew MSS.; but that the early Christian churches had divided them on account of their length. The name Chronica, or Chronicorum Liber, given to them in the Vulgate, and from which comes their modern appellation, appears to be derived from Jerome. Jewish tradition assigns the compilation of the books to Ezra, and with this their internal character entirely agrees. It is worthy of note that the book of Ezra is a continuation of Chronicles. The two may be said in fact to form one complete history. The more immediate causes of the compilation of Chronicles appear to have been, (1) A desire to rectify and preserve the genealogical registers of the nation, which had doubtless become seriously deranged by the captivity. Without these registers the redistribution of Palestine among the returned captives would have been impossible. (2) A desire to reconstruct the whole temple service and national worship in accordance with the Mosaic law. This could only be effected by the residence of the priests and Levites in Jerusalem in the order of their courses, as arranged by David. The whole registers of the tribe of Levi had therefore to be revised; and the laws for the tithes and offerings had to be fully considered. These facts will explain the leading characteristics of the books of Chronicles. The scholar observes a striking resemblance in style to the book of Ezra; he also notices many Chaldee words and forms of expression, showing that the author, while he wrote in Hebrew, was familiar with the Chaldee tongue. <sup>8</sup> Several difficulties in these genealogies have arisen from errors or omissions in transcribing. It is in this way that various readings and apparent contradictions have originated, particularly in this chapter. They are, however, of no moment except as matters of criticism. In some cases (as Ch. 1, 2 Sa. 3:3, called Daniel, 1 Ch. 1) the person probably had two names, and in others the pronunciation might be altered. We know that changes occur in every language during the lapse of several hundred years. Grandsons and remote descendants are often mentioned as sons. 47 And when Hadad was dead, Samlah of Masrekah reigned in his stead.

48 And when Samlah was dead, Shaul of Rehoboth by the river reigned in his stead.

49 And when Shaul was dead, Baal-hanan the son of Achbor reigned in his stead.

50 And when Baal-hanan was dead, Hadad reigned in his stead: and the name of his city was Pai; and his wife's name was Mehetabel, the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Meza-hab.

51 ¶ Hadad died also.<sup>1</sup> And the dukes<sup>2</sup> of Edom were; duke Timnah, duke Aliah, duke Jetheth, 52 Duke Aholibamah, duke Elah, duke Pionon,

53 Duke Kenaz, duke Teman, duke Mibzar,

54 Duke Magdiel, duke Iram.* These are the dukes of Edom.<sup>3</sup>

CHAPTER II.

1 The sons of Israel. 3 The posterity of Judah by Tamar. 13 The children of Jesse. 18 The posterity of Caleb the son of Hezron. 21 Hezron's posterity by the daughter of Machir. 25 Jerahmeel's posterity. 34 Sheshan's posterity. 42 Another branch of Caleb's posterity. 50 The posterity of Caleb the son of Hur.

THESE are the sons of Israel; Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun, 2 Dan, Joseph, and Benjamin, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.

3 ¶ The sons of Judah;<sup>2</sup> Er,<sup>3</sup> and Onan, and Shelah: which three were born unto him of the daughter of Shuah the Canaanitess. And Er, the first-born of Judah, was evil in the sight of the LORD, and he slew him.<sup>4</sup>

4 And Tamar, his daughter-in-law, bare him Pharez, and Zerah. All the sons of Judah were five.

5 The sons of Pharez; Hezron, and Hamul.

6 And the sons of Zerah; Zimri,<sup>5</sup> and Ethan, and Heman, and Calcol, and Dara:<sup>6</sup> five of them in all.

7 And the sons of Carmi; Achar,<sup>7</sup> the troubler of Israel, who transgressed in the thing accursed.<sup>8</sup>

8 And the sons of Ethan; Azariah.<sup>9</sup>

9 The sons also of Hezron, that were born unto him; Jerahmeel, and Ram, and Chelubai.

10 And Ram begat Amminadab, and Amminadab begat Nahshon, prince of the children

13 ¶ And<sup>m</sup> Jesse begat his first-born *Eliab,<sup>3</sup> and Abinadab<sup>4</sup> the second, and °Shimma the third,

14 Nethaneel the fourth, Raddai the fifth, 15 Ozem the sixth, David the seventh.<sup>5</sup>

16 Whose sisters were, Zeruiah and Abigail. And<sup>p</sup> the sons of Zeruiah; Abishai, and Joab, and Asahel, three.<sup>6</sup>

17 And °Abigail bare Amasa: and the father of Amasa was Jether the Ishmaelite.<sup>7</sup>

18 ¶ And °Caleb<sup>8</sup> the son of Hezron begat children of Azubah<sup>9</sup> his wife, and of Jerioth: her sons are these; Jeshur,<sup>1</sup> and Shobab, and Ardon.

19 And when Azubah was dead, Caleb took unto him °Ephrath, which bare him Hur.

20 And Hur begat Uri, and Uri begat °Bezaleel.<sup>2</sup>

21 ¶ And afterward Hezron went in to the daughter of °Machir, the father of Gilead, whom he married<sup>3</sup> when he was threescore years old; and she bare him Segub.

22 And Segub begat Jair,<sup>4</sup> who had three and twenty cities in the land of Gilead.

23 And °he took Geshur, and Aram, with the towns °of Jair, from them, with Kenath, and the towns thereof, even threescore cities: all these belonged to the sons of Machir, the °father of Gilead.<sup>5</sup>

24 And after that Hezron was dead in Caleb-ephratah, then Abiah, Hezron's wife, bare him Ashur the father of °Tekoa.

25 ¶ And the sons of °Jerahmeel<sup>6</sup> the first-born of Hezron were, Ram the first-born, and Bunah, and Oren, and Ozem, and Ahijah.

26 Jerahmeel had also another wife, whose name was Atarah; she was the mother of Onam.

27 And the sons of Ram the first-born of Jerahmeel were, Maaz,<sup>7</sup> and Jamin, and Eker.

28 And the sons of Onam were, Shammai, and Jada. And the sons of Shammai; Nadab, and Abishur.

29 And the name of the wife of Abishur was Abihail; and she bare him Ahban, and Molid.

30 And the sons of °Nadab; Seled, and Appaim: but Seled died without children.

31 And the sons of Appaim; Ishi. And the sons of Ishi; Sheshan. And the children of Sheshan; °Ahlai.

32 And the sons of Jada the brother of Shammai; Jether, and Jonathan: and Jether had without children.

This Caleb must have lived some time before the exodus, as Bezaleel, who was a principal artist in constructing the tabernacle, was his grandson.—C.

22 The text is here corrupt. It would seem from the next verse that Jerioth was not a wife of Caleb.

Houbigant

and Dathe put the name as the first of his sons; and Geddes and Boothroyd consider Jerioth a daughter, and that the names which follow are those of her sons, and not Caleb's; but it is not likely that in a condensed genealogy like this, the children of daughters would be mentioned.

C.—The object is, in an common cir-

East. Among the attendants of the Cambay nabob, as also at Surat and other places, are several Abyssinian called, by way of courtesy, seddes or often promoted to great honour, richly apparelled, and fur-arms, and servants.

This is customary among the Moguls,

Turks, Persians, and Arabs, and especially the Mamelukes of Egypt, most of whom have ascended to their eminence from such an origin. The slaves who conduct themselves well find their chains light, are treated like near relatives, and are admitted to great confidence. They often obtain their freedom, and marry their masters' daughters (For-

40 And Eleasah begat Sisamai, and Sisamai begat Shallum, 41 And Shallum begat Jekamiah, and Jekamiah begat Elishama.

42 ¶ Now the sons of °Caleb the brother of Jerahmeel were, Mesha<sup>1</sup> his first-born, which was the father<sup>2</sup> of Ziph; and the sons of Mare-shah the father of Hebron.

43 And the sons of Hebron; Korah, and Tappuah, and Rekem, and Shema.

44 And Shema begat Raham, the father of Jorkoam: and Rekem begat Shammai.

45 And the son of Shammai was Maon: and Maon was the father of °Beth-zur.

46 And Ephah, °Caleb's concubine,<sup>3</sup> bare Haran, and Moza, and Gazez: and Haran begat Gazez.

47 And the sons of Jahdai; Regem, and Jotham, and Geshan, and Pelet, and Ephah, and Shaaph.

48 Maachah, Caleb's concubine, bare Sheber, and Tirhanah.

49 She bare also Shaaph<sup>4</sup> the father of Madmannah, Shevah, the father of Machbenah, and the father of Gibeah: and the daughter of Caleb was °Achsa.<sup>5</sup>

50 ¶ These were the sons of Caleb<sup>6</sup> the son of Hur, the first-born of °Ephratah; Shobal the father of °Kirjath-jearim,<sup>8</sup>

51 Salma the father of °Beth-lehem, Hareph the father of Beth-gader.

52 And Shobal the father of Kirjath-jearim had sons; °Haroeah, and half of the Manahethites.<sup>9</sup>

53 And the families of °Kirjath-jearim; the Ithrites, and the Puhites, and the Shumathites, and the Mishraites; of them came the Zareathites, and the Eshtaulites.

54 The sons of Salma; Beth-lehem, and the Netophathites, Ataroth, the house of Joab,<sup>1</sup> and half of the Manahethites, the Zorites.

55 And the families of °the scribes which dwelt at Jabez;<sup>2</sup> the Tirathites, the Shimeathites, and

3 The fifth, Shephatiah of Abital; the sixth, Ithream, by <sup>a</sup>Eglah his wife.

4 These six were born unto him in Hebron; and <sup>a</sup>there he reigned seven years and six months;<sup>2</sup> and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years.

6 Ibhar also, and <sup>m</sup>Elishama, and Eliphelet,<sup>3</sup>

7 And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,<sup>4</sup>

8 And Elishama, and <sup>a</sup>Eliada, and Eliphelet, nine.

9 These were all the sons of David, besides the sons of the concubines, and <sup>a</sup>Tamar their sister.

10 ¶ And Solomon's son was <sup>p</sup>Rehoboam,<sup>5</sup> Abia<sup>a</sup> his son, Asa his son, Jehoshaphat his son, 11 Joram his <sup>a</sup>son, <sup>a</sup>Ahaziah his son, Joash his son, 13 Ahaz<sup>t</sup> his son,<sup>7</sup> Hezekiah his son, Manasseh his son, 14 Amon his son, Josiah his son.

18 Malchiram also, and Pedaiiah, and Shemaz, Jecamiah, Hoshama, and Nedabiah.

19 And the sons of Pedaiiah were, <sup>a</sup>Zerubbabel, and Shimei: and the sons of Zerubbabel; Meshullam, and Hananiah, and Shelomith their sister:

20 And Hashubah, and Ohel, and Berechiah, and Hasadiah, Jushab-hesed, five.

21 And the sons of Hananiah; Pelatiah, and Jesaiah: the sons of Rephaiah, the sons of Arnan, the sons of Obadiah, the sons of Shechaniah.

<sup>l</sup> That is—the sons of Shechaniah were six, reckoning to him Shemaiah and his five sons, as Jacob reckoned to himself Ephraim and Manasseh the sons of Joseph, Ge. 48. 5. 6. This is evident from the word sons of Shechaniah, for only one proper son, Shemaiah, is mentioned, ver. 22, and as sons are ascribed to him, they must be his son and grandsons, by the virtue of patriarchal adoption. 1, 11 The posterity of Judah by Caleb the son of Hur. 5 Of Ashur the posthumous son of Hebron. 9 Concerning Jabez, and his prayer. 21 The posterity of Shelah. 24 The posterity and cities of Simeon. 39 Their conquest of Gedor, and of the Amalekites in Mount Seir.

2 And <sup>a</sup>Reaiah the son of Shobal begat Jahath; and Jahath begat Ahumai, and Lahad. These are the families of the <sup>a</sup>Zorathites.

3 And these were of the father <sup>a</sup>of Etam; Jezreel, and Ishma, and Idbash: and the name of their sister was Hazeleponi:

4 And Penuel the father of <sup>a</sup>Gedor, and Ezer the father of Hushah. These are the sons of <sup>a</sup>Hur, the first-born of Ephratah, the father of Beth-lehem.

5 ¶ And <sup>a</sup>Ashur the father of Tekoa had two wives, Helah and Naarah.<sup>2</sup>

7 And the sons of Helah were, Zereth, and Jezoar, and Ethnan.

8 And Coz begat Anub, and Zobebah, and the families of Aharhel the son of Harum.

9 ¶ And Jabez was <sup>a</sup>more honourable<sup>3</sup> than his brethren: and his mother called his name Jabez,<sup>4</sup> saying, Because <sup>a</sup>I bare him with sorrow.

10 And Jabez called on the God of Israel, saying, Oh that thou wouldest<sup>5</sup> bless<sup>m</sup> me indeed, and <sup>a</sup>enlarge my coast, and that thine hand might be with me, and that thou wouldest keep<sup>6</sup> me from evil, that it may not grieve me! 11 ¶ And Chelub the brother of Shuah begat Mehir, which was the father of Eshton.

12 And Eshton begat Beth-rapha, and Pascah, and Tehinnah the father of <sup>a</sup>Ir-nahash. These are the men of Rechab.

13 And the sons of Kenaz;<sup>8</sup> Othniel,<sup>9</sup> and Seraiah: and the sons of Othniel; Hathath.<sup>9</sup>

14 And Meonothai begat Ophrah: and Seraiah begat Joab, the father of the valley<sup>1</sup> of Charashim;<sup>2</sup> for they were craftsmen.<sup>3</sup>

15 And the sons of Caleb 'the son of Jephunneh; Iru, Elah, and Naam: and the sons of Elah, even 'Kenaz.<sup>5</sup>

16 And the sons of Jehaleleel; Ziph, and Ziphah, Tiria, and Asareel.

17 And the sons of Ezra were, Jether, and Mered, and Ephraim, and Jalon: and she bare Miriam, and Shammai, and Ishbah the father<sup>6</sup> of Eshtemoa.

18 And his wife 'Jehudijah bare Jered the father of 'Gedor, and Heber the father of Socho, and Jekuthiel the father of Zanoah. And these are the sons of Bithiah the daughter of Pharaoh,<sup>7</sup> which Mered took.

19 And the sons of his wife 'Hodiah, the sister of Naham, the father of Keilah the Garmite, and Eshtemoa the Maachathite.<sup>8</sup>

20 And the sons of Shimon were, Amnon, and Rinnah, Ben-hanan, and Tilon. And the sons of Ishi were, Zoheth, and Ben-zoheth.

21 ¶ The sons of Shelah 'the son of Judah were, Er<sup>9</sup> the father of Lecah, and Laadah the father of Mareshah, and the families of the house of them that wrought fine linen,<sup>1</sup> of the house of Ashbea, 22 And Jokim, and the men of Chozeba, and Joash, and Saraph, who 'had the dominion in Moab, and Jashubi-lehem.<sup>2</sup> And these are ancient things.

23 These were the potters, and those that dwelt among plants<sup>3</sup> and hedges:<sup>4</sup> there they dwelt<sup>5</sup> with the king for his work.

24 ¶ The sons of Simeon were, 'Nemuel, and Jamin, 'Jarib, 'Zerah, and Shaul:

25 Shallum his son, Mibsam his son, Mishma his son.

26 And the sons of Mishma; Hamuel his son, Zacchur his son, Shimei his son.

27 And Shimei had sixteen sons and six daughters;<sup>7</sup> but his brethren had not many children, neither did all their family multiply like<sup>8</sup> to the children of Judah.<sup>8</sup>

28 And they 'dwelt at Beer-sheba, and Moladah, and 'Hazar-shual, 29 And at 'Bilhah, and at Ezem, and at Tolad,<sup>9</sup>

CHAPTER V.

1 The line of Reuben (who lost his birthright) unto the captivity. 9 Their habitation and conquest of the Hagarites. 11 The chief men and habitations of Gad. 18 The number and conquests of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh. 23 The habitations and chief men of that half-tribe. 25 Their captivity because of their sins.

NOW the sons of Reuben, the 'first-born of Israel, (for he was the first-born; but, forasmuch as he 'defiled his father's bed, his birthright was given unto the sons of Joseph the son of Israel:<sup>1</sup> and the genealogy is not to be reckoned after the birthright.

2 For Judah prevailed above his brethren, and of him came the chief ruler; but the birthright was Joseph's;)

3 The sons, I say, of Reuben the first-born of Israel were, Hanoch, and Pullu, Hezron, and Carmi.

4 The sons of Joel; Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son,

5 Micah his son, Reaia his son, Baal his son,

6 Beerah his son, whom Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria carried away captive: he was prince of the Reubenites.

7 And his brethren by their families, (when the genealogy of their generations was reckoned,) were the chief, Jeiel, and Zechariah,<sup>2</sup>

8 And Bela the son of Azaz, the son of Shema,<sup>3</sup> the son of Joel, who dwelt in Aroer, even unto Nebo and Baal-meon:

9 And eastward he inhabited unto the entering in of the wilderness from the river Euphrates; because their cattle were multiplied in the land of Gilead.

10 And in the days of Saul<sup>3</sup> they made war with the Hagarites,<sup>4</sup> who fell by their hand: and they dwelt in their tents throughout all the east<sup>5</sup> land of Gilead.

11 ¶ And the children of Gad dwelt over against them, in the land of Bashan, unto Salchah:<sup>6</sup>

12 Joel the chief, and Shapham the next, and Jaanai, and Shaphat in Bashan.

13 And their brethren, of the house of their fathers, were, Michael, and Meshullam, and Sheba, and Jorai, and Jachan, and Zia, and Heber, seven.

14 These are the children of Abihail the son of Huri, the son of Jaroah, the son of Gilead, the son of Michael, the son of Jeshishai, the son of Jahdo, the son of Buz;

15 Ahi the son of Abdiel, the son of Guni, chief of the house of their fathers.

16 And they dwelt in Gilead in Bashan, and in her towns, and in all the suburbs of Sharon,<sup>7</sup> upon their borders.<sup>8</sup>

17 All these were reckoned by genealogies in the days of Jotham king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam king of Israel.

18 ¶ The sons of Reuben, and the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh, of valiant men,<sup>9</sup> men able to bear buckler and sword, and to

De. 21. 17, the first-born was entitled to a double portion of a father's possessions.

This right was transferred to Joseph, who inherited two shares of the land in Ephraim and Manasseh.

Judah had but one share, but from him descended David and Messiah—the one the type, the other the real ruler.—C.

15 It therefore appears from this verse that the country occupied by the tribes of Jetur, Nephish, and Nodab lay along the northern and north-western border of Bashan, and extended to the mountain range of Hermon. Jetur was unquestionably the Ituraea of the Greeks, mentioned in Lu. 3. 1 and now bearing its ancient name in the Arabic form Jedra. It is a region of rocks and rich pasture land, lying close along the eastern base of Hermon, and extending on the north to Damascus.—P.

According to Eusebius the whole district of country between Joppa and Caesarea was called Sharon, and its richness and fertility are noted by most travellers. Another district lying between Mount Tabor and the Sea of Galilee was also distinguished by the same name; and a third, on the east of Jordan, in the tribe of Gad, seems to be that described in the text. C.—The celebrated plain of Sharon extended along the coast of the Mediterranean from the base of Carmel on the north to Joppa on the south, where it joined the plain of Philistia. It was, and still is, famous for its pastures. Eusebius and Jerome speak of two Sharons, one lying between Tabor and Tiberias; but the sacred writers mention only one of these. The Sharon referred to in this verse is not the plain of western Palestine. Its exact situation is not known; but it seems probable it was the pastoral plateau extending eastward from the mountains of Gilead to the walls of Bozrah and Salchah.—The name as Ichodah, the firm

8 The principal persons who resided over the three families of Levi, till the time of David, seem to be mentioned in these verses. The marginal references contain the variation in the names given to the same persons in different parts of sacred history, as far as it can be ascertained; and nearly the whole that is at present known concerning them may be learned by carefully consulting them. Samuel, the son of Elkanah, was 12 years old when he was consecrated to the priesthood, and descended from Izhar, Aaron's uncle; yet, as a prophet, he sacrificed personally, and not by the ministration of the priests.—I.

30 From 1 Sa.8.2, and from 1 Ch.6.3, it appears that the name of Samuel's eldest son was Joel, and not Vashni. Some suppose the word Joel to have dropped out of the text, and that Vashni, which signifies second, is an epithet to be joined with Abiah. There seems no necessity for this conjectural emendation, as the first-born of Samuel may have been called both Joel and Vashni.—C.

In this list of the cities of the priests, which gives eleven instead of thirteen, Gibeon and Juttah are omitted. None of the versions give the full number of names here, though they all give the whole sum. Probably those two cities had been destroyed, and lay in ruins when this book was written.—I.

21 Other tribes obtained by investment on request, and in virtue of continued military services, as the tribe of Reuben and half-tribe of Manasseh, east of Jordan—others obtained directly by conquest, some earlier, some later; but Levi, in all his branches, obtained his possessions only by lot, the emblem of every spiritual blessing, which must be the gift of God, first to Christ, our High-priest, Ps.24.25, and then, from and through him, to all his members, Ep.4.8.—C.

CITADEL OF TIBERIAS. [I. Chron., vi:63.] -"Unto the sons of Merari were given by lot, throughout their families, out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities." Tiberias in Old Testament times was in the territory of Zebulun, and the particular city which stood upon the site of Tiberias was called, according to the Jewish Talmud, Rakkath. It is also by the Talmud identified with the ancient Hammath, and some have supposed it to be the same as Chinnereth, referred to in Joshua, xix:35. The excesses and vices of the Roman court were transferred to this capital of the weak and cruel Herod Antipas, and Tiberias remained the metropolis of the province of Galilee till the Emperor Nero placed Agrippa II. in charge of the province. It became in the time of the great Jewish afflictions a center of refuge for the rabbis. Thirteen synagogues were built here and in the thirteenth century a school of Jewish learning was established which attained great celebrity.

61 And <sup>3</sup>unto the sons of Kohath, which were left of the family of that tribe, were cities given out of the half-tribe, namely, out of the half-tribe of Manasseh,<sup>1</sup> by lot, ten cities.

62 And <sup>4</sup>to the sons of Gershom, throughout their families, out of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities.

64 And <sup>6</sup>the children of Israel gave to the Levites these cities, with their suburbs.

65 And they <sup>7</sup>gave by lot out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, and out of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, these cities which are called by their <sup>8</sup>names.<sup>3</sup>

66 And <sup>9</sup>the residue of the families of the sons of Kohath had cities of their coasts out of the tribe of Ephraim.

When Levi ceased to be a portioned tribe, and was given for the first-born (Nu. 3. 12), there remained eleven, for Ephraim and Manasseh were not of Jacob, but of Joseph. But when all were counted there were thirteen tribes, for every one of whom there is a representative city of refuge. C.—The text in this list of Levitical cities being ill-arranged and corrupted, must be rectified from Jos. xxi.; for internal and collateral evidence shows that to be the accurate copy. <sup>6</sup> The number of cities and extended suburbs allotted to Levi may seem a large and even undue proportion to so small a tribe; but it is to be recollected that these cities and suburbs were evidently held, not in exclusive possession by the Levites, but in some species of co-partnership with the secular tribe by whom they were granted, and that consequently the Levitical possessions were reduced to little more than a mere residence. C.—None of the Lord's people, and especially of his ministers, should be unemployed; they who through want of ability or change of circumstances are precluded from one method of glorifying God, should set themselves to devise another. And if they deem nothing which may conduce to the advancement of true religion too laborious, mean, disgusting or discouraging—if they be disposed to be instant in season and out of season, to instruct or encourage one, ten, or ten thousand, in public or in private, in a cottage, an hospital, a prison, or a palace, in safe and easy, or in difficult or perilous circumstances—if they consider nothing too little to be attended to, and nothing too arduous to be attempted—and if they do all in sincerity, humility, and simplicity of spirit—they cannot long be unoccupied or useless.—Scott.

A WOMAN OF SAMARIA—IN THE ANCIENT CAPITAL OF ISRAEL. [I. Chronicles, vi:67.]—"And they gave unto them, of the cities of refuge, Shechem in Mount Ephraim with her suburbs." Upon one of the hills in the neighborhood of Shechem, this picture of a Woman of Samaria was taken. The Samaritans have always lived in this region, and their central place of worship is Mount Gerizim, which overlooks the city. Shechem is mentioned during the exile in Jeremiah, xli:5, and after the exile, though Samaria had been the previous capital of the country (Ezra, iv:10) at the building of the new temple on Gerizim, Shechem, which was hard by, was made by Manasseh, probably before the time of Alexander the Great, the chief center of Samaritan worship. After this the Samaritans were the objects of Jewish scorn. Josephus says that John Hyrcanus destroyed the temple on Gerizim 129 years B. C. after it had stood 200 years.

r Zelophehad was not literally the son, but the descendant of Manasseh in the third generation. Zelophehad was the son of Hephher, Nu. 26:33, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, Nu. 26:29. This, with the apparent want of connection with the genealogy, has induced some expositors to reject it as a fragment unaccountably interpolated. Such a criticism is both rash and unwarranted. The narrative was a legal conveyance of family property, and were we acquainted with all the family history, the cause of its insertion would no doubt appear, and the obscurity of the whole passage be dissipated.—C.

1 The tribe of Benjamin adhered to Judah in the division of the kingdom, and returned with the Jews from Babylon; and as the history is about to open with the translation of the kingdom from Saul of that tribe to David of Judah, we have here a more copious account given of it than of several other tribes. But either some of the sons of Benjamin had several names, or those of his sons were his more remote descendants. Gera, called his son in Genesis 35:23, is here mentioned as his grandson by Bela, and the whole subsequent genealogy is very obscure.—C.

4 Aijalon, or Ajalon, was the name of an ancient city and a valley, allotted to the tribe of Dan; but the Danites never obtained possession of it from the Amorites. It lay on the frontier of the kingdoms of Judah and Israel, and is consequently sometimes spoken of as in Ephraim (i.e. under the dominion of the ruler of Ephraim, 1 Ch. 6. 60), and sometimes in Judah and Benjamin (i.e. under the dominion of the king of Jerusalem, 2 Ch. 11. 10). Aijalon is best known in connection with the celebrated victory of Joshua, 10. 12. The ancient town is now represented by the village of Yalo, a corruption of the old name; and the valley is called Merj ibn Omeir. It is about 14 miles west of Jerusalem, at the foot of the mountain range. There was another Aijalon in the tribe of Zebulun; it is mentioned as the burial-place of Elon, one of the judges, Ju. 12. 12.—P.

2 The word signifies, given or offered, because given to the Levites to perform the service of the sanctuary. They appear to have been originally the Gibeonites, Jos. 9. 27, by which name they seem to have been distinguished till the time of David—when he and his princes seem to have added a number of their vassals, Ezr. 8. 20; the Gibeonites being inadequate to the now perfected ritual of the tabernacle service—after which period the name of Gibeonite seems to have been dropped, and the more dignified and more comprehensive title of Nethinim to have been adopted. C.—The time referred to in this verse is immediately after the return from the Babylonish captivity, and the settlement of the returned captives in the country of their fathers. The Israelites are the common people of Judah and Israel. The Nethinims were the temple servants who were appointed to do the menial work, under the direction of the Levites. The name signifies 'devoted.' The Gibeonites who were condemned by Joshua to be 'hewers of wood, and drawers of water,' were the original Nethinims. These were subsequently added to, probably by captives taken in war.—P.

LYDDA, THE ANCIENT LOD OF THE OLD TESTAMENT—WHERE THE APOSTLE PAUL RESTORED THE SICK AENEAS. [I. Chronicles, viii:12.] —“And Lod, with the towns thereof.” Lydda occupies the site of the Old Testament I cd, which is referred to in Ezra, ii:33, and Nehemiah, xi:35. It was an ancient Benjamite city which was rebuilt after the captivity, and through all the ages has preserved its ancient name. Lydda is but a slightly modified form of Lod. The Gospel was preached at Lydda very early, and here the Apostle Paul restored the sick Aeneas. In the time of the Emperor Vespasian this was a center of Jewish learning. The great caravan road runs from Lydda to Jimzu, the ancient Gimzo (II. Chronicles, xxviii:18), which the Philistines once took, and which also has preserved its name to the present day. One of the first episcopates in Palestine was that of Lydda, and the signatures of its bishops are said to be found as late as the year 518.

18 (Who hitherto waited in the king's gate eastward:<sup>6</sup>) they were porters in the companies of the children of Levi.

19 And Shallum the son of Kore, the son of Abiasaph, the son of Korah, and his brethren, of the house of his father, the Korahites, were over the work of the service, keepers of the gates<sup>7</sup> of the tabernacle:<sup>8</sup> and their fathers, being over the host of the LORD, were keepers of the entry.<sup>9</sup>

20 And Phinehas<sup>1</sup> the son of Eleazar was the ruler over them in time past, and the LORD was with him.

21 And Zechariah the son of Meshelemiah was porter of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

22 All these which were chosen to be porters in the gates were two hundred and twelve. These were reckoned by their genealogy in their villages, whom David and Samuel the seer did ordain<sup>2</sup> in their set office.<sup>4</sup>

23 So they and their children had the oversight of the gates of the house of the LORD, namely, the house of the tabernacle, by wards.

24 In<sup>4</sup> four quarters were the porters, toward the east, west, north, and south.

25 And their brethren, which were in their villages, were to come after seven days from time to time with them.

26 For these Levites, the four chief porters, were in their set office, and were over the chambers<sup>5</sup> and treasuries of the house of God.

8 The word tabernacle may refer to the sanctuary erected by Moses, which the temple, built after the captivity, more resembled than it did Solomon's magnificent edifice. Indeed the sanctuary at first was only a tent or tabernacle when Phinehas superintended it in time past, yet the Lord was with him.

This seems to have been mentioned as an instruction and encouragement to the priests and

Levites in the times of Ezra and Nehemiah; for there can be no reasonable doubt that Phinehas, the grandson of Aaron, was intended.—I.

4 Great irregularity in the tabernacle service must have prevailed during the unsettled times that followed the death of

Joshua, especially during a period not only of neglect of the divine ordinances, but frequently of idolatry and apostasy. To the reformation of these abuses Samuel and David seem to have directed their attention, and instituted a regular routine of porters, not merely to open and shut the gates, for that had been an easy work, but as guards against idolatry and

1 To meditate on the law of God 'day and night' is a characteristic of Christian f ch. 8.29-40. Probably what follows is repeated as an introduction to Saul's history, and ought to be part of ch. x.

2 Why is this passage repeated, being the same with ch. 8.29? An error of a transcriber is the answer even of the pious Henry A. better solution seems to be afforded by a reference to ver. 1, where the book of the Kings, both of Israel and Judah is mentioned, and the genealogy of Saul is given from the public records of each, as he had been the monarch of both.

CHAP. X.

E.C. 1096.

1 The chief design of this book was to preserve the records of the house of David, which, though to a common eye much diminished by the captivity, yet grew more and more illustrious in the eyes of those who lived by faith, by the near approach of the Son of David.

The writer therefore repeats not the history of Saul's reign, but only of his death, which paved the way for David.

the sanctuary, and the fine flour, and the wine, and the oil, and the frankincense, and the spices.

30 And some of the sons of the priests made the ointment of the spices.

31 And Mattithiah, one of the Levites, (who was the first-born of Shallum the Korahite,) had the set office<sup>8</sup> over the things that were made in the pans.

32 And other of their brethren, of the sons of the Kohathites, were over the show-bread, to prepare it every sabbath.

33 And these are the singers, chief of the fathers of the Levites, who remaining in the chambers were free: for they were employed<sup>9</sup> in that work 'day and night.'<sup>1</sup>

34 These chief fathers of the Levites were chief throughout their generations: these dwelt at Jerusalem.

35 ¶ And in Gibeon dwelt the father<sup>2</sup> of Gibeon, Jehiel,<sup>3</sup> whose wife's name was Maachah;

36 And his first-born son Abdon, then Zur, and Kish, and Baal, and Ner, and Nadab, 37 And Gedor, and Ahio, and Zechariah, and Mikloth.

38 And Mikloth begat Shimeam: and they also dwelt with their brethren at Jerusalem, over against their brethren.

39 And Ner begat Kish, and Kish begat Saul, and Saul begat Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> and Malchishua, and Abinadab, and Esh-baal.

40 And the son of Jonathan was Merib-baal,<sup>5</sup> and Merib-baal begat Micah.

41 And the sons of Micah were, Pithon, and Melech, and Tahrea, and Ahaz.<sup>6</sup>

42 And Ahaz begat Jarah,<sup>7</sup> and Jarah<sup>8</sup> begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri; and Zimri begat Moza;

43 And Moza begat Binea; and Rephaiah his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son.

44 And Azel had six sons, whose names are these; Azrikam, Bocheru, and Ishmael,<sup>9</sup> and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan; these were the sons of Azel.

CHAPTER X.

1 Saul's overthrow and death. 8 The Philistines triumph over Saul. 11 The kindness shown by the men of Jabesh-gilead toward Saul and his sons. 13 Saul's sin, for which the kingdom was translated from him to David.

NOW<sup>1</sup> the Philistines fought against Israel; and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell down slain<sup>2</sup> in mount and the <sup>2</sup>archers <sup>4</sup>hit him, and he was wounded of the archers.

4 Then said Saul to his armour-bearer, Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith, lest these uncircumcised come and <sup>4</sup>abuse me. But his armour-bearer would not; for he was sore afraid.<sup>3</sup> So Saul took a sword, and fell upon it.

5 And when his armour-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise on the sword,<sup>4</sup> and died.

6 So Saul <sup>7</sup>died, and his three sons, and all his house died together.<sup>5</sup>

7 And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley saw that they fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, then they forsook their cities, and fled; and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

8 ¶ And <sup>9</sup>it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his sons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And when they had stripped him, they took his head, and his armour, and sent into the land of the Philistines round about, to carry tidings unto <sup>10</sup>their idols, and to the people.

10 And they put his armour in the house of <sup>11</sup>their gods, and fastened his head in the temple of Dagon.<sup>6</sup>

11 ¶ And when all <sup>12</sup>Jabesh-gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul,

12 They arose, all the valiant men, and took away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh, and buried their bones under the <sup>13</sup>oak in Jabesh, and fasted<sup>7</sup> seven days.<sup>7</sup>

13 ¶ So Saul died for his transgression which he committed<sup>8</sup> against the LORD, <sup>14</sup>even against the word of the LORD, which he kept not, and also for asking counsel of one that had a familiar spirit, to <sup>15</sup>inquire of it;

14 And inquired not of the LORD:<sup>9</sup> therefore he slew him, and <sup>16</sup>turned the kingdom unto David the son of Jesse.

Israel, and thou shalt be ruler over my people Israel.

3 Therefore came all the elders of Israel to the king to Hebron; and David <sup>4</sup>made a covenant with them in Hebron before the LORD: and they anointed David king over Israel, <sup>5</sup>according to the word of the LORD by<sup>2</sup> Samuel.

4 ¶ And David and all Israel <sup>6</sup>went to Jerusalem, which is Jebus; where the Jebusites were, the inhabitants of the land.<sup>3</sup>

5 And the inhabitants of Jebus said to David, <sup>7</sup>Thou shalt not come hither. Nevertheless David took the castle of Zion, which is the city of David.

6 And David said, Whosoever smiteth the Jebusites first shall be <sup>8</sup>chief and captain. So Joab the son of Zeruiah went first up, and was chief.

7 And David dwelt in the castle; therefore they called it<sup>4</sup> the city of David.

8 And he built the city round about, even from <sup>9</sup>Millo<sup>5</sup> round about: and Joab <sup>10</sup>repaired the rest of the city.<sup>7</sup>

9 So David waxed greater and <sup>11</sup>greater: <sup>12</sup>for the LORD of hosts was with him.

10 ¶ These<sup>1</sup> also are the chief of the mighty men whom David had, who strengthened themselves with him<sup>9</sup> in his kingdom, and with all Israel, to make him king, <sup>13</sup>according to the word of the LORD concerning Israel.

11 And this is the number of the mighty men<sup>1</sup> whom David had; <sup>14</sup>Jashobeam, an Hachmonite, the chief of the captains: he lifted up his spear <sup>15</sup>against three hundred slain by him at one time.

12 And after him was Eleazar the son of Dodo, the <sup>16</sup>Ahohite, who was one of the three mighty.

13 He was with David at <sup>17</sup>Pas-dammim, and there the Philistines were gathered together to battle, where was a parcel of ground full of barley;<sup>2</sup> and the people <sup>18</sup>fled from before the Philistines.

14 And they set themselves<sup>3</sup> in the midst of that parcel, and delivered it, and slew the Philistines; and the LORD <sup>19</sup>saved them by a great deliverance.<sup>4</sup>

15 Now <sup>20</sup>three of the thirty captains<sup>5</sup> went down to the rock to David, into the cave of Adullam; and the host of the Philistines encamped in the valley of <sup>21</sup>Renhaim<sup>6</sup>

one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, that is at the gate!

18 And the three brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: but David would not drink of it, but poured it out to the LORD.

19 And said, My God forbid, it me, that I should do this thing: shall I drink the blood of these men that have put their lives in jeopardy? for with the jeopardy of their lives they brought it: therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mightiest.

20 And Abishai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three: for lifting up his spear against three hundred, he slew them, and had a name among the three.

21 Of the three, he was more honourable than the two, for he was their captain; howbeit he attained not to the first three.

22 Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, the son of a valiant man of Kabzeel, who had done many acts; he slew two lion-like men of Moab: also he went down and slew a lion in a pit in a snowy day.

23 And he slew an Egyptian, a man of great stature, five cubits high; and in the Egyptian's hand was a spear like a weaver's beam; and he went down to him with a staff, and plucked the spear out of the Egyptian's hand, and slew him with his own spear.

24 These things did Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and had a name among the three mighties.

25 Behold, he was honourable among the thirty, but attained not to the first three: and David set him over his guard.

26 Also the valiant men of the armies were, Asahel the brother of Joab, Elhanan the son of Dodo of Beth-lehem.

27 Shammoth the Harorite, Helez the Pelonite,

28 Ira the son of Ikkesh the Tekoite, Abiezer the Antothite,

29 Sibbecai the Hushathite, Ithai the Ahohite,

30 Maharai the Netophathite, Heled the son of Baanah the Netophathite, 31 Ithai the son of Ribai of Gibeah, that pertained to the children of Benjamin, Benaiah the Pirathonite

1 The writer here goes back to the times which preceded the death of Saul, and records some particulars not mentioned in the books of Samuel respecting David's advancement to the throne. Several considerable persons resorted to him at Ziklag; and either joined his small troop or assisted him in assistance when it became necessary.

Some of these were Benjamites, and related to Saul, who were either induced through a firm belief of the word of God by Samuel respecting him, or by indignation at the base treatment which David met with from

Saul to the disgrace of their family and tribe, or because they perceived that the Lord was departed from Saul, and was with David of a truth. The hand of God was,

however, very conspicuous in raising him up friends from this tribe, whence he might have expected

the most determined opposition.—I.

term is used in a more extensive sense for those who had fled to foreign countries to escape being slain;
thus it is here applied to David. Ziklag is described as a town in the country, and was probably an un-walled town; and it is certain he did not confine himself to it,

1 The companies that came to David at Ziklag. 23 The armies that came to him at Hebron.

NOW<sup>1</sup> these are they that came to David to Ziklag, while he yet kept himself close because of Saul the son of Kish: and they were among the mighty men, helpers of the war.

2 They were armed with bows, and could use both the right hand and the left in hurling stones,<sup>3</sup> and shooting arrows out of a bow, even of Saul's brethren of Benjamin.

3 The chief was Ahiezer, then Joash, the sons of Shemaah the Gibeathite; and Jeziel and Pelet, the sons of Azmaveth; and Berachah, and Jehu the Antothite,

4 And Ismaiah the Gibeonite, a mighty man among the thirty, and over the thirty; and Jeremiah, and Jahaziel, and Johanan, and Jozabad the Gederathite,

5 Eluzai, and Jerimoth, and Bealiah, and Shemariah, and Shephatiah the Haruphite,

8 And of the Gadites there separated themselves unto David,<sup>5</sup> into <sup>the</sup> hold to the wilderness, men of might, and men of war<sup>6</sup> fit for the battle, that could handle shield and buckler,<sup>7</sup> whose faces were like the faces of lions, and were as swift as the roes<sup>8</sup> upon the mountains.<sup>9</sup>

9 Ezer the first, Obadiah the second, Eliab the third,

10 Mishmanna the fourth, Jeremiah the fifth,

11 Attai the sixth, Eliel the seventh,

12 Johanan the eighth, Elzabad the ninth,

13 Jeremiah the tenth, Machbanai the eleventh.

14 These were of the sons of Gad, captains of the host: "one of the least was over an hundred, and the greatest over a thousand.<sup>1</sup>

15 These are they that went over Jordan in the first month, when it "had overflown<sup>2</sup> all his banks; and they put to flight all them of the valleys, both toward the east, and toward the west.

16 And there came of the children of Benjamin and Judah "to the hold unto David.<sup>3</sup>

17 And David went out to meet them,<sup>4</sup> and answered and said unto them, If ye be come peaceably unto me to help me, mine heart shall be knit unto you: but if ye be come to betray me to mine enemies, seeing there is no "wrong in mine hands, the God of our fathers look thereon, and "rebuke it.

18 Then "the spirit came upon "Amasai, who was chief of the captains, and he said, Thine are we, David, and on thy side, thou son of Jesse: peace, peace be unto thee, and peace be to thine helpers; for thy God helpeth thee. Then David received them, and made them captains of the band.

19 And there fell some of Manasseh to David, when he came with the Philistines against Saul to battle; but they helped them not: for "the lords of the Philistines, upon advisement, sent him away, saying, He will fall to his master Saul,<sup>5</sup> to the jeopardy of our heads.<sup>6</sup>

20 As he "went to Ziklag, there fell to him of Manasseh, Adnah, and Jozabad, and Jediael, and Michael, and Jozabad, and Elihu, and Zithai, captains of the thousands that were of Manasseh.

21 And they helped David "against the band<sup>7</sup> of the rovers,<sup>8</sup> for they were all "mighty men of

"Of Zebulun, such as went forth to battle, expert in war, with all instruments of war, fifty thousand, which could keep rank; they were not of double heart." Tiberias has been the scene of many battles. It is perfectly in keeping, therefore, with the character of this town, both in ancient and modern times, that we should have Zebulun represented as a country from which went forth to battle those who were expert in war. In the days of Herod Antipas and Agrippa, this town was not upon good terms with the city of Jerusalem. The inhabitants of Tiberias surrendered voluntarily to Vespasian, so that their city was spared. The city was sacked by the Caliph Omar in the 7th century, and subsequently by Saladin in the 13th, when it was much injured. Through battles and earthquakes, its palaces, churches, synagogues, institutions of learning, baths and theatres, have passed into complete desolation.

ments of war for the battle, an hundred and twenty thousand.

38 All these men of war, that could keep rank, came with a perfect heart to Hebron, to make David king over all Israel: and all the rest also of Israel were of one heart to make David king.

39 And there they were with David three days, "eating and drinking: for their brethren had prepared for them.

40 Moreover, they that were nigh them, even unto Issachar, and Zebulun, and Naphtali, brought bread<sup>5</sup> on asses, and on camels, and on mules, and on oxen,<sup>6</sup> and meat, meal, cakes of figs, and bunches of raisins, and wine, and oil, and oxen, and sheep abundantly: for there was joy<sup>7</sup> in Israel.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 David fetcheth the ark with great solemnity from Kirjath-jearim.
2 Uzza being smitten, the ark is left at the house of Obed-edom.

AND David consulted with the captains of thousands and hundreds, and with every leader.

2 And David said unto all the congregation of Israel, If it seem good unto you, and that it be of the LORD our God, let us send abroad unto our brethren every where, that are left in all the land of Israel, and with them also to the priests and Levites which are in their cities and suburbs, that they may gather themselves unto us:

3 And let us bring again the ark of our God to us: for we inquired not at it in the days of Saul.

4 And all the congregation said that they would do so: for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people.

5 So David gathered all Israel together, from Shihor of Egypt, even unto the entering of Hemath,<sup>2</sup> to bring the ark of God from Kirjath-jearim.

6 And David went up, and all Israel, to Baalah,<sup>3</sup> that is, to Kirjath-jearim, which belonged to Judah, to bring up thence the ark of God the LORD, that dwelleth between the cherubims, whose name is called on it.

7 And they carried the ark<sup>3</sup> of God in a new cart out of the house of Abinadab: and Uzza and Ahio drove the cart.

8 And David and all Israel played before God with all their might, and with singing, and

In whichever sense it is understood, the narrative furnishes a happy example of the increasing riches of the kingdom during the brief period of David's administration. The introduction of the "joy in Israel" renders probable these contributions were chiefly, if not altogether freely bestowed. Even so, the early church had "all things in common," an emblem and forecast of that better time, when the Lord shall "make all things new."—C.

4 We see that oxen were used as beasts of burden. The form of back in these animals does not adapt them for this service, but in the East they are still required to perform it, and they do it well, though in their deliberate and quiet way. Greek writers intimate the same use of oxen. At present, in different parts of Asia, they are employed for riding, burden, or draught.—Kitt.

CHAPTER XIV.

1 Hiram sendeth timber and builders to David. 2 The prosperity of David's kingdom. 8 His two signal victories over the Philistines.

NOW Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers to David, and timber of cedars, with masons and carpenters, to build him an house.<sup>1</sup>

2 ¶ And David perceived that the LORD had confirmed him king over Israel; for his kingdom was lifted up on high, because of his people Israel.

3 ¶ And David took more wives at Jerusalem: and David begat more sons and daughters.

4 Now these are the names of his children which he had in Jerusalem; Shammua,<sup>2</sup> and Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon,<sup>3</sup>

5 And Ibhar, and Elishua, and Elpalet,

6 And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

7 And Elishama, and Beeliada, and Eliphalet.

8 ¶ And when the Philistines heard<sup>4</sup> that David was anointed king over all Israel, all the Philistines went up to seek David: and David heard of it, and went out against them.

9 And the Philistines came and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim.<sup>5</sup>

10 And David inquired of God, saying, Shall I go up against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the LORD said unto him, Go up; for I will deliver them into thine hand.

11 So they came up to Baal-perazim; and David smote them there. Then David said, therefore they called the name of that place Baal-perazim.<sup>m</sup>

12 And when they had left their gods there, David gave a commandment, and they <sup>were</sup> burnt with fire.<sup>6</sup>

13 And the Philistines <sup>yet</sup> again spread themselves abroad in the valley.

14 Therefore David inquired again of God: and God said unto him, Go not up after them; turn away from them, and come upon them over against the mulberry-trees.

15 And it shall be, when thou <sup>shalt</sup> hear a sound of going in the tops of the mulberry-trees, <sup>that</sup> then thou shalt go out to battle: for God is gone forth before thee, to smite the host of the Philistines.

16 David therefore did as God commanded him: and they smote the host of the Philistines from <sup>Gibeon</sup> even to Gazer.<sup>7</sup>

17 And the <sup>fame</sup> of David went out into all lands; and the LORD brought the fear of him upon all nations.<sup>8</sup>

3 And David <sup>gathered</sup> all Israel together to Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the LORD unto his place, which he had prepared for it.

12 And said unto them, Ye <sup>are</sup> the chief of the fathers of the Levites: <sup>sanctify</sup> yourselves,<sup>7</sup> both ye and your brethren, that ye may bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel unto the place that I have prepared for it.

13 For <sup>'because</sup> ye <sup>did</sup> it not at the first, the LORD our God made a breach upon us, for that we sought him not after the due <sup>order</sup>.

14 So the priests and the Levites sanctified <sup>themselves</sup> to bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel.

15 And the children of the Levites bare the ark of God upon their shoulders, with the staves thereon, as <sup>Moses</sup> commanded, according to the word of the LORD.

17 So the Levites appointed <sup>Heman</sup> the son of Joel; and of his brethren, Asaph the son of Berechiah; and of the sons of Merari their brethren, Ethan the son of Kushaiah;

18 And with them their brethren of the second <sup>degree</sup>, Zechariah, Ben, and <sup>Jaaziel</sup>, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaseiah, and Mattithiah, and Eliphele, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, the porters.

THE ARMENIAN CHURCH AND CONVENT, JERUSALEM—WHERE DAVID MADE HIS HOUSE IN JERUSALEM. [I. CHRON., xv:1.]—"And David made him houses in the city of David, and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent." We pass through the gate called Zion's Gate in the south wall on the summit of the ridge of Zion. At this place we are on the height held by the Jebusites until David took it by storm. It was the highest point within the limits of the city.

It was here, or in this immediate neighborhood, where this Armenian church and convent now stand that David built his house and the household of his families, and here was the place for the ark of the Lord before the temple was built. The Armenian convent is one of the richest and largest in the city. There are some tamarisk trees in front of it said to have been planted by Herod. Within the convent is the church of St. James, the place where, according to tradition, St. James was beheaded.

26 And it came to pass, when God helped<sup>6</sup> the<sup>a</sup> Levites that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, that they offered<sup>b</sup> seven bullocks and seven rams.

27 And David was clothed with<sup>a</sup> a robe of fine linen, and all the Levites that bare the ark, and the singers, and Chenaniah the master of the song<sup>7</sup> with the singers: David also had upon him an ephod of linen.<sup>8</sup>

28 Thus all Israel<sup>a</sup> brought up the ark of the covenant of the LORD with shouting, and with sound of the cornet,<sup>9</sup> and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a noise with psalteries and harps.

29 ¶ And it came to pass, as the ark of the covenant of the LORD came to the city of David, that Michal the daughter of Saul, looking out at a window, saw king David dancing and playing: and she despised him in her heart.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 David's festival sacrifice. 4 He appointeth a band of singers and music to praise the Lord. 7 The psalm of thanksgiving. 37 He appointeth ministers, porters, priests, and musicians, to attend continually on the ark.

SO they<sup>a</sup> brought the ark of God, and set it in the midst of the tent that David had pitched for it:<sup>1</sup> and they offered burnt-sacrifices and peace-offerings before God.

2 And when David had made an end of offering the burnt-offerings and the peace-offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD.

3 And he dealt to every one of Israel, both man and woman, to every one a loaf of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine.

4 ¶ And he appointed certain of the Levites to minister<sup>a</sup> before the ark of the LORD, and to record, and to thank and praise the LORD God of Israel:

5 Asaph<sup>7</sup> the chief, and next to him Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obededom; and Jeiel with psalteries<sup>a</sup> and with harps; but Asaph made a sound with cymbals:

6 Benaiah also and Jahaziel the priests<sup>a</sup> with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God.

7 ¶ Then on that day David delivered first<sup>2</sup> this psalm, to thank the LORD, into the hand of Asaph and his brethren.<sup>3</sup>

1 This tent or tabernacle was pitched in the city of David, on Mount Zion. It appears to have been a new structure, and not the old tabernacle which was made in the wilderness, and remained so long at Shiloh. The ark remained in the 'tent' on Zion until the temple was completed, when it was conveyed with great state and ceremony to its final resting-place in the holy of holies on Moriah. See 2 Ch. v.—P.

2 The first psalm prescribed alt. r. Asaph's appointment to office.—C.

3 'On that day David committed first to Asaph and his brethren to thank Jehovah.' It would seem that the order of service established by David, and placed by him under the charge of Asaph, was now for the first time observed. The psalm was now first composed, but seems afterwards to have been slightly modified, no doubt to adapt it to a somewhat different ritual.—P.

25 This noble ode is a striking confirmation of the authenticity of the history recorded in the Pentateuch. It mentions and attests the truth of the leading events from Abraham to the exodus. Here as elsewhere the thoughtful reader will observe a consistency and unity in the Bible which form strong evidences of its divine origin.—P.

26 Prophets, priests, and kings were inaugurated by anointing with oil, the emblem of the outpouring of the Spirit. Here it applies to every believer, who is spiritually anointed to similar spiritual offices and duties. See Re. 1. 5. 6. 1 Jn. 2. 20. 2.—C.

his name, make known his deeds among the people.<sup>4</sup>

9 Sing<sup>t</sup> unto him, sing psalms unto him, talk ye of all his wondrous works.

10 Glory<sup>n</sup> ye in his holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the LORD.

11 Seek<sup>o</sup> the LORD and his strength, seek his face continually.

12 Remember<sup>h</sup> his marvellous works that he hath done, his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth;<sup>5</sup>

13 O ye seed of Israel his servant, ye children of Jacob, his chosen ones.

14 He is the LORD our God: his judgments are in all the earth.<sup>6</sup>

15 Be ye mindful always of his covenant; the word which he commanded to a thousand generations;

16 Even of the covenant which he made with Abraham, and of his oath unto Isaac;

17 And hath confirmed the same to Jacob for a law, and to Israel for an everlasting covenant,

18 Saying, Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, the lot<sup>7</sup> of your inheritance;

19 When ye were but few, even a few, and strangers in it.

20 And when they went from nation to nation, and from one kingdom to another people;

21 He suffered no man to do them wrong; yea, he reproveth kings<sup>9</sup> for their sakes.<sup>1</sup>

22 Saying, Touch not mine anointed,<sup>2</sup> and do my prophets no harm.

23 Sing<sup>b</sup> unto the LORD, all the earth; show forth from day to day his salvation.

24 Declare<sup>c</sup> his glory among the heathen; his marvellous works among all nations.

25 For great<sup>e</sup> is the LORD, and greatly to be praised: he also is to be feared above all gods.

26 For all the gods of the people are idols; but the LORD made the heavens.

27 Glory<sup>f</sup> and honour are in his presence; strength and gladness are in his place.

28 Give unto the LORD, ye kindreds of the people, give unto the LORD glory and strength.

29 Give unto the LORD the glory due unto his name: bring an offering, and come before him: worship the LORD in the beauty of holiness.<sup>3</sup>

30 Fear before him, all the earth: the world also shall be stable, that it be not moved

11 ¶ And it shall come to pass, when thy days be expired that thou must <sup>go to be</sup> with thy fathers, that I will raise up thy seed after thee, which shall be of thy sons;<sup>5</sup> and I will establish his kingdom.

12 He shall <sup>build</sup> me an house, and I will establish his throne for ever.<sup>6</sup>

13 I<sup>a</sup> will be his father, and he shall be my son: and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from him that was before thee:

14 But I will settle him in mine house and in my kingdom for ever: and his throne shall be established for evermore.

15 According<sup>7</sup> to all these words, and according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David.

16 ¶ And David the king came and sat before the LORD, and said, <sup>Who am I, O LORD God, and what is mine house, that thou hast brought me hitherto?</sup>

17 And yet <sup>this was a small thing in thine eyes, O God; for thou hast also spoken of thy servant's house for a great while to come, and hast regarded me according to the estate of a man of high degree,</sup> O LORD God.

18 What can David <sup>speak</sup> more to thee for the honour of thy servant?<sup>8</sup> for <sup>thou knowest thy servant.</sup>

19 O LORD, for <sup>thy servant's sake,</sup> and <sup>according to thine own heart, hast thou done all this greatness, in making known all these great things.</sup>

20 O LORD, <sup>there is none like thee, neither is there any God besides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.</sup>

21 And <sup>what one nation in the earth is like thy people Israel, whom God went to redeem to be his own people, to make thee a name of greatness and terribleness, by driving out nations from before thy people, whom thou hast redeemed out of Egypt?</sup>

22 For thy <sup>people Israel didst thou make thine own people for ever; and thou, LORD, becamest their God.</sup>

23 Therefore now, LORD, <sup>let the thing that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, be established for ever, and do as thou hast said.</sup>

24 Let it even be established, <sup>that thy name may be magnified for ever, saying, The LORD of hosts is the God of Israel, even a God to Is-</sup>

DAM AT DUMMAR, DAMASCUS—THE CITY CONQUERED AND GARRISONED BY DAVID. [I. Chron., xviii:5-6.]—"And when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadarezer, king of Zobah, David slew of the Syrians two and twenty thousand men. Then David put garrisons in Syria-Damascus; and the Syrians became David's servants, and brought gifts. Thus the Lord preserved David whithersoever he went." Damascus, we see by the above Scripture, was once in the kingdom of David. Here we notice that David placed a garrison. Many years after the time of David, we are told by Ezekiel, that Damascus was a merchant of Tyre in the multitude of the wares and in the multitude of the riches which it brought to Tyre. In the time of Ezekiel Tyre was the port of Damascus, but the present port is Beyrout. Alexander the Great was sent by Parmenio to take this city. The above illustration is of a dam across the Abana river at Dummar, which is a village in the suburbs of Damascus.

12 Moreover, Abishai the son of Zeruiah slew of the Edomites in the valley of Salt eighteen thousand.<sup>3</sup>

13 ¶ And he put garrisons in Edom; and all the Edomites became David's servants. Thus the LORD preserved David whithersoever he went.

14 ¶ So David reigned over all Israel, and executed judgment and justice among all his people.

15 And Joab the son of Zeruiah was over the host; and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud, recorder;<sup>4</sup>

16 And Zadok the son of Ahitub, and Abimelech the son of Abiathar, were the priests; and Shavsha was scribe;

17 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites and the Pelethites; and the sons of David were chief about the king.<sup>5</sup>

CHAPTER XIX.

1 David's messengers, sent to comfort Hanun for his father's death, are disgracefully entreated. 6 The Ammonites, strengthened by the Syrians, are overcome by Joab and Abishai. 16 Shophach, making a new supply of the Syrians, is slain by David.

NOW it came to pass after this, that Nahash the king of the children of Ammon died, and his son reigned in his stead.

2 And David said, I will show kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash, because his father showed kindness to me.<sup>1</sup> And David sent messengers to comfort him concerning his father. So the servants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon to Hanun, to comfort him.

3 But the princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanun, Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? are not his servants come unto thee for to search, and to overthrow, and to spy out the land?

4 Wherefore Hanun took David's servants, and shaved them, and cut off their garments in the midst hard by their buttocks, and sent them away.<sup>2</sup>

5 Then there went certain, and told David how the men were served: and he sent to meet them; (for the men were greatly ashamed;) and the king said, Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon saw that they had made themselves odious to David, Hanun and the children of Ammon sent a

¶ The account in 2 Sa. 8.13 says that David slew of the Syrians 18,000; in this chap. ver. 5, they are said to be 32,000. While in the text the conquest of 18,000 is ascribed to Joab. Here again the similarity of the word for Edom and Aram (Syria), or the error of a transcriber, is frequently employed to reconcile the narratives. Neither is necessary. The victory of Joab, the immediate commander, is ascribed to David, the superior, and the Edomites are called Syrians, just as an army is called British, though it may contain numerous auxiliary troops from various countries. ¶ We may expect that in this world our kindest actions will often be requited with the basest returns, and our best intentions expose us to the most injurious suspicions. Even in our implicit obedience to our great and gracious Lord, when we most sincerely do good to our fellow creatures, we must lay our account with ingratitude, contempt, and abuse. But these things should not discourage us, for he will both plead our cause and comfort us, and kindly recompense all that we endure for his sake.—C.

¶ To insult or turn into ridicule is the mark not merely of a weak understanding, but of a bad heart. It may be a gratification or an amusement to either, but that will not palliate the cruelty practised on the sufferer. Christians are taught to avoid such practices, not merely by the example of the evil consequences, as in the case of the foolish Hanun, but must be restrained by the principle of love from every act that can inflict unnecessary pain, either mental or bodily.—C.

3 Aram-maachah, or simply Maachah, 2 Sa. 10.6.8. is mentioned along with Aram-zobah. It is said to have extended from Damascus southward as far as the north border of the country of the Jews, on the east side of Jordan; for it is related in De. 3.13 that Zair, the son of Manasseh, took possession of the country of Argob, in Bashan, unto the borders of Geshur and Maachah; and according to Jos. 13.11 the tribe of Reuben received (among other territories) Gilead unto the borders of Geshur and Maachah. Yet it is added at ver. 13 that the Israelites had not then expelled the inhabitants of Geshur and Maachah, but dwelt along with them there.—L.

C.—The word rehab denotes not only a chariot, but a rider, and in this sense it is probably here employed, or in a collective sense, cavalry. thousand talents of silver<sup>2</sup> to hire them chariots and horsemen out of Mesopotamia, and out of Syria-maachah,<sup>3</sup> and out of Zobah.

7 So they hired thirty and two thousand chariots,<sup>4</sup> and the king of Maachah and his people; who came and pitched before Medeba.<sup>5</sup> And the children of Ammon gathered themselves together from their cities, and came to battle.

8 And when David heard of it, he sent Joab, and all the host of the mighty men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battle in array before the gate of the city: and the kings that were come were by themselves in the field.

10 Now when Joab saw that the battle<sup>6</sup> was set against him before and behind, he chose out of all the choice<sup>7</sup> of Israel, and put them in array against the Syrians.<sup>8</sup>

11 And the rest of the people he delivered unto the hand of Abishai his brother, and they set themselves in array against the children of Ammon.

12 And he said, If the Syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me: but if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will help thee.

13 Be of good courage, and let us behave ourselves valiantly<sup>9</sup> for our people, and for the cities of our God; and let the LORD do that which is good in his sight.

14 So Joab, and the people that were with him, drew nigh before the Syrians unto the battle; and they fled before him.

15 And when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled, they likewise fled before Abishai his brother, and entered into the city. Then Joab came to Jerusalem.

16 ¶ And when the Syrians saw that they were put to the worse before Israel, they sent messengers, and drew forth the Syrians that were beyond the river;<sup>1</sup> and Shophach, the captain of the host of Hadarezer, went before them.

17 And it was told David; and he gathered all Israel, and passed over Jordan, and came upon them, and set the battle in array against them. So when David had put the battle in array against the Syrians, they fought with him.

18 But the Syrians fled before Israel; and David slew of the Syrians seven thousand men which fought in chariots, and forty thousand footmen,<sup>2</sup> and killed Shophach the captain of the host.

19 And when the servants of Hadarezer saw that they were put to the worse before Israel, they made peace with David, and became his servants: neither would the Syrians help the children of Ammon any more.

CHAPTER XX.

1 Rabbah is besieged by Joab, spoiled by David, and the people thereof tortured. 4 Three giants are slain by David's servants in three several battles with the Philistines.

AND it came to pass, that after the year was expired,<sup>1</sup> at the time that kings go out to battle,<sup>2</sup> Joab led forth the power of the army, and wasted the country of the children of Ammon, and came and besieged Rabbah; (but David<sup>3</sup> tarried at Jerusalem:) and Joab smote Rabbah, and destroyed it.

2 And David took the crown of their king from off his head,<sup>4</sup> and found it to weigh<sup>5</sup> a talent of gold,<sup>6</sup> and there were precious stones in it; and it was set upon David's head: and he brought also exceeding much spoil out of the city.

3 And he brought out the people that were in it, and cut them with<sup>7</sup> saws, and with harrows of iron, and with axes:<sup>8</sup> even so dealt David with all the cities of the children of Ammon. And David and all the people returned to Jerusalem.<sup>9</sup>

4 ¶ And it came to pass after this, that there arose<sup>2</sup> war at Gezer<sup>3</sup> with the Philistines; at which time Sibbechai the Hushathite slew Sippai, that was of the children of the giant:<sup>4</sup> and they were subdued.<sup>5</sup>

5 And there was war again with the Philistines; and Elhanan the son of Jair slew Lahmi, the brother of Goliath the Gittite, whose spear's staff was like a weaver's beam.<sup>6</sup>

6 And yet again there was war at Gath, where was a man of great stature,<sup>7</sup> whose fingers and toes were four and twenty, six on each

But there is no necessity for such unauthorized violence. There might have been 40,000 horsemen who came to the battle, and being routed and dismounted in rocky or marshy ground, they may all have been footmen when the slaughter took place.—C.

There are, however, examples in antiquity of crowns being suspended over, and not worn on the head; and this may have been the case with the crown of Ammon.—C.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 David, tempted by Satan, forceth Joab to number the people. 5 The number of the people being brought, David repenteth of it. 9 David having three plagues propounded by Gad, chooseth the three days' pestilence. 14 After the death of seventy thousand, David by repentance preventeth the destruction of Jerusalem. 18 David, by Gad's direction, purchaseth Ornan's threshing-floor: where, having built an altar, God giveth a sign of his favour by fire, and stayeth the plague. 28 David sacrificeth there, being restrained from Gibeon by fear of the angel.

AND Satan<sup>a</sup> stood up against Israel, and provoked David to number Israel.

2 And David said to Joab, and to the rulers of the people, Go, number Israel from Beer-sheba even to Dan;<sup>1</sup> and bring the number of them to me, that I may know it.

3 And Joab answered, "The LORD make his people an hundred times so many more as they be: but, my lord the king, are they not all my lord's servants? why then doth my lord require this thing? why will he be a cause of trespass to Israel?"

4 Nevertheless<sup>a</sup> the king's word<sup>2</sup> prevailed against Joab: wherefore Joab departed, and went throughout all Israel, and came to Jerusalem.

5 ¶ And Joab gave the sum of the number of the people unto David. And all they of Israel were a thousand thousand and an hundred thousand men that drew sword; and Judah was four hundred threescore and ten thousand men that drew sword.

6 But Levi and Benjamin counted he not among them: for the king's word was abominable to Joab.

7 ¶ And God was displeased with this thing; therefore he smote Israel.

8 And David said unto God, 'I have sinned

Israel. . . . There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Israel, only in Gaza, in Gath, and in Ashdod there remained,' Jos. 11. 22. Again we find an upland plain among the mountains near Jerusalem called the plain or valley of the giants, 2 Sa. 5. 18. And finally we have in this chapter an account of the overthrow and death of some of the remnants of this strange race who resided in Gath, one of the three cities in which alone, according to Joshua, they existed. Thus in a manner altogether undesigned, the truthfulness and consistency of the sacred narrative are manifest.

Beth-rehob by the other. 2. The mercenaries are said to be infantry in Samuel, and chariots in Chronicles. The discrepancy here resolves itself into the signification of the Hebrew word rekheb, which is here translated 'chariots.' The word has several meanings in Scripture;—it means 'cavalry' in Is. 21. 7; it means 'horses of chariots' in 2 Sa. 8. 4; and it means 'men who had been riding in chariots' in 2 Sa. 10. 18. A probable solution of the difficulty is that these 32,000 were men who fought either in chariots or on foot. P.]

REFLECTIONS.—Saints ought to be neighbourly have God for their enemy. How often those who meddle with strife not belonging to them know not what to do in the end of it; and it is wise if at last they learn to forbear.

CHAPTER XX. [Ver. 3. A careful study of this passage makes it clear that the writer must have been acquainted with the whole narrative as recorded in the book of Samuel; for in ver. 1 he says, 'but David tarried in Jerusalem,' whereas in the succeeding verses the acts of David at the seat of war are mentioned; and in ver. 3 it is said, 'And David returned to Jerusalem.'

greatly, because I have done this thing: but now, I beseech thee, do away the iniquity of thy servant; for I have done very foolishly.

9 ¶ And the LORD spake unto Gad, David's seer,* saying,

10 Go and tell David, saying, Thus saith the LORD, I offer<sup>3</sup> thee three things: choose<sup>4</sup> thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

11 So Gad <sup>m</sup>came to David, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Choose thee<sup>4</sup>

12 Either<sup>a</sup> three years' famine;<sup>5</sup> or three months to be destroyed before thy foes, while that the sword of thine enemies overtaketh thee; or else three days the sword of the LORD, even the pestilence, in the land, and the angel of the LORD destroying throughout all the coasts of Israel. Now therefore advise thyself what word I shall bring again to him that sent me.

13 And David said unto Gad, I am in a great strait: let me fall now into the hand of the LORD; for very <sup>a</sup>great are his mercies: but let <sup>m</sup>me not fall into the hand of man.

14 ¶ So the LORD sent pestilence upon Israel: and there fell of Israel <sup>a</sup>seventy thousand men.

15 And God sent an angel unto Jerusalem to destroy it: and as he was destroying, the LORD beheld, and he repented<sup>6</sup> him<sup>a</sup> of the evil, and said to the angel that destroyed, It is enough; stay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD stood by the thrashing-floor of Ornan <sup>a</sup>the Jebusite.<sup>7</sup>

16 ¶ And David lifted up his eyes, and saw the <sup>a</sup>angel of the LORD stand between the earth and the heaven, having <sup>a</sup>drawn sword in his hand stretched out over Jerusalem:<sup>8</sup> then David and the elders of Israel, <sup>a</sup>who were clothed in sackcloth, fell upon their faces.

17 And David said unto God, <sup>a</sup>Is it not I that commanded the people to be numbered? even I it is that have sinned and done evil indeed; but <sup>a</sup>as for <sup>a</sup>these sheep, what have they done? Let thine hand, I pray thee, O LORD my God, be on me, and on my father's house; but not on thy people, that they should be plagued.

18 ¶ Then the angel of the LORD commanded Gad to say to David, that David should go up, and set up an altar unto the LORD <sup>a</sup>in the thrashing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

19 And David went up <sup>a</sup>at the saving of

TOWER OF ANTONIA—THE FIRST STATION IN THE VIA DOLOROSA OVER WHICH CHRIST WALKED FROM THE SANHEDRIM TO CALVARY. [1. Chron., xxii:9-10.]—"Behold, a son shall be borne to thee, who shall be a man of rest; and I will give him rest from all his enemies round about: for his name shall be Solomon and I will give peace and quietness unto Israel in his days. He shall build an house for my name; and he shall be my son, and I will be his father; and I will establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel forever." These words were spoken of Solomon the son of David, and Jesus Christ is a direct descendant of David, and the throne of an everlasting kingdom was established not by Solomon but by Christ. The Tower of Antonia is the first station in the Via Dolorosa, the sad and mournful way over which Jesus walked from the Sanhedrim to Calvary. This tower is also called Pilate's Judgment Hall. The holy steps that led to the hall, and which were said to be trodden by the feet of Jesus, were removed to Rome and may now be seen in St. John Lateran Church.

Zidonians, and they of Tyre, brought much cedar-wood to David.

5 And David said, 'Solomon my son is young and tender, and the house that is to be builded for the LORD must be exceeding 'magnifical, of fame and of glory throughout all countries: I will therefore now make preparation for it. So David 'prepared abundantly before his death.

6 ¶ Then he called for Solomon his son, and charged him to build an house for the LORD God of Israel.

7 And David said to Solomon, My son, as for me, it 'was in my mind to build an house unto the name of the LORD my God:

8 But the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 'Thou hast shed blood abundantly, and hast made great wars: thou shalt not build an house unto my name, because thou hast shed much blood upon the earth in my sight.<sup>3</sup>

9 Behold, a son shall be born to thee, who shall be a man of rest; and I will give him rest from all his enemies round about: for his name shall be 'Solomon; and I will 'give peace and quietness unto Israel in his days.

10 He<sup>m</sup> shall build an house for my name; and he shall be my son, and I will be his father; and I will establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel for ever.

11 Now, my son, 'the LORD be with thee; and prosper thou, and build the house of the LORD thy God, as he hath said of thee.

12 Only the LORD 'give thee wisdom and understanding, and give thee charge concerning Israel, that thou mayest keep the law of the LORD thy God.

13 Then<sup>r</sup> shalt thou prosper, if thou takest heed to fulfil the statutes and judgments<sup>4</sup> which the LORD charged Moses with concerning Israel: 'be strong, and of good courage; dread not, nor be dismayed.

14 Now, behold, in my <sup>5</sup>trouble<sup>6</sup> I have prepared for the house of the LORD an hundred thousand talents of gold, and a thousand thousand<sup>7</sup> talents<sup>8</sup> of silver; and of brass and iron without weight: (for it is in abundance:) timber also and stone have I prepared; and thou mayest add thereto.

CHAPTER XXIII.

1 David in his old age maketh Solomon king. 2 The number and distribution of the Levites. 7 The families of the Gershonites. 12 The sons of Kohath. 21 The sons of Merari. 24 The office of the Levites.

SO when David was old and full of days, he made<sup>a</sup> Solomon his son king over Israel.<sup>1</sup>

2 ¶ And <sup>b</sup>he gathered together all the princes of Israel, with the priests and the Levites.<sup>2</sup>

3 Now the Levites were numbered from the age of 'thirty years and upward;<sup>3</sup> and their number by their polls, man by man, was thirty and eight thousand.

4 Of which, twenty and four thousand were to set forward<sup>4</sup> the work of the house of the LORD; and six thousand were officers<sup>a</sup> and judges:

5 Moreover, 'four thousand were porters; and four thousand praised the LORD with the instruments which <sup>c</sup>I made, (said David), to praise therewith.

6 And David divided them into <sup>5</sup>courses among the sons of Levi, namely, 'Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

7 ¶ Of the 'Gershonites were, 'Laadan<sup>6</sup> and Shimei.

8 The sons of Laadan; the chief was Jehiel, and Zetham, and Joel, three.

9 The sons of Shimei; Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haran, three. These were the chief of the fathers of Laadan.<sup>7</sup>

10 And the sons of Shimei were, Jahath, Zina,<sup>8</sup> and Jeush, and Beriah. These four were the sons of Shimei.

11 And Jahath was the chief, and Zizah the second: but Jeush and Beriah had not many sons;<sup>9</sup> therefore they were in one reckoning, according to their father's house.

12 ¶ The sons of Kohath; Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four.

13 The sons of Amram; Aaron and Moses: and Aaron was separated, that he should sanctify the most holy things, he and his sons for ever, to burn incense before the LORD, to minister unto him, and to bless in his name for ever.

14 Now concerning Moses the man of God, his sons were named of the tribe of Levi.<sup>1</sup>

15 The sons of Moses were, Gershom and Eliezer.

16 Of the sons of Gershom, Shebuel was the chief.

17 And the sons of Eliezer were, Rehabiah the chief.<sup>2</sup> And Eliezer had none other sons; but the sons of Rehabiah were very many.

18 Of the sons of Izhar; Shelomith the chief.

19 Of the sons of Hebron; Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth.

20 Of the sons of Uzziel; Micah the first, and Jesiah the second.

21 ¶ The sons of Merari; Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Mahli; Eleazar and Kish.

22 And Eleazar died, and had no sons, but daughters: and their brethren the sons of Kish took them.<sup>3</sup>

23 The sons of Mushi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jeremoth, three.

24 ¶ These were the sons of Levi after the house of their fathers; even the chief of the fathers, as they were counted by number of names by their polls, that did the work for the service of the house of the LORD, from the age of twenty years and upward.

25 For David said, The LORD God of Israel hath given rest unto his people, that they may dwell in Jerusalem<sup>4</sup> for ever:

26 And also unto the Levites; they shall no more carry the tabernacle, nor any vessels of it.

A.M. 2988. B.C. 1016.

<sup>7</sup> Why these three sons of Shimei are reckoned among the chief of the fathers of Laadan, does not appear; most probably they were removed, by adoption, from the one family to the other, that in the rotation of courses all the males of Shimei's house should not be called from their home at one time.—C.

<sup>9</sup> Grotius, Dathe, &c., render this 'chiefs of the judges.' The heads of the two families of Eleazar and Ithamar were the administrators of religion and the dispensers of justice. For though the high-priesthood had been at first settled in the line of Eleazar, and in the person of Phinehas, Nu. 25:12, that prerogative had been transferred before the time of Eli to the race of Ithamar, and after him it seems to have been shared equally by the de-32 And that they should keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the charge of the holy place, and the charge of the sons of Aaron their brethren, in the service of the house of the LORD.

CHAPTER XXIV.

<sup>1</sup> The divisions of the sons of Aaron by lot into four and twenty orders. 20 The Kohathites, 27 and the Merarites divided by lot.

Now these are the divisions of the sons of Aaron. The sons of Aaron; Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

2 But Nadab and Abihu died before their father, and had no children: therefore Eleazar and Ithamar executed the priest's office.

3 And David distributed them, both Zadok of the sons of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, according to their offices in their service.

4 And there were more chief men found of the sons of Eleazar than of the sons of Ithamar; and thus were they divided.<sup>1</sup> Among the sons of Eleazar there were sixteen chief men of the house of their fathers, and eight among the sons of Ithamar, according to the house of their fathers.

5 Thus were they divided by lot,<sup>2</sup> one sort with another; for the governors of the sanctuary, and governors of the house of God,<sup>3</sup> were of the sons of Eleazar, and of the sons of Ithamar.

6 And Shemaiah the son of Nethaneel the scribe, one of the Levites, wrote them before the king, and the princes, and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, and before the chief of the fathers of the Levites, and before the chief of the fathers of the sons of Aaron.

8 The third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim,
9 The fifth to Malchijah, the sixth to Miniamin,<sup>5</sup>

10 The seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to Abijah,<sup>6</sup>

11 The ninth to Jeshua, the tenth to Shecaniah,

12 The eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim,

13 The thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshebeab,

14 The fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer,<sup>1</sup>

15 The seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Apses,

16 The nineteenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Jehezkel,

17 The one and twentieth to Jachin, the two and twentieth to Gamul, 18 The three and twentieth to Delaiah, the four and twentieth to Maaziah.

19 These were the "orderings" of them in their service to come into the house of the LORD,<sup>2</sup> according to their manner, under Aaron<sup>3</sup> their father, as the LORD God of Israel had commanded him.

20 ¶ And the rest of the sons of Levi were these: <sup>4</sup>Of the sons of Amram; Shubael: of the sons of Shubael;<sup>9</sup> Jehdeiah.

21 Concerning Rehabiah: of the sons of Rehabiah, the first was Isshiah.<sup>1</sup>

23 And the sons of <sup>3</sup>Hebron; Jeriah<sup>3</sup> the first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, Jekameam the fourth.

24 Of<sup>4</sup> the sons of Uzziel; Michah: of the sons of Michah; Shamir.

25 The brother of Michah was Isshiah: of the sons of Isshiah; Zechariah.

26 ¶ The "sons of Merari were Mahli and Mushi: the sons of Jaaziah: Beno.

27 The sons of Merari by Jaaziah; Beno, and Shoham, and Zaccur, and Itri.

28 Of Mahli came Eleazar, <sup>4</sup>who had no sons.

29 Concerning Kish: the son of Kish was Jerahmeel.

30 The "sons also of Mushi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jerimoth. These were the sons of the Levites, after the house of their fathers.

31 These likewise "cast lots over against their

4 As the evangelist Luke mentions the course of Abia as that to which Zacharias, the father of John the Baptist, belonged, it is evident that these courses of the priests established by David (no doubt under divine direction) were continued with some alteration till the days of Christ. These records must therefore have been very useful after the Babylonish captivity.—L.

7 Yet the precise arrangements cannot easily be ascertained, in consequence of some obscurities in the text. To reconcile ver. 4 with ver. 6 Geddes (who has bestowed much pains on these lists) translates the latter clause of ver. 6 thus:—"and Abiathar, the son of Abimelech, and the sons of the paternal chiefs of the priests and Levites: one paternal chief being taken for Ithamar, and two for Eleazar."—L.

16 There is some confusion in the list of names here. Dathe, following the Sept., thinks the verse describes the sons of Jeriah, and that the name of the eldest has dropped out. The variations here exist only in the translation, the original being uniformly Jeriah, Michah, and Isshiah.—L.

Jeduthun is said to have had six of these sons, but only five names are given. But Codex 172 of Kennicott, the Cod. ## CHAPTER XXV.

1 The number and offices of the singers. 8 Their division by lot into four and twenty orders.

MOREOVER David, and the captains<sup>a</sup> of the host,<sup>1</sup> separated to the service of the sons of <sup>b</sup>Asaph, and of Heman, and of Jeduthun,<sup>2</sup> who<sup>c</sup> should prophesy<sup>3</sup> with harps, with psalteries, and with cymbals: and the number of the workmen, according to their service, was:

2 Of the sons of Asaph; Zaccur, and Joseph, and Nethaniah, and <sup>d</sup>Asarelah, the sons of Asaph, under the hands of Asaph, which prophesied <sup>e</sup>according to the order of the king.

3 Of Jeduthun: the sons of Jeduthun; Gedaliah, and <sup>f</sup>Zeri, and Jeshaiiah, Hashabiah, <sup>g</sup>and Mattithiah, six, under the hands of their father Jeduthun, who prophesied with a harp, to give thanks and to praise the LORD.<sup>4</sup>

4 Of Heman: the sons of Heman; Bukkiah, Mattaniah, <sup>h</sup>Uzziel, <sup>i</sup>Shebuel, and Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romamti-ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth:

5 All these were the sons of Heman the <sup>k</sup>king's seer in the <sup>l</sup>words of God, to lift up the <sup>m</sup>horn. And <sup>n</sup>God gave to Heman fourteen sons and three daughters.

6 All these were under the hands of their father for <sup>o</sup>song in the house of the LORD, with cymbals, psalteries, and harps, for the service of the house of God, <sup>p</sup>according to the king's order to Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman.

7 So the number of them, with their brethren that were instructed in the songs of the LORD, even all that were cunning, was two hundred fourscore and eight.<sup>6</sup>

8 ¶ And they cast lots, <sup>q</sup>ward against ward, as well the small as the great, the teacher as the scholar.<sup>7</sup>

9 Now the first lot came forth for Asaph to Joseph: the second to Gedaliah, who with his brethren and sons were twelve:

10 The third to Zaccur, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

11 The fourth to Izri, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

12 The fifth to Nethaniah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

15 The eighth to Jeshaiiah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

16 The ninth to Mattaniah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

17 The tenth to Shimei, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

18 The eleventh to Azareel,<sup>8</sup> he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

19 The twelfth to Hashabiah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

20 The thirteenth to Shubael, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

21 The fourteenth to Mattithiah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

22 The fifteenth to Jerimoth, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

23 The sixteenth to Hananiah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

24 The seventeenth to Joshbekashah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

25 The eighteenth to Hanani, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

26 The nineteenth to Mallothi, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

27 The twentieth to Eliathah, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

28 The one and twentieth to Hothir, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

29 The two and twentieth to Giddalti, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

30 The three and twentieth to Mahazioth, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve:

31 The "four and twentieth" to Romamtiezer, he, his sons and his brethren were twelve.<sup>1</sup>

CHAPTER XXVI.

CONCERNING the divisions<sup>1</sup> of the porters: Of<sup>a</sup> the Korhites was Meshelemiah<sup>b</sup> the son of Kore, of the sons of Asaph.

2 And the sons of Meshelemiah were, Zechariah the first-born, Jedaiel the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth,

3 Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, Elioenai the seventh.

4 Moreover, the sons of Obed-edom were, Shemaiah the first-born, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, and Sacar the fourth, and Nethaneel the fifth,

5 Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peulthai the eighth: for God blessed him.<sup>2</sup>

9 There were just as many companies of musicians as there were of priests, ch. 24.18; and of the Levites attending on the priests, and helping them, ch. 24.31, twice as many as the months in the year. Thus all things were disposed for preserving order, and avoiding all disputes about precedent, 1 Co. 14.40.

11 It is said in ver. 1 that they were separated to this service by David and the captains of the host. But it should be 'the chiefs of the sacred orders' for it does not mean the military chiefs, but the heads of the priests and Levites, who in Nu. 4.3 are called by the same name. To them naturally belonged the appointment of singers, and not to the generals of the army.—At chap. 23.5 the number of musicians is given as 4000, whereas at ver. 7 of this chapter the number of those 'instructed in the songs of the Lord' is stated at only 288. Perhaps the 4000 (in which the 288 were doubtless included) were divided in such a manner that each of the larger courses included one of these minor courses, which, as consisting of the most perfect masters, took the lead in the service.—J.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 This chapter concludes the account of the careful organization of the great Levitical body established under the direction of David, and carried into effect after the erection of the temple by Solomon his son. The new distribution appears to have arisen partly out of the great increase in the number of the Levites, which must have rendered it difficult to give to a large proportion of them a share in their proper duties; and still more on account of the temple which was about to be erected, and the more extensive and varied duties connected with which rendered a modified arrangement necessary.—J.

8 Treasures—not merely money, but vessels, garments, wine, oil, flour, &c.

Dedicated things, principally here the holy things dedicated by Samuel, David, the princes, or people, for building and beautifying, and future maintenance of the temple. See ver. 26. 28. C.—This verse as it stands in the Hebrew and in the Authorized Version is very obscure. Ahijah is not mentioned in any of the previous lists, and he is introduced abruptly. Besides, according to the statement here made, he was over all the treasures, and consequently united in his own person those offices of which the occupants are named in the verses that follow. I am therefore of opinion that by a very slight clerical error the original Hebrew word signifying 'their brethren' has been changed into a proper name. The Septuagint preserves the true meaning: 'And the Levites their brethren were over the treasures,' &c.—P. r Or, Libni, ch. 6.17. 27.

s The text here has appeared to all interpreters exceedingly perplexed and mutilated; and yet all the ancient versions seem to have followed the same reading. The whole of this part of the chapter (viz., from ver. 12 to the end), as also chap. xxviii, is wanting in the Arabic and Syriac versions.

7 The sons of Shemaiah; Othni, and Rephael, and Obed, Elzabad, whose brethren were strong men, Elihu, and Semachiah.

8 All these of the sons of Obed-edom: they, and their sons, and their brethren, able men for strength for the service,<sup>3</sup> were threescore and two of Obed-edom.

9 And Meshelemiah had sons and brethren, strong men, eighteen.

10 Also Hosah, of the children of Merari, had sons; Simri the chief, (for though he was not the first-born, yet his father made him the chief.)

11 Hilkiyah the second, Tebaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth: all the sons and brethren of Hosah were thirteen.

12 Among these were the divisions of the porters, even among the chief men, having wards one against another, to minister in the house of the LORD.

13 ¶ And they cast lots, <sup>a</sup>as well the small as the great, according to the house of their fathers, for every gate.

14 And the lot eastward fell to Shelemiah; then for Zechariah his son (a wise counsellor) they cast lots, and his lot came out northward.

15 To Obed-edom southward; and to his sons the house of Asuppim.<sup>5</sup>

16 To Shuppim and Hosah the lot came forth westward, with the gate Shallecheth,<sup>6</sup> by the "causeway of the going up, ward against ward.

17 Eastward were six Levites, northward four a day, southward four a day, and toward Asuppim two and two.

18 At Parbar westward, four at the causeway, and two at Parbar.

19 These are the divisions of the porters among the sons of Kore, and among the sons of Merari.

20 ¶ And of the Levites, Ahijah was over the treasures of the house of God, and over the treasures of the dedicated<sup>7</sup> things.<sup>8</sup>

21 As concerning the sons of Laadan,<sup>9</sup> the sons of the Gershonite Laadan, chief fathers, even of Laadan the Gershonite, were Jehieli.

24 Joab the son of Zeruiah began to number, but he finished not, because <sup>b</sup>there fell wrath for it against Israel; neither was the number put in the account of the chronicles of king David.

25 ¶ And over the <sup>c</sup>king's treasures was Azmaveth the son of Adiel: and over the store-houses in the fields,<sup>7</sup> in the cities, and in the villages, and in the castles, was Jehonathan the son of Uziah.<sup>8</sup>

13 Also for the courses of the priests and the Levites, and for all the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and for all the vessels of service in the house of the LORD.

14 He gave of gold by weight for things of gold, for all instruments of all manner of service; silver also for all instruments of silver by weight, for all instruments of every kind of service:

15 Even the weight for the candlesticks of gold, and for their lamps of gold, by weight for every candlestick and for the lamps thereof: and for the candlesticks of silver by weight, both for the candlestick, and also for the lamps thereof, according to the use of every candlestick.

16 And by weight he gave gold for the tables of show-bread, for every table; and likewise silver for the tables of silver:

17 Also pure gold for the flesh-hooks, and the bowls, and the cups: and for the golden basins he gave gold by weight for every bason; and likewise silver by weight for every bason of silver:

18 And for the altar of incense refined gold by weight; and gold for the pattern of the chariot of the cherubims, that spread out their wings, and covered the ark of the covenant of the LORD.

19 All this, said David, the LORD made me understand in writing by his hand upon me, even all the works of this pattern.

20 ¶ And David said to Solomon his son, Be strong, and of good courage, and do it: fear not, nor be dismayed: for the LORD God, even my God, will be with thee; he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee, until thou hast finished all the work for the service of the house of the LORD.

21 And behold, the courses of the priests

There must be in it not only convenience but significance; it must not be left to man's art or invention to contrive it; but it must be framed by divine institution. Christ the true temple, the church, the temple, and heaven the everlasting temple, all are framed according to the divine counsels, and the plan laid in the divine wisdom, ordained before the world, for God's glory and our good.—Henry.

p In the original the word 'cherubim' is in apposition to 'chariot,' and not in the status constructus, as our translators appear to have supposed. In fact the form of the words shows at once to any scholar that there can be no genitive here. Consequently they should be translated: 'And for the pattern of the chariot—the cherubim, gold.' The cherubim constituted the chariot of Jehovah, as is stated in Ps. 18.10, and as is indicated in Eze. 10.14-17.—P.

CHAPTER XXIX.

1 David, by his example and entreaty, 6 causeth the princes and people to offer willingly. 10 David's thanksgiving and prayer. 20 The people, having blessed God, and sacrificed, make Solomon king the second time. 26 David's reign and death.

FURTHERMORE, David the king said unto all the congregation, Solomon my son, whom alone God hath chosen, is yet young and tender, and the work is great: for the palace is not for man, but for the LORD God.

2 Now, I have prepared with all my might for the house of my God, the gold for things to be made of gold, and the silver for things of silver, and the brass for things of brass, the iron for things of iron, and wood for things of wood; onyx-stones, and stones to be set, glistening stones, and of divers colours, and all manner of precious stones, and marble stones in abundance.

3 Moreover, because I have set my affection to the house of my God, I have of mine own proper good, of gold and silver, which I have given to the house of my God, over and above all that I have prepared for the holy house,

4 Even three thousand talents of gold, of the gold of Ophir, and seven thousand talents of refined silver, to overlay the walls of the houses withal.

5 The gold for things of gold, and the silver for things of silver, and for all manner of work to be made by the hands of artificers. And who then is willing to consecrate his service this day unto the LORD?

6 ¶ Then the chief of the fathers, and princes of the tribes of Israel, and the captains of thousands and of hundreds, with the rulers over the king's work, offered willingly,

7 And gave for the service of the house of God, of gold, five thousand talents and ten thousand drams, and of silver ten thousand talents, and of brass eighteen thousand talents, and one hundred thousand talents of iron.

8 And they with whom precious stones were found gave them to the treasure of the house of the LORD, by the hand of Jehiel the Gershonite.

9 Then the people rejoiced, for that they offered willingly, because with perfect heart

TOMB OF DAVID. [I Chronicles, xxix:28.]—"And he died in a good old age, full of days, riches, and honor: and Solomon his son reigned in his stead," David, we are told, together with his successors, was buried in his own city on Zion, and the site now known as David's Tomb stands on the south brow of the hill outside of the modern walls. Jews, Christians, and Moslems have for many centuries united in looking upon this site as genuine, and it is said to be often common to see Jews standing close to the building steadily and reverently contemplating the place. Josephus tells us that Hyrcanus, when besieged by Antiochus Pius, opened David's Sepulcher and took out 3,000 talents. There have been many stories current in different ages about the fabulous wealth buried in this tomb. On one occasion it is said a man was miraculously struck down while attempting to remove some of these treasures.

Blessed<sup>i</sup> be thou, LORD God of Israel our father, for ever and ever.

11 Thine,<sup>k</sup> O LORD, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine: thine is the kingdom, O LORD, and thou art exalted as head above all.

12 Both 'riches and honour come of thee, and<sup>m</sup> thou reignest over all; and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all.

13 Now therefore, our God, <sup>n</sup>we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name.

14 But <sup>o</sup>who am I, and what is my people, that we should be able to offer so willingly after this sort? for all <sup>p</sup>things come of thee, and of thine own have we given thee.

15 For <sup>q</sup>we are strangers before thee, and sojourners, as were all our fathers: our <sup>r</sup>days on the earth are as a shadow,<sup>3</sup> and there is none abiding.<sup>4</sup>

16 O LORD our God, <sup>s</sup>all this store, that we have prepared to build thee an house for thine holy name, cometh of thine hand, and is all thine own.

17 I know also, my God, that thou triest the<sup>t</sup> heart, and hast <sup>u</sup>pleasure in uprightness. As for me, in the uprightness of mine heart I have willingly offered all these things: and now have I seen with joy thy people, which are present here, to offer willingly unto thee.

18 O LORD <sup>v</sup>God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel, our fathers, <sup>w</sup>keep this for ever in the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of thy people, and <sup>x</sup>prepare their heart<sup>5</sup> unto thee:

19 And give unto Solomon my <sup>y</sup>son a perfect heart, to keep thy commandments, thy testimonies, and thy statutes, and to do all these things, and to build the palace, for the which <sup>z</sup>I have made provision.

wealth; and he gives the grace and wisdom rightly to use it. David sees and devoutly acknowledges all this. P.]

Ver. 22. [Abiathar had been priest during the reign of David. The cause of his disgrace, and Zadok's elevation, may be gathered from a number of incidental remarks in the history of David as narrated in Samuel and Kings. Abiathar was son of Ahimelech, who was slain by Saul because he had given David food and arms at Nob, 1 Sa. 22. 20. He fled to David, carrying with him the ephod, and he became David's constant companion. After the death of Saul, and David's accession to the throne, Abiathar was made high-priest, but he had Zadok as colleague. The former was descended from Ithamar, the youngest son of Aaron, 1 Ch.

Ver. 29. [It detracts nothing from the integrity and completeness of divine revelation even though we admit that these books have perished. God has by his providence preserved all that is necessary for the salvation of his church. The Bible was never intended to be merely a history. The facts of history which it contains were not intended merely for the gratification of man's curiosity. They have a higher object. The books of Samuel, Nathan, and Gad, which are here mentioned, may have been mere biographies of David, with no claim to inspiration. The mention of them here does not prove their inspiration; it merely proves that they were full and trustworthy records of national history. P.]

It is a pleasure for them to die in the comfortable prospect of the church's prosperity: and that they leave behind them such as will zealously endeavour the maintenance of religion in its purity and power. But how delightful is it when dying saints have their mouths opened in prayer, praise, and thanksgiving! And how amazing the infinite excellences and unbounded kindness of God! How unquestionable his right to our most exalted praise! Whatever gifts or grace men have, they have it all from him. And the more we do for him, we are the more indebted to him for employing and enabling us, and ought to walk the more humbly

THE SECOND BOOK OF CHRONICLES.

This book greatly coincides with the First and Second Book of Kings, and contains a history of about 480 years, till the return from Babylon: only there we had the history of Israel and Judah mixed together; in this we have scarcely anything but the history of David's descendants, much of which we had not before. In general the good kings were successful, and the wicked severely punished, as Moses had predicted, Le. xxvi.; De. xxviii.-xxxii.; iv. 25-30. Here we have the peaceable reign of Solomon, ch. i.-ix.; the blemished reign of Rehoboam, x.-xii.; the short but busy reign of Abijah, xiii.; the long and happy reign of Asa, xiv.-xvii.; the pious and prosperous reign of Jehoshaphat, xviii.-xx.; the infamous reigns of Jehoram and Ahaziah, xxi. xxii.; the unsteady reigns of Joash and Amaziah, xxiii.-xxv.; the long, prosperous, but ill-concluded reign of Uzziah, xxvi.; the regular reign of Jotham, xxvii.; the idolatrous, profane, and miserable reign of Ahaz, xxviii.; the reforming and glorious reign of Hezekiah, xxix.-xxxii.; the deforming and wicked reigns of Manasseh and Amon, xxxiii.; the pious and reforming reign of Josiah, xxxiv. xxxv.; and the reigns of Jehoahaz, Jehoiahkim, Jehoiahchin, and Zedekiah, destructive to the nation, xxxvi.

<sup>4</sup> But<sup>b</sup> the ark of God had David brought up from Kirjath-jearim to the place which David had prepared for it: for he had pitched a tent for it at Jerusalem.

<sup>7</sup> ¶ In<sup>f</sup> that night did God appear unto Solomon, and said unto him, Ask what I shall give thee.

<sup>aa</sup> Cities, where the more level nature of the country, the better state of the public ways, or where frontiers were exposed to sudden incursions, or where pasturage and forage were more abundant for the horses, were selected as the permanent stations of the chariots. Those at Jerusalem were, most probably, for state processions.—C.

<sup>bb</sup> This is no hyperbole; it is but another name for an untruth, never to be ascribed to the Holy Spirit—it is a literal statement, not that gold and silver coins were made of as little value as stones, nor as great in weight as stones, but that they were as plenty as building-stones, and as consumed as fuel.

David my father be established: for thou <sup>a</sup>hast made me king over a people like the dust<sup>b</sup> of the earth in multitude.

<sup>10</sup> Give<sup>a</sup> me now wisdom and knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this people: for who can judge this thy people, that is so great?<sup>7</sup>

<sup>11</sup> And God said to Solomon, Because this <sup>a</sup>was in thine heart, and thou hast not asked riches, wealth,<sup>8</sup> or honour, nor the life of thine enemies, neither yet hast asked long<sup>c</sup> life; but hast asked wisdom and knowledge for thyself, that thou mayest judge my people, over whom I have made thee king:

<sup>12</sup> Wisdom and knowledge is <sup>a</sup>granted unto thee; and I will give thee riches, and wealth, and honour, such as <sup>a</sup>none of the kings have had that have been before thee, neither shall there any after thee have the like.

17 And they fetched up, and brought forth out of Egypt, a chariot for six hundred shekels of silver, and an horse for an hundred and fifty.<sup>2</sup> and so brought they out horses for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, by their means.<sup>3</sup>

CHAPTER II.

1, 17 Solomon's labourers for the building of the temple. 3 His embassy to Hiram for skilful artificers and timber. 11 Hiram sendeth him a friendly answer.

AND Solomon determined<sup>1</sup> to build an house for<sup>a</sup> the name of the LORD, and an house for<sup>b</sup> his kingdom.

2 And Solomon told out threescore and ten thousand men to bear burdens, and fourscore thousand to hew in the mountain, and three thousand and six hundred to oversee them.<sup>2</sup>

3 ¶ And Solomon sent to Hiram<sup>3</sup> the king of Tyre, saying, As thou didst deal with David my father, and didst send him cedars to build him an house to dwell therein, even so deal with me.

4 Behold, I build an house to the name of the LORD my God, to dedicate it to him, and to burn before him sweet incense,<sup>4</sup> and for the continual show-bread, and for the burnt-offerings morning and evening, on the sabbaths, and on the new-moons, and on the solemn feasts of the LORD our God. This is an ordinance for ever to Israel.

5 And the house which I build is great: for great is our God above all gods.<sup>5</sup>

6 But<sup>a</sup> who is able<sup>6</sup> to build him an house, seeing the heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain him? who am I then, that I should build him an house, save only to burn sacrifice before him?

7 Send me now therefore a man cunning to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass, and in iron, and in purple, and in crimson, and blue, and that can skill to grave with the cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom David my father did provide.

8 Send<sup>a</sup> me also cedar-trees, fir-trees, and alnum-trees,<sup>7</sup> out of Lebanon: (for I know that thy servants can skill to cut timber in Lebanon:)<sup>8</sup>

A.M. 2989. B.C. 1015.

2 Some expositors consider the word translated 'linen yarn' to be a price. Bochart thinks it signifies the tail or custom. The sum paid for a chariot-horse, amounting to about £22, too, would seem, however, to indicate the price rather than any ad valorem export duty.—C.

THEN Solomon<sup>a</sup> began to build the house of the LORD at Jerusalem<sup>b</sup> in mount Moriah, where the LORD appeared unto David his father, in the place that David had prepared in the thrashing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

2 And he began to build<sup>c</sup> in the second day of the second month, in the fourth year of his reign.

3 ¶ Now these are the things wherein Solomon was instructed for the building of the house of God: the length by cubits, after the first measure,<sup>2</sup> was threescore cubits,<sup>3</sup> and the breadth twenty cubits.<sup>4</sup>

4 And the porch that was in the front of the house, the length of it was according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the height was an hundred and twenty:<sup>5</sup> and he overlaid it within with pure gold.

5 And the greater<sup>6</sup> house<sup>7</sup> he<sup>8</sup> ceiled with fir-tree, which he overlaid with fine gold, and set thereon palm-trees and chains.<sup>8</sup>

6 And he garnished<sup>9</sup> the house with precious stones for beauty:<sup>1</sup> and the gold was gold of Parvaim.<sup>2</sup>

7 He overlaid also the house, the beams, the posts, and the walls thereof, and the doors thereof, with gold; and graved cherubims on the walls.

8 ¶ And he<sup>3</sup> made the most holy house,<sup>3</sup> the length whereof was according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits,<sup>4</sup> and the breadth thereof twenty cubits: and he overlaid it with fine gold, amounting to six hundred talents.<sup>5</sup>

9 And the weight<sup>6</sup> of the nails<sup>7</sup> was fifty shekels of gold. And he overlaid the upper chambers with gold.

10 And<sup>1</sup> in the most-holy house he made two cherubims of image-work,<sup>8</sup> and overlaid them with gold.

11 And the wings of the cherubims were twenty cubits long: one wing of the one cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the 15 Jerusalem was built upon several hills. The largest and loftiest was Zion. On it stood the ancient temple, the sites which David captured and made the seat of his government. It was on this account called 'the city of David.'

When the ark was brought up from the house of Obad-edom, it was placed in a tabernacle specially prepared for it by king David, and erected on Mount Zion, and probably beside the palace. 2 Sa. 6. 12. 1 Ch. 16. 1. Solomon having now completed the erection of the temple, the ark was removed from Zion and conveyed to its fitting place on the summit of Mount Moriah in the holy of holies.—I.

CHAPTER V.

1 The dedicated treasures. 2 The solemn induction of the ark into the most holy place. 11 God being praised, giveth a visible sign of his favour.

THUS all the work that Solomon made for the house of the LORD was finished:<sup>1</sup> and Solomon brought in all the things that David his father had dedicated; and the silver, and the gold, and all the instruments, put he among the treasures of the house of God.

2 ¶ Then Solomon assembled the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief of the fathers of the children of Israel,<sup>2</sup> unto Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the city of David, which is Zion.<sup>3</sup>

3 Wherefore all the men of Israel assembled themselves unto the king in the feast which was in the seventh month.<sup>4</sup>

4 And all the elders of Israel came; and the Levites took up the ark.

5 And they brought up the ark, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, these did the priests and the Levites bring up.<sup>5</sup>

6 Also king Solomon, and all the congregation of Israel that were assembled unto him before the ark, sacrificed sheep and oxen, which could not be told nor numbered for multitude.

7 And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, to the oracle of the house, into the most holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims:

8 For the cherubims spread forth their wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark and the staves thereof above.

9 And they drew out the staves of the ark, that the ends of the staves were seen from the ark before the oracle; but they were not seen without. And there it is unto this day.<sup>6</sup>

10 There was nothing in the ark save the two tables which Moses put therein at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of Egypt.

11 ¶ And it came to pass, when the priests

12 Also<sup>a</sup> the Levites which were the singers, all of them of Asaph, of Heman, of Jeduthun, with their sons and their brethren, being arrayed in white linen, having cymbals, and psalteries, and harps, stood at the east end of the altar, and with them an hundred and twenty priests sounding with <sup>a</sup>trumpets;)

13 It came even to pass, as the trumpeters and singers were as one, to make <sup>a</sup>one sound to be heard in praising and thanking the LORD, and when they lifted up their voice with <sup>a</sup>the trumpets and cymbals and instruments of music, and praised the LORD, saying, 'For he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever; that then the house was filled with a cloud,<sup>1</sup> even the house of the LORD;<sup>2</sup>

14 So<sup>a</sup> that the priests could not stand to minister by reason of the cloud: for the glory of the LORD had filled the house of God.

CHAPTER VI.

THEN said<sup>a</sup> Solomon, The LORD hath said that he would dwell in the <sup>b</sup>thick darkness.<sup>1</sup>

2 But I have built an house <sup>a</sup>of habitation for thee, and a place for thy dwelling for ever.

3 And the king turned his face, and <sup>a</sup>blessed the whole congregation of Israel: (and all the congregation of <sup>a</sup>Israel stood:)

4 And he said, <sup>a</sup>Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, who hath with his hands <sup>a</sup>fulfilled that which he spake with his mouth to my father David, saying,

5 Since<sup>a</sup> the day that I brought forth my people out of the land of Egypt I chose no city among all the tribes of Israel to build an house in, that my name might be there; neither chose I any man to be a ruler over my people Israel.<sup>2</sup>

6 But I have chosen <sup>a</sup>Jerusalem, that my name might be there; and have chosen David to be over my people Israel.

7 Now <sup>a</sup>it was in the heart of David my father to build an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

8 But the LORD said to David my father, Forasmuch as it was in thine heart to build an house for my name, thou didst <sup>a</sup>well in that it was in thine heart:

9 Notwithstanding <sup>a</sup>thou shalt not build

In a cloud he exhibited the emblematic brightness of his glory, Ex. 16. 10, and from a thick cloud he spoke to Moses, Ex. 33. 9. From all which we learn that, even in the midst of light, there is still a mysterious darkness over the providence of the Almighty, and that even in our most sacred worship we can see but as through a cloud darkly. See ch. 6. 1.—C.

<sup>h</sup> 2 The ancient versions (followed by Dath), instead of house, read glory, by which the repetition of house is avoided. This suits better ver. 14. When the singers and musicians praised God with one sound, then the house was filled with the cloud. Where unity is, there the Lord commands the blessing (Henry).—

<sup>am</sup> 19 Accurately rendered, 'The heavens, and the heavens of heavens,' which expressions seem to imply (1) Simple systems of heavenly bodies, each composed of its sun, with its primary planets, and their satellites; (2) A vast compound system, of which these simple systems, however extended, constitute mere local members. But we may not supply by conjecture knowledge that is 'too high for us.' One thing, however, is certain—no discovery of philosophy has ever yet found a philosophical error in the Bible, while the Bible has anticipated many a proud discovery of philosophy.

<sup>an</sup> 20 These words seem to imply that there are systems and systems of systems, each possessing its sun, its primary and secondary planets; all extending beyond each other in unlimited space, in the same regular and graduated order that we find in our solar system, which probably in its thousands of millions of miles in diameter, is to some others no more than the area of the lunar orbit to that of the Georgium Sidus.—Clarke.

the house; but thy son which shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house for my name.

10 The LORD therefore hath performed his word that he hath spoken: for <sup>a</sup>I am risen up in the room of David my father, and am set on the throne of Israel, as <sup>a</sup>the LORD promised, and <sup>a</sup>have built the house for the name of the LORD God of Israel:

11 And<sup>a</sup> in it have I put the ark, wherein is the covenant of the LORD,<sup>3</sup> that he made with the children of Israel.

12 ¶ And <sup>a</sup>he stood before the altar of the LORD, in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and spread forth his hands,<sup>4</sup>

13 (For Solomon had made a brazen <sup>a</sup>scaffold, of five cubits long, and five cubits broad, and three cubits high, and had set it in the midst of the <sup>a</sup>court; and upon it he stood, and <sup>a</sup>kneeled down upon his knees before all the congregation of Israel, and <sup>a</sup>spread forth his hands toward heaven.)

14 And said, O LORD God of Israel, <sup>a</sup>there is no God like thee in the heaven, nor in the earth; <sup>a</sup>which keepest covenant, and <sup>a</sup>showest mercy unto thy servants that <sup>a</sup>walk before thee with all their hearts:

15 Thou which hast kept with thy servant David my father that which thou hast promised him; and spakest with thy mouth, and hast fulfilled it with thine hand, as it is this day.

16 Now therefore, O LORD God of Israel, <sup>a</sup>keep with thy servant David my father that which thou hast promised him, saying, <sup>a</sup>There shall not fail thee a man in my sight to sit upon the throne of Israel; yet so that thy children <sup>a</sup>take heed to their way, <sup>a</sup>to walk in my law, as thou hast walked before me.

17 Now<sup>a</sup> then, O LORD God of Israel, let thy word be verified, which thou hast spoken unto thy servant David.

18 (But <sup>a</sup>will God in very deed dwell with men on the earth? Behold, <sup>a</sup>heaven and the heaven of heavens<sup>5</sup> cannot contain thee; how much less this house which I have built!)

19 Have <sup>a</sup>respect therefore to the prayer of thy servant, and to his supplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and the prayer which thy servant <sup>a</sup>prayeth before thee:

20 That thine <sup>a</sup>eyes may be open upon this house day and night, upon the place whereof thou hast said that thou wouldest put thy name there; to hearken unto the prayer which thy servant prayeth toward this place.

21 Hearken therefore unto the supplications of thy servant, and of thy people Israel, which they shall make toward this place: hear thou from thy dwelling-place, even from heaven; and when thou hearest, forgive.<sup>8</sup>

22 ¶ If a man sin against his neighbour, and an oath be laid upon him to make him swear, and the oath come before thine altar in this house;

23 Then hear thou from heaven, and do, and judge thy servants, by requiring the wicked, by recompensing his way upon his own head; and by justifying the righteous, by giving him according to his righteousness.

24 ¶ And if thy people Israel be put to the worse before the enemy, because they have sinned against thee; and shall return and confess thy name, and pray, and make supplication before thee in this house;

25 Then hear thou from the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them again unto the land which thou gavest to them and to their fathers.

26 ¶ When the heaven is shut up, and there is no rain, because they have sinned against thee; yet if they pray toward this place, and confess thy name, and turn from their sin, when thou dost afflict them;

27 Then hear thou from heaven, and forgive the sin of thy servants, and of thy people Israel, when thou hast taught them the good way wherein they should walk; and send rain upon thy land, which thou hast given unto thy people for an inheritance.

28 ¶ If there be dearth<sup>1</sup> in the land, if there be pestilence, if there be blasting, or mildew, locusts, or caterpillars; if their enemies besiege them in the cities of their land; whatsoever sore or whatsoever sickness there be:

29 Then what prayer or what supplication soever shall be made of any man, or of all thy people Israel, when every one shall know his own sore, and his own grief,<sup>2</sup> and shall spread forth his hands in this house:

30 Then hear thou from heaven thy dwelling-place, and forgive, and render unto every man according unto all his ways, whose heart thou knowest; (for thou only knowest the hearts of the children of men.)

When Jesus calls as a physician (Mat. 9.12), he reveals the sore of sin, while the Father applies the remedy of affliction (He. 12.5-10), and the believer is taught out of the depths of sin, sorrow, and salutary affliction, to cry for mercy and salvation.—C.

35 Then hear thou from the heavens their prayer and their supplication, and maintain their cause.

36 ¶ If<sup>8</sup> they sin against thee, (for there is no man which sinneth not,) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them over before their enemies, and they carry them away captives unto a land far off or near;<sup>9</sup>

37 Yet if<sup>10</sup> they bethink<sup>9</sup> themselves in the land whither they are carried captive, and turn and pray unto thee in the land of their captivity, saying, We have sinned, we have done amiss, and have dealt wickedly;

38 If they return to thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their captivity, whither they have carried them captives, and pray toward their land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, and toward the city which thou hast chosen, and toward the house which I have built for thy name:

39 Then hear thou from the heavens, even from thy dwelling-place, their prayer and their supplications, and maintain their cause, and forgive thy people which have sinned against thee.

40 ¶ Now, my God, let, I beseech thee, thine eyes be open, and let thine ears be attent unto the prayer that is made in this place.<sup>1</sup>

41 Now therefore arise, O LORD God, into thy resting-place, thou, and the ark of thy strength:<sup>2</sup> let thy priests, O LORD God, be clothed with salvation,<sup>3</sup> and let thy saints rejoice in goodness.

42 O LORD God, turn not away the face of thine anointed: remember the mercies of David thy servant.<sup>5</sup> and consumed the burnt-offering and the sacrifices; and the glory of the LORD filled the house.

2 And the priests could not enter into the house of the LORD, because the glory of the LORD had filled the LORD's house.

3 And when all the children of Israel saw how the fire came down, and the glory of the LORD upon the house, they bowed themselves with their faces to the ground upon the pavement, and worshipped, and praised the LORD, saying, For he is good; for his mercy endureth for ever.

4 Then the king and all the people offered sacrifices before the LORD.

5 And king Solomon offered a sacrifice of twenty and two thousand oxen,<sup>2</sup> and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep.<sup>3</sup> So the king and all the people dedicated the house of God.

6 And the priests waited on their offices; the Levites also with instruments of music of the LORD, which David the king had made to praise the LORD, because his mercy endureth for ever, when David praised by their ministry;<sup>4</sup> and the priests sounded trumpets before them, and all Israel stood.

7 Moreover, Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the house of the LORD: for there he offered burnt-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings, because the brazen altar which Solomon had made was not able to receive the burnt-offerings, and the meat-offerings, and the fat.

8 Also at the same time Solomon kept the feast seven days, and all Israel with him, a very great congregation, from the entering in of Hamath unto the river of Egypt.<sup>5</sup>

9 And in the eighth day they made a solemn assembly:<sup>6</sup> for they kept the dedication of the altar seven days, and the feast<sup>7</sup> seven days.

10 And on the three and twentieth day of the seventh month he sent the people away into their tents, glad and merry in heart, for the goodness that the LORD had showed unto David, and to Solomon, and to Israel his people.

11 Thus Solomon finished the house of the LORD, and the king's house: and all that came into Solomon's heart to make in the house of the LORD, and in his own house, he prosperously effected.

12 And the LORD appeared to Solomon

17 The temple itself is wholly destroyed. Not one stone of it has been left upon another.

The rock on which it was founded on the summit of Moriah was left bare and desolate after the destruction of Jerusalem.

In the seventh century a mosque was erected over the site of the great altar of burnt-offering. That mosque still stands, and its beautiful dome surmounted by a gilded crescent.

PALMYRA ROAD, LEADING TO TADMOR—BUILT BY KING SOLOMON. [II. CHRONICLES, viii:4.]—"And he built Tadmor (Palmyra) in the wilderness, and all the store cities, which he built in Hamath." Palmyra in Old Testament times was called Tadmor. This city Solomon rebuilt 1000 B. C. in the wilderness east of Gilead between Damascus and the Euphrates. About 333 B. C. its name was changed to Palmyra. In A. D. 130 it submitted to Hadrian. In 260 Odenathus defeated Sapor, King of Persia, and in 266 Zenobia the wife of Sapor took the title of Queen of the East. Between 272 and 273 Aurelian besieged and took it. Its ruins covered several miles. There was a Temple of the Sun here, 90 columns of which still remain. Above we have a view of the road that passes Palmyra immediately after it leaves Damascus.

2 That the cities which Hiram had restored to Solomon,<sup>1</sup> Solomon built them, and caused the children of Israel to dwell there.

3 And Solomon went to Hamath-zobah, and prevailed against it.

4 And he built Tadmor<sup>2</sup> in the wilderness, and all the store-cities which he built in Hamath.

5 Also he built Beth-horon the upper, and Beth-horon the nether, fenced cities, with walls, gates, and bars;

6 And Baalath, and all the store-cities that Solomon had, and all the chariot-cities, and the cities of the horsemen, and all that Solomon desired to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and throughout all the land of his dominion.

7 ¶ As for all the people that were left of the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites, which were not of Israel,

8 But of their children, who were left after them in the land, whom the children of Israel consumed not, them did Solomon make to pay tribute until this day.<sup>3</sup>

9 But of the children of Israel did Solomon make no servants for his work; but they were men of war, and chief of his captains, and captains of his chariots and horsemen.

10 And these were the chief of king Solomon's officers, even two hundred and fifty, that bare rule over the people.

11 ¶ And Solomon brought up the daughter of Pharaoh out of the city of David unto the house that he had built for her: for he said, My wife shall not dwell in the house of David king of Israel, because the places are holy,<sup>4</sup> whereunto the ark of the LORD hath come.<sup>5</sup>

12 ¶ Then Solomon offered burnt-offerings unto the LORD on the altar of the LORD, which he had built before the porch, 13 Even after a certain rate every day, offering according to the commandment of Moses, on the sabbaths, and on the new-moons, and on the solemn feasts, three times in the year, even in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles.

14 ¶ And he appointed, according to the 16 ¶ Now all the work of Solomon was prepared unto the day of the foundation of the house of the LORD, and until it was finished. So the house of the LORD was perfected.

AND when<sup>a</sup> the queen of Sheba<sup>1</sup> heard of the fame of Solomon, she came to prove Solomon with hard questions at Jerusalem, with a very great company, and camels that bare spices, and gold in abundance, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart.<sup>2</sup>

2 And Solomon told her all her questions; and there was nothing hid from Solomon which he told her not.

3 And when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon, and the house that he had built,

4 And the meat of his table, and the sitting of his servants, and the attendance<sup>4</sup> of his ministers, and their apparel; his cup-bearers<sup>5</sup> also, and their apparel; and his ascent by which he went up into the house of the LORD; there was no more spirit in her.<sup>6</sup> of Shem through the influence of the Lord his God. It is necessary to set bounds to our desires after created things, as they are apt to become inordinate and in-report<sup>7</sup> which I heard in mine own land of thine acts,<sup>8</sup> and of thy wisdom:

6 Howbeit I <sup>believed</sup> not their words until I came, and mine eyes had seen it; and, behold, the one half of the greatness of thy wisdom was not told me: for thou <sup>exceedest</sup> the fame that I heard.

7 Happy <sup>are</sup> thy men, and happy <sup>are</sup> these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and hear thy wisdom.

8 Blessed<sup>m</sup> be the LORD thy God,<sup>1</sup> which delighted in thee to set thee on <sup>his</sup> throne, to be king for the LORD thy God;<sup>2</sup> because thy God loved Israel, to establish them for ever, therefore made he thee king over them, to do judgment and justice.

9 And <sup>she</sup> gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices great abundance, and precious stones: neither was there any such spice as the queen of Sheba gave king Solomon.

10 And the servants also of Hiram, and the servants of Solomon, which brought gold from Ophir,<sup>3</sup> brought <sup>algum-trees</sup> and precious stones.

11 And the king made of the algum-trees <sup>terraces</sup> to the house of the LORD, and to the king's palace, and harps and psalteries for singers: and there were none such seen before in the land of Judah.

12 And<sup>r</sup> king Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all her desire, whatsoever she asked, besides that which she had brought unto the king.<sup>5</sup> So she turned, and went away to her own land, she and her servants.

13 ¶ Now the <sup>weight</sup> of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred and threescore and six talents of gold;

14 Besides that which chapmen and merchants brought: and all the <sup>kings</sup> of Arabia, and governors<sup>6</sup> of the country, brought gold and silver to Solomon.<sup>7</sup>

1 There is no reason whatever for supposing the queen of Sheba to have been an idolater, conforming, for the occasion, to the worship of Jehovah. It is much more natural to suppose her an inquirer after truth, whose heart the Spirit had opened, and who, being instructed by Solomon, embraced the doctrines of Moses and the worship of Jehovah.—C.

He established a body of cavalry, which was forbidden (De. 17. 16) and horses were obtained from Egypt, with which the Israelites were forbidden to have intercourse. This connection with Egypt led to the marriage with Pharaoh's daughter; then followed marriages with other <sup>strange</sup> women. These persuaded Solomon to build temples for their idolatrous worship, and afterwards for his own idolatry.—C.

side and on the other upon the six steps: there was not the like made in any kingdom.

20 ¶ And <sup>all</sup> the drinking vessels of king Solomon were of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon were of <sup>pure</sup> gold: none were of silver;<sup>4</sup> it was not any thing accounted<sup>5</sup> of in the days of Solomon.

21 For the king's ships went to <sup>Tarshish</sup> with the servants of Hiram: every three years <sup>once</sup> came the ships of Tarshish, bringing gold, and silver, ivory,<sup>7</sup> and apes, and peacocks.

22 And king Solomon<sup>b</sup> passed all the kings of the earth in riches and wisdom.

23 ¶ And all the kings of the <sup>earth</sup> sought the presence of Solomon, to hear his wisdom, that God had put in his heart.

24 And they brought every man his <sup>present</sup>, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and raiment, harness, and spices, horses, and mules, a rate year by year.

25 ¶ And Solomon <sup>had</sup> four thousand <sup>stalls</sup> for horses and chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen; whom he bestowed in the chariot-cities, and with the king at Jerusalem.

26 ¶ And he <sup>reigned</sup> over all the kings, from the river<sup>1</sup> even unto the land of the Philistines, and to the border of Egypt.<sup>2</sup>

27 And the king <sup>made</sup> silver in Jerusalem as stones,<sup>3</sup> and cedar-trees made he as the sycamore-trees that are in the low plains in abundance.

28 And<sup>b</sup> they brought unto Solomon <sup>horses</sup> out of Egypt, and out of all lands.

29 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Solomon, first and last, are they not written in the <sup>book</sup> of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the visions of Iddo the seer against Jeroboam the son of Nebat?

30 And Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel forty years.

31 And Solomon slept with his fathers;<sup>6</sup> and he was buried in the city of David his father: and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

CHAPTER X.

1 The Israelites, assembled at Shechem to crown Rehoboam, by Jeroboam make a suit of relaxation unto him. 6 Rehoboam, refusing the old men's counsel, by the advice of young men answereth them roughly. 16 Ten tribes revolting kill Hadoram, and make Rehoboam to flee.

AND Rehoboam<sup>a</sup> went to Shechem:<sup>1</sup> for to Shechem were all Israel come to make him king.

4 Thy father made our yoke grievous: now therefore ease thou somewhat the grievous servitude of thy father, and his heavy yoke that he put upon us, and we will serve thee.

5 And he said unto them, Come again unto me after three days. And the people departed.

6 ¶ And king Rehoboam took counsel with the old men that had stood before Solomon his father while he yet lived, saying, What counsel give ye me to return answer to this people?

7 And they spake unto him, saying, If thou be kind to this people, and please them, and speak good words to them, they will be thy servants for ever.

8 But he forsook the counsel which the old men gave him, and took counsel with the young men that were brought up with him, that stood before him.

9 And he said unto them, What advice give ye that we may return answer to this people, which have spoken to me, saying, Ease somewhat the yoke that thy father did put upon us?

10 And the young men that were brought up with him spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou answer the people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it somewhat lighter for us; thus shalt thou say unto them, My little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins.

11 For whereas my father put a heavy yoke upon you, I will put more to your yoke: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

12 ¶ So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day, as the king bade, saying, Come again to me on the third day.

13 And the king answered them roughly: and king Rehoboam forsook the counsel of the old men.

14 And answered them after the advice of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add thereto: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

15 So the king hearkened not unto the people: for the cause was of God, that the LORD might perform his word, which he spake

4 Of this no evidence appears; indeed the evidence is to the contrary; but Judah and Israel had never thoroughly amalgamated, and this is a mere pretence of grievance to effect their separation. C. — Solomon's rage for building had the effect of oppressing and impoverishing the people, and this created a spirit of sedition and revolt.

5 The opinion of Calmet, that it was customary in eastern nations to associate certain fellow-students with the heirs of royalty, is by no means improbable. 1. It would be well suited to beget friendships, which, when sincere and honest, none require more than kings. 2. It would excite to emulation in study and all requisite accomplishments. 3. It would lead to the knowledge of the characters of those who might be future ministers and associates in government. The whole may be well combined in the one expressive modern phrase, school-fellows, associates upon whom, under Providence, much of character, and success or disaster, invariably depends. — C.

¶ This completes the climax of Rehoboam's folly. He had neglected the advice of his father's counsellors, and the Ephraimites had renounced their allegiance on account of their burdens and taxes; and to aggravate them, he sends Hadoram, or Adoniram, who was over the tribute; of course, the most unpopular man he could send. — Boothroyd.

4 A few soft words, and a removal of a part of the oppressive taxes for they said, 'Ease thou somewhat of the grievous servitude.' This people to the state, and prevented the shedding of a sea of human blood, which was the consequence of the separation of this kingdom. Rehoboam was a fool; and through his folly lost his kingdom. He is not the only example of folly. The Stuarts lost the realm of England much in the same way; and, by a different mode of treatment, the house of Brunswick continues to fill the British throne. May the thread of its fortune, woven by the hand of God, never be undone! and may the current of its power gliss on to the latest posterity! — Clarke.

So all Israel went to their tents.

17 But as for the children of Israel that dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then king Rehoboam sent Hadoram that was over the tribute, and the children of Israel stoned him with stones, that he died: but king Rehoboam made speed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem.

19 And Israel rebelled against the house of David unto this day.

CHAPTER XI.

1 Rehoboam raising an army to subdue Israel, is forbidden by the prophet Shemaiah. 5 He strengtheneth his kingdom with forts and provision. 13 The priests and Levites, and such as feared God, forsaken by Jeroboam, strengthen the kingdom of Judah. 18 The wives and children of Rehoboam.

AND when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he gathered of the house of Judah and Benjamin an hundred and fourscore thousand chosen men, which were warriors, to fight against Israel, that he might bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam.

2 But the word of the LORD came to Shemaiah the man of God, saying,

3 Speak unto Rehoboam the son of Solomon king of Judah, and to all Israel in Judah and Benjamin, saying,

4 Thus saith the LORD, Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren: return every man to his house; for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the words of the LORD, and returned from going against Jeroboam.

CHAPTER XII.

10 And <sup>o</sup>Zorah, and Aijalon, and <sup>p</sup>Hebron, which are in Judah and in Benjamin fenced cities.<sup>4</sup>

11 And he fortified the strong holds, and put <sup>q</sup>captains in them, and store of victual, and of oil and wine.

12 And in every several city he put shields and spears, and made them exceeding strong, having Judah and Benjamin on his side.

13 ¶ And the priests and the Levites that were in all Israel resorted to him out of all their coasts.

14 (For the Levites left <sup>r</sup>their suburbs and their possession, and came to Judah and Jerusalem: for <sup>s</sup>Jeroboam and his sons had cast them off from executing the priest's office unto the LORD:

15 And he <sup>t</sup>ordained him priests for the high places, and for the devils,<sup>5</sup> and for the calves which he had made.)

16 And <sup>u</sup>after them, out of all the tribes of Israel, such as set their hearts to seek the LORD God of Israel came to Jerusalem, to sacrifice unto the LORD God of their fathers.

17 So they strengthened the kingdom of Judah, and made Rehoboam the son of Solomon strong, three years: for <sup>v</sup>three years they walked in the way of David and Solomon.<sup>6</sup>

18 ¶ And Rehoboam took him Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth the son of David to wife, and Abihail the daughter of <sup>w</sup>Eliab<sup>7</sup> the son of Jesse;

19 Which bare him children; Jeush, and Shamariah, and Zaham.

20 And after her he took <sup>x</sup>Maachah the daughter of Absalom; which bare him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith.

21 And Rehoboam loved Maachah the daughter of Absalom above all his wives and his concubines: (for he took <sup>y</sup>eighteen wives, and threescore concubines, and begat twenty and eight sons and threescore daughters.)

22 And Rehoboam made Abijah the son of Maachah the chief, to be ruler among his brethren: for he thought to make him king.<sup>8</sup>

23 And he dealt wisely, and <sup>z</sup>dispersed of all his children throughout all the countries of Judah and Benjamin, unto every fenced city; and he gave them victual in abundance: and he desired <sup>a</sup>many wives.

1 Rehoboam, forsaking the Lord, is punished by Shishak's invasion.
5 He and the princes repenting at the preaching of Shemaiah, are delivered from destruction, but not from spoil. 13 The reign and death of Rehoboam.

AND it came to pass, <sup>a</sup>when Rehoboam had established the kingdom, and had strengthened himself, he forsook the law of the LORD, <sup>b</sup>and all Israel with him.

2 And it came to pass, <sup>c</sup>that, in the fifth year of king Rehoboam, <sup>d</sup>Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, because they had transgressed against the LORD,<sup>1</sup>

3 With <sup>e</sup>twelve hundred chariots, and threescore thousand horsemen: and the people were without number that came with him out of Egypt; the <sup>f</sup>Lubims,<sup>2</sup> the Sukkims,<sup>3</sup> and the Ethiopians.<sup>4</sup>

4 And he took <sup>g</sup>the fenced cities which per-tained to Judah, and came to Jerusalem.

5 ¶ Then came <sup>h</sup>Shemaiah the prophet to Rehoboam, and <sup>i</sup>to the princes of Judah, that were gathered together to Jerusalem because of Shishak, and said unto them, Thus saith the LORD, <sup>j</sup>Ye have forsaken me, and therefore have I also left you in the hand of Shishak.

6 Whereupon the princes of Israel and the king <sup>k</sup>humbled themselves; and they said, The LORD is righteous.

7 And when the LORD saw that they humbled themselves, the word of the LORD came to Shemaiah, saying, They have humbled themselves; therefore I will not destroy them, but I will grant them some<sup>5</sup> deliverance; and my wrath<sup>6</sup> shall not be poured out upon Jerusalem by the hand of Shishak.

8 Nevertheless they shall be his servants; that they may know <sup>l</sup>my service, and the service of the kingdoms of the countries.<sup>7</sup>

9 So Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, and took away <sup>m</sup>the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king's house; he took all: he carried away also the shields of gold which Solomon had <sup>n</sup>made.

10 Instead of which <sup>o</sup>king Rehoboam made shields of brass, and committed them to the hands of the chief of the guard, <sup>p</sup>that kept the entrance of the king's house.<sup>8</sup>

11 And when the king entered into the house of the LORD, the guard came and fetched them, and brought them again into the guard-chamber.

TOMB OF KAIT BEY—A MODERN PHARAOH OF EGYPT. [II. Chronicles, xii:9]—"So Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, and took away the treasures of the house of the Lord." The tomb of Kait Bey marks the resting place of one of the modern Pharaohs of Egypt. He was the successor in the respect that he was one of the last of the independent Mameluke Sultans of Egypt. He was in the line of succession from Shishak, who was the king of Egypt in the time of Rehoboam. This tomb is about eighty feet long and seventy feet wide. It has some fine mosaics, and is thought to be the finest piece of architecture in Cairo. The door has a bronze covering about forty-five feet in height. Kait Bey was Sultan of Egypt from 1468 to 1496. As a general and a diplomatist he successfully maintained his position against the Porte. He was compelled, finally, however, to abdicate in favor of his son, Mohammed, a boy of fourteen.

12 And when he humbled himself, the wrath of the LORD turned from him, that he would not destroy him altogether: and also in Judah things went well.

13 ¶ So king Rehoboam strengthened himself in Jerusalem, and reigned: for Rehoboam was one and forty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which the LORD had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel to put his name there: and his mother's name was Naamah an Ammonitess.

14 And he did evil, because he prepared not his heart to seek the LORD.

15 Now the acts of Rehoboam, first and last, are they not written in the book<sup>1</sup> of Shemaiah the prophet, and of Iddo the seer, concerning genealogies? And there were wars between Rehoboam and Jeroboam continually.

16 And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David: and Abijah his son reigned in his stead.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 Abijah succeeding maketh war against Jeroboam. 4 He declareth the right of his cause. 13 Trusting in God he overcometh Jeroboam. 21 The wives and children of Abijah.

NOW in the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam began Abijah to reign over Judah.

2 He reigned three years in Jerusalem. (his mother's name also was Michaiiah,<sup>3</sup> the daughter of Uriel of Gibeah:) and there was war between Abijah and Jeroboam.

3 And Abijah set the battle in array,<sup>4</sup> with an army of valiant men of war, even four hundred thousand chosen men: Jeroboam also set the battle in array against him with eight hundred thousand chosen men, being mighty men of valour.<sup>5</sup>

4 ¶ And Abijah stood up upon mount Zemaraim,<sup>6</sup> which is in mount Ephraim, and said, Hear me, thou Jeroboam, and all Israel;

5 Ought ye not to know that the LORD God of Israel gave the kingdom over Israel to

David for ever, even to him and to his sons by a covenant of salt?<sup>7</sup>

6 Yet Jeroboam the son of Nebat, the servant of Solomon the son of David, is risen up, and hath rebelled against his lord.

7 And there are gathered unto him vain men, the children of Belial, and have strengthened themselves against Rehoboam the son of Solomon, when Rehoboam was young<sup>8</sup> and tender-hearted, and could not withstand them.

8 And now ye think to withstand the kingdom of the LORD in the hand of the sons of David; and ye be a great multitude, and there are with you golden calves, which Jeroboam made you for gods.

9 Have ye not cast out the priests of the LORD, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites,<sup>9</sup> and have made you priests after the manner of the nations of other lands? so that whosoever cometh to consecrate himself with a young bullock and seven rams,<sup>1</sup> the same may be a priest of them that are no gods.

10 But as for us, the LORD is our God, and we have not forsaken him; and the priests, which minister unto the LORD, are the sons of Aaron, and the Levites wait upon their business:

11 And they burn unto the LORD, every morning and every evening, burnt-sacrifices and sweet incense: the show-bread also set they in order upon the pure table; and the candlestick of gold, with the lamps thereof, to burn every evening: for we keep the charge of the LORD our God; but ye have forsaken him.

12 And, behold, God himself is with us for our captain, and his priests with sounding trumpets to cry alarm against you. O children of Israel, fight ye not against the LORD God of your fathers; for ye shall not prosper.<sup>2</sup>

13 ¶ But Jeroboam caused an ambushment to come about behind them: so they were before Judah, and the ambushment was behind them.

14 And when Judah looked back, behold, the precious from the vile. Nothing so strengthens a nation as when all ranks concur to walk in the way of the Lord. But, alas! how often do princes weaken their kingdoms by their indulgence of sinful lust and following of long-rooted customs! And happy is it if those who begin foolishly would but end wisely in the right disposal of their children or their property!

CHAPTER XII. [Ver. 2. Shishak has been satisfactorily identified with Sesouchis, the first king of the Diospolitan dynasty. The name is found on Egyptian monuments in the form Sheshouk. In the temple of stupid and self-conceited sinners must have the plainest providences explained to them before they understand them. They whom the Lord hath left ought to blame themselves as the guilty cause, and to humble themselves under his mighty hand: for it is vain to project means of defence if we continue unhumbled for our sins. The greatest kings and princes must either be humbled or ruined: and we are never humbled aright till we justify God in our sufferings. But how God's bowels yearn towards repenting prodigals! How forward he is to meet them with merciful deliverances who humble themselves!

for himself. Judgments which make us learn righteousness are mercies in disguise. But if our heart be not engaged in the service of God all is naught. They who never had their heart fixed to him, and never made real religion their principal business, are easily drawn to anything evil. Though God's judgments may force men to their prayers, nothing but almighty grace can convert them to himself. And, alas! how many in his church do but cumber the ground while they live, and in a moment go down to their grave!

the battle was before and behind: and they cried<sup>a</sup> unto the LORD, and the priests sounded with the trumpets.

15 Then the men of Judah gave a shout: and as the men of Judah shouted, it came to pass, that God smote Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah.

16 And the children of Israel fled before Judah; and God delivered them into their hand.

17 And Abijah and his people slew them with a great slaughter: so there fell down slain of Israel five hundred thousand chosen men.<sup>3</sup>

18 Thus the children of Israel were brought under at that time, and the children of Judah prevailed, because they relied upon the LORD God of their fathers.

19 And Abijah pursued after Jeroboam, and took cities from him, Beth-el with the towns thereof, and Jeshanah with the towns thereof, and Ephraim with the towns thereof.

20 Neither did Jeroboam recover strength again in the days of Abijah: and the LORD struck<sup>m</sup> him, and he died.<sup>4</sup>

21 ¶ But Abijah waxed mighty, and married fourteen<sup>a</sup> wives,<sup>5</sup> and begat twenty and two sons, and sixteen daughters.

22 And the rest of the acts of Abijah, and his ways, and his sayings, are written in the story<sup>6</sup> of the prophet Iddo.

CHAPTER XIV.

1 Asa succeeding destroyeth idolatry. 6 Having peace, he strengtheneth his kingdom with forts and armies. 9 Calling on God, he overthroweth Zerah, and spoileth the Ethiopians.

SO Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David: and Asa his son reigned in his stead. In his days the land was quiet ten years.

2 And Asa did that which <sup>a</sup>was good and right in the eyes of the LORD his God.<sup>1</sup>

3 For he took away <sup>a</sup>the altars of the strange gods, and the high places, and brake down the images,<sup>2</sup> and cut down the groves;<sup>3</sup>

4 And <sup>a</sup>commanded Judah to seek the LORD God of their fathers, and to do the law and the commandment.

5 Also<sup>a</sup> he took away out of all the cities of Judah the high places and the images:<sup>4</sup> and the kingdom was quiet before him.<sup>5</sup>

6 ¶ And he built fenced cities in Judah: for the land had rest, and he had no war in those years; because the LORD had given him rest.

7 Therefore he said unto Judah, Let us build these cities, and make about them walls, and towers, gates, and bars, while the land is yet before us; <sup>a</sup>because we have sought the LORD our God, we have sought him, and he hath given us rest on every side: so they built and prospered.

8 ¶ And Asa had an army of men that bare targets and spears, out of Judah three hundred thousand; and out of Benjamin, that bare shields and drew bows, two hundred and four-score thousand: all these were mighty men of valour.<sup>6</sup>

9 ¶ And<sup>m</sup> there came out against them Zerah the Ethiopian, with an host of a <sup>a</sup>thousand thousand,<sup>7</sup> and three hundred chariots; and came unto Mareshah.

10 Then Asa went out against him, and they set the battle in array in the valley of Zephatah at Mareshah.

11 And Asa cried unto the LORD his God, and said, LORD, <sup>a</sup>it is nothing with thee to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power: help us, O LORD our God; for <sup>a</sup>we rest on thee, and in thy name we go against this multitude. O LORD, thou art our God; let not man prevail against thee.

12 So the LORD smote the Ethiopians before Asa, and before Judah; and the Ethiopians fled.<sup>8</sup>

13 And Asa, and the people that were with him, pursued them unto Gerar:<sup>9</sup> and the Ethiopians were overthrown, that they could not recover themselves; for they were destroyed before the LORD, and before his host: and they carried away very much spoil.

14 And they smote all the cities round about Gerar;<sup>1</sup> for the fear of the LORD came upon them: and they spoiled all the cities; for there was exceeding much spoil in them.

15 They smote also the tents of cattle, and carried away sheep and camels in abundance, and returned to Jerusalem.

2 And he went out to meet<sup>1</sup> Asa, and said unto him, Hear ye me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin; The LORD is with you, while ye be with him; and if ye seek him, he will be found of you; but if ye forsake him, he will forsake you.

3 Now for a long season<sup>2</sup> Israel hath been without the true God, and without a teaching priest, and without law:

4 But when they in their trouble did turn unto the LORD God of Israel, and sought him, he was found of them.

5 And in those times there was no peace to him that went out, nor to him that came in, but great vexations were upon all the inhabitants of the countries.

6 And nation was destroyed<sup>3</sup> c<sup>4</sup> nation, and city of city: for God did vex them with all adversity.

7 Be ye strong therefore, and let not your hands be weak: for your work shall be rewarded.

8 ¶ And when Asa heard these words, and the prophecy of Oded<sup>4</sup> the prophet, he took courage, and put away the abominable idols out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had taken from mount Ephraim, and renewed the altar of the LORD that was before the porch of the LORD.

9 And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and the strangers with them out of Ephraim and Manasseh, and out of Simeon: (for they fell to him out of Israel in abundance, when they saw that the LORD his God was with him:)<sup>5</sup>

10 So they gathered themselves together at Jerusalem in the third month, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa.

11 And they offered unto the LORD the same time,<sup>6</sup> of the spoil which they had brought, seven hundred oxen, and seven thousand sheep.

12 And they entered into a covenant to seek the LORD God of their fathers with all their heart, and with all their soul;

here mentioned were Israelites belonging to tribes not included in the kingdom of Judah. It is singular that some even out of Ephraim, the great rival tribe, coming to Jerusalem. It is evident that many in the northern kingdom

were dissatisfied and shocked at the idolatry

there practised, and now when they saw the pure worship of God re-established under Asa, they embraced the precious opportunity of journeying to Jerusalem to join in it. It is not to be inferred from the mention of

'strangers' out of

Simeon, that the tribe and territory of Simeon were not included in the southern formed part of Judah;

but it seems that some of the Simeonites

and settled in the northern kingdom.

They are here called

13 That whosoever would not seek the LORD God of Israel should be put to death, whether small or great, whether man or woman.<sup>7</sup>

14 And they sware unto the LORD with a loud voice, and with shouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets.

15 And all Judah rejoiced at the oath: for they had sworn with all their heart, and sought him with their whole desire; and he was found of them: and the LORD gave them rest round about.

16 ¶ And also concerning Maachah the mother of Asa the king, he removed her from being queen,<sup>8</sup> because she had made an idol<sup>1</sup> in a grove: and Asa cut down her idol, and stamped it, and burnt it at the brook Kidron.

17 But the high places were not taken away out of Israel: nevertheless the heart of Asa was perfect all his days.

18 ¶ And he brought into the house of God the things that his father had dedicated, and that he himself had dedicated, silver, and gold, and vessels.

19 And there was no more war unto the five and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa.

CHAPTER XVI.

1 Asa, by the aid of the Syrians, diverteth Baasha from building of Ramah. 7 Being reproved thereof by Hanani, he putteth him in prison. 11 Among his other acts in his disease he seeketh not to God, but to the physicians. 13 His death and burial.

IN the six and thirtieth year of the reign<sup>1</sup> of Asa, Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah, to the intent that he might let none go out or come in to Asa king of Judah.<sup>2</sup>

2 Then Asa brought out silver and gold out of the treasures of the house of the LORD and of the king's house, and sent to Ben-hadad king of Syria, that dwelt at Damascus,<sup>3</sup> saying, 3 There is a league between me and thee, as there was between my father and thy father: behold, I have sent thee silver and gold; go, break thy league with Baasha king of Israel, that he may depart from me.

4 And Ben-hadad hearkened unto king Asa, and sent the captains of his armies against the cities of Israel; and they smote Tjon, and Dan, and Abel-maim, and all the store-cities of Naphtali.<sup>6</sup> profound peace it is proper to prepare for war: the clouds will return after the rain. God often tries his people with great danger and distress while they are in vain; but that the case of churches and nations is extremely bad when God forsakes them; and that the best which

COFFEE GARDEN, ABANA RIVER. [II. Chronicles, xvi 2]--"Then Asa brought out silver and gold out of the treasures of the house of the Lord and of the king's house, and sent to Ben hadad, king of Syria, that dwelt at Damascus." One of the things that will strike any traveler at Damascus is the great number of coffee gardens, which are found in different portions of the city. These gardens upon some one of their sides usually front the Abana river. The natives gather here to smoke the nargileh pipe or cigarette and to drink black coffee. These gardens are filled with large trees and adorned by beautiful flowering shrubs. Rose bushes grow in all of them, and roses are taken from these gardens with which to make the famous attar of roses. During the night, when the gardens are illuminated, they look as if they might be scenes of the Arabian Nights. The great charm of Damascus is its abundant supply of water.

5 And it came to pass, when Baasha heard it, that he left off building of Ramah, and let his work cease.

6 Then Asa the king took all Judah; and they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha was a building; and he built therewith Geba and Mizpah.

7 ¶ And at that time Hanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah, and said unto him, 'Because thou hast relied on the king of Syria, and not relied on the LORD thy God, therefore is the host of the king of Syria escaped' out of thine hand.

8 Were not the Ethiopians and the Lubims a huge host, with very many chariots and horsemen? yet, because thou didst rely on the LORD, he delivered them into thine hand.

9 For the eyes of the LORD run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to show himself strong in the behalf of them whose heart is perfect toward him. Herein thou hast done foolishly: therefore from henceforth thou shalt have wars.

10 Then Asa was wroth with the seer, and put him in a prison-house; for he was in a rage with him because of this thing. And Asa oppressed some of the people the same time.

11 ¶ And, behold, the acts of Asa, first and last, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

12 And Asa, in the thirty and ninth year of his reign, was diseased in his feet, until his disease was exceeding great; yet in his disease he sought not to the LORD, but to the physicians.

13 ¶ And Asa slept with his fathers, and died in the one and fortieth year of his reign.

14 And they buried him in his own sepulchres, which he had made for himself in the city of David, and laid him in the bed which was filled with sweet odours, and divers kinds of spices prepared by the apothecaries' art: and they made a very great burning for him.

That the first ways of Asa were religious is recorded (ch. 12. 2), and may not David have been one of his names, generally dropped for the name of Asa, or the phylarch, a name probably derived from his following physicians to the neglect of God, ch. 12. 2? C.—There can be no doubt that king David is here referred to. According to Hebrew idiom and eastern custom the word father has a very wide signification. It may mean any ancestor however remote. 3 And the LORD was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the first ways of his father David, and sought not unto Baalim;

4 But sought to the LORD God of his father, and walked in his commandments, and not after the doings of Israel:

5 Therefore the LORD established the kingdom in his hand: and all Judah brought to Jehoshaphat presents; and he had riches and honour in abundance.

6 And his heart was lifted up in the ways of the LORD: moreover, he took away the high places and groves out of Judah.

7 ¶ Also, in the third year of his reign, he sent to his princes, even to Ben-hail, and to Obadiah, and to Zechariah, and to Nethaneel, and to Michaiah, to teach in the cities of Judah.

8 And with them he sent Levites, even Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Asahel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehonathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, Levites; and with them Elishama and Jehoram, priests.

9 And they taught in Judah, and had the book of the law of the LORD with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.

10 ¶ And the fear of the LORD fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah, so that they made no war against Jehoshaphat.

11 Also some of the Philistines brought Jehoshaphat presents, and tribute-silver; and the Arabians brought him flocks, seven thousand and seven hundred rams, and seven thousand and seven hundred he-goats.

12 ¶ And Jehoshaphat waxed great exceedingly; and he built in Judah castles, and cities of store.

13 And he had much business in the cities of Judah; and the men of war, mighty men of valour, were in Jerusalem.

14 And these are the numbers of them, according to the house of their fathers: Of Judah, the captains of thousands, Adnah the chief, and with him mighty men of valour

15 And next to him<sup>1</sup> was Jehohanan the captain, and with him two hundred and fourscore thousand.

19 These<sup>3</sup> waited on the king, besides those whom the king<sup>2</sup> put in the fenced cities throughout all Judah.<sup>4</sup>

CHAPTER XVIII.

1 Jehoshaphat, joined in affinity with Ahab, is persuaded to go with him against Ramoth-gilead. 4 Ahab, seduced by false prophets, according to the word of Micaiah, is slain there.

NOW Jehoshaphat had<sup>1</sup> riches and honour in abundance, and<sup>2</sup> joined affinity with Ahab.<sup>1</sup>

2 And<sup>2</sup> after certain years<sup>2</sup> he went down to Ahab to Samaria: and Ahab killed sheep and oxen for him in abundance, and for the people that he had with him, and persuaded him to go up with him to Ramoth-gilead.

3 And Ahab king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat king of Judah, Wilt thou go with me to Ramoth-gilead? And he answered him, I am as thou art, and my people as thy people; and we will be with thee in the war.

4 ¶ And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel, Inquire, I pray thee, at the word of the LORD to-day.

5 Therefore the king of Israel gathered together of prophets four hundred men,<sup>3</sup> and said unto them, Shall we go to Ramoth-Gilead to battle, or shall I forbear? And they said, Go<sup>2</sup> up; for God<sup>4</sup> will deliver it into the king's hand.

6 ¶ But Jehoshaphat said, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD<sup>2</sup> besides, that we might inquire of him?

7 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, There is yet one man, by whom we may inquire of the LORD: but I hate him; for he never prophesieth good unto me, but always evil: the same is Micaiah the son of Imla. And Jehoshaphat said, Let not the king say so.

A GORA TEMPLE IN ATHENS, GREECE—WHERE MEGACLES WAS THE CHIEF ARCHON, WHEN AHAB AND JEHOSEPHAT REIGNED OVER ISRAEL AND JUDAH. [II. Chron., xviii. 1.]—"Now Jehoshaphat had riches and honor in abundance, and joined affinity with Ahab." Jehoshaphat succeeded Asa as king of Judah in 914 B. C. Ahab succeeded Omri as king of Israel in 918 B. C. In B. C. 912 an alliance was made between Jehoshaphat and Ahab. About the same time Megacles was the chief archon of Athens, and it was during this period that the Eupatrids arose in open revolt and besieged the Acropolis in Athens. Illustrating this contemporaneous Greek history we give a picture of the Agora temple in Athens which stands just beneath the Acropolis on the side of the north wall, and is doubtless in the very neighborhood of the revolt led by Cylon. Cylon was of the highest rank and position, and a man of great wealth who suddenly appeared in arms against the Athenian government. It is interesting thus to see what was taking place in Greece at the time Ahab and Jehoshaphat ruled in Judah and in Israel.

CHAPTER XIX.

23 ¶ Then Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah came near, and smote Micaiah upon the cheek, and said, Which way went the Spirit of the LORD from me to speak unto thee?

24 And Micaiah said, Behold, thou shalt see on that day when thou shalt go into an inner chamber to hide thyself.<sup>9</sup>

25 Then the king of Israel said, Take ye Micaiah, and carry him back to Amon the governor of the city, and to Joash the king's son;

26 And say, Thus saith the king, Put this fellow in the prison, and feed him with bread of affliction, and with water of affliction, until I return in peace.

27 And Micaiah said, If thou certainly return in peace, then hath not the LORD spoken by me. And he said, Hearken, all ye people.<sup>1</sup>

28 ¶ So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

29 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, I will disguise myself, and will go to the battle; but put thou on thy robes.<sup>3</sup> So the king of Israel disguised himself; and they went to the battle.

30 Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of the chariots that were with him, saying, Fight ye not with small or great, save only with the king of Israel.<sup>4</sup>

31 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, that they said, It is the king of Israel; therefore they compassed about him to fight: but Jehoshaphat cried out,<sup>5</sup> and the LORD helped him; and God moved them to depart from him.

32 For it came to pass, that, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Israel, they turned back again from pursuing him.<sup>6</sup>

33 ¶ And a certain man drew a bow at a venture,<sup>7</sup> and smote the king of Israel between the joints of the harness:<sup>8</sup> therefore he said to his chariot-man, Turn thine hand, that thou mayest carry me out of the host; for I am wounded.<sup>9</sup>

34 And the battle increased that day: howbeit the king of Israel stayed himself up in his chariot against the Syrians until the even: and about the time of the sun going down he died.<sup>2</sup>

1 The object of this invasion was to expel the Israelites, and partition their land among the confederates (ver. 21);

and it is by no means improbable that Jehoshaphat's zeal for reformation had provoked his heathen neighbours to this attack. His promise of the land, and his zeal for his own worship, rendered therefore, the cause eminently that of God.

5 God has scattered beauty widely through creation. It is seen in the grass,

the flowers, the trees,

in birds and beasts, and in the human face divine. It is united with sublimity in sun, and moon, and stars; and in all these it necessarily excites feelings of admiration, and re-cettes devout praise.

But of all beautiful objects, holiness is the most beautiful, and therefore, the most suitable subject for our most ardent song.—C.

8 The sense is obscure. The Hebrew word rendered 'ambushments' signifies

'liars in wait'; and it would seem from the whole scope of the passage that angels are meant. Reference could not be made to the Jews themselves, for it is expressly stated they were not to fight.

The battle was the Lord's; the victory was the Lord's; consequently it is natural to conclude that the Lord's hosts were the agents. Though unseen they were mighty and irresistible. They excited too the mutual jeal-ousies of the rival tribes, which had united for a common

for "we have no might against this great company that cometh against us; neither know we what to do: but our eyes are upon thee.

13 And all Judah stood before the LORD, with their little ones, their wives, and their children.

14 ¶ Then* upon Jahaziel the son of Zechariah, the son of Benaiah, the son of Jeiel, the son of Mattaniah, a Levite of the sons of Asaph, came the Spirit of the LORD in the midst of the congregation;

15 And he said, Harken ye, all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem, and thou king Jehoshaphat, Thus saith the LORD unto you, Be not afraid nor dismayed by reason of this great multitude; for the battle is not yours, but God's.<sup>1</sup>

16 To-morrow go ye down against them: behold, they come up by the cliff<sup>2</sup> of Ziz; and ye shall find them at the end of the brook, before the wilderness of Jeruel.

17 Ye shall not need to fight in this battle: set yourselves, stand ye still, and see the salvation of the LORD with you, O Judah and Jerusalem: fear not, nor be dismayed: to-morrow go out against them; for the LORD will be with you.

18 And Jehoshaphat bowed his head with his face to the ground: and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell before the LORD, worshipping the LORD.

19 And the Levites, of the children of the Kohathites, and of the children of the Korhites, stood up to praise the LORD God of Israel with a loud voice on high.

20 ¶ And they rose early in the morning, and went forth into the wilderness of Tekeah: and as they went forth, Jehoshaphat stood and said, Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem; Believe in the LORD your God, so shall ye be established; believe his prophets, so shall ye prosper.

21 And when he had consulted with the people, he appointed singers unto the LORD, and that should praise<sup>4</sup> the beauty of holiness, as they went out before the army, and to say, Praise the LORD; for his mercy endureth for ever.

22 ¶ And when they began to sing and to praise, the LORD set ambushments<sup>5</sup> against the and the just commendation mingled with them, in a speedy returning to the Lord, and an activity in his service. When a blessing was pronounced upon the children of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and with children of Ammon, Moab, and mount Seir, which were come against Judah;<sup>7</sup> and they were smitten.<sup>8</sup>

23 For the children of Ammon and Moab stood<sup>9</sup> up against the inhabitants of mount Seir, utterly to slay and destroy them: and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, every one helped to destroy<sup>9</sup> another.

24 And when Judah came toward the watchtower in the wilderness, they looked unto the multitude, and, behold, they were <sup>2</sup>dead bodies fallen to the earth, and none escaped.<sup>1</sup>

25 And when Jehoshaphat and his people came to take away the spoil of them, they found among them in abundance both riches with the dead bodies,<sup>2</sup> and <sup>3</sup>precious jewels, (which they stripped off for themselves,) more than they could carry away: and they were three days in gathering of the spoil, it was so much.

26 ¶ And on the fourth day they assembled themselves in the valley of <sup>4</sup>Berachah;<sup>3</sup> for there they blessed the LORD:<sup>4</sup> therefore <sup>5</sup>the name of the same place was called, The valley of Berachah unto this day.

27 Then they returned, every man of Judah and Jerusalem, and Jehoshaphat in the <sup>6</sup>forefront of them, to go again to Jerusalem with joy; for the LORD <sup>7</sup>had made them to rejoice over their enemies.

28 And they came to Jerusalem with psalteries, and harps, and trumpets, unto the house of the LORD.

29 And the <sup>8</sup>fear of God was on all the kingdoms of those countries, when they had heard that the LORD fought against the enemies of Israel.

30 So the realm of Jehoshaphat was quiet; for his God <sup>9</sup>gave him rest round about.

31 ¶ And<sup>10</sup> Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah. He was thirty and five years old when he began to reign;<sup>5</sup> and he reigned twenty and five years in Jerusalem: and his mother's name was Azubah, the daughter of Shilhi.

32 And he <sup>11</sup>walked in the way of Asa his father, and departed not from it, doing that which was right in the sight of the LORD.

33 Howbeit the <sup>12</sup>high places were not taken away; for as yet the people <sup>13</sup>had not prepared their hearts unto the <sup>14</sup>God of their fathers.<sup>6</sup>

ambushments, of those who came from Mount Seir against Judah, and the children of Ammon and Moab were smitten; but they afterwards rose up against the inhabitants of Mount Seir, &amp;c. That is to routed, their associates, who afterwards destroyed their assaultants, and thus their passions being roused they exterminated one another.

NOW Jehoshaphat<sup>a</sup> slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David; and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead.

2 And he had brethren, the sons of Jehoshaphat, Azariah, and Jehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah: all these were the sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel.<sup>1</sup>

3 And their father <sup>2</sup>gave them great gifts of silver, and of gold, and of precious things, with fenced cities in Judah: but the kingdom gave he to <sup>3</sup>Jehoram, because he was the <sup>4</sup>first-born.

4 Now when Jehoram was risen up to the kingdom of his father, he <sup>5</sup>strengthened himself, and slew<sup>2</sup> all his brethren with the sword, and divers also of the princes of Israel.

5 ¶ Jehoram was thirty and two years old <sup>6</sup>when he began to reign; and he reigned eight years<sup>3</sup> in Jerusalem.
